The home of this forgotten Canadian was once called Clarksville. It was a typical, sleepy little Ontario village a hundred years ago. On the main street was a general store owned by Lyman Jones who later became a Canadian senator. Everybody in the neighborhood knew Senator Jones, but few of them knew his younger brother, D. A. Jones. Yet it was the brother who caused the name of the village to be changed and who brought fame to this part of rural Ontario.

As a young man, Jones became interested in bees. He read all he could find about these industrious insects and he started keeping bees in his garden. He was never satisfied with the honey he was getting, however, and so he set out to the land of milk and honey he had read about as a boy. For months, he roamed the Middle East through Palestine and then back to Italy in search of queen bees which he could bring back to Canada.

MANY VISITORS

When he returned, he built in Clarksville one of the largest apiaries in the world. Visitors came from many parts of the continent to see him and he was known as the father of beekeeping in North America. Each summer, in order to interest others in the art of beekeeping and to attract bees to others' gardens, Jones used to travel around the countryside scattering flower seeds for his winged workers.

Soon Clarksville became so famous for its bees that the town fathers decided to change its name and pay tribute to its famous citizen. The name chosen was Beetown, for town of the bees and by that name it was known for many years.

The founder of the bee industry died, but honey making continued as an important industry in the region. Gradually, however, the fame of the founder was forgotten. While others in far distances places raised placques in his honor, the citizens of Beetown not only forgot to whom and to what it was that they owed their town's name, they forgot what it meant. The name changed again, nobody now knows when or why, and on Canada's maps today it appears as Beeton, Ontario just another place that has forgotten its history.

ROSE TO THE TOP

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (AP)—Stephen G. Gleason, 51, a one-time newspaper office boy who became vice-president and secretary of the Popular Science Publishing Co., died Friday. He also was manager of the World Almanac for a decade.

JAPS RESCUE BY FLOODS

NAGASAKI, Japan (AP) — A heavy rainstorm flooded much of western Japan today. Kyodo news agency said 19 persons drowned, 1 was missing and 15 were injured. It reported 4,000 houses washed away or flooded, 9,000 persons in Saga province isolated, 15 bridges washed out and thousands of acres of farmland flooded.

FRANCE GETS A-DATA

PARIS (Reuters)—U. S. ambassador Douglas Dillon Friday handed over the first consignment of a library of atomic information which France is to receive under an exchange agreement with the United States. The library includes about 10,000 reports on the work of American experts.

Weddings

WHITRIDGE—COULEY

St. John's Anglican Church, Ottawa, was the scene of a pretty wedding of wide interest on Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m., when Margaret Evelyn Couley, Ottawa, formerly of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Couley, of Belleville, became the bride of James Pope Whitridge, of Ottawa, son of Mrs. Joseph Whitridge, of Regina, Sask., and the late Mr. Whitridge. The Reverend Terence Finlay, rector of the church, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. William Couley, the bride wore a charming French modal gown of Elizabethan blue silk shantung fashioned with fitted bodice in long torso effect, having sheer sleeves, full skirt in full skirt was in street-length. She wore a French model white hat, matching shoes and had shoulder corsage of white orchids.

Miss Mary Patterson, of Ottawa, was her only attendant, attractively attired in a flowered silk shantung gown with fitted bodice and full skirt, also in street-length. She wore a white hat and corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. Frederick Martin, of Ottawa, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at La Touraine, Ottawa, where the bride's mother, wearing navy silk crepe with lace trim, navy accessories and corsage of Killarna roses, received.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City, the bride chose a turquoise ensemble with matching accessories, and corsage of white orchids. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Whitridge will reside in Ottawa, at 150 Driveway.

Guests were present from Ottawa and Belleville.

St. Thomas' W.A. Sponsors Most Attractive Spring Tea

The tea room yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas' parish hoom was attractively decorated with softly muted lights beneath pastel-tinted fringes of pale yellow and green; while snow-white baskets of downy pussy willows mingled with yellow forsythia from every window ledge added their lovely touch for the Spring Tea sponsored by the W.A. of the church.

The committee received most cordially welcomed by the reception committee which included Mrs. R. Feather, president of the senior branch of the W.A.; Mrs. W. Jones, president of the Evening Branch, and Mrs. W. J. Robinson, wife of the rector of the church.

Those convening the tea were: Mrs. S. E. Morton, assisted by Mrs. F. Clarke, Mrs. E. Goddard, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Bromfield, Mrs. W. J. Winn, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Marthe, Mrs. Renson, Mrs. F. Leitch, Miss Mr. Scott, Mrs. Ketcheson.

SPRING BEAUTY

Inviting was the tea room were the smiling hostesses: Mrs. H. R. Gibson, Mrs. H. Smith and Miss Watson. The long tea table which occupied the south side, was a dream of spring beauty with its snow-white Italian cutwork linen cloth centred by an exquisite arrangement of pale and white snapdragons, rose-colored tulips and yellow daffodils, intermingled daisies interspersed with glistening, green sprays of British Columbia huckleberry and dainty white narcissi, in a lovely pink bowl with yellow and green iron base. Complementing this were the slender, pink tapers in the tribranched wrought iron candelabra. Little servieties of pink, green and yellow added a delightful note touch, making a delightful ensemble.

The little guest tables were little pictures in themselves with their white cloths covered by little Gibson girl tissue paper dolls in pretty shades of mauve, yellow, pink and green and in combinations of these colors. Each table also had its gleaming silver sugar and cream set.

Those who poured tea from the silver services were: Mrs. Beamish and Miss Stone; Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Watson; Mrs. Strothers and Mrs. A. Smith.

Mrs. Fenn acted as treasurer for the afternoon. Her cheerful welcome was also most heartening.

The homecooking room in which were the marmalade tables and the candy tables, was also prettily decorated with tall annas, yari, pink hydranges and Easter lilies with their enticing fragrance.

DELECTABLE CONFECTIONS

Those in charge of the delectable confectioned were Mrs. H. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Boyle, Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Leach. Here were pink-iced angel cakes, apple, pineapple, pumpkin pies, rich chocolate cakes; orange cakes; maple walnut cakes; date and orange loaves; mouth-watering coconut cupcakes centred by a red maraschino cherry; pecan shortbreads; light as a feather tea biscuits with delicate golden brown touch; muffins and date squares.

Equally enticing were the jars and jars of the marmalade table with its orange, three-fruits, pineapple and apricot spreads, a nice for that early morning taste. The table was presided by members of the Evening Branch of the W.A.: Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. A. Athey and Mrs. R. Leith.

Nearby was the candy table daintily frilled running over with its baskets in green and yellow and in nicely assembled assortments in bags and in cellophane bags, consisting of divinity fudge, chocolates, maple creams, jelly beans, peanut clusters, taffy, and others. This was under the convenership of Mrs. Allder, leader of the Girls' W.A., assisted by girls of the Girls' Auxiliary.

A dainty and delightful spring tea, a decided credit to the convenors, and to others who assisted in its pleasing success.

St. Joseph's School Holds Spring Tea, Bazaar

Balmy, spring weather Wednesday afternoon favored the annual spring tea and bazaar in St. Joseph's School hall.

Members of the C.W.L. of the parish were in charge. The hall was adorned with yellow and white streamers, an abundance of baby chick and bunny cutouts, potted spring flowers and foliage added to the general prettiness.

Mrs. P. F. Halloran presided at the door.

Mrs. H. Carr-Brainl, president of St. Joseph's C.W.L., assisted by J. M. Lawn, convener of this event, received the guests.

DECORATED BOOTHS

The various booths were appropriately decorated with mauve and yellow garland gracefully looped and caught up at intervals with paper posies and assorted cut-outs.

At the home bake booth, which was convened by Mrs. J. D. McKenzie, assisted by Mrs. C. Craig and Mrs. E. Labelle, there was a vast variety of most appetizing pies, tarts, cup cakes, Brownies, fancy and plain cookies, angel cakes, home-made bread and rolls, homemade beautifully frosted layer cakes and loaf cakes.

The country store, convened by Mrs. R. Chipman, assisted by Mrs. L. Hopkins, had a nice variety of jams, jellies, marmalades, relishes and also assorted canned goods and packaged groceries.

TEMPTING CANDIES

The candy booth was convened by Mrs. F. Maund, assisted by Mrs. J. M. Sharland. There were assorted boxes of tempting fudges and fancy baskets filled with goodies.

The fancy work and sewing booth was convened by Mrs. R. Bridge and Mrs. J. D. Pasling, assisted by Mrs. R. O'Neill. There was a fine selection of knitwear, aprons, pot holders, lace centrepieces, dresser scarves, and many other articles ideal for gifts for any occasion.

Mrs. B. Lynch presided at a little table in charge of a raffle on a $30 bill. This was won by Mr. B. McCoy, Herchimer Ave.

A parcel post was in the charge of Mrs. B. Bankey, assisted by Mrs. L. Donnelly. There was quite an array of "surprise" packages handled at this booth.

Mrs. R. Kennedy presided at a raffle on two beautifully handpainted pictures which were won by Mrs. L. Goyer.

A caged canary raffle was in charge of Mrs. J. Aston. This was won by Mrs. Allore.

WHITE ELEPHANT

The white elephant booth was convened by Mrs. Huck, assisted by Mrs. G. Williams and Mrs. R. Park. There was an outstanding variety of potted plants, including many choice African violets; numerous varieties of cacti, and foliage. There was also an assortment of jewelry and other novelty items.

The ever-popular fish pond, convened by Mrs. E. McCoy, assisted by Mrs. C. Murphy and Mrs. W. Sweet, produced an interesting selection of articles for young and old.

The tea room was capably handled by the hospitality committee, which included Mrs. J. E. Poirier, Mrs. P. Mercier and Mrs. J. J. Gibbons. Mrs. T. Black was tea room hostess.

DAINTY TEA TABLE

The tea table, daintily appointed with a lace cloth over mauve, was centred with a striking arrangement of spring flowers, including red roses, sweet peas, iris, cornflower, snapdragon and downy catkins. Among this delightful arrangements were tri-branched candelabra with tall mauve tapers candles gleaming, using silver tea services added a pleasing effect.

Each guest table, with its dainty cloth, was centred with an attractive pixie of dainty sandwiches separated from the variety of small cakes, tarts, and cookies, accented by a cute Easter figure, with dainty flowered servieties, adding their appropriate touch of color.

Those presiding at the silver services were: Mrs. O. Dufour, Mrs. J. McCrary, Mrs. J. Thorne, and Mrs. H. Emerson. Serving and replenishing were: Mrs. S. Adams, Mrs. B. Lynch, Mrs. J. Rayeroft, Mrs. J. Tatham, Mrs. J. Lee, Miss Stella Burkett, Mrs. E. Cooper and Mrs. R. Johnson.

Mrs. H. Carr-Brainl was the lucky winner of the attractive centrepiece.

A charmingly arranged tea and bazaar, bringing much credit and sincere thanks to all who assisted in any way in making this event such a success.

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

Who was the young Israelite who was adopted by an Egyptian princess and grew up in Pharoah's palace, but he did not forget his own people when he grew to manhood?

One day he walked among his own race. His heart was moved with pity for the heavy burdens they had had to carry for years. Since most of them were born, their lives were made bitter with hard service, in mortar and bricks and in all kinds of work in the field.

He came to a lonely place where an Egyptian was beating a Hebrew. The young Israelite looked this way and that, and when he saw no onlooker, he set upon the Egyptian and killed him. As quickly as possible he dug a grave in the sand and buried the dead man there.

The very next day when the young Israelite was again walking by himself, he again saw two men struggling together. But this time when were Egyptians. The Israelite asked the man who began the quarrel, "Why do you strike your fellow?" The man answered in a surly manner, "Who made you a prince and a judge over us? Do you mean to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?"

Then the young Israelite was afraid, for he knew that the murder he had committed was no secret. He knew full well that his life was in danger.

This was quite true. As soon as Pharaoh heard of it, he issued a decree that done, he sought to kill him. But the Israelite had fled from the country into the land of Midian.

Read of this man's name and this story in Exodus 1: 13-14 and 2: 11-15.

Women's Activities

FOXBORO W.M.S.

The Easter thank offering of the Foxboro Presbyterial W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Johnston. The president, Mrs. Johnston, presided and opened the meeting with the scripture. Easter worship service taken from the "Glad Tidings" with each of the ladies taking part in the program. There were five ladies and two children present.

Treasurer's reports were most gratifying. The thank offering collection was $37.

Mrs. Juby invited the societies to her home for the May meeting.

Plans were made for the ladies Guild to attend the Community Sales Barns on the last Tuesday in April.

A Bible contest was enjoyed in the form of a true or false test with Mrs. Charles Bailey the winner.

The hostess served the usual cup of tea.

CARMEL W.M.S.

The Easter meeting of the Carmel Methodist Missionary Society was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Selden Homan and was opened with the call to worship and prayer by the president, Mrs. Milton Rose.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. E. Kerr and the minutes of the last meeting, also the roll call at the home of Mrs. Clare Horton, were read and adopted.

The Easter thank-offering was gathered and collected by Mrs. Harry Dafoe. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Urch and Mrs. Grant, district vice-president, will be present and give an address. Reinstall also be a collection of used and new clothing for a bale for Korea at this meeting.

Mrs. Ross gave a fine report of the Presbyterial at Picton which was much appreciated by those not able to attend. Plans were made for a quilting in the church hall in the near future.

Mrs. Reinstall took charge of the program; a reading entitled "At God's Right Hand." Mrs. Ross read a reading entitled "Courage," and Mrs. Earl Dafoe a solo, "Alone."

Mrs. Bridwell gave the sixth chapter of the study book, "The Emerging Church in the Crescent in India," which was interesting.

Shop Talk on Food and Drink

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

If anything is representative of the endlessly varying patterns of this big country, it's the way people eat and drink.

A dish known almost everywhere as "chicken-a-la-Kingsleigh" is, for some reason, called "chicken-on-the-roost" around Syracuse, N.Y.

The Hartford, Conn., area is the only locale we've ever seen where your coffee is served with cream in it—not on the side—unless you specify black coffee.

Speaking of coffee, all of it you want with your meal is on the house, after the first cup, throughout the South and West, but in the East the last cup costs as much as the first.

If you order ham and eggs in New York City, you'll be served the eggs fried "straight up" unless you specify otherwise; elsewhere in the country you'd be asked how you want them.

But if you think the variety of food preparation is confusing, you should see what happens when a weary traveler orders a drink!

WHISKEY TROUBLES . . .

Blended whiskey is known as rye in the East and bourbon in the West Coast factually it is neither, but let's not get into that). If you want straight rye on Atlantic side you must ask for just that, but ask just for rye and you get blend. Easterner asking for rye in the West won't get the blend he expects. He'll get straight rye.

To further compound the confusion, in some parts of the West you'll get blend if you ask for bourbon; if you want straight bourbon that's just what you must ask for.

These differences carry over into mixed drinks in a strange way. In most of the West and mid-West it's customary to make a whiskey sour or Manhattan with straight bourbon. But you specify a bourbon sour or bourbon Manhattan, meaning you'd rather have straight whiskey than blend, your order will be interpreted as meaning you want the more expensive bonded bourbon, and you'll be charged accordingly. Don't ask us why—nobody's ever explained it to us.

In New York, you'll be asked if you want straight whiskey mixed many natives there take their whiskey straight with the mix as a chaser.

DRY MARTINI, PLEASE

The hardest thing in the world to order is a dry martini. A New York gentleman we know entered a fashionable restaurant in a not too distant city and asked for a dry martini before his dinner. It was duly served in the standard three-ounce glass. Shortly afterward he noticed other guests being served king-sized drinks.

"What gives?" he asked the waiter. "Don't I rate?"

"You asked for a dry martini, didn't you?" the waiter countered. "Those are regular martinis they're prepared in advance and poured into the glass you want made to order because you asked for it dry."

"But all martinis are dry martinis," the puzzled guest insisted, "unless they're sweet martinis, and I've never seen anyone drink one of those. Anyway, bring me one of the regulars now so I'll know what I missed."

She did, he tasted exactly like the made-to-order drink. Only when the check came, the prefabricated five-ounce drink cost 65 cents and the custom-built three ounces cost a dollar.

The ingredients of a martini vary not so much from region to region but from bartender to bartender. If you like them about 5-to-1 and your host makes them 3-to-1, you'll have to ask for an extra-dry martini. Trouble is, you never know how they make them in the place you're in.

BE CAREFUL

You may be at an inn where most of the clientele prefer them 5-to-1, making that the standard drink, and if you ask for it extra-dry you might get a three-to-one-ing Montgomery (named after the British field marshal of the same name), about 15-to-1.

Most martini-fanciers we know have no chances and specify the proportions they prefer, no matter where they are.

Better stick with us—to butter-milk.

(Q) "With daylight time coming up, I find myself wondering why the railroads haven't adopted the daylight saving schedules in local time, regardless of whether daylight or standard, as the airlines have done. Do you know?"

F. P., South Bend, Ind.

(A) No, but we guess is that the nature of the vast majority of railroad schedules with their many stops, is the complicating factor. Throughout much of the country during the summer the time zone varies from town to town, and perhaps you might get a watch thoroughly confuse most passengers. Few airline flights make more than two stops or so stops while most trains stop at scores of communities, each of which may have a different time set-up.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

TO CONQUER BOREDOM, DO SOMETHING FOR OTHERS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I married young, and have been married for seven years. My husband has always been interested in our home and, though he did not want children, we have two adorable ones. By all standards, I should be happy, but I am not.

After all these years, I have met a man who tells me that he is very fond of me. I have told him that we cannot be friends, though I feel something each time I see him, and after several months still feel that way.

I don't doubt that I love my husband, and perhaps this is just an infatuation, but I have been bored for years, since my husband never likes to do anything or spend any money. Why should a person have to operate such a life, trying to be a good mother and wife, yet always being an unhappy one?

I work days, and also belong to a club. — Mrs. T.

Dear Mrs. T.:

You "don't doubt" that you love your husband, and you have two "adorable" children. Yet you are bored.

Well, my feeling would be that the answer to your problem would be for you to get yourself interested enough activities of your own to get over your boredom, without being so extremely foolish as to endanger your marriage by getting yourself involved with another man.

You say you have told this man you can't be friends with him. Yet you also say that you "feel something" whenever you see him, and that this has been going on for several months. How come you are letting the thing rest on this way, if you know you shouldn't?

I advise you to take yourself in hand, get out into your community and do something useful in it. If you would get interested in doing something to make the lives of others happier, you'd definitely find your own becoming happier, too. Start making yourself the cheerful, outgoing, interesting mother you'd like those children of yours to believe you are, and you'll go a long way toward solving your problem. What you're really bored with is yourself.

MAYBE HE'S NOT LOOKING FOR CONVERSATION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have taken a liking to a guard at the skating rink who seems like a very nice boy. I would like to get to know him better and possibly rate a date. He is 20 and I am 17, and he speaks to me in a friendly way, but I can't keep the conversation going.

Perhaps you can give me some idea about how to keep the conversation going in an interesting way. — P.S.

Dear P.S.:

I can think of several reasons why this chap would speak to you in a friendly way but possibly prefer not to keep a conversation going.

For one thing, he may believe that, in his position as an employe at the skating rink, he would be expected to be polite and friendly with everybody who comes there but to show no special interest in anyone. Also, don't forget that since he is employed to watch the skaters, and make sure everything is going right, he would be neglecting his duty if he spent his time in conversation. Again, he may feel that you, at 17, are a little young for him, at 20, which would be another reason for a friendly, but not-too-friendly attitude toward you. Still another reason might be that he is just not interested in you.

All things considered, I think you'd better just leave things the way they are at present. If this young man wants to have a conversation with you, he'll suggest that you get together when his hours of duty are over, so leave it up to him.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

REMEMBER?

Ken Soden sends in a hockey program that carried the praises of a Belleville hockey club that operated here in 1947-48-49 under the auspices of the Belleville Reliance Company. It is filled with pictures of all the players of that era—and lo, and behold, starting at us from the second page is none other than one Michael J. Rodden, looking handsome in a Belleville sweater—who was coach of the team at that time.

The Reliance team cut a big swath in the Van Horne series, a Kingston-operated pre-O.H.A. season group that included various teams of the district.

Mr. Rodden took the team to varied successes and a lot of fans will recall some of the colorful athletes at that day. Soden was the manager and treasurer. The late Ken Collins, then sports editor of this newspaper, followed the team's activities closely and did an excellent job inserting its pros and cons and acting as a public relations official.

Archie Major looked after the netminding chores while Speedy St. Louis toiled on the defence. It says here that Speedy had much to do with the return of senior hockey to Belleville.

Clare Williamson, well known here and Harold "Red" Jemmett were two defence stalwarts of the club as was Vernon Goyer, then a junior, of some 18 years of age, who made his debut into senior hockey with the club.

Timmy Williams, a handsome young bucko in those days and a favorite with the gals, was a fast-skating, hard-shooting wingman while Tilly Donahue, Cornwall-born, was clever centre man. Tilly centred Bill Hastie and Reg Chipman, two speedy wingers, who made a great hit with the fans. Then there was "Ben" White, a fleet left-winger; Don Herwin, a veteran centre, and Yoko White, an experienced veteran who had lots of experience playing with Northern Ontario teams.

Big, rugged, colorful Johnny Hamilton was also a rearguard. Johnny was quite a character and a favorite with the players and fans. The third "White" of the club was a chap dubbed "Dud," while Don Hodge centred one of the lines.

And look who acted as spare goalie. None other than Eddie Redmond, a name familiar to present day hockey fans. Redmond was the playing coach of the Peterborough Petes the last two seasons and also starred on the Peterborough baseball club. "Toots" Helway is another player who starred in a defensive role with the Reliance club. Bill Elliott was the assistant trainer.

The trainer was the famous Billie, Hughes, now of Winnipeg, who recently celebrated his fiftieth year in sports. Billie's record was quoted in this column a few days ago.

SAM THE MAN!

Slammin' Sam Snead, who writes GOLF—HERE'S HOW for this newspaper is the most popular and most successful man swinging a club today.

The former barefoot caddie has come a long way in reaching the peak, and he'll probably remain there a long time, for his game has improved steadily with the years and he is in his prime today.

Earn Samuel Jackson Snead in the village of Ashwood, Va., in 1915, Sam was a star athlete in all sports in high school, but golf was always his chief interest.

"I never had a golf lesson from anybody," Sam says. "It just came natural. About the time I was 16, I entered a long-driving contest against men. Won it, too, with a knock of 318 yards. That helped get me a job as apprentice clubmaker at the Hot Springs course. I couldn't make enough to keep my clothes clean—$30 a month. Later on, though, they made me assistant pro. That paid $10 a week. Man, was I proud!"

Now, as he approaches a comparatively ripe old age for competitive golf, Sam has won most of the game's major tournaments and his annual gross income has skyrocketed to six figures.

An impressive figure on the links, Sam is just short of six feet tall, with muscular arms that would be standard equipment on a man six feet three. When those extraordinary arms wallop a club the results are frequently incredible. His swing has been described by Bobby Jones as "the most perfect in the history of golf."

Sam's definition of "distance" is anything from 260 yards on up. Once during an exhibition, the gallery marshal announced that Mr. Snead would hit two tee shots on the 290-yard 11th hole. "The first will be Mr. Snead's regular drive," the marshal explained. "The second in response to requests to members will be an attempt to drive the green."

Sam slammed his first drive into the short grass 10 yards beyond the green. "Degree it, Marshal," he complained, "looks like I'll have to use that second shot to chip back."

Snead is entirely a man's man, but he won't drink or smoke and dislikes gambling. His high school coach pledged him not to imbibe liquor or smoke when he was 17. He has never since wavered.

And the thousands of fans who have made him their gallery god are always ready to follow Slammin' Sam Snead. Look for Sam on the sport page every day starting Monday.

Bob Turley Wins First Start Sparking Yanks to 6-4 Win; Dodgers' Loes Beats Giants

NEW YORK, April 16 (UP)—Brooklyn Dodgers backed Billy Loes' six-hit pitching with an 11-hit attack that included two home runs by Carl Furillo and one by Duke Snider. Consequently the Dodgers beat the Giants today 6-3, before a crowd of 17,894 in the Polo Grounds.

It was Brooklyn's third successive victory and the third consecutive time home runs decided the outcome. The Dodgers have nine home runs for three games and Furillo has four of them.

Furillo, who is 11 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record 1927 home run pace, hit his third of the season in the right field stands in the sixth inning. Then he drove one into the left field seats in the eighth. Ruth did not get his fourth home run in 1927 until the 14th game.

But the blow that flattened the Giants was Snider's 440-foot 2-run homer that broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth. Loes led off with a single. Ruben Gomez might have escaped serious trouble, but Dave Williams threw Junior Gilliam's double play ball too high to Alvin Dark and both runners were safe. After Pee Wee Reese forced Loes at third, Snider unloaded his blow.

Loes pitched superbly until the ninth. He kept both his temper and his control despite frequent irritation over calls by Plate Umpire Bill Jackowski. Loes protested sharply several times but settled down and was in serious trouble only in one inning up to the ninth. That was in the fourth, when the Giants scored their first run.

CLEVELAND WINS

DEROIT, April 18 (UP) — Southpaw Herb Score, making his major league debut, settled down after a shaky start today. He pitched Cleveland Indians to a 7-3 victory over Detroit Tigers before 3,786 fans at Briggs Stadium.

Score, lean lefthander, who won 22 games and lost only five at Indianapolis last year and the pre-season favorite for American League "rookie of the year" honors, walked nine batters. However, he struck out as many and gave up only seven hits.

He gave up a run in the first inning on singles by Harvey Kuenn and Fred Hatfield and a sacrifice fly by Al Kaline. Detroit scored again in the second inning on three passes and Kuenn's sacrifice fly.

Detroit closed their scoring in the bottom of the eighth with two walks and a pinch-hit single by Steve Souchock.

BATTLE OF HOME RUNS

BOSTON, April 16 (UP) —New York Yankees defeated Boston Red Sox, 6-4, today in battle of home runs. The Yanks blasted three off young Tom Brewer while Bob Turley served up three more to the losers.

Five-tallies Turley, American League strikeout and base-on-balls leader last year as a Baltimore Oriole, got credit for five hits in recording his first victory as a Yankee. He struck out 10, getting rookie Norman Zauchin four times and walked but two.

A Fenway Park crowd of 8,700 watched the Yankees land on Brewer for five runs in the first eight innings to gain a split in their two-game series. A fielder was charged with the loss in his first 1955 appearance. Rookie George Susce, Jr., finished and pitched hitless ball for an inning.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel and Joe Collins smacked homers for the Yankees. Faye Throneberry contributed a single and Jackie Jensen one for the Red Sox.

Cost Frontenacs $1.56 to Lose To Marlboros

QUEBEC (CP)—It cost Quebec Frontenacs $1.56 to lose to Toronto Marlboros last night in the last game of the Memorial Cup semi-finals, Quebec coach Phil Watson said.

One of the poorest crowds on record — less than 900 persons — turned up at the north-end Coliseum to watch the last game of the local hockey season.

"Everybody was at home watching television," Watson said. The entire Montreal-Detroit Stanley Cup playoff game was carried by the private television station here.

He said the Coliseum and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association were each entitled to a certain amount from last night's gate. The receipts were not enough to cover it.

"We ended up paying $1.56 out of our own pockets," Watson said.

He said it would have been cheaper if Quebec City had been tlacked out on the Stanley Cup telecast.

First Game Allan Cup Series Played Tuesday

KITCHENER—First game in the Allan Cup hockey championship final will be played here Tuesday night, it was announced today by Twin City hockey officials. Second and third games will be Thursday and Saturday of next week, according to information from CAHA officials the Fort William Beavers, western champions, will arrive in Kitchener Monday morning.

The KW Dutchmen, eastern Canada champions, will hold their final practice Monday night. A practice hour has been reserved for the Fort William team Monday afternoon. Western referees will handle the best-of-seven series, all games of which are slated to be played here.

Sale of tickets will commence at 2.30 Monday afternoon and customers who desire may purchase tickets for the first two games at this time as well as for the first game only if they go wish.

Point Anne Wins TVL Title

Earle Anderson's Point Anne Cementmen acquired the Trent Valley Hockey League championship Wednesday night as Thomas Bata trophy for the second consecutive year last night when they scored a 7-4 victory over Marmora Millionaires on the latter's home ice.

The Cementmen, coached by Timmy Williams, dropped their first game to the Millionaires but came back in true championship style to win the next four games, three of them on Marmora ice. They finished in first place during regular play, losing only one game, downed the RCAF Flyers in straight sets, ousted the Trenton Admirals three games to one before meeting the Marmora crew. They also defeated Marmora for the TVL title last year in their second year of competition, four games to two.

At present the Cementmen are in the OHA Intermediate C semi-finals against Becton. They are scheduled for OHA play.

The complete story on Friday night's game will appear in Monday's edition.

Quebec Frontenacs Protest Fizzles, Tentative Dates Memorial Cup Set

Like the fictitious Arab, apparently, Quebec Frontenacs have folded (protest) and silently stolen away into the night.

Their threat of a protest of the fourth game of the Memorial Cup-ada junior hockey final, which Marlboros won 6-0 last Sunday at Quebec, has fizzled out.

As a matter of fact, as far as the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is concerned, there never was an official protest.

CAHA president W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., last night said there was no chance of a protest by Fronts interruptting Marlboros' trip to Regina next week for the Memorial Cup finals.

Dukes, who captained the Eastern championship Thursday night in Quebec's Coliseum, will leave Sunday night for the West where they'll engage in their first Dominion final since 1929 when the club last won the cup.

"The CAHA never has received a letter of protest from the Quebec club," George disclosed. "Naturally, it would be too late now to consider one, so as far as our office is concerned the matter is closed."

Fronts announced last Monday they would protest the Marlboro victory because of what they termed "dirty hockey" played by Gerry James on Quebec goalie Jacques Marcotte and forward Guy Rousseau.

Toronto officials never have taken the threat seriously, partly because the only basis Fronts had for a complaint was a semi-decision of referees Stan Pratt and Ching McDonald. Protests of officials' decisions rarely are allowed.

George said he had hoped to have Marlies at Regina in time to open the Toronto, but the Toronto team already had made plans to leave here Saturday night. They'll arrive in Regina late Tuesday, which means the first game likely will be played Thursday.

Tentative dates for the first five games (if five are needed) are April 21-22-24-27-29, the CAHA president announced. At the moment, all games are scheduled to be played in Regina, although it is possible one or two may be shifted to Winnipeg.

Bedard, Fontana Out of Doubles

NAPLES—Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Don Fontana of Toronto were forced out of the men's double quarter-finals of the Naples international tennis tournament yesterday after one set when Bedard developed a sore left shoulder.

They were trailing the Italian team of Giuseppe Merlo and Giorgio Facchini.

In another quarter-final, Enrique Morea of Argentina teamed with Fausto Gardini of Italy to defeat Don Platt of Toronto and Bill Beaile of the United States, 6-3, 8-5.

Newcastle, Manchester City Foes in Colorful Cup Final

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Newcastle United and Manchester City meet at Wembley Stadium May 7 in the Football Association Cup final, an annual event blending prestige and financial profit.

It will be the 10th appearance for Newcastle in a cup final—a record. The Tynesiders have taken the big trophy home five times. Manchester City has four appearances before, winning twice.

It will be the 74th final since the original in 1872 when just 12 clubs competed in the sudden-death competition for a modest £20 trophy that stayed in the soun of England until 1895.

Then Blackburn Olympic took it north. A fan shouted at the captain:

"Is that t'coop? Why it's like a tea kettle."

"Ey, lad, but it's very welcome to facashire," he retorted. "It'll have a good home and it'll never go back to London." That model never did because it was stolen in 1895 from a Birmingham jeweller's window. Its successor, played now before 100,000, has rolled right along.

Last London club to win was Arsenal in 1936. Thus, visiting north country fans no longer are viewed with suspicion — as they once were when Tottenham Hotspur described them as "a northern horde of uncouth garb and accent."

A sell-out crowd will pour £38,000 with everyone into the kitty. At the vast, red-brick open arena 250 police will control the crowd.

HUGE STADIUM STAFF

There will be 500 FA stewards, 400 commissionaires, 183 catering staff, 100 program sellers, 50 first-aid men, 250 auto-park attendants and about 200 newspaper men.

Tickets range from 3s 6d to 30s officially—and 10 times that on the black-market. The finalists are allowed 15,000 for each club.

Each player gets a winning or losing medal, presented, like the cup, by a member of the royal family. This year it is believed the Queen will present the cup, while the Duke of Edinburgh hands out the medals.

Both clubs get about 25 per cent of the gate money. The remaining 50 per cent is split equally between the FA and the league pool which is shared out to the other competing clubs not fortunate enough to get so far.

Total FA Cup takings for the seven-month competition are estimated at more than £300,000—drawn from nearly 4,000,000 fans.

Bookies give Newcastle 11-8 odds on winning and Manchester City is quoted at 8-15.

Lean Athlete Will Get Fat Unless He Sticks to a Diet

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Athletes of today may spend the rest of their lives going to pot. The blubber spikes over from muscle after retirement from competition.

There are exceptions, of course, but Sports College has found that the lean, well-conditioned athlete is headed for a life of gaining weight unless he sticks to some kind of a diet.

Sports College, a Toronto organization which seeks to raise fitness and sports efficiency standards in Canada, polled 1,494 athletes and matched their weight figures against a non-athletic group of 109 persons. Its findings are enough to drive many men from the dinner table.

For instance, football players are more prone to gain weight after retirement than any other athlete. They put on an average of 31 pounds. Swimmers gain an average of 27 pounds. Hockey players put on an average of 22.

The study was made in order to establish the actual pattern of weight change in athletes after retiring from competition. And if they do gain weight; how much and what are the causes.

Its conclusions:

"Athletes become fat on retirement due to the fact that they do not obtain the appetite they developed during training days and use up far fewer calories than physical activity than they did previously. When their metabolism slows down due to a decrease in activity and also the general aging process, weight begins to pile up faster and faster."

Athletes were warned to take it easy on the food. J. P. Wade, president of Imperial Oil Ltd., and former campus captain at the University of Toronto, told a varsity gathering last year:

"Aside from the muscular effort of getting up and breathing, the only parts of a person that get any exercise are the eyes, the right arm—for turning a newspaper—the right leg and other calories—and the digestive tract.

"If he chooses, an ex-athlete can

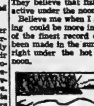
Solmar Notes

Solmar Tables and Your Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT.
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables).

The behavior of fish, no matter where you find them, is an interesting study. Fish are not, strictly speaking, thinking creatures. Their brains (tiny affairs, out of all proportion to their bodies) are not merely nerve centers. Thus, their behavior is, for the most part instinctive.

For the reason, one fish is quite apt to do exactly what the others are doing. You have seen this happen many times. If one fish in a school is active and feeding, usually the entire school will go on the feed. Nature is the prompter and the great majority follow her guidance.



While all living things (and that includes human beings) are responsive to the promptings of the Solunar Periods, this to a greater or lesser degree, depending upon the order of development; fish tend to react more uniformly than do most creatures. It is for this reason that your Solunar tables can be of such great help to you in your fishing.

The feeding and activity periods of fish occupy about 25 per cent of their time, the other 75 per cent being spent quietly in their resting stations. It is the function of the Solunar Tables to tell you in advance when these activity periods will occur. Thus, you can make your plans accordingly.

BEST CATCHES UNDER SUN

A great many fishermen go along under the impression that the best noontime hours, when the sun is burning directly overhead, are hours which should be spent eating lunch, resting in the shade, waiting for the weather to cool. They believe that fish will not be active under the noonday sun.

Believe me when I say that nothing could be more incorrect. Some of the finest record catches have been made in the summer months, right under the hot sun of high noon.

Down through the years we have made it our business to run down the vital statistics of many . . . the vital statistics of many hundreds of record catches. Roughly 80-per cent of these were made during the mid-day hours of the summer months, at the time of the new moon and during Solunar Periods.

You know the old wheeze about not being able to fool all of the people all of the time. Well, I'm not trying to fool anybody. Take my word for it and accurately your Solunar Tables before you decide to knock off for lunch.

If there is a Solunar Period scheduled for noontime of that day, have your lunch early and get back fish through those two important hours. You won't be sorry.

FREEDOM FOR FISH

Fish exhibit some strange characteristics during Solunar Periods. One of these is a temporary relative freedom from fear at these times. Generally they are reluctant to expose themselves to the sight of their natural enemies but during the Solunar Period this is not true. They will cruise in shallow water, right in the plain view of, and even upon finding food. When the Solunar Period draws to a close, gradually they disappear into deep water and soon the shallows are deserted by fish.

Another interesting characteristic is the pronounced preference of game fish for surface lures during Solunar Periods. Why this should be true I'm sure I can't say but the fact remains that a top-water lure will almost always outcatch an under-water lure during Solunar Periods.

Salt-water fish function every bit as completely during Solunar Periods as do fresh-water fish. It is a mistake to regard the Solunar Tables as being useful only in fresh water. Bonefish, channel bass or "redfish," crevalle, tarpon and so on, all are more active during Solunar Periods than at other times.

ADVERSE FACTORS

Unfortunately, there are many factors which can and often do offset the effects of Solunar Periods. Adverse temperatures many times will neutralize the schedule completely. Water that is too cold or too hot certainly will spoil the fishing.

The most common influence, however, is the behavior of the barometer. Fluctuations in atmospheric pressure can be felt every bit as plainly underwater as they can above water. These variations are Nature's constant guide to govern the behavior of fish.

Thus, it is unreasonable to expect your Solunar Tables to function 100 percent for you throughout the season. You know very well that you will not find good fishing every day, so don't expect the impossible. However, if you form the habit of keeping track of the times of the daily Solunar Periods, you will find this habit to pay off in ample dividends of better sport throughout the course of the season.

Yankees' Noren Handed An Indefinite Ban

BOSTON (AP)—New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren was handed an indefinite suspension by American League President Will Harridge today pending study of an umpire's report on a bean ball pitch hassle.

It was the first time in Manager Casey Stengel's more than six years as New York manager that a Yankee player had been suspended though fines and banishments have been handed out.

"I thought the umpiring was lousy," was talkative Casey's view of the rhubarb.

Noren was thrown out of a game with Boston Red Sox yesterday after charging plate umpire Bill McKinley in the sixth inning.

"I was looking for the bumped," Mc-Kinley told reporters today. "I didn't hit Noren with one inch—I held it up to hold off the spit."

On the play, Noren was called out by McKinley as he slid in head first trying to score from second on Jerry Coleman's single. Noren pushed his face close to McKinley's arguing the call and the umpire appeared to be fending off the irate Noren with his protective mask.

CLASH ON WATERFRONT

Billy Graham Hangs Gloves Up for Good

NEW YORK — Billy Graham, one of boxing's nicest guys, today hung up his gloves for good after a 14-year career.

"I'm packing it in," said the 33-year-old New Yorker who came within a shade of lifting the welterweight title from Kid Gavilan on Aug. 30, 1951.

"I've had my share of fighting," said bashful-nose Billy, a pro since April 14, 1941. "I have my health. I've got some money saved up, and I'm going into business—what kind, I don't know yet, but I've had some offers.

"My only regret is that I didn't win a title. That was what I wanted above everything else.

"I thought I had it when I fought Kid Gavilan in the Garden in '51. But they ruled against me. . . . That's the breaks of the game."

Graham and his legion of friends thought the product of the west side of New York had earned the championship that August night. After the decision, Billy leaned over the ropes and cried:

"That's the end. I'm quit," said Billy with a shrug of his shoulders. "That one me over $100,000 —and the title."

A fine boxer with a rapier-like jab, Graham had 101 pro fights. He won 102, lost 15 and drew in nine others. He scored 36 knock-outs. He was never stopped.

Over the past year, his reflexes dulled as he grew caught up with him. He lost his last four.

New Bait Puts Trapped Animals Sound Asleep

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians say they are trapping animals with a new bait which puts them to sleep.

The bait is described in the newspaper Evening Moscow, which prints a picture of a man who hugged the Moscow a wolf caught near the capital.

The hunter placed his bait near a place where he saw wolf tracks. Shudenky," reports Evening Moscow, "the hunter also saw a sleeping crow. And a little bit farther on he saw another sleeping crow. Then he observed that the bait had been eaten out of his trap. And also nearby he saw a sleeping wolf.

"The drug had made the wolf fall asleep so that he could not flee from his trap. That's why the hunter captured him without any danger or risk. He did not even bind his paws, but put him into a bag and added the two crows, placing them under his shoulder and brought them to Moscow.

"This wolf slept for two days under the drug. The drug has neither odor nor taste. And the bait also does not affect the animals when they wake up. They have no ill effects.

"During experimental work scientists placed animals kept for three or four days under this drug.

Famous Trichologist will demonstrate how to grow thicker hair . . . and guarantees it!
Demonstration to be held here
This new method of home treatment for saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Belleville, Ontario, Monday, ONLY, April 18.
Those genuine individual demonstrations will be held at the New Queen's Hotel on Monday, ONLY, April 18: 11 NOON to 8 P.M.
HALIFAX, March 24 — In an interview here today William J. Keele, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Keele Hair Experts said "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so-called cure-all could correct all the disorders", he explained.
GUARANTEED
"The Keele firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee", Keele said.
Once a person avails himself to the Keele treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee. If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."
HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED
First the Trichologist is quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald is he in this lost category.
If there is fuzz, no matter how light, dark or colorless, the Keele treatment can perform wonders.
A complete, private examination is given by a Trichologist to determine the condition of the scalp, and cause for the hair trouble.
FREE EXAMINATIONS
This examination is very thorough and highly technical, it requires 20 to 30 minutes. The Trichologist makes no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After the examination the person is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.
After starting treatment, the person makes regular reports to the Keele office in Halifax to check the progress of the home treatment.
To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, independent trichologists are visiting various cities through out Canada to conduct examinations and start home treatment.
NO CURE ALL
"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness" Keele emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, we may be still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."
There is one thing Keele wants to be certain every man and woman knows. If a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show up at the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.
HAIR FOR LIFETIME
"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives", Keele said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observation of a few simple rules."
HOW'S YOUR HAIR?
If it worries you call Trichologist G. A. Abbott at the New Queen's Hotel in Belleville, Ont., on Monday ONLY, April 18, — 12 NOON to 9 P.M. The public is invited.
You don't need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Both men and women are welcome. Advt.

Garden Notes

How to Plant a New Lawn

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Here are ten rules to insure a good new lawn.

1 - As soon as the soil is workable (the earlier the better) spade, plow or fork the area to be seeded.

2 - If top soil is heavy clay, or is though of a dark color, or if it is sandy, scatter a bale of peat moss over every 100 feet of garden area of the area.

3 - Work up a firm, level seed-bed with a rotoiller or rake. Rake off all lumps of soil too large to pass through the teeth of the rake.

4 - Spread 30 pounds of vigoro per 1000 feet and rake it into the top three inches of soil. If your soil tests very acid add 30 pounds of hydrated lime per 1000 square feet of soil. Do not add lime unless you are sure the soil needs it. Perhaps we should say test you soil for acidity before starting a lawn.

5 - Buy a good seed mixture or mix your own but buy good seed. Cheap seed deals usually made up of a large percentage of chaff, and often contain weed seeds. A good mixture to look for is one that contains 45 per cent Bluegrass. Seed should be sown at the rate of 2 pounds per 1000 square feet.

SOWING GRASS SEED ... ...

Sow two passes, lengthwise and the other two at right angles to insure a thorough coverage. Mix with a little sand. This will help to distribute the seed evenly and the flour will show the area covered.

Merion Bluegrass which has become quite popular is sown at the rate of two pounds per 1000 square feet. Mix with an equal quantity of sand for better distribution.

6 - After seeding, barely cover the seed, using a leave rake very lightly. Seed should not be covered more than ¼ to ½ inch deep.

7 - Roll the lawn with a light roller to insure good contact of the seed with the soil.

8 - Keep the surface of the soil moist at all times until the seed is well established. Drying out is the number one cause of seeding failures.

9 - Do not cut the grass until it is two and half inches high, and be sure to have the blades sharp on the mower.

10 - In July 1st and on August 1st feed the lawn with 10 pounds of vigoro per 1000 square feet. Water immediately or feed with instant liquid fertilizer at two week intervals through July and August.

CHLORDANE RESCUE

Among the most useful insecticides developed within the last few years is chlordane. It is highly effective against many types of pests which are hard to kill or hard to get at such as ants, chiggers, earwigs, mites, crickets, lime beetles, white grubs, and Japanese beetles. Many companies have put out a dandelion killing chlordane which will effectively get rid of these pests.

Follow directions for use indoors. Housplanting it is wise to mix chlordane with starting mixture to discourage cut worms. Use with mixed fertilizer in the row to get rid of maggots which attack the radish and the roots of cabbages.

For grubs in the lawn mix three tablespoons of a 5% insecticide which contains chlordane to one gallon of water. This will cover 200 square feet of lawn. After treating, water down with a fine spray from a hose.

Dial Telephones Will Be In Operation At Midnight

First Test of Telephone in City Was Made on Telegraph Wire From Belleville to Pictonin 1877

As early as 1879, The Bell Telephone Company of Canada's historical records show, a Mr. U. E. Thompson was named telephone "Agent" for Hastings and Prince Edward counties. This period is considered almost prehistoric in the telephone industry—the telephone had been successfully demonstrated only three years previously.

But Belleville's significance in the development of the telephone goes back even further than that. In fact, Belleville was partially responsible for creating the famous controversy between Americans and Canadians as to where the telephone was actually invented.

Shortly after Professor Alexander Melville Bell, father of the inventor, came to Canada in 1870, in the hope of improving his and wife's health, he was invited to undertake a teaching assignment at Boston School for the Deaf. However, his engagements in Belleville, as well as in Kingston, and St. Thomas, prevented the professor from accepting. Instead, he suggested that the school employ his son to teach the system of "Sip reading" the professor had originated.

Reluctantly, the Board of Education engaged Alexander Graham Bell. They were skeptical about his ability to teach his father's system of "visible speech" to the deaf. As it turned out, the younger Bell's ability was soon recognized and he was placed on permanent staff at Boston in 1872.

The first telephone was constructed in Boston on June 3, 1875, but the idea of that telephone came to Mr. Bell on July 26, 1874 at Brantford Ontario. Both stages can be said to have formed part of the inventive act. Actually, Boston and Brantford can claim an almost equal share in the invention of the telephone.

Apparently, Mr. Bell's father, who was an ardent supporter of his son's experiments, aroused more than his enthusiasm in Dr. Palmer of the Belleville Institute for the Deaf. On October 12, 1877, a telephone was tested on a telegraph line running between the Institute and Picton. Bell Telephone historical records indicate that this was the first use of a telephone in Belleville and that of the lines of the test only eight of Mr. Bell's telephones were in commercial use in Canada.

"WONDERFUL INVENTION"

The following report on this event appeared in The Picton Gazette on October 12, 1877: " . . . On Tuesday evening last, through the kindness of Mr. J. A. Rawson and Mr. J. F. Spencer — of the Montreal Telegraph Co. — about a dozen persons were permitted to test the qualities of this wonderful invention. A desultory controversy was carried on with Dr. Palmer, and others, of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum at Belleville, over no less than sixty miles of wire. Singing, the ringing of a bell, and a good many words, were heard with wonderful distinctness. The singing was clearly distinguished and appeared to come from an adjoining room, every word being plainly traced. Advices from Dr. Palmer go to show that he also heard singing, etc. The experiment we regard as a most successful one, although there were a good many words that could not be understood, while others almost startled the listener by their distinctness. That the telephone is a success we are bound to affirm, and that it is destined to be of incalculable benefit we do not hesitate to prophesy."

It is generally believed that the first commercially used telephones in Belleville were based on January 34, 1880, by W. H. and J. H. Higgars to be used between the office in Front street and the residence at the corner of William and Bridge streets. This was just a few months before The Bell Telephone Company was incorporated. Sometime in 1881 the first exchange was opened at Belleville. E. A. Dempsey, who became the first telephone operator here, was hired by the company to run the busy new switchboard that served 13 telephones. His pay amounted to eight dollars per month working seventy-two hours a week—an agreeable stipend in those days.

In the Belleville telephone directory of November 1883, 29 subscribers' names appeared. The telephone office hours were listed from eight in the morning to ten at night, with a service of only four on Sunday afternoons. Injunctions like "Never leave your Telephone off the Hook" and "Do not attempt to use the Telephone on the approach of or during thunderstorms" appeared at the foot of each page. It is somewhat amusing to read these instructions today. For instance, there is no need to worry about thunderstorms any more protective equipment was developed decades ago to prevent and dangerous surges of electrical current from reaching the telephone instrument.

18 Phone Numbers 50 Years Ago

With the cutover to dial telephones, everyone in Belleville will be getting new telephone numbers. It is interesting to note that as many as 18 numbers, in use up until now, were used to signal the same household or place of business 50 years ago.

Handsome Building Houses Dial Equipment

Belleville's dial telephone equipment is housed in the modern two-storey-and-basement building at the corner of Bridge and Church Streets, where the long distance Centre and the Bell Telephone business office are already located. With its graceful lines and limestone facing, the structure is designed to harmonize with surrounding buildings so that it presents an attractive and pleasing addition to the community.

The building is constructed of fire-proof materials and is specifically designed to meet the expanding telephone needs of Belleville and vicinity. In the basement is installed the heating, ventilating and power equipment. On the ground floor are located the business office and some of the complex dial switching apparatus and associated equipment. The second floor contains the long distance centre, a lounge for operators, and other equipment.

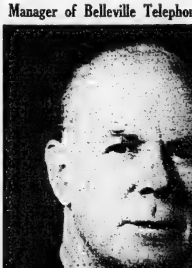
The architects were Ross, Patterson, Townsend and Heughan, of Montreal. The contractor was Alex. I. Garlock, of Ottawa.

Police and Fire Department Numbers Changed

All Belleville telephone numbers including the number for the police and fire departments — will be changed at the time of the cutover to the dial system early Sunday morning, G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager here, reminded telephone users today.

"If you have any doubt about any particular number, the new telephone directory, which has been delivered a few days before the change, is your best guide," Mr. Proctor said. "All the new numbers, as well as complete dialing instructions, are included."

The police and fire department numbers for Belleville are listed in the alphabetical section of the directory, and space is provided at the front of the directory so that these emergency numbers can be inserted for quick and easy reference. The new police department number will be WOodland 2-3456. The fire department number will be WOodland 2-4545.



Other important telephone numbers are WOodland 8-5311, Belleville General Hospital; WOodland 8-5757, the Ontario Intelligencer; WOodland 8-5555, radio station CJBQ; WOodland 2-2511, The Bell Telephone Company of Canada.

Special telephone numbers are listed in the front page of the telephone book. After the cutover, to call long distance, telephone users should simply dial "Operator". To obtain a number not listed in the directory, dial "113"; the Information operator at this number will have a list of the new numbers that have been assigned to local telephone users since the publication of the new directory. When reporting a telephone out of order or other trouble, telephone users should dial "114". To obtain assistance in making local calls, they should simply dial "Operator".

1,000 FREE BOSTON FIRE

BOSTON (AP)—More than 1,000 persons were evacuated from their homes Thursday night when flames from a waterfront warehouse fire threatened to spread to nearby tenement blocks in East Boston. The fire burned two warehouse buildings containing stocks of paper products.

Manager of Belleville Telephone Branch

Grant W. Proctor, who has been Bell Telephone manager in Belleville for the past 23 years, was born in Walkerton, and began his telephone career in Owen Sound in 1919. He has gained a wide experience in the company's commercial department in various Ontario centres.

In 1923 he was appointed manager at Midland, and in 1926 became manager at Orillia. Four years later he became manager at Kingston, where he remained until his appointment as manager here in 1932. He has jurisdiction over the company's offices in Deseronto, Gilmour, Madoc, Marmora, Mountain View, Picton, Stirling and Tweed, as well as Belleville.

During his residence in Belleville Mr. Proctor has been active in the Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce. He is a former member of the Belleville Board of Education.

'Number Please' Will Be Heard No More in City

After Belleville's telephone system is changed to dial operation, early Sunday morning, April 17, there will no longer be any local telephone operators in Belleville.

All local calls will then be handled mechanically by the intricate dial equipment in the exchange building at the corner of Bridge and Church streets. However, Belleville will continue to have an important long distance centre, and operators will still handle long distance calls originating in Belleville and more than a score of nearby communities.

Although the familiar "number please" of the local operators will soon be heard no more, so too will the many operators who are willing to accept employment in the long distance centre or elsewhere will be released from the dial changeover, according to G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager here.

"From the moment it was decided to change to the dial system, careful plans were made for the welfare of the operators," Mr. Proctor said. "A number of steps were taken during the past two years to ensure that no permanent employee who was willing to transfer would be out of work as a result of the change."

From that time forward, Mr. Proctor explained, any additional operators were hired on the understanding that their employment would be of limited duration. Operators who contemplated leaving when the dial system was put in would not be retained," said Mr. Proctor. "In fact, we expect to be looking for more operators shortly after the cutover."

Though the equipment necessary to provide dial telephone service is extremely complicated, there is nothing complicated about using the dial telephone. Once a few simple procedures are understood, people find it a remarkable servant and aid in their business and social life.

As a guide for telephone users in Belleville and vicinity, who may not be very familiar with the new service being inaugurated on Sunday morning, G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager in Belleville, has provided the following suggestions about the correct use of the dial telephone.

The first important step is to be certain you have the right number. If you are in doubt, consult your telephone directory and put it down in your personal Blue Book of Telephone Numbers. If the number is not listed, dial "113" to reach an Information operator.

WAIT FOR DIAL TONE

Once you are sure of the number, pick up the receiver and hold it to your ear. Wait for the dial tone. This steady humming sound is equivalent to the "Number, please?" of the operator and tells you that the dial equipment is ready for your call. If you do not hear the dial tone, or if someone else is using the line, hang up and call again later.

Now you are ready to dial. Place your index finger firmly in the dial opening through which the first letter or figure of the number you wish appears. Pull the dial steadily around to the finger stop. Then remove your finger and allow the dial to spin back by itself. Do not try to hurry it, for doing so can result in a wrong number. If your finger slips or you make a mistake, replace the receiver for a few seconds and start over again.

First dial the initial two letters of the exchange name, which in the case of Belleville are the "WO" of the name WOodland; then the exchange numeral, "2" or "3", and then the last four figures in the number you are calling.

LISTEN FOR SIGNALS

After you have dialed the complete number, listen for the signals. A soft intermittent buzzer signifies that the called telephone is ringing. A busy-buzz-buzz means that it is busy. Rarely, you may hear a tone similar to a siren. This indicates that there is no such number. When you hear this tone, hang up, consult your directory and dial again.

Give the person you call time to reach his telephone. Count 10 rings before you hang up.

When you talk, speak directly into your transmitter — lips about a quarter of an inch from the mouthpiece. Distinct speech gets better results.

When finished, replace the receiver carefully. Always replace the receiver gently immediately after completing a call. This keeps your telephone ready for action.

Remember, residents in every line service will find that service will be — as before — just as good in each party on the line makes it. When everybody is courteous and considerate, each party gets full value from his telephone.

Under the dial system, if you hear the dial tone when you pick up your two-party line, dial 1191 and then the fifty numbers of the other party's telephone will ring. When the ringing stops, it indicates that the other party has answered. Remove your receiver promptly and begin your conversation. If the ringing does not stop, remove your receiver for a moment to stop the ringing.

If, while you are dialing, another party comes on the line, say that the line is in use. When he hangs up, replace your receiver for a moment, listen again for the

Bell Telephone Co. Completes Long-Range Plan That Has Been Underway Since 1949

Early Sunday morning, a momentous change will take place in Belleville's telephone system as the Belleville exchange is cut over to dial operation in two minutes or less. The exchange names WOodland 3 and WOodland 8 will come into use and all telephone numbers here will be changed at the time of the cutover.

The cutover will be made with virtually no interruption in telephone service. Midnight was chosen as the approximate time because normally there are few telephone conversations in progress around that hour.

The actual cutover will be made according to a closely co-ordinated procedure, requiring split-second timing, to make sure that the period when all the community's telephones are "dead" is kept to a minimum.

CUTOVER AT MIDNIGHT

At a signal given when calling has reached a low ebb, around midnight, a group of men wearing goggles will go into action at the old manual exchange to disconnect all the lines to the old switchboards.

The goggles are necessary because of the method of disconnection. Tapes are strung behind the beat coils—little fuses that protect subscribers' lines from high voltage—so that the fuses can be ripped out by the thousands. As there are two of these fuses to each line, nearly 20,000 of them will be flying through the air when the tapes are pulled. This operation will take about 30 seconds.

As soon as the old exchange is "dead", the signal will be given over a special telephone line to the dial equipment room in the new wing of the exchange building, where another gang of men will stand in readiness to remove the "connecting links" from the old manual exchange is still in operation, also are attached to cords so that they can be yanked out in a few seconds.

Once the blocking tools are pulled out, the dial system will be in operation. As the first caller lifts the dial switches will begin to click, connecting telephone calls here.

STARTED SIX YEARS AGO

Long-range plans for changing Belleville's telephone system to dial operation were under consideration long before the first tangible step could be taken. Provision for dial service was made more than six years ago.

In February, 1949, when tenders were called for construction of the large extension to the Bell Telephone Company's building at the corner of Bridge and Church streets, the extension was designed to accommodate a modern business office, long distance switchboards and, when required, dial switching apparatus.

Crews of the Northern Electric Company began to install the complex dial equipment in the building last summer. This equipment was designed and engineered to meet the specific telephone needs of Bell customers in Belleville and vicinity. The installation was completed only a few weeks ago.

VERY HOMES, FACTORIES

Around the time the installation of dial equipment got under way, Bell craftsmen began their visits to homes, factories, stores and offices in Belleville vicinity to install dial telephones or to adapt telephones already installed for dial operation. They also showed each customer and his family or staff the correct way of operating the dial.

A program of instruction in using the dial telephone was accelerated as the cutover date approached, and was carried out by trained demonstrators who visited the dial customers and gave them an opportunity to dial a test call to ensure that the telephone users had mastered the technique of dialing.

During recent weeks a dial demonstration unit has been on display first in Bell's business office on Bridge Street, and later, in the Bell Telephone Commission office on Front Street. Visitors had an opportunity to see dial switching equipment in action, and an attendant gave instructions in correct dialing.

During the past year, large quantities of outside cable and wire have been installed throughout the area to be served by the Belleville exchange to provide facilities required for dial operation. These projects included the placing of 60 poles, erection of 48,000 feet of aerial cable, installation of 4,000 feet of underground cable and stringing of nearly 30 miles of wire.

Dialing a Number Is Simple When Procedure Is Understood

These rows of complex switching equipment, which took many months to install in the telephone centre at the corner of Bridge and Church Streets, will connect Belleville telephones when calls are made after the cut-over the dial service. Canisters, which protect the intricate mechanism of each switch from dust and dirt, give this row of equipment the appearance of canned goods on a grocer's shelf. Here John F. Bell, central office technician, is testing a switch.

Intricate Mechanical Marvel Goes to Work When Dial Used

There is nothing magic about the dial telephone system, but telephone users might well gain the impression that they have a genius at their service when they turn the dial after the Belleville dial exchange goes into operation early Sunday morning, April 17. It is an intricate mechanical genie capable of picking out any one of the possible connections between telephones in the Belleville exchange area—provided the person using the dial gives it the correct orders.

Many minds and many hands contributed to the invention and development of the dial switching equipment that performs these complicated tasks.

COUNTLESS CONNECTIONS

Because the tasks are complicated, the equipment itself is complicated; in fact, there are more than 40,000,000 possible connections that can be made between telephones within the Belleville exchange area.

Although many of the components can be mass-produced, an exchange must be made to measure for the community it is to serve. Engineers must first spend many months calculating the needs of the community and designing the layout. Then many more months are required for the manufacture and installation of this equipment.

Among the items needed to set up a dial exchange are power equipment, ringing machines, generators, power control board, testing facilities, an alarm system, a cable vault, and above all, the sensitive dial switching equipment.

The last is a series of switches which operate when a telephone caller dials a number and turns the dial. The switches are called line finders, selectors and connectors.

The line finder comes into action the instant the receiver is lifted. Lifting of the receiver closes a switch and energizes the circuits. The line finder is then caused to seek out a "live" or unused line leading to the dial switching equipment in the exchange. When the connection is made, the dial tone sounds in the telephone, indicating that the equipment is ready for the caller to begin dialing.

The dial switches are activated by the return motions of the dial. As the dial swings back to the normal position, it sends electrical impulses in the dial equipment, depending on the letter or digit dialed, these impulses cause the selector—the first switches in the series—to rise a corresponding number of levels where they rotate until they find an idle line into the next piece of equipment.

The connector, which is the last switch in the series, acts in a slightly more complicated manner. Assume that the last two digits of the desired number are "39". When the "3" is dialed, the shaft in the connector rises eight levels but it does not rotate automatically to look for a vacant line, as do the shafts in the previous switches. Instead, it waits at the eighth level until the last figure "9", is dialed. The shaft then rotates nine steps to the exact line of the called party and makes the final connection.

If the line is free, the ringing tone is started automatically and it continues until the telephone is answered or the caller hangs up. If the line is busy, the busy signal is heard.

READY FOR NEXT CALL

When the receiver is hung up at the end of a conversation, all the switches return instantly to their original positions and the equipment is ready for its next call.

The dial tone, the ringing tone and the busy signal are all produced by the ringing machine which is connected with the power apparatus.

A special alarm system, which operates when any of the equipment fails, is also connected to the power supply. The system consists of both visual and auditory signals and through its use telephone men can speedily locate the source of the trouble.

In January, 1885, there were 48 telephones on the Belleville exchange which was located on Campbell Street. That was a big year in telephone history. On August 7, a long distance line was completed from Kingston to Detroit. By the end of that year it had been extended to Chicago, thereby making a continuous route from Montreal to Detroit through Belleville.

OFFICE "ALWAYS OPEN"

In the Bell telephone directory of 1886, the office on Campbell street was declared "always open." This meant that Belleville was now regarded as an office of importance in telephonics strategically and numerically.

In those early days of long distance telephone calls were few and far between. On Sunday evenings, as the story goes, when the circuits were quiet, operators all along the lines entertained each other with songs, local talent, and there were reports of Sunday evening musicals originating at Kingston and Belleville. Fellow workers were serenaded over idle wires with guitar and banjo playing, and singing. Finally, with the ever-growing long distance traffic and increasingly efficient operation of the company, this sort of thing is evidently a case to an end.

In 1887, the number of telephone users in Belleville had increased to 180. The directory of 1893 continued to show a stable growth, with 229 telephones listed. By 1904 there were well over 300 telephones in Belleville. Despite the fact that telephone numbers had been assigned to all customers for some time, people were continuing to call by name. This created something of a problem, at the time, for The Bell Telephone Company's switchboard operators. However, telephone users gradually got used to calling by numbers and it soon became common practice.

DESIGN CHANGED

May 22, 1914, was an important date in Belleville's telephone history. Hitherto, each telephone had been equipped with its own storage batteries and a hand generator for signalling the operator. Henceforth, all power was centralized at the exchange, making possible smaller and neater telephones. Instead of cranking the generator, the telephone user merely lifted his receiver, causing a small lamp on the switchboard to glow opposite his number, thereby informing the operator that he wished to place a call.

At the same time, as this change in telephone service took place, the Bell staff was moved to the company's new building at 214 Pinnacle street, the "Public Office" was located at 50 Bridge street. It was during the following year that the number of telephones in Belleville reached the 1,000-mark, double the 1909 figure.

There was a continual increase

H. J. "Piney" Code, of Belleville, Bell Telephone traffic superintendent, was born in Smiths Falls, where he received his early education. He graduated in Arts from Queen's University in 1929, and entered the company's service the same year as a traffic assistant in Montreal.

In December, 1935, he was transferred to Ottawa, where he later gained experience in several dial "cutovers." In September, 1946, he returned to Montreal, where he was engaged in work relating to long distance service. He was appointed traffic superintendent in Belleville in October, 1948.

In telephone facilities over the years in Belleville until 1929. In 1930 there were 3,458 telephones in service. This was a drop from the previous year of 30. The downward trend lasted until 1934 when it started to improve. By 1936, it was announced that Belleville had a net gain of 153 telephones during 1935. Here was definite proof that the tide of depression had turned. Valuable statistics are often regarded as a reflection of a community's financial health.

EXPANSION REGUIS

From 1939, to 1946, the average number of daily local calls increased from 20,850 to 30,000 and the number of long distance calls from 977 to 1,365. To ease this situation and prepare for the ever-growing demand for telephone service, The Bell Telephone Company commenced a program of unprecedented expansion in Belleville.

Considerable cable construction was undertaken in 1946, and by May, 1947, Belleville had 5,773 telephones in use. In March, 1949, the company moved its business offices to new premises at 121 Front street to relieve the crowded conditions at the office on Pinnacle street. Later that year, two new long distance switchboards went into operation. The average daily long distance calls in Belleville had increased from 1,100 in 1945 to 1,900 in 1948. Additional switchboards were installed in 1950.

Finally, in 1951, an important event in Belleville's telephone history took pace with the opening of the new long distance centre at the corner of Bridge and Church streets. An operating staff of 165 was moved into the building, as well as the Bell Telephone Company's local business office, and space was provided for the installation of dial equipment. In that year there were 8,738 telephones in use in Belleville.

MAKES NEW ERA

By the end of last year, 10,985 telephones were in service here, a striking indication of the general progress of the community since its first exchange went into operation 74 years ago to serve 13 telephones. And, when Belleville's new dial exchange goes into service around midnight on Saturday, it will mark a new era in the progress of the town. Belleville will have a telephone system as up-to-date as any in Canada.

Since U.E. Thompson became telephone agent here in 1878, there have been 18 men who had charge of the Bell Telephone Company's business here. J.C. Reynolds followed Mr. Thompson around 1880. R. R. Bakwill, 1881-82; W. H. Wood, 1882-84; C. W. Springer, 1884-1890; E. H. Farrow, 1890-93; C. D. Dyas, 1893-11; Harry B. Stock, 1911-19; James A. Cokers, 1919-32. In 1932, G. W. Proctor took over the Belleville office who has been manager here ever since.

Some Pointers To Guard Against Errors

Dial equipment is the perfect servant. It follows your orders to the letter—and to the figure. It doesn't question your judgment; it does the good servant it is. It assumes that your instructions are correct and proceeds to carry them out quickly and efficiently.

This means, of course, that you have to dial the number you want in a correct manner or you will probably not get the result you are expecting.

"It's easy to use the dial telephone," G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager, said today, "but there are certain errors which crop up frequently enough that they are worth drawing to the attention of telephone users generally at this time."

PROPER PROCEDURE

Here are some pointers about how to guard against these mistakes:

1. Wait for the dial tone. The dial tone is the equipment's way of telling you it is ready to take your call. Normally, it is heard as the first almost immediately after you lift the receiver. However, sometimes when an unusual number of calls are being placed it may not be heard for several seconds. If you begin to dial before you hear the tone, some of the signals may get out by the turning dial may not be transmitted to the switching equipment and a wrong number or no connection at all may result.

2. Allow the dial to spin back by itself. Don't leave your finger in the slot or attempt to hurry the dial back. The dial is arranged to return automatically at the speed needed to pass along the information to the dial equipment properly. If the motion is interfered with, you may get a wrong number.

3. Avoid cases of mistaken identity between red figures "9" and the black letter "g" and between the red figure "0" and the black letter "O". Failure to distinguish between these can cause trouble.

4. Dial each letter and figure carefully. Be especially watchful not to transpose figures. If you are not certain of the number, look it up and jot it down in the space it will be available for future use. Dial the complete number—the two letters and each Blue Book of telephone numbers of the five figures—so that the equipment has all the information it needs to complete the call successfully.

Shown above is the spacious and modern Bell Telephone business office at 75 Bridge Street East. The service representatives shown here will have good news for telephone users who change their address after the change to the dial system, because then subscribers can move to a new dwelling and still keep the same telephone numbers. The company's commercial department staff accomplished a tremendous amount of work during the past few months to change records and files in readiness for business on Monday after the cutover.

JOB PRINTING DEPARTMENT

Like Belleville itself, methods of erecting telephone wire and cable have changed since this photograph was taken, in 1913. This Bell Telephone line construction crew, shown as they were about to string a copper-wire "long distance" line from Belleville to Stirling, was a forerunner of the teams of craftsmen who now work from green trucks specially designed for the job. In this photograph are: front row—J. McGowan, James Payne, T. Jewell, C. Nesbitt, R. Dempsey, H. Vance, teamster, and J. Fareau, sub-foreman; back row—B. Cunningham, W. Potts, W. Elliott, B. Sharpe and C. Mutten, foreman. The youngster who sneaked into the picture is obviously a phototype of people today who wave at the cameraman when public and sports events are televised.

Bell Telephone splicers are seen at work in a manhole at a downtown intersection in a large city. As can be seen, one of these underground cables contains hundreds of pairs of wires to serve large sections of a community. In addition to eliminating telephone poles in areas of high telephone development, use of cable also protects telephone lines from damaging effects of storms.

Mobile radio-telephone equipment has recently been put into service by the Bell Telephone Company. This equipment, located at strategic places in the company's Ontario and Quebec territory, can be quickly utilized to bridge temporary gaps in long distance facilities due to storm or other causes, or to supplement existing services in emergency situations. The equipment is housed in a special trailer, seen above.

Cable Carrier and Micro-Wave Radio Systems Greatly Widen Scope of Long Distance Phone Service

All long distance service between Canadian cities was originally provided by open wire on lines of poles. But in recent years more and more intercity wires have been enclosed in cable. Some of these cables are carried on poles but, where soil conditions permit, they may be buried directly in the ground by means of a special cable-laying plow. Underground cable reduces to a minimum the danger of service interruption through storm damage.

Even while the telephone was still in its infancy, men were considering ways of making a wire carry more than one conversation at a time. The earliest successful technique was the "phantom circuit".

If you were to imagine two trains running abreast on a double-track railroad, and then picture a ghost train running between them, using all four tracks, you would have a simplified illustration of the "phantom circuit". Riding on the backs of the physical circuits the "phantom" does not interfere with them. At the end of the line it is "unwound" to connect with its own telephone.

CARRIER CIRCUITS

Telephone scientists continued working and developed an even more effective method of making the wires carry still more voice currents. They developed "carrier circuits". These act somewhat like radio channels except that, instead of being broadcast through the air, the "carrier" voice currents are sent along a wire at various wave lengths. Due to difference in wave lengths at which several voices are carried over a single wire at the same time, each listener hears only the voice intended for him. As many as 12 conversations can be transmitted simultaneously over one pair of wires by cable and up to 16 conversations on ordinary overhead wire lines by the "carrier" method.

Radio early engaged the attention of telephone research workers as useful adjunct to the telephone system. Although its role in long distance telephony remains essentially an auxiliary one, it is growing in usefulness. Radio links are often used to give service to isolated communities, separated from main telephone routes by rough terrain. In the Canadian Northland and British Columbia some of the more remote communities are connected to the regular telephone network solely by means of radio facilities.

Sometimes radio is used like a stepping stone in a brook. There are several examples of the radio link in Bell territory. For instance, in Western Ontario Pelee Island is connected with the mainland telephone network through a radio link with the Leamington exchange. This avoids the necessity of installing a costly submarine cable to give residents in the island telephone service.

MICROWAVE SYSTEM

The newest use of radio in long distance telephony is the development of microwave radio-relay systems. Instead of using wires, these systems carry long distance telephone calls, television programs, teletype messages and other signals by microwave radio transmission.

Microwaves are super - high - frequency radio waves which can be focussed like light from a searchlight and beamed from one point to another. They are transmitted over a chain of intermediate stations, averaging about 25 miles apart. Each station receives the beam, amplifies it, and relays it to the next in line.

A microwave system constructed by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada is currently carrying telephone calls and network television programs between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. An extension from Toronto to Buffalo provides access to United States television networks. The Toronto - Ottawa - Montreal system is potentially capable of carrying hundreds of telephone calls and several TV programs at the same time.

Improvement followed improvement, both in transmission and in equipment. The hand telephone was introduced in 1892, and later the modern combined set embodying in the base of the telephone itself all the equipment that formerly was contained in a separate bell-box.

Meanwhile, the telephone industry had been employing many more thousands of Canadians. By its very progress it had affected the business and social life of the country, making it richer and fuller than before.

Starting this Sunday morning you'll be able to dial your own telephone numbers in BELLEVILLE, and all numbers will begin with

"WOodland 2" or "WOodland 8"

PLEASE REMEMBER TO:

- remove your old telephone number from the centre of your dial. Your new number is beneath it;
- make sure of every number by first looking it up in your NEW TELEPHONE BOOK;
- If the number is new to you, don't trust your memory—JOT IT DOWN;
- dial carefully — following instructions on pages 3 and 4 of your new directory;
- dial the BLACK LETTER "O" in "WOodland" — not the red figure "O" (zero);
- throw away your old telephone book;
- bring your Blue Book of Telephone Numbers up to date.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

Belleville is a crossroads of communications, and at this switchboard in the Bell Telephone building at the corner of Bridge and Church streets a total of 8,000 outgoing, incoming and "through" long distance calls are handled in an average business day. In charge of more than 100 operators who work at the long distance centre is Miss Irene Harris, long distance chief operator, standing in the right foreground. Four positions at the board are for Information operators, who will be reached by dialing "113" after the cutover to the dial system.

Telephone 'Concerts' Featured Pioneering Era of Telephoning

The early development of telephone service in Canada, between 1877 and 1880, was almost entirely due to Professor Melville Bell and his friend, the Reverend Dr. Thomas Henderson. Dr. Henderson became general agent for the Bell Telephone in the Dominion and soon had agents located in many cities and towns across the country.

Many of these men were also telegraph agents and public demonstrations of the telephone were given over the telegraph wires often between the agent's house and the local telegraph office.

Sometimes telephone "concerts" were given with people sending musical programs over the wires to other towns. These were the earliest attempts at modern broadcasting.

On September 30, 1877, the first successful two-way long distance telephone test in Canada took place over 209 miles of the Dominion Telegraph Company's wires, between Montreal and Quebec City.

Stimulated by demonstrations conducted by Melville Bell, Hugh C. Baker, a prominent Hamilton banker and son of the founder of the Canada Life Assurance Company, leased several telephones from Mr. Bell. He set them up on a line connecting his residence with those of three friends in order that they could play chess without leaving their homes.

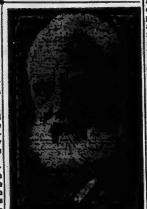
This novelty led to the organization of the Hamilton District Telegraph Company in 1878. The first Canadian telephone switchboard—the first in the British Empire—was installed in this company's office. It enabled subscribers to talk to one another as desired without the need for sales clerks to intervene by direct lines.

The biggest business step forward was taken in April of 1880 when the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was founded. It was organized by the late Charles F. Sise, one of the ablest businessmen in the history of this country.

This company consolidated into one nearly all the telephone companies then operating in Canada and proceeded to develop the business as an organized basis.

At first it was intended that the company should serve all of Canada, but the tremendous distances between the various sections of the country proved too formidable an obstacle.

Later on another company grew up in British Columbia; and in the late eighties, separate companies were formed in the Maritime provinces. When the tide of immigration began to populate the prairies in the first decade of the present century, the governments of the provinces purchased the Bell Telephone Company's plant and established their own systems. Municipal systems were formed to operate the local exchanges in Port William and Port Arthur.



In the early days of telephone development, boys were engaged as telephone operators. This picture of an early exchange shows the lads hard at work. An essential requirement was a long memory; the operator had to know from memory the names, addresses and telephone numbers of all the subscribers in his community. Nowadays, operators are almost universally girls and women.

Bell's Work With the Deaf Led to Telephone's Invention

The inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, were alive today he would not be too greatly surprised at the new devices which feature modern telephone service. From the moment when his dream of talking over wires became a reality with the first crude instrument, he visualized its application on a universal scale.

Bell was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on March 3, 1847, and before he died, in August, 1922, he had seen an immense communications system blossom from the tiny seed he planted some forty-six years before.

Bell's father, Professor Alexander Melville Bell, had been a teacher of elocution and was the inventor of phonetic alphabet which he called "Visible Speech". This consisted of a series of symbols indicating the positions the speaking organs take in uttering different sounds. It was most useful in teaching the deaf to speak.

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL
Inventor of the Telephone

IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

Graham Bell followed in his father's footsteps. For reasons of health he came to Canada in 1870 to join his family which had settled near Brantford, Ontario, a short time before. He regained his health and in 1871 took up his father's work instructing teachers of deaf children in the use of Visible Speech at Boston and other American cities.

It was a lucky combination of a spare-time interest and his daily work with the deaf that started Bell thinking on the lines that led to the telephone idea. He was interested in telegraphy too, and, with his knowledge of sound and speech, began to contemplate the possibility of speech being transmitted over a wire by electricity.

During the summer holidays at Brantford, Ontario, in 1874, Bell outlined to his father his now historic conception: "If I could make a current of electricity vary in intensity precisely as the air varies in density during the production of a sound, I should be able to transmit speech telegraphically."

Haunted by the idea, Bell worked at it unremittingly and devised in 1875 his first crude telephone, "The Gallows Frame", it was able to transmit only meaningless sounds. Endless hours of work and thought followed until in March, 1876, the first intelligible sentence was transmitted over wire.

Bell was experimenting with a diaphragm held over a tiny cup of dilute acid. Suspended from the diaphragm and dipping into the acid was a thin wire. Current flowed from a battery into the suspended wire, through the acid, into a second wire and along it to the receiver in another room. As a sound caused the diaphragm to vibrate, the first wire was lowered into the acid to a depth dependent on the strength of the vibration. The depth of immersion of the wire determined the amount of current which could flow through the acid. Consequently, the electric current flowing through the circuit varied in intensity with the vibrations of the diaphragm.

At the receiver end of the circuit were a magnet and another diaphragm so arranged that the varying current caused the magnet to exert a varying pull on the diaphragm and reproduce the original vibrations.

It was while experimenting with this device on the evening of Mar. 10, 1876, that Bell spilled some of the acid on his trousers and exclaimed: "Mr. Watson, come here! I want you!" Watson, at the receiver in another room, heard the words distinctly coming from the receiver and rushed to tell the young inventor of his success.

PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION

Bell gave the first public demonstration of his successful telephone at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia on June 25th, 1876. Only two distinguished visitors, the Emperor of Brazil and Sir William Thompson, later Lord Kelvin, were openly enthusiastic. Despite the skepticism of the majority, the interest of these two men, one a monarch and the other the world's most eminent electrical scientist, focused attention on the inventor.

On August 10th of that year, Bell conducted the first successful one-way long distance telephone test in the world, from Brantford to Paris, Ontario. The distance between the two places was only eight miles but the voice currents had to be transmitted from Brantford to Paris via Toronto, where the battery supply was located; thus the circuit actually totalled about 180 miles.

This, with other successful tests that followed when Bell returned to Boston, was the overture to telephone service on a commercial scale. The idea had come of age.

Will Find Place For Old Switchboard

Many people may have wondered what will become of the manual switchboards at the old exchanges after Belleville's new dial telephone system goes into operation. Grant W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager here, has cleared up any mystery with the announcement that most of the equipment that becomes superfluous with the changeover will be completely reconditioned and sent to other communities in Ontario and Quebec where there is a shortage of manual telephone switchboards.

Because of the unprecedented growth in demand for telephone service which has persisted since the end of the war, Mr. Proctor explained, central office equipment is still in short supply and switchboards are urgently required in many centres. Whenever switchboards become superfluous in a community, they are rebuilt as quickly as possible and placed in service again in some other exchange.

Because reconditioning the switchboards and placing them in service are complicated operations, it will be some months before all the sections are once again in service. However, other centres will derive benefit from the re-use of Belleville switchboards as soon as it is possible to complete this work.

"Waterfront" Role Founded on Fact

It's not surprising that Karl Malden, who stars with Marlon Brando and Lee J. Cobb in Columbia Pictures' "On the Waterfront," powerful new drama of love and terror in the man-made jungle where the city meets the sea, starting Monday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, gives an outstanding performance. For Malden had not only the benefit of Mia Kazan's thrilling direction but he also was conceived for his screen role by the real life prototype of it — Father John M. Corridan, New York's famed "waterfront priest."

There is a strong physical resemblance between Malden and Father Corridan. Both men are about the same size — slightly over six feet tall. Father Corridan is a little heavier; Malden has considerably more hair. They wear the same size hat, neves and one-quarter, and Malden actually wears one of the priest's in the film. As for shoes, Karl wears a size 10; Father Corridan, an 11.

Malden says Father Corridan is a big man physically and spiritually. "He has his faults, things, but he remained so unassuming and modest." Malden says with undisguised hero worship. "His shoes are too big for me but his head is no bigger than mine."

In "On the Waterfront," Malden sets out to smash the terror rule of the killers who have won control of a longshoremen's union. Unable to persuade the workers to talk, because talking can spell death, he concentrated on the wavering waterfront figure played by Brando. The emotional realism of the film has won it comparison with "Grapes Of My Way."

"On the Waterfront" introduces hauntingly attractive Eva Marie Saint, blonde stage, television and radio star. The Elia Kazan Production features Rod Steiger and Pat Henning. Budd Schulberg scripted "On the Waterfront," which Zezan directed. Sam Spiegel produced the film and Leonard Bernstein wrote the music for this Columbia picture.

The Alkibitzer

When the opening lead has been made the declarer needs no flash bulb. There in the dummy hand is a complete picture of what partner holds. He makes a composite of it with his own cards.

A deal that reached a slam is shown here:

	NORTH

	♣A Q 4 2

South was declarer at six hearts. His pair had also bid clubs and spades. So, he got the expected diamond opening lead from west. What he saw in dummy made him feel confident of his small slam.

He could afford to give up the second round of diamonds and put the rest on ice. But with a small slam so easy to make there is no good player who would refrain from trying for the 13th trick.

He might try a spade finesse. But if this fails, opponents are in a quick position to take a diamond trick, too. Therefore, such a gamble is folly that must not be considered.

Instead, the first trick was won with dummy's diamond ace and three rounds of trumps were pulled to clear out opponent hearts for safety play. Then a trick was boldly taken with the spade ace.

The "queen or spades was let. When east did not cover, south merely shifted his remaining diamond. If west had the king the small slam was still safe with no diamond loser to worry about.

But west did not have the king. So, another high spade was led. On those that east did not cover, south shifted clubs. On the one that east covered with the king, south ruffed.

Before the windup, south shifted two clubs besides his diamond and finally ruffed two other clubs in dummy. This was how he picked up all 13 tricks for a grand award.

Experienced players will find nothing unusual in this type of play. Beginners need to be reminded of it lest they forget to look for it. Often a reminder will help you under pressure.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR MONDAY, APRIL 18

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—

A generally good day for routine matters but there may be uncertain spots in financial and legal affairs are concerned. Promote your best attributes and be considerate.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—

Aspects presage excellent results from extraordinary efforts, unusual business ventures. Also be interest in new ideas even if small to start with, they could snowball into big ones.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—

Encouraging rays for your particular talents. Excellent for writing, investments, research. Make time for rest, family

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—

Take your work but not yourself seriously; feeder decisions only after due study and you can by pass obstacles. Intelligent effort should bring reward; try hard, honestly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—

The kindly, sincere approach will help you now. Be awake, ready to act on short notice. Some things are on the edgy side, so take nothing for granted; be alert to possible pitfalls.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—

Work hard and don't be averse to heeding sound advice. Be sharp for prospects that may be right around the corner. Combine past methods that were successful with today's effort.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Outlook excellent for those who have planned and studied possibilities pro and con. Use your fine sense of reasoning and you'll make a solid success of today's efforts. Romance favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Tread easy where others are concerned, in matters that affect associates, superiors. Do what you know you can do well, but mark time on the doubtful, and be untried until you are more certain.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Eliminate non-essentials. Save time and effort today. Set a mark and aim to achieve it by nightfall. There could be tension in domestic and romantic affairs if you are careless.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Indications somewhat negative, though earnest, steady effort can advance your goals. Press only in essential matters.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — with quality, not quantity, foremost in your mind and putting forth your best, the trend is toward higher levels now. Always try to do things right the first time. Good going!

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — With a shrewd, alert approach, you can surmount apparent obstacles during this somewhat mixed period. Today is appropriate to seize upon the uncertain and make the unexpected pay dividends.

YOU BORN TODAY are bright, yet sometimes unwisely sympathetic; are innately amiable. Don't be gullible with unworthy associates. You respond readily to higher education. Your spiritual development is important to your general good and advancement. Your musical ability and artistic talents are outstanding; bring your finer qualities to the fore. Curb impetuosity, needless worry. 1955 offers much that can be turned into gainful success with sincere tries.

"SECRETS" CHEAPER NOW

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Communist party has toned down formerly secret publications and put them on public sale. Police now can buy for a nickel a newspaper formerly circulated only among senior party members. Now they pay to pay $2 to $10 a copy, when the newspaper featured articles on how to make "Molotov cocktail" bombs and handmade pistols.

Nickel Critical Of Reaume's Talk On Highways Case

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial Secretary W. M. Nickle Friday night criticized Arthur Reaume, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Essex North, for statements Mr. Reaume made in Peterborough Wednesday night regarding the highways irregularities.

Mr. Nickel attacked Mr. Reaume for inspiring in a speech that the boating accident of C. H. Nelson, former chief engineer of the highways department branch at Fort William, might not have been accidental.

In a prepared statement read at a nominating meeting for the provincial riding of Toronto Riverdale, Mr. Nickle said newspaper reports quoted Mr. Reaume as saying:

"It has not been ascertained as to whether he (Mr. Nelson) fell out or somebody pushed him out. Behind the corpse the government of Ontario has hidden and still are hiding."

Mr. Nelson, who had been suspended for failure to cooperate in the investigation into highways irregularities, died in hospital here Sept. 4, two weeks after the accident.

JUST A QUESTION

Mr. Reaume said in Windsor Friday night that what he meant was that Mr. Nelson's death was never fully explained and he thought it should be. He added:

"I didn't know whether he fell or jumped or what. I'd heard lots of stories up there in the House and lots of guys were asking whether he really was in a boat and whether he fell out or whether he jumped. I wanted an explanation and I was just asking a question."

Mr. Reaume added that he didn't mean to leave the impression that Mr. Nelson might have been deliberately killed, but was just fishing for some information."

Three Injured As U.S. Plane Lands in Fog

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP) — Rescue workers used axes, hacksaws and crowbars Friday night to free a trapped United States Marine from the interior of a b4 military transport plane that plunged off the end of the Sydney airport runway after a forced landing.

He and two others of the 11 men aboard were taken to hospital after the CY-18 transport on route from Quonset Point, R. I., to Argentia, Nfld., made the landing in dense fog with its port engine a mass of flames.

The plane came to rest nose-down in a deep, mud-filled ravine and airport workers said it had apparently "broken its back."

It did not burst into flames. Rescue workers took two hours to hack through the side of the plane to pull away the jumbled pile of cargo trapping G. E. Wood, 37-year-old technical sergeant.

South Africa May Become Leading Producer of Uranium

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — New plants now starting production in South Africa may make this country one of the biggest sources of uranium in the world within the next few years.

Uranium worth about $180,000,000 is likely to be recovered from the 36 or more mines every year when South Africa's full production program gets under way.

All uranium for the next 15 years or so goes under contract to Britain or the United States, which provided loan capital for most of the new uranium recovery plants.

Revised figures have led to the belief South Africa probably owns the largest accessible uranium oxide deposits in the world, many of which it was quickly realized could be mined jointly with the nation's gold production.

Joint mining for gold and uranium in the same ore has brought new life to South Africa's mining operations. Extraction of both precious materials from the same underground reef often extends the life of mines no longer profitable for one product alone.

Few concentrations of uranium in South Africa have so far been found in proportion high enough to justify mining for them exclusively. Production quantities are a government secret.

Uranium extraction plants have grown as accessories to the great gold mining developments in the long - established Witwatersrand reef area around Johannesburg and the new post-war Orange Free State mines centred near the Welkom.

South Africa's former prime minister, Daniel Malan, opened the country's first uranium plant in October, 1952.

The techniques for uranium recovery in South Africa were perfected through co-operative research among South Africa, Britain and the United States. In November, 1950, the British and U.S. governments signed agreements with the South African atomic energy board for large - scale uranium production.

Boy Severely Injured When Struck by Car

SUDBURY (CP)—A seven-year-old boy, severely injured in a car accident Thursday, arrived here by train Friday night after an attempt to fly him from Little Current failed.

Douglas Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright of Gore Bay, suffered skull injuries, abdominal and multiple chest injuries, a broken leg and face cuts when struck by a car.

Plans to fly him to a Sudbury hospital were changed Friday when a gust of wind smashed the windows of an amphibian aircraft as it was to take off.

It was the only amphibian in the area. The land-sea aircraft was needed to land on the water at Little current and on land at Sudbury.

Douglas' condition was described Friday night as "not too good." Though conscious and able to talk, he suffered from internal bleeding in the chest.

Doctors said his head injuries were not severe. But x-ray photographs were taken to determine extent of his abdominal injuries.

Mrs. Charles Purvis, a special nurse who accompanied him on the four-hour train trip, said Douglas never complained.

Albert Einstein, World-Famous Scientist, Dies

Swept to International Fame By Theory of Relativity

ALBERT EINSTEIN

Noted scientist dies from gall bladder condition at Princeton, N.J.

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)— World-famous scientist Albert Einstein died at 1:15 a. m. EST today at Princeton Hospital.

Einstein, who was 76, had been admitted to the hospital at noon Friday. He died of a rupture of the main artery of the body caused by hardening of the arteries, an autopsy revealed.

Einstein, who had secluded himself from public contact in recent years, had been attached to the Institute for Advanced Study here.

The quiet, unassuming wizard of mathematics and physics spent his lifetime searching for a unified mathematical concept of the laws that govern the universe.

Born in Ulm, Germany, March 14, 1879, of middle class Jewish parents, he was swept to international fame by the theory of relativity which he devised at the age of 26.

A revolutionary idea, it added a fourth dimension, time, to the trio of length, breadth and width—which had formed man's basic knowledge of the theoretical physicist, the tools also astounded scientists by dispelling Newton's law of gravitation.

It was Einstein's disclosure, many years ago, that a small quantity of matter could produce astronomical quantities of energy, which was so spectacularly proved when the first atomic bomb exploded.

But the famous, white-haired scientist loathed war. He abhorred its misgivings.

He saw one hope, however. that "it may intimidate the human race to bring order into its international affairs, which, without pressure of fear, it undoubtedly would not do."

Einstein's theoretical work, the tools of his trade were a fountain pen and a pad of paper.

Though few people understood Einstein's complex theories, his work is one of the foundations of most of today's electronic and television industries, and also of modern industrial developments which rely partly on the laws of atomic mass and energy.

South Viet Nam Private Army Breaks Truce

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (CP)— Binh Xuyen troops shattered Saigon's uneasy truce today, firing on vehicles of the National army. The attack said one of its soldiers was killed and another kidnapped.

The National forces loyal to embattled Premier Ngo Dinh Diem were also on an immediate alert.

An army spokesman said Gen. Paul Ely, French commissioner-general for Viet Nam, and his chief of staff, Gen.-Alain Gambiez, had hastened to headquarters to insist that the aroused National troops refrain from retaliating.

Earlier Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, inspector-general of South Viet Nam's armed forces, cabled chief of state Bao Dai in France Saturday telling him the army feared civil war, Reuters reported.

Civil conflict would be inevitable in South Viet Nam, he said, if the present political crisis were not resolved before the expiration of the truce between the government and the rebelling private armies.

Emperor Bao Dai today replied that he thought a solution of the crisis could possibly be reached before the end of April.

A truce is at present in force in the dispute in which the "united front" of private armies are supposing the rule of Prime Minister Ngo Dinh Diem whom they accuse of being autocratic.

School Subsidy Cut Protested By Catholics

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP)— Some 30,000 Roman Catholics demonstrated here Sunday against the government's proposed cut in school subsidies. Their leaders announced plans to seek King Baudouin's support.

Catholic leaders have accused the government of declaring war on the Catholic schools. A majority of Belgium's 1,600,000 children attend parochial schools. The government says the previous Catholic regime gave more than adequate support to the church schools.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A storm centered in northeastern Nebraska this morning is expected to move into northern Ontario tonight giving extensive cloud showers, and thunderstorms in the north country tonight and Tuesday. In the south, skies will cloud over this afternoon with showers or thunderstorms tonight and mostly cloudy skies Tuesday.

Will Head Home to Lead Labor Party in Election

VANCOUVER (CP) — Clement Attlee will make his past speech in Canada tonight, then head back to England to lead his party's election campaign.

The leader of the British Labor party, whose CCF-pronounced tour of Canada was cut short by the sudden calling of the May 26 election, will address an expected audience of 6,500 in Victoria before returning by air to England.

He is scheduled to take off from there at 9 a.m. Tuesday and be back in England 48 hours later.

Mr. Attlee started his election campaign 6,000 miles from home when he talked to an audience of 3,000 here Saturday.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS SPEECH

The former prime minister dealt with foreign affairs.

He called for United Nations recognition of China, warned against a third world war which would destroy civilization, and said Communist governments it must accept as facts.

Mr. Attlee was interrupted only once, when a member of the audience suffered a heart attack. As you let imperial veterans starve to death?"

The smiling Mr. Attlee replied that the question was "silly."

Ambulance attendants, artists and Communists distributed peace literature.

RAPS CHIANG REGIME

Mr. Attlee described the Nationalist government of Formosa as "discredited" and "corrupt". He said it could not be put back into power.

"You can't put Humpty Dumpty back on the wall again," he said. He favored what he said was the only force to change the government of China would result in the driving of China into the "arms of Russia."

He said while the present Red Chinese government is not ideal, it has done a lot of land reform in agriculture.

He regretted the planned rearming of West Germany, but said it was necessary.

Pope Suffering From Arthrosis In Right Arm

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope is suffering from arthrosis in his right arm and will probably never be able to use it freely again, Vatican Radio said in today's diagnosis today.

The diagnosis was made by four doctors after x-ray pictures were taken of the 79-year-old Pope's right arm and shoulder Sunday night.

The x-ray plates were made after various ray treatments had failed to relieve sharp pain in the arm which has troubled the Pope for the past of blessing and proffering the papal ring for people to kiss.

Kirkland Lake Credit Union Loses $137,000 of Its Assets of $190,000

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — The branch of Caisse Populaire L'Assomption savings group here has lost $137,000 of its total assets of $190,000 it was announced today.

C. Richards, credit union registrar in the Ontario department of insurance, told 200 members:

"It is inconceivable that this can be happening, but I'm afraid it has happened."

Many of the members present, some of whom had their life savings invested in the caisse, were in tears as they left the meeting. The group's affairs were a "terrible mess."

"We have investigated the affairs of over 300 caisse populaires and credit unions," he said. "But never in our experience have we found a situation of this kind. Never have we found a caisse in which the control of finances has been left so completely in the hands of a single man."

Raymond Presse, manager of the caisse, closed his office and left Kirkland Lake without warning or explanation nearly a month ago. Since then a full audit has been made by officials of the branch of the Ontario insurance department.

Richards told the annual meeting the audit showed that the lack of control by directors and supervisory committee, laid 200 members.

'Extensive' Red Airpower Buildup Opposite Formosa Report Given to President

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower has received intelligence information that the Chinese Communists are engaged in "an extensive buildup" of Red airpower opposite Formosa, which the U.S. is committed to defend.

Announcing this at Augusta Sunday after a conference with the president, Secretary Dulles also told reporters the buildup has "grave implications." He described it as:

1. "More intense and more broad in its scope" than the United States had been aware of until a few days ago.

2. A buildup which "indicates a higher degree of capability" on the part of the Communists to launch an attack "than we had been aware of a few weeks ago."

Dulles' elaboration on the buildup came at a brief press conference at a golf club he had left the chief executive's vacation headquarters at the Augusta National Golf Club.

The secretary's remarks and his prepared statement, which was approved by Eisenhower, stirred new interest in a prediction attributed last month to Admiral Robert B. Carney that the Reds would be capable of launching an assault on the Chinese Nationalist Matsu Islands by April 15.

Dulles gave this summary of other aspects of his review of world problems:

1. It appears "the Soviet Union now is willing to alter its ill-spent stubborn policy of maintaining indefinitely Red forces of occupation in Austria." But Dulles added "nothing should be taken for granted" on the basis of last week's negotiations between Russia and Austria on an Austrian independence treaty.

2. Because of the developments looking toward an Austrian treaty, the prospects for a big four conference are "encouraging" if "the time is right (as the Moscow negotiations) do not disillusion us."

Hospitals Must Plan for Civil Defence Emergencies--Martin

MONTREAL (CP) — Health Minister Martin said today hospitals must plan now if they are to use their facilities to the best possible advantage in war or national peacetime disasters strike.

Such plans are part of civil defence preparations, he said at the opening of the first Quebec Hospital Disaster Institute, a study group called to provide hospital authorities with an opportunity to plan for disasters.

Such institutes have been held on a regional basis in British Columbia and Alberta, west central Ontario, the English - language hospitals of Quebec province and in the Atlantic provinces.

Mr. Martin said the institutes will be ready to deal any serious disaster which might befall a Canadian community.

He said major disasters have struck in Canada on an average every

Labor Minister Says Everything Under Control

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said today "everything is under control" in the unemployment situation at Sept-Iles, Que., where jobless have been reported flocking in for work on the Labrador iron ore development.

The minister said a weekend report from department officials on the 448 persons registered for work with national employment service in the town of 5,000, which has expanded in a hot out of line under the circumstances.

"There is nothing to cause undue concern," he said in an interview.

Dealing with reports that a large proportion of the unemployed are immigrants lured by stories of high-paid jobs, Mr. Gregg said that at no time have more than 80 new Canadians been registered for work at the Sept-Iles office. About 30 per cent were registered.

"Some of the unemployed have money, and all are being well fed," Mr. Gregg added.

Mother Rescues Two Children Trapped by Fire

WELLAND (CP) — Mrs. Rose Clacko, 40, rescued two of her children Saturday afternoon when they were trapped in their upstairs bedroom by fire.

Mrs. Clacko, feeding geese at the barn on the Humberstone township farm when the fire started, climbed a ladder to a leader, broke a window and brought out Randy, 3, and Peter 5.

Fire chief Joseph Blazelich of Crowland said the fire started in the basement. Damage was believed caused by a lighted cigaret. Mrs. Clacko, the children's father was asleep when the blaze started.

SURVIVORS SAY BLAST PRECEDED CRASH OF PLANE

Indian Crew Members State Fire Followed

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Surviving Air India crew members say an "unsniffed explosion" preceded the crash of their four-engined plane which carried 11 Bandung-bound Communists to death in the China sea last Monday.

The Communist-owned airline quoted the three rescued men as saying the "explosion" was followed by fire "emanating from an extraneous source wholly unconnected with the structure of the aircraft."

The statement was issued as British and Red China swapped counter-charges over the plane incident which has grown into an international dispute. Investigators from Red China, India and Indonesia were scheduled to fly to the crash scene today.

Fifteen persons perished in the crash including the 11 Reds—eight Chinese, two Poles and a North Vietnamese—en route to the Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia. The survivors were the purser, M. S. Datt, and engineer Karnik and navigator Pathak.

The British government accused Red China in a note made public Sunday of trying to make political capital out of the crash and of "without first investigating the cause."

The foreign office said Britain "does not accept any responsibility for the accident or the consequences thereof". It said British authorities in Hong Kong took all steps to insure the safety of the passengers and aircraft while it was in Hong Kong.

The Peiping regime has charged the plane was sabotaged by American secret agents. Authorities here in Hong Kong the aircraft's last stopping place before the crash.

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

ONLY ONE ALARM OVER WEEK-END

City firemen had an exceptionally quiet week-end with only one box reported. The call was from Mickevert's Groceteria at the corner of North Front street and Moira for an over-heating stove.

Police Blotter

A 12-year-old Madoc girl, Joanne Rosell, said to be mature for her age, is reported missing from her home with Belleville police having been asked to be on the look-out for her. The missing girl was described as being 4 feet 8 inches tall, with blond hair and was wearing a blue station wagon coat and blue jeans.

At the same time police noted that Mrs. Norma Reilly, 18, of Great St. James street, had returned home Saturday after being missing since midweek.

Investigation of a two-car collision on Coleman street and the arrest of a motorist on Cronkite Inntington township. He operated this machine for ten years and when it was destroyed by fire

Grant Coulter Ends 28 Years As Grocery Store Operator

Twenty-eight years as a groceryman were ended here last week for Grant R. Coulter of Coulter North Front Street grocery store operator. Mrs. Coulter turned the operation of his grocery business over to Michael Amodeo.

But close to 30 years in the retail business was too strong an association for Mr. Coulter to sever completely and he will continue operation of his hardware business. The business will be known as Coulter's Hardware, 111 North Front Street, and will continue to be operated by Mr. Coulter and his two sons, Ray and Edward.

The grocery business has not been a lifetime vocation for Mr. Coulter. He formerly farmed on the 5th concession of Sidney, just west of Foxboro, then for three years operated a barbershop in Belleville at a site now occupied by the McCarthy Arcade building.

Twenty-eight years ago he decided to go into the retail business and took over the general store and postoffice at Crookston in Huntington township. He operated this business for ten years and when it was destroyed by fire

EXPANDED RAPIDLY

Since then the business expanded rapidly and gradually other lines were added. First, flour and feed were taken on, then lines of hardware were added, then paint and painters' supplies. Coulter's were the first local agents for Pittsburgh paints, a line which he still carries. The grocery end of the business had been managed principally by Mrs. Coulter.

Today Coulter's Hardware offers builders' supplies, farm and lawn fencing, fertilizer and garden supplies, cooking utensils and shelf hardware; a special feature being the sale of plumbing supplies. Coulter's everything needed for the house." Grant and Port Hope enamel bathroom and kitchen fixtures are handled.

A new partition has been added in the Coulter store dividing the grocery business now operated by Mr. Amodeo, from the hardware area. A new store front is now being added which will give Coulter's Hardware a separate entrance.

Obituary

ALFRED BRUNTON

CAMPBELLFORD — Funeral services were conducted on Saturday for Alfred Brunton, 71, who died at his home in Seymour township on Wednesday after a short illness. Born in Seymour, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Amber Brunton and Elizabeth Pedrick.

Surviving are: two sons, Walter and Harry Brunton, of Seymour; a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Love, Toronto. Also surviving are two brothers, Ben Brunton of Seymour, Mrs. Henrietta Dunk, both of Seymour. Mr. Brunton's wife, the former Janet Wright, predeceased him in January of this year.

Mr. Brunton was a farmer in Seymour, and was a member of St. John's United Church, Campbellford.

The funeral was held from Mr. Brunton's home on Friday, Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's officiating.

The bearers were: George Brunton, Maurice Brunton, Roy Simpson, Alfred Hall, Clarence Wright and Ralph Wright. The same men were bearers for Mrs. Brunton's funeral.

MRS. DONALD GRANT

Mrs. Mary Crouch Grant, 18 Burton Street, died in her home on Sunday, April 17th, after a lengthy illness. She was in her 74th year.

The deceased was born in Glasgow, Scotland, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reid, and lived in Belleville, England, prior to moving to Belleville 40 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Donald Grant; two daughters, Mrs. Jack (Mary) Hall of Belleville, and Miss Catherine Grant, at home. Also surviving are two grandchildren.

The deceased was a member of Sydney St. United Church.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

DONALD WOOD DOWNEY
(Crookston)

Donald Wood Downey, 23-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downey, of Crookston, died on Sunday, April 17th, as a result of injuries received in a car accident on Highway No. 33, one mile south of Madoc.

The deceased was born in Huntingdon township and lived his whole life in Crookston and district, five miles south of Madoc.

He was educated at White Lake public school and Madoc high school and was a member of Bethesda United Church.

He is survived by his parents; two sisters, Mrs. Beverley (Helen) Nichols, of Belleville and Mrs. Glen (Evelyn) Boyle, of Eldorado, and four brothers, Carman, of Crookston; Ross, of Kingston; Douglas of Kingston, and Ray at home.

Resting at the home of his parents in Crookston. The funeral notice appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. THOMAS W. ROBINSON
(Osgoode)

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas W. Robinson, Osgoode, Ontario, was held from her late residence on Wednesday afternoon last to the United Church with many relatives, friends and neighbors attending to pay their last respects. The church was filled to capacity and the large number of beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem held by Mrs. Robinson in the community.

The late Mrs. Robinson was an active worker in the United Church and particularly in the Missionary Society being president of the organization for thirty years. She died at the Coleman Nursing Home, Ottawa, on Monday, a week ago, following a stroke some time previous. She was a native of Ireland and was the former Rebecca Cranston. Her husband died some years ago.

Surviving are three brothers: John Cranston, of Campbellford; Andrew Cranston, of Belleville; Robert Cranston, of Springbrook, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Belleville, and Mrs. Frank Dootaize, of Shannonville.

The bearers were: Clarke Murdock, James Robinson, Steven Cleland, Harold Taylor, Gordon Saunders and Harry Kerr.

Interment was in Rideau Vale cemetery at Kars.

MRS. GEORGE WILSON

In ill health for the past four months, Mrs. Helena Maude Wilson, 111 Chatham Street, died at her home early this Monday morning. She was born in Toronto 69 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Downey, and had resided in this city for the past 40 years. She formerly resided at Port Arthur.

The late Mrs. Wilson was a devout and faithful member of St. Michael's and was a consistent worker in all activities of the parish.

She was a past president of the Catholic Women's League and also a member of the Benevolent and Altar Societies. She was also a past president of the Grand International Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Mrs. Wilson was well known and highly respected in the community and her death will bring sincere regret to a wide circle of friends.

Surviving are her husband,

Cutover to Dial System In City Takes 59 Seconds

Telephone dials are spinning in Belleville today, with the new dial system in its second day of service, and already local residents are getting used to the new dial tone which has replaced the operators' familiar "Number, please."

It took just 59 seconds, early Sunday morning, for Bell Telephone Company engineers in Belleville's manual system cut of operation and put more than 10,000 telephones on dial service. But those moments climaxed the planning and work of more than two years.

When the local exchanges "went to dial" all telephone numbers here were simultaneously changed, and the new numbers with the exchange designations "Woodland 2" and "Woodland 5" became effective.

To Mayor John Both went the honor of making the first local call using the dial equipment. Mayor Both called Frank S. Follwell, member of parliament for Hastings South. The call went through dial switches, which had been especially prepared in advance of the main cutover.

Mayor Both and Mr. S. Follwell spoke of the progress in communications when the crank style telephones were used, prior to the Great War. Each referred to the ability of the dial system as a decided advantage for this communities. Mayor Both also had a conversation with Grant W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager here, and commended him on the telephone company on its achievement.

CUT-OVER AT MIDNIGHT

Around midnight Saturday, when the volume of calls through the switchboard on the old system had reached a low point, H. J. "Piney" Code, traffic superintendent, signalled that it was time for the cutover to begin. Fred S. Croft, of Kingston, former plant wire chief in Belleville, then gave the order "remove heat coils". In the dial exchange there are thousands of tiny fuses flying, and disconnect or switchboard.

When the switchboard was "dead", Mr. Croft, using a special telephone line, put a series of those waiting at the dial exchange building on Bridge Street, to bring the dial switching equipment into operation. Donald F. Ullman, of Kingston, district plant superintendent, then ordered "remove blocking tools", and another crew, working between long rows of switches, ripped out 10,000 small insulators which, until that moment had kept the dial equipment out of service.

The whole operation, carried out in both locations with clocklike precision, was under the direction of Donald F. Ullman, plant wire chief in Belleville.

When the last insulator was

George Wilson; four sons, W. Bernard Lovis, of Vancouver; John M. Wilson, of Toronto; Geo. A. Wilson of Belleville; Robert F. Wilson of London; one brother, John Downey, and one sister, Miss Mary Downey, both of Toronto.

Resting at the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien. The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Keith MacDonald Given Trophy At Trade Fair

Branch 99 Canadian Legion concluded another highly successful Trade Fair in the armouries Saturday night with a bumper crowd in attendance. Large crowds also patronized the Thursday and Friday shows as well as the Saturday matinee.

A feature of the Saturday evening draw was the presentation of the Belleville "Athlete of the Year" trophy to Keith MacDonald, Prince Edward county athletic star, who was named to the award a short time ago by the special committee in charge of the trophy. MacDonald was also presented with a miniature which becomes his permanent possession.

The presentation of the trophy was made by Eric Nesterenko, youthful star of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey club before a large crowd at 8.15. The young hockey player smilingly apologized for his voice when he complimented MacDonald after handing him the trophy. "I don't know what to say," he smiled, "there is a slight difference between our ages".

Vern. Goyer, well-known city athlete and first winner of the trophy presented MacDonald with the miniature with the comment, "It could not have gone to a finer fellow."

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

MacDonald modestly accepted the trophies expressing his appreciation of the gesture, his selection, the donors and the committee. "One man cannot win a game", he said. "The other fellows deserved it, too."

Geo. H. Carver, chairman of the selection committee, acted as master of ceremonies for the presentation.

Nesterenko, who spent the afternoon with friends in Picton proved the centre of attraction for a large crowd of hockey-minded youngsters as well as adults who besieged him for autographs.

Another feature of the show was the comedy team of Pat Rafferty and Charlie Jeerves, formerly of duo. Rafferty, former member of the famous "Dumbells" a First World War Canadian soldier show, sang several of the songs made famous by that organization.

Les Digby was chairman for the several draws the tickets of which were extracted by Nesterenko.

The many exhibits were again the cynosure of hundreds of eyes and another successful Legion trade fair passed into history.

Snooty Hound Disdains 'Dogs', Selects Beef

Found, a hound with a taste for the best.

The hungry pooch had its choice of prime ribs of beef or hot-dogs—and guess what it selected?

You are right, only the best instead of being nicely roasted was resting in the back seat of a car parked in Rossmore when the hound dog made its selection.

A city resident had left his car outside a service station with the window quite close. The hungry hound scented the beef, mounted upon the floor, disdained a package of frankfurters and made off with the seven-pound roast.

The car-owner managed to catch a glimpse of the purloiner and gave chase. But he did not recover his Sunday dinner until half of it was hound-food.

The owner of the hound made restitution.

Legion Honors Len Taylor At Convention

Comrade Len Taylor, Belleville, Zone Commander F-3, Canadian Legion, was elected deputy district commander of "District F" at the convention held in Peterborough Sunday. Comrade J. W. "Scotty" Broughton, Brighton, was re-elected to the seat of a car parked in Rossmore when the hound dog made its selection.

A city resident had left his car outside a service station with the window quite close. The hungry hound scented the beef, mounted upon the floor, disdained a package of frankfurters and made off with the seven-pound roast.

The car-owner managed to catch a glimpse of the purloiner and gave chase. But he did not recover his Sunday dinner until half of it was hound-food.

The owner of the hound made restitution.

Over 500 Legion members attended the convention held in the Legion hall, which was fesatured by a banquet, addresses by outstanding speakers and general business of the district. The convention was officially welcomed by the mayor of Peterborough.

Members attended a memorial parade to the Peterborough cenotaph where wreaths were deposited to the memory of fallen comrades. The parade was conducted by the district padre. A silence was sheralded and "Last Post" and "Reveille" sounded by a trumpeter.

Comrade Claire Stuart was chairman at the banquet which was followed by an address by Comrade W. H. Montague, district administrator, department of veterans' affairs.

The afternoon business session was marked by addresses by Lt.-Col. Tom Medland, chairman of Soldiers' Aid Commission and provincial Secretary Col. Leo Phelan and Harold Tolley.

Various reports were submitted by chairman, Everett Liddle, Belleville; E. Jones, Lindsay; J. Bristol, Madoc; F. Burke, Peterborough; D. Weeks, Oshawa; M. Hood, Oshawa; J. Lovell, Oshawa; L. Yoley, Picton; William Bailey, Belleville and A. Miller, Brighton.

The election of officers concluded the session. The election and installation was conducted by Comrade Jack Burnett, DCM, mayor of Cobourg.

All Paintings Now Placed For Exhibition

The auditorium of the Sir Winston Churchill School was a hive of activity on Friday afternoon and expressions of appreciation were brought in pictures for the first amateur travelling art exhibit to be organized in East Central Ontario.

Mr. William Graff, librarian of the Peterborough Public Library, was first to suggest the idea to Mr. Cy. Hall, district representative of the Community Programs branch, Dept. of Education and fifteen municipalities were represented at a meeting called by Mr. Weir in February. It was unanimously agreed that a central committee be formed to get the exhibit underway.

The Belleville Arts and Crafts, sponsored by the recreation committee are hosts for the official opening of this exhibit, which takes place on Friday evening.

The Belleville Arts and Crafts members looking after arrangements for this exhibit are Mrs. J. Whalen, art convener; Mrs. E. Whitfield, social convener; Mrs. R. Williams, program convener.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices edged upward in all major sections at the stock market today and trading moved along at the rate of a 9,000,000-share day.

Speculative issues which accounted for most of the 3,853,000 volume at 1 p. m. EST, moved ahead with small gains in early trading. But many issues were hit by profit-taking in early afternoon.

Industrials, led by steels, papers, financial institutions and liquors, edged ahead.

General Dynamics led the list, climbing 3¾. Algoma jumped 3½ to 59 after touching a 1955 high of 60¼ and smaller gains went to Atlas, Asbestos, Eddy Paper and Consolidated Paper.

Bailey Selburn A shot up $1.40 to $11 following the announcement last week of a new discovery on the company's property near Calgary. Most other western oil issues moved up.

Biggest losses among uranium went to Lorado and Consolidated Denison which fell 30 cents to $4.35 and $8.20 respectively.

Campbell Chibougamau made the best advance among base metals jumping 25 to 8.30.

Hollinger climbed ¼ among gold issues.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow today at the Ontario public stockyards.

The few sales on steers, heifers and fed yearlings were barely steady. Cows were 50 cents a hundredweight lower with bulls steady. The general quality improved over last few weeks.

Receipts: cattle 4,210; calves 300; hogs 190; sheep and lambs 210; holdover 300 stockers.

Included in the fresh cattle run were 228 westerns, mostly stockers. Choice steers, all weights 20-21; good steers 19-20; mediums 16-19; commons 13-16; choice heifers 18-19; good heifers 17-18; mediums 14-16; commons 12-14; boner steers and heifers 10-13; choice fed yearlings 20-22; good fed yearlings 19-20; mediums 17-19; good cows 12-14; light heifer cows to 12; canners and cutters down to 9; good heavy bologna bulls 13-15; with steers sale to 14; common and medium light bulls down to 10.

Replacement cattle: good stockers 19-19.50; mediums 18-18.

Calves were steady at 21-24 for good and choice vealers; mediums were slow at 15-20; commons 10-13.

Hog prices were not established.

Included in the fresh lamb run were 190 Alberta feedlot lambs which were unsold. Good light sheep 8-10; common and heavy sheep down to 4.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings sufficient for a quiet demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded, in three cases: A large 41-42; A medium 41; A small 36-37; B 31; C 27.

Wholesale to retail: A large 46-47; A medium 46; A small 41-43; B 40; C 32.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade 57¼-58.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1⅜ per cent the Bank of Canada reported at noon EST, today. Friday's noon rate was 99 25-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.75¾ against $2.76¼.

FIND BABY'S BODY

TORONTO (CP)—An infant girl's body was found Saturday in a dump in suburban Etobicoke, police said Sunday. Police are seeking the child's mother. An autopsy showed the child, born about Thursday, had not been stillborn and had probably died of asphyxiation.

JAMES MATTHEWS

Guest speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club will be James Matthews, representative of Walsh Advertising Co. Ltd., Toronto office.

An active mover in club circles he was formerly lecturer on advertising in the University of Toronto and director of advertising courses in several other Toronto educational institutions.

Four Persons Shaken Up In Collision

Four persons received a shaking up with two suffering minor injuries, in a two-car head-on collision Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Coleman and Catherine Street.

Driver of the one car, John Wilbert Ewing, R.R. 1, Foxboro, suffered a cut over his eye, as did Floyd Skillicorn, R.R. 2, Ameliasburg, who was riding in the other vehicle. Suffering shock were Edna Skillicorn, driver of the second vehicle and Shirley McKelvie.

One car was southbound on Coleman St., when as it approached the Catherine Street intersection another car swung out on to Coleman. The driver of the first car swung to the left to avoid a collision and in so doing collided head-on with the northbound vehicle. Damage in the Ewing car amounted to $400, and to the Skillicorn vehicle about $350.

Post Graduate Nurses Will Do Field Work at General Hospital

Students from the only four schools for post graduate nurses in Ontario will do field work at the Belleville General Hospital this spring.

Three nurses from the University of Western Ontario have completed a month's stay at the Belleville General Hospital, doing practical work in teaching and supervision and in observing the classroom program and ward administration.

Four students doing post graduate work at the University of Ottawa commenced three weeks' work at the hospital this morning.

On May 2nd, two students from the School of Nursing at the University of Toronto and one from Queen's University, will commence a three-weeks' course.

The students from the University of Toronto will study nursing education and nursing service administration. The student from Queen's University will study teaching and supervision.

All girls live in residence during their stay in Belleville.

The nurses from the University of Western Ontario were: Misses Sheila McLeod, Joan Murray and Helen Graham.

Those from the University of Ottawa are: Misses Martha Fagan, Theresa Nicholl, Norma Struzzo and Maureen Murray.

The ten students taking post graduate work from this year form the largest such class in the School of Nursing's history. In 1953 there were only two post graduate work here and in 1954 seven took part in classes.

Edith M. McDowell, Dean of the School of Nursing of the University of Western Ontario, included the following remarks in a letter to Miss M. L. Peart, director of the School of Nursing at the Belleville hospital.

"When we evaluate our program we realize we could not achieve our objectives without the assistance given to us by the good schools of nursing in providing field work experience. The three students, who were with you, say that the Belleville school is 'tops'.

"Please accept our sincere thanks for the valuable contribution which you and your teaching and supervisory staff have made to our program."

FOREIGN AID CUT

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Foreign aid came to $4,988,000,000 last year, most of it for building up the military power of America's Allies. The commerce department said Sunday this net total of gifts and loans—after subtracting loan repayments—was about one-fourth lower than in 1953.

Groundwork Laid For Softball Loop

At a meeting of the proposed Industrial Softball League held at the C.N.R.A.A. field on Sunday afternoon, Avon Jewellery was the only team expressing definite intention of entering the loop.

Chairman Harold Bawden reported a very small turnout, about six persons, but also stated that a number of other companies have shown interest and it is expected that there will be a league. Letters will be mailed out this week to all potential entries.

Another meeting has been called for next Sunday afternoon, All interested parties are asked to be at the C.N.R.A.A. field at 2.30 when more extensive plans will be made.

BABIES VS. IMMIGRANTS

When John W. Pickersgill ceased to be a civil servant and became a cabinet minister, he was greeted by a storm of criticism so loud and so prolonged that many a Canadian who did not know John from Adam developed a sneaking sympathy for the man.

It is, therefore, with sadness and dismay that a speech at Victoria, B.C., by the Honorable J. W. Pickersgill, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, forces us to revive an old refrain and inquire once again who picked Pickersgill—and why. Specifically, why was he picked for the post of Minister of Immigration?

Mr. Pickersgill said at Victoria that the best way to increase the population of Canada is by the cradle, that, "no matter where he comes from or how good he is, no immigrant is as good as another Canadian baby."

This is the type of sentiment which is guaranteed to influence people and win votes from doting mamas and papas who are Canadians, but it is not the sort of approach that is likely to be very helpful in solving the population problems of Canada and the world.

In one sense, of course, there is considerable truth in Mr. Pickersgill's statement. Not all Canadian-born babies, by any means most of them, are likely eventually to make a greater contribution to this country's future than most, but not all, immigrants. They will do so because they will have the advantage of being brought up in the Canadian way of life, of gaining without pain and without effort knowledge and attitudes which the immigrant must struggle hard and long to acquire.

But even with this qualification, Mr. Pickersgill's statement is not good enough. It is not good enough because it ignores the two most telling reasons for welcoming immigrants to Canada.

Canada has a population problem, and in a rather vague way Mr. Pickersgill appears to realize that fact and says his nature. Canada needs a bigger population. But when he prefers the cradle to immigration, Mr. Pickersgill is either suggesting that Canada's population problem is so insignificant that it can wait twenty years for a solution or else he is ignoring the Canadian-born babies a rigor of mind and body which, if they possessed it, would make them truly super-babies. Canada needs more hands and more brains to develop the nation. The immigrant can undertake this work now. The Canadian-born baby cannot—for twenty years or so.

The world also has a population problem and judging from Mr. Pickersgill's speech he does not realize this at all. The explosive force of over-population in Asia may easily prove more terrible and more destructive than the H-bomb. Canada will not accept Asiatics, in any significant quantity, as immigrants. The Canadian people would not tolerate a change in this policy. But if we accept immigrants from Europe we may be helping to create a climate of opinion and international conditions which may help to avoid the occurrence on many occasions in man's past history. The realist may argue that such a policy gives small hope for any peaceable solution to the world's population problem and the realist would probably be correct. But, at least, the policy does not lessen the possibility of such a solution.

In short, Mr. Pickersgill ought to be said that, after stating his preference for Canadian babies over immigrants, he added that immigrants were still needed because there were not enough babies. Most people, though, will be able to recognize the difference between accepting immigrants because our cradles are not rocking fast enough and welcoming immigrants because they are essential if we are to solve today our most pressing national problem and because their emigration across the seas may help to some alight help in solving over-population problems in other continents.

CANADA'S ELASTIC DOLLAR

Fluctuations in the exchange value of the Canadian dollar are properly regarded as one of the major obstacles to this country's export trade. Prudent folk don't like doing business with a country whose currency may be worth more or less tomorrow than it is today.

It is because of the fluctuations in the value of the Canadian dollar that many countries with which Canada trades demand that payments be made to this country be paid for not with Canadian but with U.S. dollars.

Nobody wants to see a return to foreign exchange control and a fixed exchange rate. There is, however, a simple way out of the difficulty. It is for the people of Canada to manifest a willingness to buy or sell gold in unlimited quantities at a fixed price, as is done in the United States. The consequences of such a policy would be threefold. First, the penalty of the premium on the Canadian dollar now imposed on exporters would be removed. Second, the bonus enjoyed by foreign countries now exploiting the Canadian domestic market would be eliminated. Third, the fluctuations in the value of the Canadian dollar would disappear and it would be as stable a currency as that of the United States.

NO INVITATIONS

It is a proud boast of the Canadian people that it extends a warm welcome to visitors and strangers. But correspondent recently in Oslo reports meeting a young Norwegian who had come to Montreal to study engineering. During his years at McGill he was never once invited to a Canadian student's home. (Montreal Star.)

UNCONQUERABLE

A dandelion laughs at men,
It sees them bend to dig it out,
Sits for the evening breeze, and then
Blows seeds by thousands 'round about.

The presence plainly is displayed
With blooms of petals, solid gold,
Where the seeds for more are laid,
So man and woman isn't told.

From any lawn dig them away;
Their roots with poisoned hill,
But twice their number in a day
The spots they occupied will fill.

The power of men they can outlast.
The dandelions seem to know
No one can cut them down or fast
As fresh replacements they can grow.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 18, 1935

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Deacon are spending a few days in Toronto and will be in Windsor for Easter.

Mrs. Cecil Kinnear, who is relieving at Napanee branch of the Dominion Bank, will spend the Easter holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Charles St.

Miss Kathryn Gallagher, who is attending the Library School in Toronto this month, is home to spend Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, Bridge St., and family, will spend Easter with the latter's parents in Hanover, Ontario.

Mrs. W. Fletcher, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James MacDonald, Cedar St.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Slater, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Morley Fanning, will spend Easter in Mount Forest. Mr. Slater was manager of the Dominion Bank in Mount Forest for some years.

Constable Percy Anderson of the Federal Legal Department, Ottawa, is here to spend Easter with his mother, Mrs. Isabella Anderson.

Mrs. James McConnell and her daughter, Evelyn, at North Bay, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Street.

This week the anniversary of the birthdays of both Laureen and Lois Gibson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gibson, a party is being held in their honor. There is a difference of nine years in their ages, but it so happened that our little friends were born on date in the month of April.

30 YEARS AGO

APRIL 18, 1925

The local YMCA circus was a great success.

In a bowling match at the YMCA alleys last night the Bell Bowlers defeated the Recreation Alleys team, the score being: Bells (scratch) Walter Gibson, a party is being held in their honor. There is a difference of nine years in their ages, but it so happened that our little friends were born on date in the month of April.

Bells (handicap 50) — Gray 171; McLean 801; Scott 459; Symons 615; Liberty 515. Recreation (handicap 50) — Lynch 515; Yeres 597; Doran 532; Donnelly 523. Most of the Bowlers rolled a single game of 300 and a three game total of 659.

Miss K. Diamond, Dunbar St. has returned home from Miami, Florida, where she spent the winter.

Mr. Thomas Blaind is home from Rochester, N.Y., on a visit to relatives.

Mr. Harold Sloan spent a few days recently with his parents at Port Dover.

Mr. and Mrs. Peacock of Vancouver, B.C., are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McGie, Bridge St. East.

40 YEARS AGO

APRIL 18, 1915

Ten dogs have been registered and tag and it is the city up to date. This is sure a small beginning.

Mrs. W. Mathison, Pine St, has returned home after visiting friends in Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Miss Maud Campbell is attending the spring millinery style show in Toronto.

The Crowe Lake Iron Company is preparing to commence milling operations at the McGrath property north of Crowe Lake.

The city council has been requested to join other municipalities in petitioning Ontario Legislature to introduce Daylight Saving Time.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 18, 1906

The Corby Limited — At a meeting of the city council the mayor presented a communication from Mr. H. Corby, M.P., in which he informed the mayor that if agreeable to the council, he would present to the city a lot on William Street, between Bridge Street and Queen Street, with frontage also on Ann Street, conditional the council would accept the same and agree to keep it in order as a park. It was resolved to gratefully accept Mr. Corby's generous offer and the clerk was instructed to convey to him the council's thanks in the name of all citizens.

Mr. A. A. Richardson of Deseronto, was in town today.

Some time during last night a stone was thrown through the large plate glass window in the front of the Hastings Loan Co. on the north side of Bridge St. East, near Pinnacle St.

Miss Clara V. Frost, elocutionist of this city, will give recitals in Whitby and Oshawa this week.

Circus and UN Much Alike

(Christian Science Monitor)

Maybe we've been going at this thing wrong, all because we imagine there's only one United Nations. Now, what about that other international organization currently in session at New York's Madison Square Garden?

Of course, it's the "greatest show on earth." For solving national problems, a Russian rider once remarked, there is nothing more potent than a circus, except horsepower. It would be interesting to see what Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's could do with out international affairs.

It has long had plenty of its own to deal with which arise from its cosmopolitan personnel. But such problems, at any rate, point out, stems not only from the fact that the circus has always been a sort of United Nations. There is also a similarity as between circus required in the two types of organization, and there are certain subjects which might be dealt with by either.

Tightrope walking is an obvious example of shrewd skill, and juggling is juggling whether with bright balls or colored words; playing with a bear, a trainer accepts coexistence at least tentatively; and might not the man who has performed successfully with a team of horses be considered a master of ceremonies?

Sees Highway Mess Coming

(Washington Post and Times-Herald)

There seems some question whether even the proposed superhighway system will be adequate for the super-super cars of the future.

In fact, a motoring stalemate appears inevitable. For if cars continue to elongate, they'll have to move bumper to bumper on highways as well as on city streets, and their ever greater horsepower will have to be kept throttled while their drivers hook themselves into mass nervous breakdowns.

This depressing vision is occasioned by the unveiling of the Wiley, New York traffic commissioner, that any further increase in size and power of motor cars would be "sheer madness."

Car manufacturers, he says, have gone on a "big-car, high-horsepower jag."

Let's see, now, if we can't shoot out of a cannon at every performance have a personal word to say about disarmament?

The only way to find out is to have the two organizations swap jobs. If this didn't solve the world's problems it might at least disclose unsuspected talents among individuals on both sides of the canvas curtain.

Printer Not Surprised

(Wall Street Journal)

The other day the Senate received a bill with the title of which began with this word: charalampocostasidagin.

It turned out the measure was a relief bill to permit a shipping executive named Costas Charalampos who lives in New York to remain in his family in the United States.

The Senate was a bit embarrassed by the title but there is no record that the Government printer was at all confused. Hardly anything startles a printer, especially one who works for the Government. They've been around long enough to know the fetish we have of making words out of initials from other words, as the United Nations Economic, Scientific and Cultural Organization has become unesco.

And we don't know of a time when they are on piece work they're right happy about it. Certainly it is more apt to result out the whole title than to set such abbreviations as normal-investigated, cocoa, ammo and scale; printers aren't so fussy about such exotic and unusual combinations as sheps and sheer, unwrepose, benelux, intelsat, comsat, benelux, comincouc and cincus (which Admiral Radford is thinking of a shudder, changed to cominch after Pearl Harbor.)

The printer can see that line may have figured the gentlemen's next another international organization.

Or of course, the printer my just have been glad of the fact that the measure was a relief bill. If he'd been a printer in Washington, we'd guess, who doesn't know what fee has been going with the Government lately in the matter of unrec (U.S. relief, overseas countries.)

A printer wouldn't have to be too imaginative to figure that Mr. Stassen had discovered a country the printer had never heard of to be in dire need of aid and that Mr. Stassen had run out of cousins to find them in. Or that on the towns, like Llanfairpwllgwyngyll-gogerychwyrndrobwllllandysilliogogogoch.

We wouldn't be surprised, and there's no reason to think the printer would. We're sure Mr. Issoiffogh has been around the Senate enough to understand how this all could have come about.

Carries Lemon For Rheumatiz

(London Spectator)

"Have you ever heard of anything similar to the following?" writes a retired police officer who lives at Parkstone in Dorset.

"About 1920 the steamer at the Navigation School at Portsmouth told me that he always carried a lemon in his pocket day and night as a cure for rheumatism. I had had bad rheumatism any how it relieved him, and ordered me a peculiarly wizened-looking lemon. He then told me he leged that the goodness had gone out of them. The old Portsmouth roundsman who was out in all weathers complained to me that he had the greatest difficulty keeping circul.' Seeing that his complexion was as florid as a boiled lobster twenty-one years before I adopted his treatment and prescribed the lemon-carrying. As time progressed I thank me and tells me that I have not had a day's evil I have often heard of this cit-tus-carrying habit because two hard-headed businessmen personally demonstrated it to me.

I have vague recollections of hearing of people carrying sundry things as cut potatoes, onions and other vegetables for similar purposes, but never came across a lemon-carrier.

Aids Swallowing

A London chef accuses Americans of "eating their pie backwards." It's the wrong end, of course; a piece of pie goes down easier if you leave the thin edge of the wedge first.

Explosives Plants Safe

(North Bay Nugget)

It may startle the man-in-the-street to discover that a commercial explosive plant is one of the safest places in North America in which to work.

The National Safety Council's 1953 accident frequency rate—the number of lost-time injuries for each million man-hours worked—for all industry was 7.4 and for the chemicals industry 4.8.

The rate in the commercial explosives section of the chemical industry, however, was only 2.8, a record equalled by workers in electrical equipment manufacturing and exceeded only by those in communications.

Chicago Has Lone Tugboat

(By Robert Sawyer in the Chicago Daily News)

Chicago, slated to be the nation's No. 1 inland port on completion of the St. Lawrence seaway, has one tugboat.

She's the Chicago Sanitation No. 4, a real Toonerville trolley of Tugdom; old, well-loved and completely out of date.

She's berthed at 31st dock, huffing quietly under a full head of steam, you'd never guess no ship has been under her tow for ages.

And from her proudly lines, hewn patched and battered hull, you'd never guess at her secret past as the workhorse that helped construct vessel and central figure in many a Lake Michigan rescue epic.

She's a gallant old girl, but she is due for the scrap heap, Strombech, construction boss of the Metropolitan sanitary district, which operates the tool.

"She's outlived two skippers in the service and more."

Present skipper of the tug is Capt. Lee Stromberg, a young man who can manoeuvre his 72-foot long charge like you or I would park a car.

"Her hull's all steel," he said.

"As far as I know it was built in 1903. Nobody seems to know just how old her engine is, but they've been at it as long as they put it in her shen."

"At least for years, maybe more," is the guess of Louis Rive, chief engineer on the Chicago harbor tug. Rive's been in charge of her engine room for 33 years.

Rive talks about his boat with a curious mixture of loving pride and realistic criticism.

"She's been through is nobody's business," he said. "She has had a hard life. There isn't whatever they sent us for, we did. "She stood by and took off survivors and dead when the Eastland went down in the Chicago river.

"Lifesaving, towing, ice-breaking, you name it and she's done it. She's an ice-breaker, but she takes her hat off to none when it comes to ice, that."

"If anyone else tried to run her engine, he wouldn't last a week," said Rive as he led the way to the cramped engine room, amidships.

The engine is a triple expansion plant.

"Probably isn't a single original part left in her but the upright and pistons," he said.

"The coast guard inspectors go over her every year, but not at that.

"They do a careful and thorough job, and they wouldn't let her in the water a minute if they couldn't do exactly that.

"Well, she's done her duty, they will never get another one like her."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ENTRY IN THE BOOK OF LIFE

Forty years ago a friend and classmate of mine left this country for India as a medical missionary. He has spent his life in the operating room and a hospital. He has been called in the midst of his continuous activities, but he recovered and again went back to a full schedule.

Now he is home, permanently retired because of his health, what will he do? Will he stretch out his legs and take things easy and enjoy a well-earned leisure? No. He has not several offers because of his unusual skill as a surgeon, which would make it possible for him, with no great effort, to make two or three times the salary he received as a missionary. But his servant of God and man has decided to take a little hospital down in the southern mountains where he will be paid a small salary and given a house in which to live. "I am never interested in making money," he declares. "Here I can go on serving people who will pay me enough to live. What more do I need?" I consider it a privilege to be offered this opportunity."

He is not the first person who has talked this way and he will not be the last. He has continued to walk the earth and make the life of their suffering fellows easier. When their failures or their shortcomings pass, they shout their praises. And this is as it should be. Here on earth as reaches of heaven, God is smiling and His heart is glad.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

WHY DISSECT THE THROAT?

Certainly I have no more skill or knowledge in the matter of enlargement (hypertrophy) of the tonsils or infections of the tonsils than any doctor has or should have. On the other hand I profess to know as much about enlarged or infected tonsils as most doctors do.

Dr. Brady

The atrocious major operation called "tonsillectomy" (complete removal of the tonsil) is really only aggravated, glorified (bloody) tonsillotomy (removal of part of the tonsil), for statistics show that in most instances portions of tonsil remain in the throat after recovery — if the victim survives the tonsillectomy."

Genuine tonsillotomy—removal of the obstructing portion of the tonsil—is a minor operation, as instantaneous and as safe as extraction of a tooth, rarely if ever giving rise to serious complications or consequences.

The slim and boast of the everready operators is to maintain that "tonsillectomy gets every bit of tonsil," whereas tonsillotomy merely nicks off the "tonsil surgeon" betrays ignorance of pathology. The only conceivable justification for the attempt to "get every bit of tonsil" would be knowledge or at least suspicion that tonsil tissue is malignant or otherwise harmful or dangerous. This is absurd. Yet it is the stock sales argument of the perpetrators of tonsillectomy, despite the fact that portions of tonsil remain in the throat after the atrocity, no matter who commits it.

How many children die on the operating table or following this unwarranted operation we can only surmise, for perpetrators and the institutions where it occurs conspire to conceal the facts from the public. But in some cases the child's death is associated with "removal of the tonsils" even though the "authorities" try to blame it on "cardiac arrest," shock, hemorrhage, embolism, aspiration pneumonia, etc.

"Cardiac arrest" means simply that the heart has stopped beating. A bit of inanity that impresses some customers.

Fact is, it means that a bit of blood clot or a bit of tonsil or throat tissue got into the open vessel and is carried in the blood to lodge in lung, brain or other distant area, shutting off the circulation to the area.

Sometimes the wounds rremain lung inflammation produced by foreign matter getting into the tracheobronchial passages and lodging in the lung where it sets up inflammation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AFTERNOON SUNSHINE

Take it all in all, afternoons are usually the brightest and most mature. Mornings are often dark, cloudy and unpleasant—but in the afternoon everything clears and it's a grand day! And with one's outlook changes the spirits of us all respond. Regrets are often left of the past, couragements.

I never despair or lose hope in a day merely because its start doesn't have good signs. In my summer island I expect rain during the mornings are cloudy. Often with rain—but mostly the afternoons open up through the fog and been merely getting together the ingredients for a beautiful day.

Life's most difficult days—its darkest ones—are those through youth leading to maturity. Those are the testing days, the training days—the days in which we grow, develop, and learn to be patient, courageous and forgiving. It's during these days that we begin to be blessed and to realize our blessings as never before.

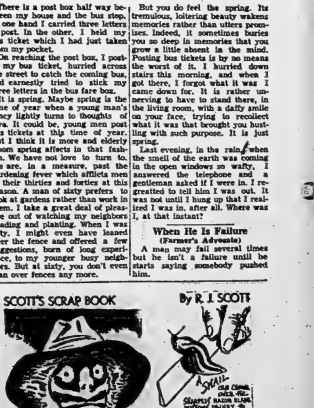
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is a post box half way between my house and the bus stop. I have had 2 cards and 1 letter to post. In the other. I held my bus ticket which I had just taken from my pocket.

On reaching the post box, I posted my bus ticket, hurried across the street to catch the coming bus, and realized with a shock that my three letters in the bus fare box.

It is spring. Maybe spring is the time I year when we are most fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love but I would be annoyed over bus tickets at this time of year. But I think it is more and elderly whom spring affects with the fever. We have not love to turn to. We are, by measure, past the age of gardening fever which afflicts men in their thirties and forties at this time of year. Men of sixty prefers to look at gardens rather than work in them. I take a great deal of pleasure out of watching my neighbors I spading and planting. When I was fifty, I might even have leaned over the fence and offered a few suggestions, born of long experience, to my younger busy neighbors. But at sixty, you don't even lean over fences any more.



But you do feel the spring. Its tremulous, loitering beauty wakens memories and makes sitters spouses. Indeed, it sometimes buries you so deep in memories that you have a little trouble finding them. Posting bus tickets is by no means the worst of it. I hurried down stairs this morning, and when I got there, I forgot what it was I had come down for. I am unnerving to have to stand there, in the front room with a stupid smile on your face, trying to recollect what it was that brought you hurrying with such purpose. It is just spring.

In the evening, in the rain, when the smell of the earth was coming in the open window, and once I answered the telephone and a gentleman asked if I were in. I reluctantly to tell him I was out. I was not until I hung up that I realized I was in, after all. Where was I, at that instant?

Scouters' Club Will Present Parents' Night

MIDDLETON PARK — "Parents' Night" to be held on April 22 in the sports hall at Station Trenton, was the main topic under discussion at the monthly meeting of the RCAF Scouters' Club.

A complete evening of entertainment has been planned for the parents. The Cubs and Scouts will be doing skits and will have on display several articles of handicraft, to show their parents what has been learned in Cubbing and Scouting.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the ceremonies.

Trenton, Belleville and surrounding district Scouters and all interested people are invited to attend. Opening ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m.

At the World Scouting Jamboree, which will be held this fall at Niagara-on-the-Lake, will be three European Scouts sponsored by the group committee of the First Airforce Scouts and Cubs of Middleton Park.

The Canadian National Exhibition will be hosts this fall to all the Cubs and Scouts at the jamboree on "Boy Scouts' Day."

Assuming duties at 6-RD Station as an armorer, is LAC R. Oehrich. LAC Oehrich is now residing at 39-B McGill Ave., in Middleton Park, with his wife, Edith, and their three children, Kenneth, eight years old; Regina, six years old, and baby Nardo, who is 15 months old. LAC Oehrich, formerly of British Columbia, joined the Airforce in March of 1954, and received his armament training at RCA Station Borden.

Gibbard Plant At Napanee Still Picketed

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—Picketing at the Gibbard Furniture Company plant here continued today as a walkout by about half the plant's labor force entered its third week.

The company is continuing operation with about 70 employees. About 70 employees are on strike.

Settlement negotiations between the company and the United Mine Workers (CCL) broke down Friday. Another meeting has been set for April 25.

The union is asking an increase of 15 cents an hour and fringe benefits which company officials say would cost another 14 cents. They also seek a closed shop.

Ben Doherty of Toronto, acting as union steward, arrested last week after a flare-up with police over parking rights, is scheduled to appear in court April 28.

PROMOTE QUEEN'S CHAPLAIN

LONDON (AP) — Rev. Robert Wright Stopford today was named Bishop of Fulham, a post which includes supervision over all Anglican churches in 26 European countries. He succeeds Rt. Rev. George Ernest Ingle, who earlier this month was nominated Bishop of Willesden. Bishop Stopford has been chaplain to the Queen and honorary canon of Canterbury Cathedral.

Public Mischief Charge Is Laid Against Youth

KENDAL, Ont. (CP) — A man who told police he was shot at while driving two weeks ago was charged during the weekend with being a public mischief.

William Jackson, 21, of Kendal, will appear in court at Bowmanville Tuesday. He was released on bail.

Jackson told police he received a threatening letter after five bullets pierced his car as he drove along a country road, but police found no clues at the scene of the alleged shooting. Kendal is 20 miles northeast of Oshawa.

Ontario provincial police at Bowmanville said Sunday night Jackson had changed his story as to how the bullet holes were made in his car.

Police earlier said they thought the driver was not in the car at the time.

Whiting Family Of Collins Bay Cares for Geese

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The Canada goose is no mere postage stamp picture to the Whiting family of Collins bay—it's almost a member of the family.

In fact, there are three Canada geese in the backyard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Whiting and their one-year-old daughter, less than 10 miles west of here. Together with two wood ducks, two mallards and one black duck they are year-round guests.

It started six years ago in a swamp six miles north of Collins bay where the Whitings found Blackie, the first of the goose family, stuck fast. They brought him home, cleaned him up and fed him for the winter.

Blackie has shown no signs of ending his pleasant stay.

The Whitings bought Valentine from a man near Kingsville, because they thought Blackie was lonely. So far there have been no happy events. The third goose, Abbey, was given to them after being shot in the wing.

The rest of the bird family came to the Whitings from neighbors, two having been found in muskrat traps.

Grain Handlers Disregard Plea To Resume Work

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A suggestion Sunday night by government mediator Eric Taylor that 1,200 striking grain handlers at the Lakehead go back to work until talks can be held with company officials was disregarded today.

Finnish Woman Is Adjudicator Drama Festival

OTTAWA (CP) — Gerda Wrede, a leading theatrical director in Finland, today was named the first woman adjudicator of the Dominion Drama Festival.

All 27 theatrical groups which won regional festivals across Canada will compete in the Regina final, May 9-14, for a number of trophies and cash awards totalling $1,000.

Mrs. Wrede, a prominent actress, director and drama teacher in Europe, is assistant managing director of the Swedish Theatre in Helsinki. Finland, a bilingual country, has a Swedish - speaking minority with its own national theatre.

Her appointment as adjudicator of the final was announced by Richard MacDonald of Ottawa, national director of the Dominion Drama Festival.

20 YEARS A DIRECTOR

For the last 20 years, Mrs. Wrede has worked as a director in Finland and other Scandinavian countries in which she toured with her Swedish Theatre Company.

Fluent in English and French, she has produced plays by Shakespeare, Tennessee Williams, Thornton Wilder, Clifford Odets, J. B. Priestley, Somerset Maugham, Noel Coward, Giraudoux, Marcel Aucolin and other French playwrights.

In recognition of her work she has received the Finlandia Medal of the Lion Order of Finland and the Pro Medal of the Royal Swedish Vasa Order. She will arrive in Regina May 8. And following the festival will conduct a two-day seminar for directors of all the regional winners.

Siberia's Slave Laborers Staged Revolt Last May

MAIZURU, Japan (AP) — More than 150,000 slave laborers revolted against their Russian guards in Siberian forced labor camps last May, a Japanese repatriate said today.

The Russians restored order only after machine-gunning many of the protesting laborers," the newspaper Tokyo Shimbun quotes Minoru Okada, 42.

Okada was one of 88 Japanese who returned today aboard the repatriation ship Koan Maru from Soviet ports.

Okada said the rebellion started simultaneously in scores of compounds in the huge Nalisk forced labor camp, in north central Siberia.

"The workers threw down their tools, raised black flags to protest brutal treatment by Russian guards and refused to work," Okada said.

The wave of rebellion swept to other slave labor camps at Karaganda in Karakstan state, Okada said.

He reported the refusal to work lasted almost a month at Nalisk.

Kyodo news service said other repatriates reported at least 200 slave laborers were killed and 180 injured at Karaganda.

The repatriates said most of the laborers were Russians and central Europeans from nations now behind the Iron Curtain.

One repatriate, who refused to be quoted by name, said 2,000 slave laborers—"mostly Lithuanian Estonian and Latvian POWs—are being forced to mine uranium for Russia's atomic weapons program in the Kolyma river valley," in east Siberia.

Pickersgill Explains View About Babies

WINNIPEG (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill stepped off the Dominion of Canada car at the Canadian Pacific Railway station here Saturday and said the whole thing is all very silly.

The Canadian-born minister was referring to the reaction to his "baby versus immigrant" statement in Victoria last week.

In an interview here during a short stopover, Mr. Pickersgill said he would not go so far as to say he was misquoted. He just was not quoted fully.

Mr. Pickersgill was reported as saying at Victoria that the best way to increase Canada's population is "by the cradle."

"I don't believe any immigrant is no matter where he comes from, or how good he is . . . is as good as another Canadian baby," he said.

PROPER PERSPECTIVE

At Toronto, George Hees, president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, termed the minister's statement "a masterpiece of arrogance and stupidity."

The minister said that if one considered his whole statement, one saw the thing in its proper perspective.

What I really said was that we wanted to increase the population of the country. For that purpose, if they were equally good people, I didn't believe any immigrant no matter how good he was or where he came from was as good as another Canadian baby because we thought people in this country to become Canadian—and the babies were Canadians to start with."

He said, the birth rate is not high enough to increase the population as fast as is desirable. Therefore the government had to encourage the next best thing—the entry of the "best kind" of immigrants.

He received the Nobel prize in physics in 1921 and the world heaped honors and adulation upon the modest scientist, who pleaded:

"Let every man be respected as an individual and no man idolized. It is an irony of fate that I myself have been the recipient of excessive admiration and respect from my fellows through no fault of my own."

A professor emeritus of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, Einstein spent the last years of his life in the university community.

He came to Princeton as a lifetime member of the institute in 1933, a voluntary exile from his native Germany, where the Nazis listed him as "an enemy of the state."

During recent years, Einstein took stands on issues far removed from the realm of theoretical physics. He once was compelled to do so by his "passionate sense of social justice and social responsibility."

ARDENT ZIONIST

He headed a group of nationally-prominent scientists who combined the Emergency Committee of Atomic Scientists. The organization was formed "to advance the use of atomic energy in ways beneficial to mankind."

An ardent Zionist, Einstein was among those, who, after the Second World War urged the free entry of Jews into Palestine and establishment of a democratic Jewish commonwealth in that country.

In a message to the World College of Intellects at Warsaw in 1948, Einstein advocated a "supranational organization" to own what he called "horrible weapons" devised in recent years.

The professor was granted the Wendell Willkie "one world award" for 1948 "because he gave the world more than a new conception of the cosmos."

"In an age in which the ivory tower was the accepted intellectual home for scientists, he recognized that scientists, like every man, are involved in mankind, and cannot avoid taking a stand on the great moral issues of the time," the award citation said.

The life of this amazing intellectual giant was simple and modest. His disdain for personal glory and material gain were almost a legend. His baggy-clad figure, a pipe perpetually in his mouth, and his long shaggy white hair and mustache, made him instantly recognizable almost anywhere in the world.

In his leisure Einstein loved to play the violin, and to go sailing.

Einstein was married twice, first in 1903 to Milieva Maric, a Serbian Catholic whom he later divorced. They had two sons, Albert and Edouard. The second marriage, in 1915, was to Elza Einstein, his first cousin, who bore him two daughters, Ilse, who died in 1934, and Margot.

After his second wife's death in 1936, Einstein lived a secluded life in Princeton with his daughter Margot, and his housekeeper-secretary, Miss Helen Dukas.

BAPTISMAL RITE

During the Sunday morning service at the Tabernacle United Church, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald G. Moorman was baptized by the Reverend R. A. Rowley, receiving the name of Paul Douglas.

A baptismal dinner was later served in several guests at the home of the parents. Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Moorman, paternal grandparents of Paul Douglas, and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Martyn, of Belleville R.R. 2, maternal grandparents, the Misses Dorothy and Lois Moorman, aunts of the baby, and Mr. Rise Martyn, uncle; Miss Shirley Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Whitfield, and daughter Patsy, and son, Robjoy; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Mooney and sons David and Clinton; and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Denton, all of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Carman Frost, of Belleville, R.R. No. 2.

Bride-to-Be Presented With Many Gifts

On Friday evening, Mrs. Walter Chisholm, Roslin, entertained around 30 guests at a delightfully arranged shower in honor of Mrs. Douglas Reid (nee Norma Bates), bride of the month.

The rooms were nicely decorated with streamers and wedding bells and bouquets of cut flowers. The guest of honor was seated under a fancy umbrella to which were attached balloons, showering the pretty bride with confetti.

Contests were enjoyed during the evening.

The bride was presented with a baby carriage filled with gifts. After unwrapping the parcels, she most graciously expressed her thanks to her many friends.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, bringing a pleasant evening to a close. All joined in wishing Norma and Doug many years of happiness.

Tabernacle W.M.S. Enjoys Talk on 'Easter'

The Easter thank offering meeting of the W.M.S. of the Tabernacle United Church was held in the S.S. auditorium on Tuesday afternoon and was in the form of a potluck luncheon. Each member had been asked to bring a guest.

Mrs. May presided at the meeting following the luncheon with Mrs. Coon as social convener.

A hymn was sung in memory of Mrs. Adamson, a member who passed away recently.

There were 15 members present and eight visitors.

Mrs. Wightman favored with a solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," accompanied by Mrs. M. P. Dulf at the piano.

The worship service was taken by Mrs. May and Mrs. Fisher. The theme and visitors taking part in responses.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. May introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Packman, of Stirling, who presented an interesting and inspiring talk on "Easter." She told of many festivals in different lands. There are many religious and secular festivals. The festival of spring, the festival of light, and many more. As Christians, the Easter festival seems best of all, but children, Christmas was the best, but now Christ's crucifixion and resurrection mean even more.

The coming of spring after the winter is a fitting end to the Easter festival.

"We have so much to be thankful for, in that we have good homes and also have our church. There are many, even in Canada, who have no church and need men and women to teach and work with these people. When a student minister preaches in many of these places there are no services until he comes back in the spring again, after leaving in the fall."

The speaker spoke of the prominent part women took at the time of the Lord's death and resurrection. They stayed by the cross when all the disciples, save John, had forsaken Him. They were first at the tomb. One woman was first to see Christ to know Him, and was the first to tell the glad news to the others.

"In the cross we see the sins of the world.
In the cross we see the love of God."

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Woodward.

Women's Activities

BAYSIDE W.M.S.

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was hostess to the ladies of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society with the second vice-president, Mrs. Clifton Bush, presiding over the Easter meeting, the theme being "Christ, the Hope of the World." Quiet music was played by the pianist followed by prayer by Mrs. Bush.

Mrs. Rush and Mrs. George Bilham read excerpts from the "World Council of Churches" meeting held last summer which opened with "God summons the Church of Jesus Christ today to speak plainly about hope." Prayers and responses closed the work-skip service.

Mrs. Rush gave an interesting account of the afternoon session of the Belleville Presbyterial convention held at Picton. Mrs. Lorne Hunt reported on the evening session.

Mrs. Ritchie Ketcheson reported that the Institutes of West Hastings are sending a tractor and plow to India as their project for this year.

There was one new member and two visitors.

The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Tabernacle Men's Club Holds Spectacular Spring Bonnet Tea

The "Spring Bonnet Tea" sponsored by the Men's Club of Tabernacle United Church on Saturday afternoon in the church parlors was both spectacular and hilarious. So well were the members of the club "transformed" that one was hard put to discern the counterfeit from the genuine. In many instances the accustomed manly stride only belied their general appearance.

For the occasion, the auditorium's six pillars were entwined with pastel-tinted bands of pink and green; while baskets of wild rice (or was it wild oats?) and red and yellow feather-like princess feather added its colorful note. In the far corner a pretty, white, lattice arbor designated the candy booth, in charge of N. Robb, who was gowned in a brief, polka dotted knee-length ensemble with yellow hat and brown veil.

He was assisted by F. Douglas, who wore a frothing outfit in navy blue with white, flower-trimmed hat.

RECEIVING LINE

Those in the receiving line included: the Reverend R. A. Rowley, dignified and graceful in grey Chantilly lace with matching feather hat; L. Reid in blue with matching floral bonnet, and E. Schlievert, who also wore blue with wide, red satin sash, white hat and scarlet, Christmas cracker; and earrings, and L. Andrews in a cream brocaded silk creation with evening cloak; black picture hat which brought out the vivid red of his crowning glory. The pearl earring lent a peculiar charm as well as the graceful walk.

Near at hand were the treasurers for the afternoon, A. D. Archibald, a perfect Samantha Allen, "Josh Allen's Wife," in black dress and 100-year-old lace cape with matching bonnet, and Captain J. Buchanan also in a black, lace-trimmed gown with white picture hat and costume jewellery of pearls, bracelet and earrings.

POURING TEA

Presiding at the tea table, with its hand-crocheted lace cloth, centred by an arrangement of wild rice and princess feather, flanked by tall, yellow candles in crystal holders were: The Reverend W. J. Robinson, rector of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, the Reverend H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church; The Reverend Everett Smith, assistant rector Christ Church, and L. Field.

A. Touchie, president of the club, was resplendent in blue with matching bonnet.

Those who served included: F. Shane, wearing a green silk gown, black cape lined with black and white polka dots, black felt hat tipped at a jaunty angle; the whole accented by gold costume jewellery. Strapped slippers completed his ensemble.

G. Priest was in red with black hat; H. McBride also wore red with matching red bonnet-hat; N. Howard, copperfish in his pink ensemble featuring a two-tiered skirt and picture hat; J. Babiak was in blue with mustard colored shortie coat, red turban bordered with little yellow chicks, topped his long, red hair (his silky sheen, eh, slush). P. Alexander wore a natty, wine-colored velvet outfit; M. Hancock, a perfect 36, manifested the Dior silhouette in his black, sequin-trimmed crepe, with black picture hat and brown fur; with red rose corsage; R. Delaney chose navy blue with plaid trim and chic little hat; A. Fitch was in mauve with dark jacket; P. Kerr was in black, and R. Irwin, also in black with ermine stole and black hat veil, was a perfect dowager, haughty and what-have-you look.

REPLENISHING

Those replenishing the dainty plates of mouth-watering sandwiches, and little cakes which maintained their erstwhile delicious lightness were: H. Bailey in black crepe and lace with red blouse and matching red hat; J. Shillery consisted of a pearl bracelet, and one of antique design, one on each arm; E. Taylor was gowned in black with red satin neck scarf, black hat with red rose trim, and R. Schuilet, whose snow-white hair was topped by a blue bonnet which he wore with a black ensemble.

Those who assisted in the kitchen were not in costume. These were G. Francis, W. Salisbury and R. Johnston.

Soft music was rendered by the choral group, Mr. Paul Truman, which provided a delightful atmosphere to a most colorful "Spring Tea."

Appreciative thanks are tendered to the convener, Mr. A. Nayler, and to Mrs. Nayler, his assistant for their untiring supervision; to A. Touchie, the co-convener, and to all the other "ladies," whose fun-loving natures helped in the outstanding success of this event.

Bethlehem Shrine Installs Officers

In an atmosphere of great beauty and grace the officers of Bethlehem Shrine of Jerusalem, No. 11, were installed on Wednesday evening in the IOOF hall.

Amidst white pillars, entwined with green four-leaf clovers, Mrs. Emily Stevens was installed as Worthy High Priestess for 1955-56 by Mrs. Stella Elvidge, PWHP, and Mr. John Pinch, PWOS. Also assisting as installing officers were: Worthy scribe, Mrs. Margaret Cherrie, PWHP; Worthy chaplain, Mrs. Essie Nayler, PWHP; Worthy herald, Mrs. Barbara Reed, PWHP; Worthy organist, Mrs. Ruby Fleming, PWHP; Worthy soloist, Mrs. Anna Solomon; Worthy guardian, Mrs. Ethel Stewart, PWHP; inviting herald, Mrs. Mabel Yott, PWHP.

During the installation ceremonies Mrs. Solomon of Brighton added greatly to the beauty of the installation by singing "My Task" at the altar, and "The Lord's Prayer," while the Worthy High Priestess, Mrs. Stevens, was escorted to her office and presented with red roses by her husband. Also during a lovely floral ceremony, "In the Garden," by the W. Shepherdess, W. Guide and W. Chaplain.

Sol. Helena Darvell was escorted to the east end of the hall and presented with her past officer's jewel by Sol. Maude Elliott, PWHP.

Sol. Jesse Reid was also escorted to the east and presented with in his past officer's jewel by Sol. Herbert Reed, PWOS.

Officers of Bethlehem White Shrine of Jerusalem for 1955-56 are:

Worthy High Priestess, Mrs. Emily Stevens; Watchman of Shepherds, Thomas Lloyd; Noble Prophetess, Mrs. Violet Slavin; Asso. Watchman of Shepherds, Clifford Smith; Worthy Scribe, Mrs. Margaret Helen; Worthy Treasurer, Mrs. Grace Lazenby; Worthy Chaplain, Mrs. Maude Patrick; Worthy Shepherdess, Mrs. Mary Harris; Worthy Guide, Mrs. Mary Hamer; Worthy Herald, Mrs. Glayds Grey; 1st Wiseman, Arthur Nayler, PWOS; 2nd Wiseman, Oswald Newton; 3rd Wiseman, Wm. Adams, PWOS; King, Dr. Grant Fraser; Queen, Mrs. Martha Armstrong; 1st Hand Maiden, Mrs. Gage Smith; 2nd Hand Maiden, Mrs. Ann Fisher; 3rd Hand Maiden, Mrs. Nora MacDonald; Worthy Organist, Mrs. Lulu Adams; Worthy Guardian, Mrs. Vera Lough; Worthy Guard, Arthur Archard; flag bearer, Mrs. Janet Williamson; escorts, Mrs. Molly York and Mrs. Violet Harkins; banner bearer, Mrs. Glenna Black; escorts, Mrs. Gladys McFaul and Mrs. Mary Drummond; courier, Mrs. Mary Stalker; matron of honor, Mrs. Henrietta Archard; flower girl, Mrs. Caroline Smith; press reporter, Mrs. M. Drummond.

Guests were present from Shrines from Port Hope to Kingston.

Following the installation a sumptuous supper, under the convenorship of Meadames Kay Bushell and Nell Cathcart, with individual favors for the guests, was thoroughly enjoyed.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A FATHER BEHAVES FOOL-ISHLY WITH HIS SON'S WIFE

"I have, perhaps, one of the hardest problems to solve that a wife and mother can face," a letter reads.

"Our son, who returned from army service some time ago, brought his new wife into our home. Everything was fine for awhile, until my husband's undue devotion to his son's wife was noticed by me and, I am afraid, by the boy himself.

"I found out a long time ago—that is, since he reached that 'last fling' age—that my husband is quite a ladies' man, and I have become used to his childish behavior with other women and mostly young girls. But when it comes to his own son's wife, it was too much, and I finally helped the young couple to get a place for themselves to live away from our home.

"However, every time we get together, it is the same thing all over. I am quite sure that my daughter-in-law loves our son, but she seems so anxious for these attentions from my husband that it has me worried. I might add that his behavior toward our other daughter-in-law is not at all natural and normal as it should be. Also, I am afraid that our son will lose all respect for his father, and it is hard enough anyhow for me to feel the love and respect for my husband which I once had, and should have. In fact, I find myself hating for him growing less all the time."

There is at least one fortunate thing about the distressing situation. This is, that the wife has enough consideration to realize that her husband is going through "that 'last fling' age," as she puts it, in which men, and even women never quite grew up do indulge. Since she realizes this, my first suggestion is that she go a step further and try to remember that this "last fling" is usually merely a phase through which a man passes—and, as a rule, a brief one which he remains for the rest of his life. In other words, if he has been a satisfactory husband in the past, he is almost certain to come to his senses and be a satisfactory husband in the future.

Admittedly, while he is going through the phase, it hardly makes it any less difficult for his wife to know that he prefers to run around out of it, but at least it should give her a little hope.

Now for the specific problem of the husband's adolescent behavior toward his new daughter-in-law.

What seems to me might be the most practical approach to the matter would be for the wife to have a very frank talk with her son about it. Since she believes that the young man has noticed the foolish heyday that goes on between his father and his friend, she should come as no shock to him to have his mother speak of it. The point in doing so would be for his mother to suggest that he take it up, briefly but definitely, with his wife, which I believe would be more effective than for either the son or his mother to speak to the father about it.

It is not at all unlikely that the girl herself, being a new member of the family, is merely trying, in a mistaken way, to have her father-in-law like her and feel she is in good sport. She may not even like the way he acts toward her, but does not know how to put a stop to it without creating a coolness between them. If you think it likely, that he thinks it would be a good idea if she would pass the whole thing off as a joke and gently discourage her father-in-law's silliness, the whole thing would probably be quickly solved. It might be that, if the girl were sensible enough to handle it wisely, the father-in-law's eyes might be opened to the foolishness of his whole attitude toward other women and so begin to reach the end of his middle-aged "fling".

I suggest the mother give this plan real thought, carefully considering just what she will say to her son and how she will say it. She should avoid making it seem a tremendous and embarrassing problem, even though she feels that it is. But the more casual she can be about it as she discusses it with her son, the better it will be for all concerned.

Mother's Helper

By Alexander D. Fraser

SOMETIMES it's important to keep a fairly accurate check on how much your child drinks in a day. Every time he downs any liquid, pour an equal amount of water in a jar. Filling the jar is a game for him, too. If he must be encouraged to drink, encourage this. It's Special Treatment for Him.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

TEEN-AGE COMPLEXION CARE

Each age seems to have its own beauty problems. The one most common in youth is poor complexion.

Sebaceous glands are most active in the early teens and pour forth more oil than the skin needs to keep it soft and smooth. The oil hardens in the pores, attracts atmospheric dust. In time the pores may be stretched to the breaking point, invaded by germs move in, and pustules result.

The wise step is to take the child to a physician who specializes in treatment of diseases of the skin and scalp. In its early stages acne can often be checked. When it becomes chronic, the infections having burrowed deep into the flesh, it may prove difficult to overcome.

Treatment includes a strict diet that will normalize the function of the delicate glands.

Fat is the arch enemy of the youthful complexion. Fried foods must be avoided, butter cut down to the minimum. Fruit should be substituted for pastries. The child should drink a quart of milk each day, but the top cream should be removed. Chocolate should be completely eliminated from the diet.

If blackheads have just appeared and there are no eruptions, home treatment may be successful. Soap must be used freely. It is a good idea to use a complexion brush, especially made for the purpose, with which to rub the face and neck—not irritating, but so firm they will not bend when moistened.

The brush should be used with upward rotary motions. Suds should be frictioned in beside the wings of the nostrils, a favorite lodging place for blackheads.

After a warm rinsing, hot, moist applications should be applied. They will soften the wax-like plugs in the pores. If these are to be removed, they should not be pressed out with the fingers, but a comdone extractor used. These can be purchased at any drug store. On a small piece of metal is a tiny opening. It is placed over the blackhead, gentle pressure employed. No scars result.

THE FLOWER VASE IN THE LIVING ROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister says it is not correct for me to have empty flower vases in my living room. Is she right about this — M.C.

That depends on the kind of vases. If a vase has a charming decorative personality, it may be displayed in a living room or any other room, either with or without flowers. But if a vase is merely a "flower container," an obviously practical but not a decorative item, it should be kept in a closet when not in use to hold flowers; or its non-decorative quality may be concealed by using it to hold ivy leaves or branches of greenery.

PURSE WITH HANDLES MOST CONVENIENT FOR BRIDE'S MOTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We've had a family discussion about the purse or bag best for my mother to carry at my formal church wedding and large reception. Mother has a quite handsome, rather large, flat faille envelope afternoon purse which she likes very much. She would like to carry this. She is trying to persuade her to carry my embroidered silk afternoon bag, which has very convenient handles, not too long. Her costume is all ready except this one item, and perhaps you think this is a very small detail to make such a fuss about. But I think the handled bag would be so very much more convenient for her to carry, both in the church and particularly during the receiving at the reception. What do you think? S.R.

Indeed I don't think this is too small an item to "make a fuss about." For I've noticed many a mother-of-the-bride who has had a member to hold onto a flat purse, when a purse with handles would have freed both her hands for all the handshaking and embracing that take place at a wedding reception. I strongly advise the embroidered silk purse with the convenient handles.

Miss R. Watson Talks to W.M.S. On Formosa

The Easter thank-offering meeting of St. Andrew's Church Missionary Society met Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance.

The president, Mrs. Weir, opened the meeting with an Easter message and prayer and welcomed the CGIT girls and Explorers group who were guests. A warm welcome was also extended to Rev. and Mrs. MacLean.

A business period followed with reports given by Mrs. Fleming, secretary, and Mrs. Diamond, treasurer. Also letters of thanks were read.

The CGIT girls conducted an impressive worship service. Sharon MacDonald gave two poems, and led in prayer. The Scripture was read by Gail Robinson and an Easter story given by Diane Tyrill.

Easter hymns were sung and the Explorers gave a reading, each girl reciting a verse. This was followed by the singing of the hymn, "This is My Father's House."

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker of the afternoon was Miss Ruth Watson, who took the group on an imaginary trip down a street in Formosa. Her talk was so vivid and interesting that one could almost feel the great need of help there.

This month prayers are for Miss Carol Chan, who returns to her home in Formosa to work among her people.

Miss Mabel Craig favored with a solo, also Mrs. Brisbin and Mrs. Cowie, a duet which was much appreciated. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Fleming.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Oh Happy, Happy Wedding Day!

By Mary Moore

As I type this, friends, it is three days after the big day and soon to put saw the picture of the bridal pair cutting the wedding cake, which Marianne made, flanked by the two proud mothers, so you did have a glimpse of the event.

If you will forgive me for talking straight from the heart I will give you a few highlights from the ceremony and reception.

To begin with Herbie and his mother and sister made the 8:30 a.m. drive in three days, picking up his brother Bob at Ann Arbor before re-entering Canada. Great was the rejoicing for on the following night was Marianne's graduation dance, and after being escorties for seven months that was a big event.

During the next five days our house was a hive of industry, excitement, gift arrivals and unwrappings, meals, shopping, talking far into the night. At 12:01 a.m. April 5th Herbie gave Marianne the string of pearls she wore with her wedding gown and she gave him a camera to be used on their wedding trip to England.

The day dawned through that wedding day until 7 p.m. I'll never know. I was lost without Marianne for all the girls — little and big bridesmaids — met at my sister's house to dress because mine was full of tall handsome young men. Doris tells me though that the nurse-baits were old as well as character for at 5:30 p.m., stark naked she discovered her scrubbing the kitchen floor with Dutch cleanser bath!

My brother drove Marianne and Pete (who gave her away) and I up to the portals of the church at 6:30 p.m. and the ushers were full of bridesmaids in bouffant powder-blue gowns and tall white-tie-and-tall-clad ushers. It was fun to hear them arguing, in a gentlemanly way of course, about who should take me down the aisle. My nephew Brian smiled as sweetly he won.

Our lovely new church was full, and they tell me the gallery was too. Once I was seated my cousin, Muriel Scheerle, sang "Love Never Faileth". We were enchanted when she finished. Then in through the side door came Herbie in full uniform and, Bob and Mr. Carlson the minister. Freddie Pullitt, a childhood friend of mine, struck up on the organ the thrilling strains of "Here Comes the Bride" (my precious little bride) and the ceremony began: first the ushers slowly came into view and then I could hear the rustle of Pat's dress and felt my eyes turn to see her gracefully turn from the front aisle into the altar area, then down the pastelle's (Herbie's sister), then Beverley (Marianne's cousin), then Betty (maid of honor and Marianne's roommate at nursing school). I dared then to turn my head a little more to watch my two chicks come the last ten or fifteen steps, as tall, as straight, as clean and sweet.

Swimming through my mind were the psalmist's lines "My cup runneth over . . ." but to my lasting credit my eyes did not. Then the organ music subsided and the solemn ceremony began. When asked "Who giveth this woman" Pete responded with his one inspired line. "Her mother and I do," and down both came and squeezed my hand . . . finally Mr. Carlson said "You may salute your bride" and I did, and then "And then" . . . in the sight of God I now declare you man and wife".

In beautiful order the bride and groom left for the signing with the two best men and maid and bridesmaids pairing off just as if they had rehearsed it a half dozen times.

Muriel then sang "My World" like a heavenly angel, then we waited a few minutes for their return. As soon as he had the signal Freddie sounded the notes of the bridal recessional and out they burst full of smiles and guess what those two kids did? In full view of that throng of guests they both came over and kissed me, and then kissed Mrs. Pitts. They were so overflowing with love and unselfishness at that moment they remembered to share it.

APRIL

A purple mist enshrouding
The distant woodland hill,
The misty water swirling
About the old stone mill,
A subtle breath of fragrance,
A sudden dash of rain,
Then sunshine chasing shadows—
And April is here again.

Oh! days of sweet enchantment
Alternate shade and shine,
Around you hover visions
That words cannot define;
Although no feathered songster
The misty morning cheers,
The throbbing air holds music
That but the spirit hears.

— Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. R. Wiltse, Dundas, were Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bishop and other relatives. Their many friends were delighted to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Wiltse who were former Wellington residents.

RAWDON

Bethel Girls' Club Takes Easter Service

RAWDON — On Sunday morning last the Bethel Girls' Club were in charge of the Easter service. Miss Barbara Hadley presided at the piano and 15 club members formed the processional and sang "The Day of Resurrection," as they wended their way to the choir loft.

Bethel United Church was resplendent with African violet and Easter lilies. A large attendance was present for the service.

The theme was "Jesus Christ is Risen—Saviour." Miss Barbara Hadley presided for the worship service. The congregation sang, "Rejoice the Lord is King." The president, Miss Shirley Cooley read a poem on "Easter."

The devotional was arranged in eight division with a reader for each. The girls who had parts were: Misses Faye Cooney, Marion Reid, Patsy Thompson, Marion Hadley, Joan Barron, Jean Reid, Rickie Bulten and Barbara Reid.

Miss Joyce Reid read a poem and three vocal solos were given by Misses Rickie Bulten, Donalda Heath and Barbara Green.

The group rendered "There is a Green Hill Far Away"; a vocal duet was given by Misses Tisl and Aundra Berg. The choir rendered "Welcome Happy Morning." Easter hymns were sung.

Miss Joyce Reid gave an oral story based on the program theme and Miss Barbara Hadley read a prayer poem and the Rev. W. G. Fletcher gave a brief message.

The recessional was "Now Let the heavens be joyful, let earth her song begin, let the round world keep triumph and all that is therein."

70th BIRTHDAY

RAWDON — Last Thursday evening Mrs. Jack Johnston, Hastings, entertained over 40 members of the family in honor of her father, Mr. Jos. Smith, of Carmel community, who was celebrating his 70th birthday anniversary. The guests included his four sons, John, Ernest, Everett and Garnet and their families from Carmel community; another daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Crowe, Stockdale, also brothers and sisters and nieces. His immediate family made a presentation to their father of generous purse, while his brothers and sisters gave him a signet ring with the IOOF emblem. The recipient expressed thanks and later did the honors at cutting the birthday cake.

Mr. Sherwin Brady arrived home from Kingston hospital on Friday and is slowly improving.

Bethel United Church now has its own projector and screen. The cost was divided between the Woman's Association, Girls' Club and Sunday School.

Mrs. W. F. Jackman has returned to her home, sixth concession, after spending the winter months with her daughter, Mrs. Melville Andrus, and Mr. Andrus and family, Peterborough.

Several ladies of Carmel W.A. spent Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ashley Brooks and her mother in the village and quilted a quilt for the hostess.

Mrs. Fred Jeffs will quietly celebrate her 85th birthday anniversary on Wednesday, April 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormel MacMullen and children of Belleville, spent Easter Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharp and Mrs. N. G. Irwin called on Mr. Ed. Post, Marmora, on day recently.

PO1 Carm Reid, Mrs. Reid, Dianne and Karen, Montreal, are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams.

The Easter service on Sunday afternoon at Mount Pleasant United Church was largely attended with visitors from many points. The edifice was decorated with flowering potted plants, Easter lilies and daffodils. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., gave a message on "The Dawn of Easter." The large choir rendered an anthem "He Lives."

The Easter visitors included: Miss Annie Holmes, Madoc; Mrs. Vera Stoo, Sidney township; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fitzgerald and children, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Mrs. E. Baker, Peterborough; Mrs. M. Smith and children, English line, and others.

Rawdon circuit convened at Mt. Pleasant United Church on Good Friday evening and the pastor gave a special message. The choir rendered "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

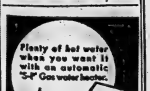
Rawdon Quarterly Official Board convened at Welhan's United Church on Tuesday evening. A special speaker will be in charge of the services on the circuit on June 12th, as Rev. W. G. Fletcher will be anniversary speaker at Cooper United Church. It was decided to eliminate the evening services during June, July and August. Two services will be held in the morning and one in the afternoon. The allocation for extension work for Albert College is $150 for the circuit.

Bulletins From Birdland

LIGHT AS AIR

For hundreds of years man made futile attempts at flying; but it is little wonder that he could not manage to copy a live airplane. There is truly nothing more marvelous than the structure of a bird. Framework, covering, organs, and mechanism—all are especially designed for flight and durability. There is absolutely no danger of losing a wing in mid-air.

The skeleton is very lightly built. A pelican five feet long and weighing 25 pounds has a skeleton weighing only 23 ounces. The bones of a bird are hollow and filled with air. The "nose" of this living machine has no teeth, so no heavy jaws and muscles are required. One short bone provides the only surface to which all tail feathers are attached. The body is streamlined. The heart, lungs, stomach, diet and breathone — forms a strong case.

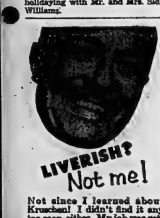


Never has anything been discovered that is comparable to a feather for combining durability with light weight. Every little section is pliable and can withstand an incredible strain. Heat, cold, and dampness do no injury to it. Feathers make a perfect protection for any kind of weather.

DOUBLE DUTY LUNGS

A bird breathes twice to our once, because it has special lungs—the air goes through them, then back through them. Air cells are to be found in many places: air sacs extend inward muscles and in some cases fill a space between muscles and skin, and go to the bones of the limbs and the skull. All this makes a bird prideFully as light as air.

The muscles that work a bird's wing are put together in such a way that they may be stretched out or neatly folded up. The flight feathers of the wing are arranged so that each one nearer the base of the wing overlaps the next. On the upstroke of the wing, the feathers open so as to allow the air to pass through, thus reducing the pressure. On the downstroke, the wing feathers are tightly closed.



A tiny hummingbird crosses the 500 mile stretch of the Gulf of Mexico in a single flight, and an Arctic tern only a few months old may be found 11,000 miles from its birthplace. A peregrine falcon has been known to attain a speed of 180 miles an hour. Yet when in migration, as at this season, birds usually travel at a comparatively leisurely pace, resting and refueling at intervals.

TWO UP—TWO TO GO!

With two games on "tarcies" ice tucked away very neatly, second indications point to the Kingston Goodyears winning their second OHA senior "B" championship in three years. Their two victories over the Sarnia Sailors, played on Ottawa ice, gives them a decided stranglehold on the provincial title, one that is only two victories away. In addition the Goodies have the tremendous advantage of playing the next three games, if three are necessary, at home, a battlefield fatality strange to the Tars.

The Goodies defeated the Sailors 3-2 Saturday night, a much closer affair than that which saw them win a 5-2 victory in the series opener on Friday. The third game of the series is slated for the Kingston Community Centre on Tuesday night, the fourth game Thursday, and the fifth, if needs be, Saturday.

But while that senior "B" crown gleams brightly, the Goodyears know from past experience that the title is not yet in their grasp. They remember that they, too, were two games down to the Orillia Pontiacs in the semi-finals series before they reared through to four straight victories.

The second victory indicates by its closer score that the Sailors might have fathomed some of the Goodies offensive strategy and tomorrow night's first game in Kingston could be a thriller. The Tars will be desperate and have no intention of bowing out in four straight defeats. Their backs are definitely against the well-known wall and they will be fighting hard to get back into the running.

However, a Kingston championship will, for the third time in as many years, prove the fact that Eastern Ontario senior "B" hockey is superior to that of the western part of the province. The Goodies took the title three years ago; Oshawa had it last season, and it looks as though Kingston will emphasize this year.

SALUTE TO PREVER

The scrappers quipped merrily in every Flatbush jernt,
Dem Bums were celebrating' from the battry to Greenpernt,
In glee they quaffed their bankers, and with joy they ordered more,
Their raucous cheers outdid the surf on Maine's famed rock-bound shore.
For their beloved Dodgers, unbeaten now in six,
Had trounced their foes Pyrtle with their heavy-swinging sticks,
While across the famed Gowanus, 'neath Coogan's storied bluff
Dem Jints dey huddled quietly, dat Lily was in a huff,
Dat Barber, Antonelli, dese bolds with chins arass
Ain't wanna game, da jolts dey should be sent back to da farms.
Bring on dat Tribe or Pitsburg, we ain't carin, sez a wit,
For it ain't next year in Flatbush, buddies, no sir, this is it.

ONE DOWN

Point Anne ran into a snag up Beeton way Saturday night losing 9-3 in the first game of their re-played OHO intermediate "C" series. The second game is being played in Marmora tonight. "The Ore Pointers defeated the Beetonites twice in the first series, but the games were tossed out when Beeton's protest over the eligibility of two Point players was upheld by the OHA. Point Anne won the first two games by quite decisive scores which indicates that they must have had a distinct reversal of form Saturday night, despite the fact Letman was not in. the way I understand the series is the best-of-three, so tonight's tilt in Marmora will be an important one for Earle Anderson's gang.

PRESENTATION

Keith MacDonald, Prince Edward hockey and baseball star who has played for this city for the past seven years, was presented with the Belleville "Athlete of the Year" award at the Canadian Legion Trade Fair Saturday night, with Eric Nesterenko (not Nerie Esterenko, as it was claimed on was announced) doing the presentation honors.

MacDonald modestly expressed his appreciation of the award, thanking his mates, the committee and its donors for the honor. Vern Goyer presented him with the miniature with the words "it could not have happened to more deserving fellow."

SOFTBALL

It looks as though seven softball teams at least will form the Belleville District Softball League this season, according to president Cy Barriage. Those entered are the "Orphans," Point Anne, Bobcats, Trenton, Trenton RCAF, Madoc and Frankford. Percy Barriage requests all teams which have not already done so, to forward their entry fees immediately so that proper league arrangements can be made.

Says 10,000 Players Under OBA Aegis

HAMILTON (CP)—Some 10,000 baseball players will be playing under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Baseball Association this year, OBA secretary Tom Howden of St. Catharines said here Saturday.

Mr. Howden told an association executive meeting that players range in age from 10 to 52.

President Clarence Riddell of Milton said affiliated leagues with at least 25 teams are being asked to appoint delegates by May 6 for the fall OBA executive meeting here May 12.

Sweep Twin Bill from Bucs, Giants Drop Pair to Phils; Birds Bow Twice to Boston

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Williams was still some two thousand miles away from Fenway Park today, but could it be that the Boston Red Sox have been using the power-laden bats he left behind?

The end of the first week of the infant baseball season finds the Red Sox not only leading the American League with five victories in six games, but also on top with an astonishing .330 team batting average and 11 home runs.

The Red Sox Sunday pounded eight Baltimore pitchers for 36 hits, sweeping a doubleheader from the Orioles 14-5 and 12-8 to leap past Cleveland and New York and grab a big-league lead in the field.

Faye Throneberry, 23, filling in for Williams in left field, is clubbing at a torrid .400. He is tied for the league lead with 12 runs batted in. He topped his four hits Sunday including a double and home run, drove in four and scored six times.

DODGERS WIN TWO

Besides sharing Sunday's spotlight with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who remained unbeaten by sweeping a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 10-3 and 3-2, Johnny Podres and Clem Labine pitched the fifth and sixth victories for the Dodgers.

Philadelphia's Phillies stunned the Giants with a pair of 4-2 victories to drop New York into a sixth place tie with Cincinnati.

A 10-run first inning started St. Louis off to a 14-1 runaway over Chicago and the Cubs had stripped the Cards in the opener 6-5 with two runs in the ninth. Cardinal outfielder Harry Elliott got seven hits in the twin bill.

Cincinnati also pulled out a ninth inning 6-5 victory to gain a split with Milwaukee after the Braves had run off with the opener 10-1. It was the first victory after five straight defeats.

Cleveland and Chicago split a doubleheader, the Indians winning 4-2 behind Bob Lemon's five-hitter after Manager Jack Harshman had pitched the White Sox to a 3-1 triumph in the opener. Johnny Schmitz and Spec Shea combined to pitch Washington to a 7-3 victory over former New York Yankee teammates as Mickey Vernon and Roy Sievers hammered homers against Eddie Lopat.

TIES RECORD

Yeung Al Kaline hit three home runs, two of them in the ninth inning to tie a major league record, as Detroit romped to a 14-9 rout of Kansas City. Steve Gromek yielded seven hits for his second victory, both against the Athletics.

Vic Wertz' two-run homer in the sixth off loser Virgil Trucks provided Cleveland's winning margin in the second game.

Baltimore used 34 players in a vain attempt to break into the winning column this season. The only bright spot for Paul Richards' five-time losers was the hitting of Billy Cox. The veteran infielder cracked five hits including two doubles and a home run and scored five runs.

Roy Campanella, still irked over batting sixth, drove in three runs with two doubles and a home run in Brooklyn's first victory. He singled in three times at bat in the second game to help inflict the Pirates' fifth loss against no victories.

Alberni Wins Basketball Title

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—Alberni Athletic whipped Sault Ste. Marie Gunners 91-84 here Saturday night to win the best-of-five Canadian senior men's basketball championship in three straight games.

The Alberni crew won the first game of the series 84-6 Thursday night and dumped the eastern champions 86-58 in the second clash Friday.

'Boston Doge' Wins Easily

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Boston Dogs again bolted his rather ragged looks Saturday to continue unbeaten in winning the Governor's Gold Cup. It was his 10th straight triumph, and he is unequalled in the glamour class of three-year-olds and enhanced his likelihood of going to the Kentucky Derby.

Boston Dobe paid $2.80, $2.60 and $2.20.

The Andolino brothers, Paul and Frank of Boston who own and train the hot prospect, collected $23,900. They now have gleaned $85,720 from the colt they offered to sell early last year for $7,500.

NAME NEW COACH

TORONTO (CP)—Stan Yankovic, coach of Yugoslavia's 1952 gold medallists, has been appointed as coach of the Argonaut Rowing Club, it was announced Saturday.

He succeeds Harry Kaynmlk, who retires after six years as Argo coach.

Yankovic, who came to Canada shortly after the 1952 Olympics, coached for four years in Yugoslavia. He rowed there for 16 years.

Argos will offer a trophy in Kaynmlk's name for competition in the Central Ontario Rowing Association regatta.

Will Strengthen Memorial Cup Finalists

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Western Canada Junior Hockey Association which operates the West's 16 junior clubs, decided at a meeting here Saturday that its Memorial Cup representative will again be strengthened with three replacements before going into the finals next winter.

Delegates, however, turned down a request by Leo Leclerc of the Edmonton Oil Kings that branch winners be allowed to pick up three replacements upon entering interprovincial competition.

The association voted to relax inter-branch transfers in the West. At present a team can have only two players other than those from within its province. Saturday, the group decided that any player not signed or not on the protected list as of Dec. 31 can be obtained by a team from outside the province. However, the team must first get a release from the original club and waivers from every other team in that league.

The group also will recommend to the CAHA that it consider carefully before making any cuts in minor grants.

Those attending included Bud Simpson, Flin Flon; Bill Fero, Port Arthur; Curly Silver, Fort William, Thunder Bay voting delegate; Larry Desjardins, St. Boniface.

Goodyears Edge Sarnia 3-2

SARNIA (CP)—Kingston Goodyears shaded Sarnia Sailors 3-2 Saturday night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association senior B final.

John Myke, Jack Irvine and Don Murray scored singles for Goodyears. Tussy Dunham and Charlie Glash tallied for Sailors.

In the series opener here Friday night, Kingston outclassed Sarnia's 9-2. Next game will be played in Kingston.

Forts Want Some Cup Games At Home

KITCHENER (CP) — Fort William Beavers, western Canada senior hockey champions who meet Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the Allan Cup final, have asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to have some of the best-of-seven series played in Fort William.

This was reported Sunday night on the eve of Beavers' arrival here for the opening game of the cup final which goes Tuesday night. Second and third games are here Thursday and Saturday.

Dates for further games have not been announced pending a decision by the CAHA on Beavers' request to take some of the games to the Lakehead city.

Dutchmen officials said Sunday night they believe that if fan support here is sufficient, there is little likelihood of any games being transferred to Fort William.

Pt. Anne Wins Second TVL Title Downs Marmora 7-5 in Fifth Game

MARMORA — (Special)— The Point Anne Consentmen captured the Trent Valley Hockey League championship and the coveted Thomas Rats trophy for the second consecutive year Friday night when they scored a 7-5 victory over the Marmora Millionaires on the latter's home ice. They won the series four games to one.

President Art Duncan presented the Thomas Rats Cup to Pat Gilmour, the Point Anne captain. Leonard opened the scoring for the boosters on a solo effort but before the period closed, Point Anne replied with goals from Hunter and G. Goyer both unassisted and by L. Goyer on his brother's assist. Point Anne added two goals to extend their lead in the next frame, the Goyer brothers scoring one apiece on the brother-to-brother assist by Williams.

By halfway through the third period Marmora drew level, Hute on assists from Paramuk and Jones, Lavender assisted from Trumble and Maynes and Jones unassisted beating Bates.

Then Point Anne carried the play again into Marmora territory and Gilmour assisted by Strahan and L. Goyer assisted by Gerry Goyer got the issue out of doubt.

Six penalties were awarded five going to the visitors. Leo Goyer led the winners' attack with three goals and one assist while Gerry Goyer netted two markers and

Sam Snead's Golf School

As we start this new season, Fairway Friends, let's review the grip. An old story with practiced golfers, but very interesting to new ones. And 70 - 90 shooters can't be harmed. For all clubs, in normal shots the grip is the same — except the putter. With all other clubs the left hand grasps the club about an inch from the top. Let the shaft lie diagonally across the palm from the second joint of the forefinger to the heel of the palm. The thumb then will oppose, or exert its pressure, against the second joint of the first finger. Now, take a look at the drawing. Notice the little finger of the right hand lays over the first finger of the left hand. This is very important for it binds the two hands together and makes them work as one. This is the overlapping grip. Some golfers prefer the interlocking grip in which the little finger interlocks between the first two fingers. The picture shows the rest. As these lessons unfold we'll talk more about the grip.

Babe Jameson Takes Honors In 'Babe' Tourney

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Texan Betty Jameson of Dallas, a cautious one-over-par 74 Sunday to win $1,- 000 first money in the Babe Zaharias open golf tournament.

Miss Jameson was winning her second tournament of the winter tour. She took first money in the Sarasota, Fla., Open with a record 285 for 72 holes.

Her great 15 on the first day of the tournament over the 6,318-yard Beaumont Country Club course shocked the field. Monday over had a chance to catch her.

Miss Jameson, from Inland, Ga., the defending champion, shot a 71 Sunday to end up with 221 and third place.

BOLD COACHING CLINIC

SARNIA (CP)—A two-day coaching clinic for high school and junior football coaches, sponsored by the Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, ended here Saturday.

Sarnia coaches Bob Priefford and Tom Andreas, assisted by coach John Metras of the University of Western Ontario, Al Smith of McMaster University and Rocky Robillard of McGill University, directed the sessions. Coaches were shown formation patterns and given tips on individual player instruction.

INJURED BOXER DIES

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Bryan Thompson, 23-year-old Philadelphia middleweight boxer, died in hospital here Friday as result of injuries suffered in his first professional fight.

On March 29, Thompson was knocked out in the second round of a bout at the Trenton Arena and carried from the ring on a stretcher. He had been in a coma almost continuously since and underwent two brain operations.

His opponent was Harry Lindes of New Haven, Conn.

Dr. Matthew R. Lapin, deputy Mercer county physician, said an autopsy would be held later.

Tiger Sophomore Ties Major Record Hits Three Homers, Two in One Inning

DETROIT (AP) — Young Al Kaline combined 20 pounds of muscle, 23 ounces of wood and "the same old swing" to smash two home runs in one inning and tie a major league record Saturday.

The 20 - year - old outfielder slammed three home runs Sunday —two of them in the sixth inning— as the Detroit Tigers trounced the Kansas City As 16-0.

Kaline thus became the 13th major leaguer since 1920 — or the eighth in modern times if you go back only to 1900 — to hit two homers in one inning.

The muscle was new—20 pounds he picked up in the off-season to boost his weight from 155 to 175.

The wood was new—a 33-ounce bat which he had borrowed from a teammate.

"But it was the same old swing" Kaline explained in the Tigers' dressing room. "I hit a curve, fast ball and slider but was swinging the same as always—just trying to get on base."

Kaline warmed up with a two run homer off starter John Gray in the third inning. He really broke loose in the sixth inning starting and ending a nine-run outburst with home runs.

Leading off in the sixth, Kaline thumped a 400-foot home run off rookie Bob Spicer.

Kaline wound up the Tigers' big rally by driving a two-run homer into the left field seats off Bob Trice.

Sam Snead Wins Greensboro Golf Tourney

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Sam Snead blasted the last hole Sunday to edge Art Wall, Jr., and Julius Boros by one stroke to win his fifth $12,500 greater Greensboro open golf tournament with a 12-hole total of 272.

Wall, the leader through each of the first three rounds, was even with Snead when they came to the last hole needing birdies to beat Boros who had finished a short time earlier.

A hushed gallery of more than 10,000 saw Wall miss a five-foot putt he needed to match Snead's birdie. Snead won $2,500.

Wall, former Duke University star from Pocono Manor, Pa., and Boros, Honeycombs, 1953 U.S. Open champion from Southern Pines, N.C., each received $1,333.

A three-way tie for fourth place at 277 involved Ben Rosberg of San Francisco; Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., and Ted Kroll of Bethesda, Md.

Cricket Test Ends in Tie

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters)—The second cricket test match between the West Indies and Australia ended Saturday in a tie.

Rain, which held up play for almost two hours, and a magnificent fighting century by Clyde Walcott —his second of the match—killed any hopes Australia may have had of a victory.

Despite the stoppages caused by rain, the West Indies team, who were 40 for one wicket overnight, went head for runs, and had scored 273 for four at the close.

Australia won the first test in the series by nine wickets.

Toronto Wins Peewee Titles

GODERICH (CP) — Toronto swept both the class AA and grand championship titles Saturday as the sixth annual young Canada week peewee hockey tournament wound up a series of 58 games in this Lake Huron town.

The Toronto team, Queen City Peewee Champs, shut out their metropolitan rivals, East York, 6-0 to win the AA crown in an afternoon fill, then returned at night to down Milverton, class C winners, 9-1 for the grand championship title.

Milverton gained the C title by walloping Lucknow 11-2 earlier in the day. They came back to trounce Shallow Lake, class D winners, 8-3 in the grand championship elimination series.

The tourney wound up with an east-west challenge cup match in which Winnipeg scored a 6-1 victory over Goderich.

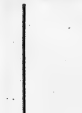
CATHOLICS WARNED

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Cirsanto Cardinal Luque, archbishop of Bogota, Sunday decreed the excommunication of all Colombian Roman Catholics who journey abroad to sever church marriages. The decree was published in Catholic journals and read at masses.

Flyers Leave For Big Series

EDMUNTON (CP) — Edmonton Flyers, Western Hockey League champions, left by train Sunday for eastern Canada and the Edinburgh Trophy finals.

The Flyers will arrive in Fort William Tuesday where they will play an all-star professional squad in an exhibition game Wednesday night.



The team will continue east Thursday, arriving in Montreal Friday.

The Edinburgh Trophy series will see the Flyers go against Shawinigan Falls or Montreal of the Quebec Hockey League.

Ontario Bowlers Win 14 Games

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Eleven Ontario lawn bowlers won 14 and lost 16 games in the singles of the combined midwinter and Southern California bowling tournament here Friday. The tourney, played at Arroyo Seco Park, ended Saturday.

Devine Launching Brand-New Career as Dramatic Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Big, gravel - voiced Andy Devine may be launching a brand-new career as a dramatic actor.

This is nothing new for Andy, who has had a good dozen careers since he started in the movies as an extra almost 30 years ago. He has done everything from slim collegiates to big-boiled westerners.

Andy's now a Kansas City cop who tries to solve a gangster killing in "Five Kelly's Blues." He was chosen for the role by Jack Webb, the Joe Friday of TV's "Dragnet" who is starring in the film as well as directing it.

"It's a straight role for my first in 17 or 18 years," Andy explained. "I'm a guy who's trying to track down crime—and I get no help from Webb in doing it."

Andy walked into his dressing room for a chat. He put his bulk down on a couch and nearly sank to the floor. He's a big man, but the weight doesn't bother him.

"Once I get a little worried and I went to my doctor about it," he related. "But he told me not to be concerned. He said it was senseless to expect everybody to be thin. All my people were big-boned and heavy; I guess I was destined to be, too."

Andy's current reading is around 290-300 pounds, but he has been as high as 346.

Andy keeps active. As every young TV watcher knows, he is the Jingles of the Wild Bill Hickok series. He and Guy Madison have batted out 96 of the half - hour films. This June they return to make another 13.

In addition, Andy is starring in another TV series. He is taking over for the late Ed Sullivan, the veteran kid show emcee who had his "Talking Ed's Gang." The show now will be called "Andy's Gang," and he has already made a supply of 39 films. They'll start in August.

START CRUISE

HALIFAX (CP) — The aircraft carrier Magnificent sailed from Halifax early Sunday on a two-months training cruise to the Caribbean and Great Britain. Scheduled to sail late Saturday, the big carrier was delayed by high winds and darkness. She will take part in anti-submarine exercises with the destroyers Haida and Micmac. The Haida left Saturday morning and the Micmac sails today.

AT THE CAPITOL — Elaine Stanton is featured as a gunsoll in Columbia Pictures' "Five Guns to Tucson," with Arthur Franz and Beverly Garland starred in the Capitol Theatre starting today. On the same program is "Jungle Gunslinger," starring Maureen O'Hara and Macdonald Carey. Both hits are first run showings.

AT THE CAPITOL — At left, from interviews with Maureen O'Hara and Macdonald Carey, co-stars of "Fire Over Africa" by Maureen O'Hara. Macdonald Carey co-stars at the Capitol Theatre today. On the same program, "New Orleans Uncensored", starring Arthur Franz and Beverly Garland. Both hits are first city showings.

AT THE BELLE — Jane Powell and Vic Damone team for a guest-star appearance in MGM's big color musical "Deep In My Heart," based on the life and melodies of famed composer Sigmund Romberg. They sing two of Romberg's most popular hits "Road to Paradise and "Will You Remember." "Deep in My Heart", has a story that is gay, festive and exciting.

Close Big Mine At Cape Breton

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. said Saturday it is closing one of its biggest Cape Breton mines, an underground giant whose submarine seams annually yielded enough coal to heat a 10-room house for 20,000 years.

The announcement said colliery I-B at Glace Bay would be taken permanently out of service May 31 because oil and other domestic fuels have erased the market for its 400,000 tons of coal a year. Its 725 miners will almost certainly have to fall back on unemployment benefits and are expected to begin filing claims June 1.

Slight Milk Surplus

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario whole milk producers say there still is a slight surplus of milk throughout the province but they hope warm weather will step up demand.

M. Roache, field man for the Whole Milk Producers' League, told 150 representatives at the spring meeting Friday night that quota agreements must be more strictly observed than at present.

Pilot Killed At Newcastle

NEWCASTLE (CP)—A pilot from Virginia was killed Saturday when his light plane developed engine trouble, nose-dived into a farmer's field on the north shore of Lake Ontario and exploded.

Police identified him as T. R. Baynes of Wheeling, W. Va.

The plane was seen flying low over Newcastle, about 15 miles east of Oshawa and 40 miles east of Toronto. It crashed into a muddy field on the farm of Joseph Gray, six miles east of Newcastle and just south of busy Highway 2, the Windsor-Montreal highway.

BREAK SHOP WINDOW

STRATFORD (CP) — Jewelry valued at between $700 and $800 was stolen Sunday by thieves who broke into Struthers Jewelry store here. Police said the thieves smashed a display window and scooped up a quantity of watches and lighters.

"On the Waterfront" Introduces Lovely Eva Marie Saint

Things happen in the entertainment world with the suddenness of a flash of summer lightning. Lovely, blonde young actress Eva Marie Saint, a long-time favorite on radio and television who has previously confined her acting exclusively to these two media, within the space of two weeks made her Broadway stage debut in "The Trip to Bountiful" and signed for her first film role.

She makes her haunting debut as the feminine lead opposite Marlon Brando in Columbia Pictures' "On the Waterfront," a drama of tender love, terrifying conflict and exalted heroism also starring Karl Malden and Lee J. Cobb now at the Odeon McCarthy theatre.

Miss Saint's radio and television activities include a year's run on radio in "Young Dr. Malone." For two and a half years she played Claudia in "One Man's Family" and in addition, she has starred in such top television shows as "Robert Montgomery Presents," "Studio One," "Producer Playhouse," "The Web" and "The ABC Album."

A dozen young actresses had been tested for the part of Edie, the convent-educated daughter of a world ruled by the jungle law of cold - blooded murder where city meets the sea, before producer Sam Spiegel and director Elia Kazan were convinced that Miss Saint embodied the necessary combination of gentleness, naivete and potential fire scorched up for searching for which they were searching.

"On the Waterfront" was made by the incomparable star-director team of Brando and Kazan which made "A Streetcar Named Desire," the pair of all five continents for its brutality and emotional realism. The script of the Elia Kazan Production, which reportedly possesses the same great excitement and urgent force, was penned by Budd Schulberg. Composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein wrote the music.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 19, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Star configurations fairly generous. Deal only with honest people and in soundly progressive projects. An opportune time to try the new or unusual if it has real merit, study claims.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—A propitious day for you spt, keen Taureans. Rate activities according to your ability to handle them. Keep eyes on expenditures.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your way of presenting propositions (and granted you are familiar with all the details) will govern returns. Don't hesitate to ask advice from experienced pal. Romance favored.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Day's aspects, if you are using your innate intelligence, should prove highly stimulating. Smart moves in money, property and business affairs can be gainful.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Be discriminating in matters connected with merchandise, finance or legal matters. Don't let enthusiasm or over-optimism cloud your judgment or good sense.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Outlook uncertain in spots; in the a.m. mark time with reservations. Be prepared for the unexpected. Strive to better work, output, even habits. Be guided in just demands, patiently.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Thoughtful use of your talents should bring new advantages by nightfall. Be as tactfully persuasive in personal affairs as in business matters. A just attitude needed.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Be cautious about overstimulating talk, exercise, associations. You have, at times, a tendency to overdo, forgetting health and mental reactions. Consider things in an overall manner.

November 23 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Encouraging vibrations favor smart, intelligent management and new ventures. The better the plan, promotion or effort, the greater benefits derived.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — If not tripped up by over-confidence or ego, you can expect success from your efforts. Strive to understand the new or difficult and there will be little doubt of success.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — An excellent opportunity to show your mettle, and to bring new ideas out for trial. Stars favorable if you do not falter under pressure. Enjoy your friends, family, loved ones.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — You may have to put forth some extra energy on this somewhat unattractive day. With a concerted front and shrewd approach, however, there is always a chance to push through to new gains, just rewards.

YOU BORN TODAY are intensely alert, active, full of get-up-and-go; at times headstrong. Every day is a new adventure to you happy, busy folks. You respect others' clever ideas, qualities; will pitch in and help where needed. At times quick-tempered, you are just as quick to cool off and forgive. You have literary, entertaining ability. Cultivate your wit and knack for making friends. You have managerial ability, can achieve in music, art, or business. Birthdate of: David Ricardo, English economist.

Newfoundland Buried Under 16 Inches of Snow

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Snow plows began bucking through huge drifts in eastern Newfoundland today, trying to free stranded highways choked by a 16-inch blizzard that whipped across the province Saturday and Sunday.

Propelled by snappy winds, the heavy snowfall gusted across the island settling in heavy drifts behind fences and other wind stops. Outside St. John's many highways were open early today.

The storm blew the heavy Arctic ice close inshore, plugging little harbors and inlets and destroying a small coastal boat that was held immovable for 10 days. The captain and five crew members of the 50-ton Sid and Sam walked several miles over creaking ice after the sides of the small coaster were squeezed and buckled. They all reached Keels, Bonavista bay, without injury.

The 16-inch snowfall brought the season's fall to 180 inches—one of the heaviest in recent years.

West Coast CCF Blames Leftists For Loss in Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—The CCF ended its annual British Columbia-Yukon convention here Sunday with a pledge to "clean house" after approving stern disciplinary action taken by the executive against extreme leftist elements.

The three-day gathering of 180 delegates closed with a clear-cut victory for the moderates of the party.

Frank McKenzie, 44 - year - old Vancouver lawyer re-elected as president, said, "I believe we have decided to clear our record."

An executive report which placed blame for the party's decline in membership and loss of the 1952 B.C. election on "Trotskyists" was unanimously approved by the convention.

A five-hour discussion behind closed doors resulted in ratification of the executive's handling of the Cooney Yowell and rebel North Vancouver party organization.

Young Cooney, former member of Parliament, was suspended from the party last year after being expelled by the executive "proved to be called a Communist." He later re-joined.

Subsequently, the executive issued an order that no CCF organization could sponsor any speech by Young.

When the North Vancouver group defied the ban, 23 members were suspended for two months. Their appeal was rejected by the convention.

Aussie Labor Leader Resigns, Is Re-Elected

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters) Former prime minister Herbert Evatt resigned as leadership of the Australian Labor party today and was promptly re-elected to it by the party caucus in a move to end rebellious right wing section.

A secret ballot vote resulted 32 to 27 in favor of Evatt at a party caucus.

The challenge to Evatt's leadership came after he alleged that the party was being subverted by right-wing influences related to the Catholic Action movement.

Today's caucus resignation and party vote came a few hours after the announcement that a group of rebel members of Parliament were forming a break-away party.

SEVEN EXPELLED

The splinter group, called the "Australian Labor party (anti-Communist)" will be headed by Robert Joshua, one of seven Labor members of Parliament who rebelled against Evatt's leadership. The seven were expelled by the Victoria state Labor party with 27 other party members on April 7.

Evatt and his supporters, many of them Roman Catholics, alleged that a secret Catholic society referred to as the "movement" was attempting to control the party. They complained too that "the movement" had applied tactics and measures against communism in the trade unions and in the country than were justified.

The break-away group is to seek recognition as a separate party in Parliament.

SUPPORT NEW REGIME

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's parliament, the Majlis, gave a 52-to-2 vote of confidence Sunday to Premier Hussein Ala's new crusading government. When Ala took over from ailing Gen. Fazollah Zahedi April 8, he promised to clean house in the "thousand officials." Thus far, 30 officials have been fired including the mayor of Tehran, Gholam Hussein Ebtehaj.

25 Horses Die Result of Fire

LINCOLN, R. I. (AP)—Twenty-five horses perished or were destroyed early Saturday when fire swept through a barn at Lincoln Downs raceway.

State police said 18 animals died in the flames. Others were struck by vehicles—one by a fire truck—on highways near the track and two were ordered destroyed by the track veterinarian.

Eight hours after the fire, track hands still were rounding up more than 100 thoroughbreds, freed from other stables at the start of the blaze.

Accident Ends Oil Well Blaze

EDMONTON (CP) — A small accident saved a big job for men who battled a wild gas well fire for five days in northern British Columbia.

Special fire-fighting equipment was being built at the well site, 70 miles northwest of Fort St. John, B. C., when gas pressure dropped by itself Sunday.

The drop in pressure was believed caused by a drill bit which broke off, choking most of the heavy flow of natural gas. Emergency crews at the well under control within a few hours.

The well blew wild Tuesday, causing $300,000 damage.

Says UN Plays Vital Role

TORONTO (CP) — Sir Pierson Dixon, permanent head of the United Kingdom United Nations delegation, said today that despite its faults the UN plays a "vital role in the tangled international situation of today."

But he said the dole could be useful only if the nations of the free world work on their own to keep abreast with the times both in scientific and military matters.

His remarks were included in a text released to the press in advance of delivery.

Sir Pierson, who has been active in British foreign affairs since the Second World War, was addressing the Canadian Club of Toronto on "security and peace."

Mexican Indians Stone Ontario Native to Death

LOS TEHUACAN, Mexico (AP) The prosecuting attorney said today a young Ontario stoned to death near here was born in Ontario although previous reports had said he was an Irishman.

Jose Maria Mendoza, the district attorney, said he is still investigating the death of John Kealy, 25, Kealy, who was trying to walk overland to Acapulco from Veracruz, was stoned by a group of Indians 25 miles from here Friday. He died in the Red Cross hospital later.

DIES OF INJURIES

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Sandra Hill, 9, died in hospital today of injuries she received Sunday when she was knocked from her bicycle by a car on a highway one mile north of here.

Porter Answers Charge Made By Candidate

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario said Saturday the government "is fully protected in connection with the $65,000 fine levied on the Bergmann Construction Company, Pickering, for its part in Ontario highway irregularities.

Peter Slaght, Liberal candidate for York-Humber, charged at his nomination meeting Friday night that the company had not paid the fine, imposed last Dec. 21.

However, Mr. Porter said the government has withheld payment for "legitimate items" under its contract with the firm.

"The department of highways' unaudited account with the company will more than likely offset what they may owe us," he said.

The construction company had pleaded guilty to a charge of fraud, Mr. Slaght said, and had not paid the fine, while the one-week limit allowed, Crown attorney Alex Hall said in Whitby Friday that as clerk of the peace he had not seen a cheque in payment of the fine.

Liberals Will Give Platform Next Saturday

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Liberal party's platform in the next provincial general election may be announced next Saturday.

The Ontario Liberal Association, giving details of plans for its annual two-day convention here April 22-23, said Saturday Farquhar Oliver, party provincial leader, and opposition leader in the legislature, is expected to announce the platform during the convention.

He is scheduled to speak during the session April 23.

The first day's sessions, closed to the press will be taken up with policy discussions with consideration for a provincial general election expected this year. Col. Frank McCordick of St. Catharines, chairman.

The second day of the session will be open to the press. Associate president W. G. Gregory of Stratford is to act as chairman.

House Is Dynamited By Jordan Raiders

JERUSALEM (AP) — Dynamiters blew up a house in a Jordan frontier village 15 miles from Jerusalem Sunday night, burying a family of six under the debris.

Israeli officials said the raiders came from Jordan and went back over the border. Only one death of the village, after blasting the house.

United Nations observers went to the scene today. Israeli police found bloodhounds on the trail of the raiders.

Israel meanwhile lodged a complaint with the mixed armistice commission, which was to meet as soon as its observers report.

NEW MINING METHOD

LONDON (Reuters)—The Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda has described two "hydraulic" coal pits in the Kuznetsk basin in southwest Russia where the coal is mined by directing powerful jets of water at the coal face, the Soviet news agency, Tass, reported today. The water, the jets wash the coal away down iron pipes shoots to the crusher where it is pulped and dried.

Life Editor Says Newspapers Can Hold Own in Competition

TORONTO (CP) — The daily newspaper can hold its own in any competition, Robert T. Elson, deputy managing editor of Life magazine, said Saturday night.

Addressing about 500 persons at the sixth annual National Newspaper Awards dinner, Mr. Elson referred to seven Canadian newspaper men who were honored at the affair and then said:

"They are living proof that the daily newspaper—lowest as it is by television, the radio, the newsmagazine and even picture magazines such as Life—can hold its own in any competition."

The National Newspaper Awards were given for work done in 1954 and judged the best in its field by men and women employed by Canadian daily newspapers and news associations. Winners received $400 each and a certificate.

STARTED SIX YEARS AGO

All but one of the winners was on hand to receive his award at the dinner, given by the Toronto Men's Press Club which also donated the prizes six years ago with the support of the late George McCullagh who guaranteed funds for five years. The basic of support has since been forthcoming.

Winners attending were: Gwyn (Jocko) Thomas, Toronto Star, awarded the prize for spot news reporting; C. B. Pyper, Toronto Telegram, for editorial writing; Mac Reynolds, Vancouver Sun, for feature writing; Bill Boss, The Canadian Press, for staff corresponding; E. W. (Ted) Dinsmore, Toronto Telegram, for spot news photography; and John Collins, Montreal Gazette, for cartooning.

Ray Munro, formerly of the Vancouver Province, who won the feature news photography award, did not attend.

Mr. Elson, guest speaker, referred to radio and television and asked:

"What do we have to offer that these other mediums do not?

". . . The one thing we do have to offer is that extraordinary thing that is more powerful than the atom bomb—the written word . . . It is permanent. It is the record and rather than becoming less important, I think that the written word is becoming more important.

Civilization has advanced with the written word, he said, "but if the word so far as newspapers and magazines are concerned is to prevail over the TV screen and the jumble of voices on the air, then that word has to express ideas, have integrity and vitality.

"To preserve it is not the job of a few great men, it is the job of every journalist."

Mr. Elson, who worked in Winnipeg and Vancouver, described the NNA awards as evidence that Canadian journalism has finally achieved a degree of self-respect long lacking.

He said that in his recent reading of Prof. A. M. Lower's history of Canada, entitled "From Colony to Nation," he was impressed to find in more than 500 pages only 50 lines dealing with the development of Canadian newspapers.

MANY NOT MENTIONED

"Lower calls the roll on politician after politician . . . but nowhere does the name of Graham appear, or Atkinson, or Dafoe or Nichols, or Cromie or Southam," Mr. Elson said.

He paid tribute to each of these men—Hugh Graham, later Lord Atholstan, founder of the Montreal Star; J. E. Atkinson, founder of the Toronto Star; John W. Dafoe, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press; M. E. Nichols, one of the founders of The Canadian Press; Robert J. Cromie, founder of the Vancouver Sun; and W. J. Southam founder of the Southam newspaper group.

They were "some of the men who helped win the self-respect and freedom of the press in this country."

Mr. Nichols, 82, and in good health, lives quietly in retirement in Vancouver. He retired in 1945 as publisher of the Vancouver Province after more than 50 years newspaper experience. From 1932 to 1936 he was vice-president and managing-editor of the Winnipeg Tribune. In 1948 he wrote a book, entitled "The Story of The Canadian Press" which was widely acclaimed.

Mr. Nichols and Mr. Dafoe drew special tribute from Mr. Elson, who said he worked in Winnipeg "when two of Canada's greatest editors worked there."

Mr. Dafoe "commanded the editorial page of The Free Press with the same dignity as if he were the editor of The Times in London. He rose to great eminence and died rich in honors."

15 Fatalities Reported In Eastern Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two airmen who died in an RCAF barracks fire near Ottawa were among 15 weekend fatalities reported in eastern Canada.

Victims of the Saturday barracks fire were LAC Elgin Gerald Buchan, 21, of North Vancouver and LAC Joseph Jean Perron, 20, of St. David de Chicoutimi, Que.

A Canadian Press survey of traffic accidents between midnight Friday and midnight Sunday. Three persons were drowned, one was electrocuted, one was asphyxiated, one died in an airplane crash and a nine-year-old boy was killed when struck on the head by a batted baseball.

Eight persons died in Ontario, seven in Quebec and two in Nova Scotia. New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island reported no fatalities.

In Ontario, Mrs. Ruth Ribert, 36, of Detroit was killed in a two-car crash at Watford. Arthur Caswell, 32, died when hit by a car near Hamilton and Donald W. Downey, 33, was killed when the car he was riding in overturned near Madoc.

Thomas Robert Baynes, 22, of Wilmette, Ill., was killed when his two-seater plane plunged into the ground near Newcastle, leaving a four-foot crater.

An infant girl's body was found in a dump in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke. Police said she probably was asphyxiated.

Donald Bill, 7, was drowned on the outskirts of St. Thomas when he fell in a creek.

Many Malayans Wearing Old Aussie Jackets

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Many Malayans in Communist - dominated areas along the Thailand border are wearing old Australian Women's Army jackets, an army investigation has revealed.

The investigation was ordered following reports some of the Communists were wearing "complete" Australian uniforms.

Army Minister Jeremiah Francis said army headquarters in Singapore reported there would be no operational risk to Australian troops fighting in Malaya. Some Communists were wearing old - type Australian Women's Army jackets only and not complete uniforms.

Francis said the jackets were sold in 1947 by the Australian war disposals board to Australian and overseas companies. The jackets could not be confused with uniforms now being worn by Australian soldiers.

Eden Now Hopes Talks With Reds Will Be Fruitful

Russia Proposes 4-Power Parley on Austrian Treaty

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden said today it is possible "to look forward with greater confidence to the prospect of fruitful talks with the Soviet Union."

The new prime minister told the House of Commons in reply to questions about allied efforts to reduce world tensions that brighter prospects are not "due to any accident."

They have developed because "the unity of the West has been established by the London and Paris agreements" it has always been on the basis of that unity that successful negotiations can be conducted with the East," Eden added.

Eden also said the British government still abides by the view that the conclusion of a treaty restoring Austria's independence must have top priority in any Big Four negotiations.

Britain, he went on, welcomed the recorded desire of the Austrian people and Soviet governments for such a treaty.

Moscow proposed today a four-power meeting of foreign ministers on an Austrian treaty.

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia today proposed a four-power foreign ministers' conference in the near future to consider and sign an Austria state treaty.

The Soviet note to the three western powers said Austria should be present at the conference as well as the United States, Britain, France and Russia, and that it should be held in Vienna.

The note, handed over in Moscow today by Foreign Minister Molotov, asked for the earliest reaction of the three western powers to the proposal.

It came four days after the Austrian chancellor, Julius Raab, flew to Moscow and later which resulted in agreement on conditions for a treaty to end the 10-year occupation of Austria and restore her independence.

It was announced Monday in Vienna that Austria will invite the four occupying powers—U. S., Britain, France and Russia—to meet in Vienna as soon as possible to conclude an Austrian state treaty.)

A joint communique issued at the end of Raab's visit to Moscow said the two countries had agreed on certain conditions for a treaty. Under it Russia made a number of concessions in return for an Austrian promise not to join any military alliance or allow military bases on her territory.

Ten Pressmen Of London Free Press on Strike

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Ten pressmen in the London Free Press struck Monday night in support of union demands for higher wages and three paid holidays a year, the newspaper bulldog.

Newspaper spokesmen said publication of the paper is continuing without interruption.

The company said six out of a staff of 19 pressmen remained on duty.

Bob Brown, international representative of Local 173, International Printing Pressmen and Assistant's Union (AFL-TLC), said negotiations on renewal of the contract began last June when the union was certified as a bargaining agent for the pressmen.

The union originally sought $85 a week but now asks $91 after settlement and $93 at the end of the year on the basis of a two-year contract. The company has offered $83 and a three-year contract.

A conciliation board report in January recommended $83 retroactive to last November and $85 as of Feb. 1, 1956, under the cost-of-living improved union security and welfare benefits.

Eight Women Pull Hair And Slap Faces

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—8 women pulled hair and slapped faces outside the General Printers Ltd., plant Monday when 14 bookbindery are on strike. No one was hurt and no one was arrested.

The fight started when a female employee tried to cross the picket lines. Five women were involved.

A male worker broke up the scramble.

The strikers, members of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders (AFL-TLC), are seeking a four-cent hourly increase for men and three cents for women. Only the bindery department is affected by the strike.

MURDER CHARGE LAID AGAINST REGINA WOMAN

Police Say Employer Dead for One Year

REGINA (CP) — A 215-pound housekeeper appears in court today on a charge of murdering her former employer, whose body lay in secret for months in a sealed room of his east-end room.

Elizabeth La Flihie, 50, was charged Monday night after hours of questioning by detectives investigating the death of 76-year-old Mike Tudor. The man's bloodpoisoned body was found after he had been missing 16 months and had been dead for at least a year.

Mrs. La Flihie, also known as Tootsie Tenzer and Tootsie La Fleche, surrendered to police early Monday night. She and Jacob Tudor, 45, worked into the station after hearing on a radio broadcast that they were wanted for questioning.

Police had enlisted the aid of newspapers and radio after many fruitless searching for the woman. Dyke and Joe Jakubco, about 60. Mrs. Dyke Friday was "Ted Walters, 61.

LIVED IN HOME

All lived in Tudor's three-room home in the neighbors said for years ago.

Mrs. Dyke and Walters were held as material witnesses. Police still are trying to locate Jakubco, who may be in Saskatoon.

Tudor, an illiterate laborer, was last seen at Christmas, 1953. Mrs. La Flihie moved into his home shortly before that time and left in a year ago. Neighbors said they were told Tudor had entered a hospital for the aged in Brandon and had died there.

A worried daughter, Mrs. Mary MacPherson of Detroit, started an investigation by appealing to a friend in Regina to find her father. The friend, Dan Ryan, took his suspicions to police after making a private investigation.

Officers who smashed in the door of Tudor's home found his body.

The room had been made airtight by wads of paper and rags stuffed around the windows. The only keyhole was plugged and the door reinforced from the outside.

Some neighbors said Tudor saved his money and boasted he had $40,000 stashed into the mattress. Others said Tudor lived month to month on the rentals from another house he owned in Regina and an old-age pension. Police found no money but a small hoard ever been cached in his mattress.

Old Coach Harry Truman Comes Back To Give Advice on UN to Old Team

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S. Truman, the old coach, was back Monday to see how his one-time Senate team was making out, and even those who agreed against him had to admit he never looked in better shape.

For the old coach — indirectly — he pinned that label on himself — showed he can make with the wit to be a special Truman trademark.

They say the presidency takes years off a man's life. They say Truman has just had a serious illness and they say he's almost 70.

Fiddlesticks!

Truman felt so youthful and gay he showed up a full 15 minutes early and had himself a peck of fun while waiting for members of the special sub-committee on the United Nations Charter to show up.

He kidded around with reporters.

Meanwhile, he was greeting each senator as he came in.

Truman read a lengthy prepared statement in which he advised going slow on rewriting the United Nations Charter. When he finished, the praise seemed to be unanimous and sincere.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem., Ore.) asked Truman's advice on a unique situation. Sitting at the table was Senator Alben Barkley (Dem., Ky.), vice-president under Truman, asking questions of his old boss along with the rest of them.

"Where else would it take place but in the world!" Morse asked. Curtain.

"Certainly not," said Truman, who then got off an observation on the value of full debate on important questions.

"I've always been in favor of full debate among the best brains," he said, "instead of trying to do everything with one punkinhead."

The Old Coach said it jocularly, and he got a laugh. But it's still a fair explanation of why a democracy can't move as dictatorship doesn't.

Peaceful Coexistence Possible Chou Tells Afro-Asian Meet

By ROBERT EUNSON

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP) — Red China's Premier Chou En-lai told the Asian-African conference today that "peaceful coexistence of countries with different social systems can be possible."

Chou invited others of the 29 Asian and African countries to join with Red China, India and Burma in supporting the five principles of "peaceful coexistence" propounded by India's Prime Minister Nehru.

"China is ready to establish formal relations with other Asian and African countries on a basis of strict adherence to these principles (peaceful coexistence) and is willing to promote normalization of relations between China and Japan," Chou declared.

He said the various countries attending the conference here should recognize the rights of each one to have its different views, different ideologies and political systems, but "that does not prevent us from seeking common ground here."

Communist China would raise first at this conference the question of its admission to "its rightful place in the United Nations," even though the Colombo powers sponsored the Bandung conference at an earlier meeting had endorsed without reservation India's claim to the right to replace Nationalist Chinese representatives in the UN.

The Red leader said his government's determination to "liberate" the Chinese Nationalist stronghold of Formosa is "entirely an internal affair of the Chinese people." He did not plan to raise this issue formally at the conference either, as "we have not come here to quarrel."

Chou's speech followed new attacks on Communist expansion by Asian allies of the West at the conference. They did not call the Reds by name, but their meaning was clear.

The Chinese premier departed from a prepared text to make what a completely different speech. Copies of it were handed to reporters just as he started talking.

"We Chinese come to seek unity —not to quarrel," he began.

Rail Officials Order Embargo As Lakehead Strike Unsettled

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Grain ships waited for cargoes today and railroads piled up for unloading while union and company officials planned to meet in an attempt to settle a wage strike of 1,200 Lakehead grain handlers.

The walkout, in its fourth day, already has caused vessels and trains to pile up in the harbor and yards and prompted railway officials to order an embargo on incoming shipments.

There are 75,000,000 bushels of grain waiting to be moved out of the area. More than 5,000 railway cars stand near the grain elevators with their doors closed.

And at least 25 ships have arrived for cargoes, a few moving into docks while the main fleet is anchored several miles offshore.

Local 650 of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (AFL-TLC) struck Friday morning when negotiations broke down.

Officers who smashed in the door of Tudor's home found his body.

The room had been made airtight by wads of paper and rags stuffed around the windows. The only keyhole was plugged and the door reinforced from the outside.

Some neighbors said Tudor saved his money and boasted he had $40,000 stashed into the mattress. Others said Tudor lived month to month on the rentals from another house he owned in Regina and an old-age pension. Police found no money but a small hoard ever been cached in his mattress.

The operators want a two-year contract and have agreed to a four-cent hourly raise, retroactive to July 19, 1954, and another two cents eight months later. In a conciliation report in December recommended a three-cent increase retroactive to last July.

Federal mediator Eric Taylor of Toronto said Monday night he hoped to get 16 operators and the union's negotiating committee together today.

Talk of an early return to work was heard Monday and reports circulated that union officials had suggested a back-to-work movement pending further negotiations. It was reported the union officials believed the strike action had served its purpose in warning elevator operators of the cessation of a work stoppage.

At Winnipeg Monday night officials of the Wheat Board announced an embargo on all railway shipments of grain to the Lakehead.

Railway spokesmen said 2,200 cars are en route to the Lakehead. The embargo will remain in effect until the strike is settled.

Wheat board officials said in Winnipeg the effect on farm marketings will be noted for several days. There is enough space in country elevators to take care of existing quotas, they said.

Labor Minister Gregg said at Ottawa Monday his department will leave nothing undone that might help settle the strike.

Acting Trade Minister Winters said there has been a decision to lift grain-storage charges, as was done in a previous strike. He said it was a matter between the elevator operators and the wheat board, the federal agency which markets western grain.

Proposes Plan To Extend Scope Of Housing Act

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the Canadian Construction Association has proposed a plan to extend the scope of the National Housing Act to provide farmhands with more modest incomes.

Winnipeg contractor W. G. Mair told a luncheon meeting of the Toronto Builders' Exchange, emphasized the importance of middle income groups have in buying houses. He recommended: Greater flexibility in terms of principal NHA terms, reducing the size of down payments and a limit on the present $8,000 limit; open-end mortgages permitting couples to buy small homes and expand them later at the same mortgage rates; provision of NHA loans to finance purchase of existing homes.

MORE NEEDY BLIND TO GET PENSIONS UNDER NEW BILL

Means-Test Ceiling Boosted $120 a Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Needy blind persons between 18 and 21 will be added to the 1,000 now receiving blind pensions under a means-test ceiling will be boosted by $120 a year under a new government bill.

Legislation to effect the changes was introduced in the Commons Monday night after members unanimously approved a preliminary resolution.

It was among several measures the bill, as finally passed and approved April 1 by Finance Minister Harris. Main speakers will be J. M. Macdonnell, Opposition financial critic, and the leaders of the CCF and Social Credit parties, M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low.

URGED BOOST

Although the proposed changes in the blind pensions formed the general support, a number of opposition speakers urged even broader boosts. The main criticism was that the starting age be cut from 21 to 18 as originally planned by the government.

Seventy-five per cent of those pensioned—to maximum $40 monthly—is carried by the federal government, the rest by provincial governments.

The change in the age limit and means-test ceiling will add an estimated $250,000 a year to the $3,000,000 now paid by the central government for blind pensions.

The means-test ceiling—including the pension—will be increased to $960 from $840 for single persons; to $1,140 from $1,020 for single persons with a dependent; to $1,500 from $1,320 for married persons where one is blind and to $1,680 from $1,440 for married persons with two blind.

He declared that the conference had been convened to discuss a plan which a common ground could be

On Eve Of Vote Butler Is Able To Reduce Levies

Revenue Exceeds Estimate But Trade Proves Problem

LONDON (CP)—The government today announced across-the-board income tax reductions for the most heavily taxed people in the world and slashed the purchase tax on a variety of textile goods by half—from 50 to 25 per cent.

The cuts, announced to a crowded Commons by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, came a little more than a month before the general election, May 26.

The basic rate will be 6½ per cent of taxable income instead of 45 per cent. This is a cut of six pence in the standard rate, making it eight shillings to the pound.

Butler also announced increased allowances in tax-free income. The tax-free allowance was increased to £90 to £140 for a single person and £210 to £240 for a married couple. Allowances for children also were increased.

FOLLOWS CANADA

The income tax cut is the second announced by a Commonwealth country in the last month. Canada is reducing its basic rate by 10 per cent, effective July 1.

Butler also announced the purchase tax is being reduced from 50 to 25 per cent for cotton, rayon and linen textiles. This action is designed to aid the Lancashire textile industry, hard hit by Japanese and Indian competition.

Butler said he had halted a-deferred-action in Britain's economic position by clamping down on instalment buying and boosting interest rates in February.

Despite fierce competition abroad and a struggle to maintain the nation's gold and dollar reserves, the government does not intend to return to a system of consumer controls or rationing, Butler said.

ABOVE ESTIMATE

Butler said the government's total revenue for the 1954-55 fiscal year amounted to £4,784,000,000. This was £205,000,000 more than he had estimated.

But while the government was collecting more taxes at home, it suffered a £178,000,000 cumbling against the country.

Britain was importing more than she was exporting. Butler said that from October, 1954 to March, 1955 imports amounted to about £1,875,000,000—or some £225,000,000 more than in the corresponding months of the previous year.

Butler recalled that at the time of last year's budget Britons "were concerned about the possible effect of a recession in America."

STEMMED DECLINE

He added:

"I am glad to say that the government and people of the United States did much to stem the threat of economic decline in their output. Now I am able to announce a measure of new confidence and reinvigorated production in that country."

As to Britain's general business prospects, he said:

CBC Board Says 'Abuses' Must Cease at Once

OTTAWA (CP) — Use of simulated broadcasts of sports events by privately-owned radio stations may be further restricted by the CBC board of governors.

It issued the warning in declaring such broadcasts on a request by the three top Canadian football and hockey organizations for a regulation to prohibit reconstructed play-by-play broadcasts of sports events without the promoters' consent.

The board said it will pass a regulation at its next meeting to restrict the use of such broadcasts unless "serious abuses" cease.

T. J. Allard, executive vice-president of the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, welcomed the board's decision to defer a decision on the request. He said this will give private broadcasters "opportunity to fair-reaching implications."

The East's Big Four Football Union, the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the National Hockey League sought the prohibition at a meeting of the board Friday. They said the production of certain simulated broadcasts is "piracy" and that it is threatening the very existence of sports by sell live broadcasting rights to radio stations and broadcasting networks.

Most of Vaccine Output in U.S. Earmarked for School Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Manufacturers of Salk vaccine report that most of the output in the United States to date has been earmarked for distribution to school children by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Only two of the six companies licensed to produce the vaccine have released figures on the amount of the serum.

A tootsie shot, to be administered seven months later, will have to come from other sources.

Of the six vaccine manufacturers, Cutter Laboratories of San Francisco and Parke-Davis of Detroit, it said part of their output already has been sent to commercial outlets for private use.

Parke-Davis said it sent a "token commercial supply" to the drugstore in 20 cities the day after the vaccine was pronounced effective and safe April 12. Since then, it said, all its supply had been sent to the polio foundation.

Meanwhile, various groups have expressed concern over the distribution of the life-saving drug.

Bills were introduced in the U.S. Congress Monday that would let the president say which orders of the vaccine should be filled first to promote public welfare.

The national presidents of both the AFL and CIO have called for assurance that the serum will not be denied to any child because his parents are too poor to afford

Massachusetts Convicts Built Own Golf Course

BOSTON (AP)—The golfers in Massachusetts state prison have had their own "private" golf course and their golf clubs taken away from them.

In addition, deputy warden Albert Thompson and guard Victor Anchukaitis were suspended Monday for lowering four golf clubs from the wall to the prisoners March 31.

Acting warden Perley S. Vance said he had no knowledge of any golf course within the prison walls, but an employee of the correctional department said some of the prisoners who work in the foundry built a miniature course in the yard outside the shop.

Tension Appears In Auto Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The first noticeable air of tension was reported today in the CIO United Auto Workers' bargaining talks with the industry on new contracts.

This led to speculation that the union presented actual demands for a guaranteed annual wage during a four-hour session Monday with negotiators representing the Ford Motor Co.

California Man Was Too Strong For Own Good

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Merle Albert is a strong man, and when he came upon a strength-testing machine in the amusement zone he decided to find out how strong.

He picked up a hammer Monday and came down with a mighty blow that broke the indicator zooming up the shaft until it rang the bell.

But Albert didn't hear the bell. At hospital it was explained to him that the hammer had rebounded and struck him atop the head, inflicting a two-inch cut.

Six Toronto Citizens Held on Drug Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Six persons were arrested Monday on drug charges. Four were picked up in an early morning raid.

Charged with illegal possession of narcotics were Rose Curtain, 29, Roy Tudor, 37, Joseph Farmer, 41, and Edward Pirk, 26. They were arrested in the manager's office of the Victoria theatre.

George Johnson, 35, and Joseph Palmer, 55, were arrested in a Carlton street rooming house, police said. They were also charged with possession.

Three heroin capsules were seized in the two raids, police said.

SIGNAL WIGWAG
STANDARD BROKEN
BY TRANSPORT

A railway signal wigwag at the Canadian Pacific Railway crossing near the Bakelite plant, east of the city, came a cropper Monday when a Charlton auto transport got off the pavement and knocked the signal standard out.

Two cars on the transport were slightly damaged and the semi-trailer loaded with cars remained stuck in the mud at the side of the highway for several hours until it was hauled out. The transport was driven by Ronald Grant, of Trenton.

46 Years of Service With CNR Ends for Engineer Jack Hall

When Jack Hall, veteran CNR engineer, walked along the tracks near the north station last Thursday afternoon, he took a lingering look at the familiar surroundings. There may have been a glint of a tear in his eyes for it was the last look for him in an official capacity. It was the day of his retirement.

For nearly forty-six years, Engineer Hall has worn the familiar "tall cap" and overalls of a railroad man. Now he forsakes them for the "casuals" of a well-deserved retirement. What is he going to do? Just take it easy.

This reporter asked Mrs. Hall about it. "Don't ask me," she smiled. "I'm not retiring, he is."

Mr. Hall, who has enjoyed a well-deserved popularity with his fellow railroaders, was met by a small coterie of personal friends at the station when he took the "last walk." Representing the division was Master Mechanic J. H. Payne, who shook hands with the retiring engineer.

For forty-three years Mr. Hall stood at the throttle of the iron horses of the road. Up until four years ago he supervised the locomotives that drew passenger and freight trains on various "runs." He graduated early from his railroad college," for he was a fireman but three years when he was classified as an engineer, which holds the proud record of "no accidents" in the past four years he served as a yard engineer.

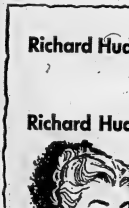
Mr. Hall was born in Shrivenham, Berkshire, England. In 1906, when he was 16 years of age, he came to Canada with a brother, William Hall, who later was killed while serving with the Canadian Army in World War One.

JACK HALL

His first glimpse of active work in Canada occurred in Peterborough. He first started there for a year then went to Montreal, where he became associated with the Canadian Northern Railway construction crew. He joined the Grand Trunk Railway in the eastern metropolis in 1909 and was sent to Belleville as a fireman.

PAST MASTER OF MOIRA

After three years here as a fireman he received his engineer's classification, and Jack Hall has maintained that proud record until a few days ago.



He is a past master of Moira Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 11, and a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

He married smiling Nora Johnson, of Marmora, when a young man and three boys were born to the union. Archie, Ted, a near-veteran CNR associate, now living in Long Branch, and Nick, at home.

Ted exemplifies the "three-boy" tradition of the family. He was the master of ceremonies at a reception held in Mr. Hall's home at 31 Canniff Road immediately following "dad's" retirement, and a host of friends attended, other friends dropped in to offer congratulations on a railroad life well said and done.

Ted, as was mentioned before, has carried on the "three-boy" tradition. A feature of the reception was the presentation of a handsome lazy-boy chair, presented to their grandpap by Eric, Johnny and red-headed, winsome, young Jimmy Hall, three grandsons, and sons of Ted. Mrs. Hall is the former Olive Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reid of this city, who were present at the reception.

Radio Engineers Form Institute For Six Counties

A meeting was held in the auditorium of the Prince Charles School on Friday, to organize a section of the Institute of Radio Engineers for the Counties of Hastings, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Peterborough, Frontenac and Lennox-Addington.

A provisional executive was set up with J. C. R. Punchard as chairman, R. L. Smith as vice-chairman, M. J. Walter as secretary-treasurer, R. Williamson and E. V. Burkett as members-at-large, all of Belleville, and W. H. Ryan of Kingston and W. H. Holmes of Trenton also as members-at-large.

The collection of signatures for a petition to the Institute's board of directors asking approval of the formation of the section was begun and those interested in becoming charter members of the group, whether or not they are already members of the Institute, are advised to contact Mr. Walter at R.R. 1, Trenton.

Dr. J. T. Henderson of the National Research Council at Ottawa, the Canadian National Director of the Institute, spoke on its organization and activities. It is an international body with headquarters in New York. Some 85 per cent of the 12,000 members are found on the North American continent, and 1,400 of these are Canadian. There are 21 sections, eight sections in Canada: at Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, London, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. Membership is open to those interested in the theoretical communications and allied fields for whom the Institute serves as a clearing house for the exchange of technical information.

C.H. Lusk Named Chairman Of Branch Institute

C. H. Lusk was elected chairman of the Belleville branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada at the annual meeting held in the Masonic Temple last evening.

A. D. Janitsch was elected vice-chairman and A. E. Argue, T. E. Flinn, B. B. Dowsman, J. C. R. Punchard and A. G. Tooth were elected to executive duties. Miss Grant was re-appointed secretary-treasurer. Mr. Lusk is associated with the Ontario Hydro and Mr. Janitsch with the Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. of Canada Ltd. Elected members on the executive committee represent such firms as Northern Electric and C.N.R.

A. O. Drysdale, the outgoing chairman, outlined the activities of the branch during the past year. He stressed the value of the monthly meetings to the members and expressed his satisfaction with the calibre of speakers who participated in the year's activities. He drew attention to the very successful professional development course consisting of six lectures held during the past winter organized by the Branch in collaboration with Queen's University. The course covered such topics as cost control, marketing control of assets, advertising etc.

The special speaker of the evening was Mr. C. M. Turnbull of Nesbitt Thomson & Co. Ltd. who delivered a talk on "How to Share in Canada's Growth". His remarks were very well received and the extended question period at the end of the formal talk indicated the interest of the members in financing and investment.

HOME DESTROYED

HORNING'S MILLS, Ont. (CP)—A seven-room frame house was destroyed by fire Sunday after it was believed lightning struck a barn and flames spread to the 84-year-old home, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown and their five children, from four to 14 years, were not hurt. Neighbors helped save most of the furniture. A bequest in the house was a landmark in this village, 90 miles north of Guelph.

Lloyd Lisk, RCAF, of Newfoundland.

The deceased was a member of Grace United Church, Trenton.

Police Court

Accused Given Fifteen Months On Fraud Count

Appearing for sentence on six charges of passing worthless cheques, David McFarland, Frankford and Belleville, was sentenced to 15 months in the common jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city police court this morning. McFarland had been convicted on the charges at a previous court session and was remanded until today for sentence.

McFarland was sentenced on one charge laid by Belleville police with the other sentences being given on two other city charges and three from the county.

A transient who said he was en route to Montreal was given a day in jail for ordering a 75c meal at a local restaurant knowing he had no money to pay for the meal.

A second offence drunk was fined $50 and costs or one month in jail, while another man was assessed $13 fine and costs or 8 days in jail for "consuming."

Both men will be given the opportunity of raising their fines, Magistrate Wills stating the city would rather have the money than keep them in jail.

Mayor John Both placed the first dial telephone call, on Saturday, inaugurating the new dial telephone system. He called Frank E. Pollwell, Member of Parliament for Hastings South. The call went through dial equipment especially prepared in advance of the main cutover when 10,000 Belleville telephones "went to dial."

Basement Workshop Praised By Rotary Club Speaker

The basement workshop yesterday was hailed by one of Canada's distinguished artists as "the finest thing for the twentieth — the mechanized age," because it provides an outlet for creative imagination relieving tension in a mentally burdening business hours.

Thor Hansen, Norwegian-Canadian artist and designer, speaking to Belleville Rotary at the Hotel Quinte, stressed the need for lively interest in after-hours arts and crafts as a means of easing frustration in working hours.

An engaging, witty speaker, Mr. Hansen, in the course of his talk, also prodded some modern day artists for affluence from a "country complex", authors who "tell us the world is in a mess", and scored articles sold as tourist souvenirs of Canada as "outrageous junk".

Taking authors to task for their attitude towards the modern world he said: "What we need the most leaders to tell us the world is in peace. We've got enough of that already."

"What we do expect from the leaders is that they be ahead of their times."

The keyword of the world's troubles today seemed to be "frustration".

"Everything is blamed on frustration," he said.

Among the cures advanced for frustration is more leisure time and more freedom, and: "that is just fine, except for one thing— it is not going to work."

"We have become spectators instead of participants" and "... as soon as we are left to our devices many of us are bored to tears."

Mr. Hansen said it was a serious affair when people became bored, but ill is a much more serious thing when leaders within the arts begin to suffer from boredom and disillusionment.

"I have seen a great many art exhibits that were far from happy," he said and continued that the reason for this is that some of our artists are suffering from a "misery complex."

LEADS TO DESTRUCTIVE

Misery loves company so the artist hangs up his misery so everyone can look at it.

"That sort of thing leads to defeatism."

Many of them seem to enjoy misery and it is just as dangerous as when people begin to enjoy ill health.

He also said that for some "utterly mysterious" reason newness in art is considered progress.

"Progress must be measured in more realistic terms than newness and novelty."

"It should be measured in happiness."

He believed the origin of happiness is perhaps his eternal quest for all that is beautiful.

"Before the machine age man was compelled to exercise his imagination" through his hands to live, but today he can have all the necessities of life without using his imagination," he said. Working at a machine pulling a lever for 40 hours a week makes it "no wonder he is frustrated."

Mr. Hansen said that the medical profession "is very concerned" about the problem of what may happen to the race generations from now.

MUST FIND OUTLET

Therefore it is necessary that man must find a natural creative outlet for his mind, through his hands into matter.

Arts and crafts he thought is such an outlet.

Speaking on the economics of arts and crafts he pointed out the popularity of tourist souvenirs and took a slant at the goods being sold as souvenirs of Canada.

He described several souvenirs he had examined, most of them imported here, and noted that Canada imports as it is $12 million worth of "that junk" annually to sell as souvenirs of the Dominion.

However the monetary value is not the worst feature. We should not stick labels on "junk" and sell them as souvenirs of Canada.

It will take some time to raise a school of craftsmen in Canada to produce good souvenirs but . . . in the meantime arts and crafts is a good business."

City Firemen Help to Quell Raging Grass Fire

A raging grass fire, burning out of control for several hours burned over a large area south of No. 2 Highway near Shannonville on Monday evening and city firemen were called to assist in bringing it under control.

Motorists passing at the height of the blaze said the flames were burning on a front nearly half a mile wide and before it was brought under control had spread to a nearby marsh. It started early this morning extinguished the last of the blaze.

Two other calls were answered by city firemen, one of the runs being Monday morning for a grass blaze on No. 2 Highway and again last evening for a bonfire on Wyatt St.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—All major sections eased in brisk early afternoon trading at the stock market today.

Industrials, which Monday climbed to within reach of record peaks, led the downward trend. At noon at 1 p. m. EST was 3,385,000, slightly less than Monday's at the same hour.

Most base metal issues were hit by profit-taking after their recent climbs while most uraniums and rare metal stocks were higher.

Western oils were off but golds showed little change after hitting a 1954-1955 high in earlier trading today.

National Explorations was one of the biggest gainers in the uranium group jumping 38 to 52.40 on 205,000 shares.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1 15-32 per cent in the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 39¾ cents. Pound sterling $2.75 11-16 against $2.75½.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Trade was active today at firm prices over Monday on all grades of slaughter steers, heifers and good and choice fed yearlings the Ontario public stockyards.

Medium-fed yearlings continued to meet a narrow demand. Cows regained Monday's 50-cent loss to sell steady to last week's close while bulls were firm.

Receipts: cattle 630; calves 210; hogs 480; sheep and lambs 225; holdover from Monday 2,520 cattle.

Prices: choice steers, all weights 20-25; good steers 19-20; medium 16-19; commons 13-15; choice heifers 18-19; good heifers 17-18; mediums 14-16; commons 12-14; boner steers and heifers 10-12; choice fed yearlings 20.50-21; good fed yearlings 19-20; mediums 17-19; good cows 13.50-14; tops at 14.50; good light heifery..cows to 15.50; canners and cutters down to 8; good heavy bologna bulls 13-14; baloboners to 15; common and medium light bulls down to 10.

Replacement cattle: good stockers 19-20; mediums 16-18.

Calves were steady at 21-24 for good and choice vealers; mediums 15-20; commons 10-15.

Hog prices were not established.

Part of a double-deck of medium-good western-feeded lambs sold at 21.50; part of another double-deck sold at 22.50; Ontario feedlot lambs were 22; good light sheep 8-10; common and heavy sheep down to 4.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings sufficient for a quiet demand.

ON EVE OF VOTE

"Some of our export markets may be difficult but in general there are good prospects the world over for increasing our trade and opportunities to increase our exports this year. But we shall not achieve the essential increase unless our goods stand up to competition, particularly from the U. S. A., Germany and Japan."

Butler's central theme was to help the wage earning family man. Referring to changes in the income tax structure he said:

"I put this proposal forward as further evidence of my firm intention to do all I can to help parents of families, on whom the present load of taxation falls with a especially discouraging effect."

By increasing tax-free allowances Butler removed 2,400,000 taxpayers in the lower income groups from all income tax liability.

Butler said the tax changes in wages would become effective from the first pay day after July 5.

He described the six-pence standard income tax rate cut as a boon for all industries. It was estimated the income tax reduction will cost the government about $102,000,000 in the 1955-56 fiscal year and about $110,000,000 a year thereafter.

It was the first budget day in history which London daily newspapers to herald the event. The national circulating newspapers have had no strike-bound for 36 days.

STABILITY NEEDED

Butler told the House that expansion of the economy must be combined with stability.

He said: "Our experience in 1954 has shown us how rich an opportunity we have of increasing the future standard of living of our people. Now we must decide how we may best maintain that progress and at the same time keep in balance with the rest of the world."

Speaking of the balance of payments situation, Butler said the last year has shown that while it was right to run the economy in a free and expanding mood, problems could spring from the very success which it had been "their happy lot to achieve."

RECALLS TRADE GAP

Butler then referred to Britain's unfavorable trade gap—difference between imports and exports—late last year which caused him to raise the Bank of England's interest rate to 4½ per cent and tighten up credit in general.

"Thank God we took that action in time," he said. "Already in the field of international exchange this action has produced results which take the shape I had hoped for."

The chancellor pointed out that the rate of decline in relation to the dollar had shown an increase.

Former Pirates Shell Viet Nam Army Building

By JOHN RODERICK

SAIGON (AP)—The Binh Xuyen private army shelled the headquarters of the Vietnamese national army this afternoon in a new outbreak of violence in South Viet Nam.

Eight nationalist soldiers and two Binh Xuyen commanders were wounded in a 55-minute battle which raged around the three-story yellow building in the heart of Saigon.

The bombardment of the head quarters was the most serious break in the uneasy truce between the government and the Binh Xuyen since their street battle March 30. At least 28 persons were killed and 112 wounded in that clash.

KIDNAP CHARGE

In a brief outbreak Monday, the army charged the Binh Xuyen with kidnapping a national soldier and later firing on two army vehicles, killing the driver of one.

The attack on the headquarters aroused a new wave of anti-French feeling among the army officers and troops. They accused the French of supporting the Binh Xuyen in its political-military feud with Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The Binh Xuyen, a society of former river pirates who formerly controlled the organized gambling and vice in Saigon, has banded with the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai religious sects to demand Diem's removal.

Oshawa Scene Of District Meet For Order of Elks

Over 100 members of the Executive and Past Exalted Rulers of Elks from Belleville, Napanee, Picton, Oshawa, and Toronto lodges met Sunday at Oshawa for the Ontario District, No. 3, meeting.

The meeting was held under the chairmanship of district president, Elwood Dulmage, past Exalted Ruler of Oshawa lodge.

A. "Tony" Kostoken, Past Exalted Ruler of Toronto, with over 25 years active membership in Elkdom, was chosen president with Ralph Downey, Exalted Ruler of Belleville lodge, re-named secretary and Fred S. Farmer, secretary of the Belleville lodge, chosen treasurer.

After dinner speakers included the newly-elected officer, also John Gibbard, Past Exalted Ruler; Grand Exalted Ruler from Toronto; Harry D. Bowers, Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler from Picton, and J. A. S. Dixon, Past Exalted Ruler from Toronto. Mrs. Connie Wilkinson, Honored Royal Lady of the Order of the Royal Purple, thanked the Elks lodge for friendly welcome extended.

The next district meeting will be held at Toronto in October.

Pickersgill Reads To Parliament What He Said

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Pickersgill, who was quoted last week as saying that no immigrant is as good as another Canadian baby, Monday read to the Commons what he had said on the matter.

He said he told a meeting at Victoria, B.C.:

"We all want to increase the population of this country and for that purpose, if they are equally good people, I don't believe that any immigrant—no matter where he comes from—is as good as he is as good as anther Canadian baby because the immigrant has to learn to be a Canadian and the baby is a Canadian to start with."

The original report of Mr. Pickersgill's statement was criticized last week by several opposition members including George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview) who said the statement created two classes of citizens.

ASKS EXPLANATION

Opposition Leader Drew pressed for an explanation when the Commons reconvened Monday after the Easter recess. He asked whether immigration policy is based on the belief that no immigrant is as good as a Canadian person.

Mr. Pickersgill replied by reading a letter he had written to Mr. Hees. He prefaced the letter by saying he felt the Conservatives would wish to make use of his reported statement. The letter went on to give the complete sentence on which the report was based.

Mr. Drew, commenting on Mr. Pickersgill's reply, said he regretted that the matter in such important matter had been placed on political grounds. The statement as originally reported had created an unfortunate controversy.

The Commons exchange was closed out when D. R. Michener (PC — Toronto St. Paul's) asked whether Mr. Pickersgill—minister of citizenship and immigration—is thinking of calling his office the 'ministry of citizenship and propagation."

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment continued to rise during most of March, the government reported today in its monthly job survey.

But it added there were indications that a spring employment pickup had begun by the end of the month.

At March 19, the bureau of statistics estimated, there were 401,000 persons without jobs and looking for work. This was up by 22,000 from a month earlier and compared with 321,000 a year before.

At the same time, the labor department said that at March 17 the number of persons receiving unemployment insurance benefits was 532,913. The comparative figure for Feb. 17 was 613,439, while for March of 1954 it was 369,-000.

POST-WAR PEAKS

Both sets of March figures were post-war peaks, superseding the previous highs of February. March normally is the peak year for Canadian unemployment.

Meanwhile, the number of persons who worked during the week of March 19 declined slightly, the back of the head and left hand.

Her injuries were not considered serious.

CHIEF ORDERS CRACKDOWN

Chief Constable F. J. Taylor ordered a crackdown on children shooting off firecrackers in the public place or street. His decision followed an accident in which Sherman Corry, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Corry of 70 McLellan Ave., was burned severely on the thigh by a number of unexploded ones that landed in his pocket. The youth was lighting fire crackers, when the others caught fire.

He was treated by Dr. W. H. Bailey and then moved to the Trenton Memorial Hospital where his condition has improved.

A VALLEY CONSERVATION AUTHORITY

The Moira Valley Conservation Authority, fifth largest of 19 river valley authorities in Ontario, is part of a constructive program of importance not only to members but to the entire province. All conservation authorities come under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development.

Conservation of natural resources and expert planning for the development of river valleys is an important task. Organized conservation authorities; with the technical, moral and financial assistance of the government, are able to study an area's needs and to make recommendations for maximum utilization of existing facilities. They are also able to implement constructive programs for the area under their care.

What do river valley authorities do?

A conservation authority program is concerned with practical means of conserving and developing the land, forests, streams and recreational facilities in its area. It bases its recommendations and its activities on the results obtained from detailed studies of the entire river valley, keeping in mind the inter-relationship of all features of its program for the maximum benefit of agriculture, industry and recreation.

The special virtue of a river valley authority is that it can command the best technical and professional assistance available through government aid and apply the resources and personnel of a government department to the assessment of local conditions.

Problems concerning streams are many and complex. The authorities must consider not only effective means of sewage disposal and of minimizing stream of pollution for production of public water supplies and game and nongame fish, but must also consider such things as maintaining summer stream flow where necessary, projects aid taining summer stream flow where necessary, projects aid agricultural drainage, water table in fast-growing urban and industrial areas; flood control programs involving reforestation, dam construction, and channel maintenance, and the beautification facts of flood control published by river valley authorities is that control dams are not the whole answer. Conservationists have been among the first to point out that public support generated among the first to point out that public support generated among the first to point out that public support generated

Editor, Playwright Winner Of Leacock Medal for Humor

TORONTO (CP) — Robertson Davies, playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner, is the winner of the Leacock medal for humor for 1954 and Robert Tyre, public relations officer in Saskatchewan's industrial development office, wins the University of British Columbia medal for popular biography.

The awards were announced Friday night by R. D. Hilton Smith, chairman of the governor-general's awards board which administers the Leacock medal for the Stephen Leacock Memorial Committee of Orillia, Ont., and the UBC medal for the university.

Mr. Davies received the Leacock award for his second novel, "Leaven of Malice," a tale of the small Ontario city he calls "Salterton," which is often identified with Kingston, Ont., and is the scene of his earlier "Tempest-Tost."

LIFE OF DOCTOR

Robert Tyre's prize-winning book is "Saddlebag Surgeon," the life story of Murrough O'Brien, M.D., who was born in 1868 and is still practising as a prairie doctor in Saskatchewan.

Robertson Davies, son of Senator Rupert Davies, was literary editor of the magazine Saturday Night for two years before becoming editor of the Peterborough Examiner. Of his plays, "Fortune, My Foe," he believed to have been performed more times in Canada than any other present play by a Canadian. His "Eros at Breakfast" was performed at the Edinburgh Festival in 1948. Another, "A Jig for the Gypsy," had its world premiere at Toronto's Crest Theatre last September.

"Leaven of Malice" was published in England last January by Chatto and Windus, and will be published in the United States by Scribner's this summer.

VERSATILE WRITER

Robert Tyre, author of "Saddlebag Surgeon," was born in Scotland and educated in Winnipeg. In the 30s he did dramatic acting for the CBC and fiction for American pulps. He was with the RCAF for five years in the last war, mainly in a writing capacity, including publicity for training, editing of service publications and scripts for the RCAF radio show.

As a working newspaper man, Mr. Tyre until recently was provincial editor of the Regina Leader-Post, and editor of the Saskatchewan Municipal Record, organ of the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities. He resigned these posts to take up the provincial industrial department position. His first book, "Along the Highway," a collection of his newspaper columns, was published in 1951.

HUMORIST

Robertson Davies, playwright and editor of the Peterborough Examiner, is the winner of the Leacock medal for humor for 1954. 60,000 Ballots Ordered by Govt. For Armed Forces

TORONTO (CP) — Persistent rumors that Premier Frost plans to hold a general election in June were strengthened Monday night when it was reported the government has ordered 60,000 ballots for the armed forces.

Although the premier has said he has not given thought to an election, Queen's Park observers feel he will announce the date at London April 30 when he speaks at the annual convention of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Speculation on the date has ranged from June 6 to June 30. Since a Monday election has generally been favored by the Progressive Conservatives, it seems likely then that if the election is to be this summer it will be June 30.

REPEATS DENIAL

However, Mr. Frost commented Monday :

"I can only repeat what I have said before. I have given no thought to an election."

It is estimated at Queen's Park that about 43,000 members of the armed services in Canada and overseas will be eligible to vote in the next election.

Meanwhile, opposition parties are going ahead with nominations. The CCF has nominated more than 30 candidates. Liberal nominations are nearing the 80 mark.

Only about 25 Progressive Conservative candidates have been named for the 98 seats to be contested but most of these nominations are in seats not held by the Government, or new seats created in last year's redistribution. Generally speaking, government candidates are expected to wait until the election date has been announced before seeking renomination.

established rather than to take up problems at which the delegates were at odds. This the policy advocated behind the scenes by India and some others.

On Formosa, Chou said: "Over the tension created solely by the United States in the area of Taiwan (Formosa), we could have submitted for consideration by the conference an item such as the proposal made by the Soviet Union for seeking a settlement through an international conference."

NO PROPOSAL

But "we have no proposals," Chou asserted. "China could raise the question of the liberation of Taiwan and the neighboring islands. We could have made criticism of the unfair treatment of China in the United Nations but we are not going to do that."

Most of the speech followed a conciliatory line, even in Chou's chiefly his contention that "peaceful coexistence" can be realized.

He declared that communism seeks to interfere in the internal affairs of independent countries, and said China is ready to co-operate for cultural and economic development.

The attorney-general Monday reported to Mr. Frost on the results of his trip last week to Alberta.

Mr. Porter had gone to the western province at the request of Mr. Manning to discuss certain aspects of the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., project which would export Alberta's gas to eastern markets by an all-Canadian route of 2,300 miles.

suggested the government consider bringing the National Library's vast braille books of literature and other intellectual materials. These could be passed out through the universities and blind students then would be afforded an opportunity to go to these universities to take higher learning.

Plan Air Show For Navy Reunion At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH — A flying display by aircraft of the Naval Reserve Squadron from Toronto will be one of the chief attractions on the opening day of the naval veterans' reunion at Peterborough, April 30 — May 1.

The squadron, VC-920, under the command of Lt.-Cdr. (P) R. D. Bunyard, RCN(R), will fly to Peterborough from its base at Toronto's RCAF Downsview Airport and will stage a half-hour exhibition over the Peterborough area.

The Toronto squadron, composed of Harvards and Avengers — the latter the Royal Canadian Navy's front-line anti-submarine aircraft — is the largest of the naval reserve air squadrons across Canada, manned entirely by reserve officers and men.

The pilots of VC-920 are typical of naval reserve personnel. Among them are a department store buyer, a doctor, an oil company employee, an airline pilot, a sales engineer. Service flying is not new to most of them, however. Lt.-Cdr. Bunyard and two of his officers served during the Second World War with the Royal Navy's Fleet Air Arm. Others have served with the RCAF and RAF.

The squadron carries out its flying and maintenance training during week-ends and holidays, and for two weeks during the summer operates from HMCS Shearwater, the naval air station at Dartmouth, N.S.

Fight to Save Big Snow Geese In Quebec Has Been Won

By GEORGE FRAZION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's game and fisheries officials are not really annoyed at complaints that snow geese are invading farmers' clover fields.

To them it's just another proof that the fight to save the big white birds from extinction has been won. And the damage done by the geese so far has been negligible.

The snow geese flock—believed the only one in existence—was down to 2,000 birds in 1936 when the federal and provincial governments got together to protect it. Last fall, when the birds arrived as they have done for countless centuries at Cap Tourmente and Cap St. Lawrence river islands 30 miles east of Quebec, they numbered 73,000.

The birds spend the winters in the southern United States, and the summers in the Arctic wastes. They make Quebec a sort of halfway point on each migration.

REGULAR EVENT

To Quebecers, the surest signs of spring or autumn, are the flights of snow geese coming to Cap Tourmente. The early French explorers knew of the flock. But with unrestricted hunting through the centuries it dwindled to the low point in 1936. Since then it has increased each year except in 1951 and last year, when the flock remained stable.

There have been suggestions that the flock should not be allowed to grow any bigger, said Jean-Paul Provencal, superintendent of the game and fisheries department. "If the flock increases again there won't be enough food for them in their normal habitat. The reports that they've begun invading clover fields seems to support this contention.

Normally the birds are content to eat the sedge-grass that grows freely below Cap Tourmente and on Crane Island and Goose Island, he said.

The snow geese arrive and leave Cap Tourmente with almost clockwise precision. Small flights of the birds began arriving at the end of March, and a large and larger bodies flew in daily, although delayed for a time by a series of spring blizzards.

COUNTED IN MAY

In mid-May, the Quebec and federal governments will make counting them, just to confirm the mid-winter count done by the U.S. fish and wildlife service. Aerial photographs of the flock are taken from a small plane supplied by the game department's flying warden service and the picture closely studied.

By the end of May, the geese will be leaving the Ungava Island and northern Greenland, where they breed. At one stage of their spring cycle, the geese lose all their feathers and can neither swim nor fly. At this stage they are almost helpless before natural enemies such as Arctic wolves.

Near the beginning of October, the geese begin coming back to Cap Tourmente on their way south. Hunting is permitted only then, with a daily bag limit set at five and possession limit at 10. Private gun clubs, provincial game wardens and RCMP make sure the hunting regulations are enforced.

Once they've survived the hunting season, the geese are safe for another year as they are protected while wintering off the coasts of Virginia and the Carolinas.

HELP EDUCATION

Dr. William Blair of Lanark, Progressive Conservative health spokesman, was among those urging a starting age of 16. He said it would provide for early education to overcome the handicap of blindness and eliminate the gap between family allowances, which end at 16, and the blind pension.

Mr. Caldwell proposed federal help in construction of more provincial schools for the blind so that some students would not have to travel so far from home. He and Mr. Lord urged "considerable" increase in the income ceiling to compensate for higher living costs facing blind persons.

Health Minister Martin, referring to the startling rise for pensions, said it was cut to 21 years from 40 in 1940. A bill now is being brought in line with the age limit under the Disability Allowance Act. In future consideration of changes, all groups of disability pensioners should be dealt with on the same basis.

KNOWS PROBLEM

G. K. Fraser (PC — Peterborough) said he knows what blind persons go through. He had a daughter who went blind following a fall from a horse.

The blind don't want sympathy, he said. They wanted to be able to do things on their own and that was what the Canadian National Institute for the Blind had done for them.

Early Solution Of Financing Pipeline Near

TORONTO (CP)—The possibility of an early solution to the financial difficulties holding up construction of a pipeline to carry Alberta's natural gas to Ontario seems brighter than ever, Ontario government officials reported Monday night.

Top level talks will start Wednesday at Queen's Park when Premier Frost and Attorney-General Dana Porter confer with Alberta's Premier Manning with the pipeline's financing being the main subject of conversation.

The attorney-general Monday reported to Mr. Frost on the results of his trip last week to Alberta.

Residents Honored On 50th Wedding Anniversary

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McLaren, Melrose, were happy to meet about 200 of their relatives and friends on the occasion of their 50th anniversary. Mrs. Wm. Coulter of Chatham, the bride's maid, was able to be present.

Many notes of congratulation and best wishes were received including one from Premier Frost of Ontario, as well as numerous gifts of flowers, articles to bring them comfort and happiness. Donations of money were also presented.

Ideal weather conditions added greatly in making this a memorable day in the community.

FIND AGED JAW

PARIS (Reuters)—The fossilized jawbone of a man who lived 250,000 years ago had been discovered near Casablance, French Morocco, according to a report made to the French Academy of Science.

Weddings

REID — ELLIS

Holloway Street United Church was the setting for the wedding of Doreen Gladys, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Ellis, of Belleville, to Douglas Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, of Trenton. The wedding took place April 15th, 1955, at 3 p.m., with the Reverend Sidney F. Larman officiating.

Mr. William Connor accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Fred Newman, who sang "Because" and "Through the Years."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an embroidered satin of white lace featuring a strapless bodice and cummerbund of pearled white rayon. The matching jacket was of white lace with long sleeves and stand-up collar. Her headdress consisted of a beaded band and shoulder-length veil, held in place with an embroidered edge. She carried an orchid, edged by white carnations, interspersed with white angel feathers.

Miss Shirley Alves, of Toronto, was maid of honor. Miss Loreen May, Mrs. May Ward, both of Belleville, and Miss Dorothy Reid, sister of the bridegroom, of Trenton, were bridesmaids. The four attendants were dressed in waltz-length dresses of smoke-blue sculptured taffeta. Their gowns featured short jackets, rounded neckline, fitted bodices and full skirts. Their short mitts were of matching material and their head-dresses were in the same style as the bride. They carried open-face nosegays of pink carnations trimmed with lovelace fluffs.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Mervyn Potts, of Wilton, and the ushers were Messrs. Fred Ellis, uncle of the bride, and Wayne Lafferty and Robert Ward.

The reception was held in the church parlors where the bride's mother, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, received the guests. Both mothers were dressed in navy with white accessories and were corsages of pink roses.

For travelling the bride chose a black tailored suit, pink coat with black accessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa, Whitby, Oshawa, Trenton and Frankford.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Reid will reside at 918 Centre Street, Whitby, Ontario.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the guest of honor at various showers.

Mrs. May Ward entertained at her home in the form of a personal shower. Miss Loreen May was hostess at a miscellaneous shower, which was held at her home. Miss Shirley Alves also held a miscellaneous shower in honor of the bride. Mrs. Ronald Walmsley entertained a few friends of the bride, when she was presented with a pair of brass candlesticks—Belleville and Hollowayites. Donations of money were also presented.

Ideal weather conditions added greatly in making this a memorable day in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Badgley Happily Married for 50 Years

A nine-roomed brick house on Frankford's main street is the "new" home for Mr. and Mrs. Lorne F. Badgley, formerly of Sidney township, who recently were "at home" to well over 100 friends and relatives on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Farm residents for 50 years Mr. and Mrs. Badgley sold their farm on the 5th of Sidney last summer and moved to Frankford where they have since been busy renovating the large brick home, where they now live. They have no children.

"It's really bigger than we needed," Mrs. Badgley said of their new home, "but with the present housing shortage it is the best we could do."

It was like returning home for Mr. and Mrs. Badgley when they moved to Frankford. Both were born in the village but owing to Mr. Badgley's long association with Sidney township farm they did not meet each other until one night after church years later.

Married at the bride's home in Frankford by Methodist minister the late Rev. Mr. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Badgley immediately took up farming at the 2nd Sidney farm which they operated until 1939. Mr. Badgley was then elected and Mrs. Badgley lived retired on the farm until it was sold last summer.

Mrs. Badgley is the former Ethel Windover, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Windover, while Mr. Badgley is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Badgley. He is 75 and she is 72.

OWNED FIRST CAR

Although they started farming with horses and milked their 8 cows by hand, Mr. Badgley was quick to see the advantages of mechanized equipment.

He owned one of the first cars in the district, 1914 Ford—and was quick to instal a milking machine and purchase a tractor. He has forgotten how many automobiles he has owned in the past 40 years but remembers the Gray Dort and Durant models, which years ago went out of production and the last week he purchased a new 1955 model.

They enjoy the night television shows and are presently planning another trip—the cruise enabling them to bring in more stations. They missed out on a honeymoon at the time of their marriage but are looking forward to a postanniversary trip to Vancouver.

Throughout their married life they have attended United Church at Wellington, where Mrs. Badgley still belongs to the W.A. and W.M.S. and Mr. Badgley is still an elder. He is also a member of the Masonic lodge at Frankford.

MANY GIFTS RECEIVED

The number of gifts and messages of congratulations received from friends and relatives on their anniversary attested to the place held by the 50-year-old couple are held in the community. They received two lovely bedspreads from their brothers and sister and nephews and nieces; from the Wallbridge Institute they received a mix-master and engraved pen and pencil sets from the Wallbridge community.

Fiftieth anniversaries are run of the mill for the Badgley family.

Back in 1924 Mr. Badgley's parents observed their 50th anniversary and in recent months two sisters and a brother have celebrated a half century of marriage.

Family members married 50 years are Mrs. Badgley's oldest sister Maude, Mrs. C. M. Sine; a second sister Della, now Mrs. Milton Seward, and his brothers, Charles Badgley.

Belleville, Prince Edward Club Meets

The April meeting of the Belleville Prince Edward Club was held at the Y.M.C.A. with the president, Mrs. Wannamaker presiding. The treasurer and corresponding secretary gave reports and business was discussed.

The trip to Kingston to visit the Institute for the Blind was arranged for chartered bus to leave Y.M.C.A. at 1.00 p.m. on May 11.

Mrs. Rolut kindly invited the club to hold their May meeting at the Blue Top Cabins, R. R. 1, Belleville on No. 2 Highway to take the form of a pot luck picnic. This was accepted.

Mrs. McCoy reported for cards sent out and thanks received from several.

PROGRAM

The program was convened by Mrs. J. Garbutt and Mrs. Montgomery and opened with community singing. Mrs. Weese led in a memorial for Mrs. H. Parliament, one of the first and oldest members, and read Lord Tennyson's poem "Crossing the Bar", followed by prayer, and a two minute silence.

Mrs. MacCullough read a poem "It isn't the clothes you wear, it's you!"

Miss Marilyn Barber and her sister Jean, contributed two lovely duets "All In An April Evening" and "Danny Boy".

Mrs. Montgomery gave a fine reading "Money Doesn't Mean Everything In This World", and Mrs. Garbutt closed with a talk on "The Three Bones" — Back Bones, Funny Bones and Jaw Bones, in her usual good form.

Refreshments were served by the group, and thanks extended to all for their contributions.

Canada Hall In Israel To Be Opened

MONTREAL (CP)—The Hadassah organization of Canada is planning to send representatives to Jerusalem for the dedication of Canada Hall, the first building of the Hebrew university.

Two chartered planes will leave New York May 4, carrying about 60 Hadassah members under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Cog, of Sydney, N.S.

Israeli President Yitzhak Ben-Zvi and Prime Minister Moshe Sharett will attend the dedication ceremony May 8.

Canada Hall, financed by Hadassah funds, will house a library, museum and auditorium which bears Canada's coat-of-arms. Each province has sent a stone to be set in the floor of the entrance hall.

Hadassah representatives will take Canadian maple saplings to be planted on the campus.

2 Shoemaking Shops Making Couple Happy

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Annie Stamler, 60, has put the shoe on the other foot.

Eight years ago she invaded one of the last male strongholds—shoemaking. When she and her 58-year-old husband, Tom, left their Manitoba farm in 1947 they opened two shoemaking shops—one in Ottawa and another in nearby Gatineau Park, where they lived for a while.

Annie looked after the Gatineau shop for the two years they operated it.

"She's an expert dressmaker," says her husband. "She found it easy to learn to sew leather and she's very neat, which is important in this kind of work."

The couple, who came to Canada from Hungary in 1926, now have only one shop, next door to their Ottawa home. Although she no longer does full-time shoemaking, Annie still pitches in when business piles up.

STRIKES TAX RATE

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—City council Monday night struck a 1955 general tax rate of 58.8 mills, the same as last year, in a successful hold-the-line budget policy. Budget is for an all-time high of $1,-

FRONT ROAD UNITED CHURCH W.A.

The April meeting of Front Rd. United Church W.A., was held in the Church. The president opened the meeting in the usual manner and welcomed all members and visitors.

Business period was conducted by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Geddes Bradshaw, gave her report and read letters and cards of thanks. Arrangements were made for a supper social in May.

Mrs. Ray Clasie conducted the devotional reading of the scripture. Others taking part were Mrs. T. J. Brewer, Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, Mrs. J. Botting, Mrs. T. Whittle, Mrs. Clifford Reid led in prayer.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. T. Whittle. Each member is asked to bring a handkerchief for the bazaar. Little Joy Whittle took up the collection.

Refreshments were served in the hall.

SHANNONVILLE W. A.

The monthly meeting of the W. A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, Thursday evening with 16 ladies in attendance. The meeting opened with an Easter hymn with Mrs. Stanley MacDonald accompanied thanks for cards sent to her husband during his sickness.

The treasurer, Miss Sara Stickney, reported a successful day catering at Scott's livestock sale last Tuesday.

It was decided to send good used clothing with the M. S. quilts to be brought to the church. Three members were appointed to help pack the box and the W.A. will pay half the expense of sending it away.

A committee was appointed to contact the Church board about painting the inside of the church. W. A. to pay for the paint and work.

Offerings were dedicated with prayer by the president.

After the closing, Mrs. Vivian ready to entertain the Master that she had no time to minister to those who are her help this day. She turned away a woman, a crippled woman and a child because she had no time to assist them. She was disappointed that the Master didn't come after all her work and preparation.

In a dream that night, she realized she had missed three opportunities of helping needy ones that day, "for as much as ye did it not to one of the least of these my brethren we did it not to me".

Mrs. M. S.

The devotional was closed with prayer by Mrs. A. Houston. Mrs. Vivian thanked Mrs. Shetler and her group for their fine devotional.

A note of thanks was read from Mrs. Lillian Furl for the Easter card she received from the W.A. Mrs. Charles Kleri thanked the W.A. for the cards sent her when she was ill, Mrs. Elmer Vivian gave her thanks for the same. Mrs. Stanley MacDonald expressed thanks for cards sent to her husband during his sickness.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

CAN A MAN "JUST OVERLOOK" A WOMAN'S PAST?

There probably isn't anyone in the world who hasn't heard the old saying that sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." But I can't help wondering if anybody has ever heard of things actually working out that way.

Acting on this theory, more than one wife with an unfaithful husband has tried to solve the problem of going out and having an affair herself, only to find that, while her husband expects her to forgive and forget his own misdeed, he is by no means ready to do the same in regard to her.

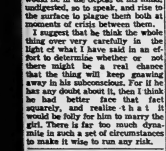
Naturally, I'm not advocating such a step as any wife's part. I am merely leading up to the simple fact that a man is far less likely to accept attempts in his wife's past than she is to do the same thing in regard to the man she loves.

Whether or not the young man who writes me the following letter has any such "past" in his own life he does not say, but he is very uncertain as to what he should do, or could, overlook the "past" of the girl in whom he has become interested.

"I would like to know if you think it wise for a man to plan to marry a girl who admits she has had an affair," he writes me. "I have a feeling about it until I asked her about a rumor I had heard. Then I knew.

"I am sure I love this girl, and I feel sure she loves me, too. But I find it almost impossible to put her past out of my mind.

"What I want to know is, do you think that if we were to be married, the way I feel about this past incident would affect our happiness, or do you think I should just overlook the whole thing, since it happened before we even knew each other?"



Whether or not these two could have a happy married life would, in my opinion, depend entirely on how mature this young man is. And I mean maturity in the sophisticated so far as his knowledge of worldly matters is concerned, but primarily immature when it comes to less tangible things. And it is his employment of these less tangible things, such as insight and understanding, that will tell him if he has stock of knowledge about what we might call "the facts of life," that he put to the test when he faces this type of situation this young man is up against.

There are many men who pride themselves on being "modern" in their attitude toward what goes on in the world and, theoretically, claim they expect a girl to be just as virtuous from the girls they make their wives than they feel these same girls should expect of them. When it comes to the necessity of putting that theory into practice, however, the number of men who are really willing to do so is by no means equal to the number who profess it. There goes that double standard again, if you like. But whatever you call it, it's still a very powerful factor in determining the success or failure of many modern marriages.

From the more secular young man's letter, I get the impression that he may not, perhaps, even be among those who believe in these selves "modern" in their attitude toward girls who have affairs. On the contrary, I feel that he doesn't like the idea at all, and I doubt very much if he'll ever get to be free minds it any less as times goes on.

I may be quite wrong, of course, but I'm afraid I have my doubts about the wisdom of a marriage between himself and the girl he describes. He might believe he could, as he suggests, "just overlook" the incident in her past over which he is obviously so concerned. But I strongly suspect that he never much he may want to overlook it, and however much he feels that he might be able to do so, it would lie in the depths of his mind, unforgotten, so to speak, ready to rise to the surface to plague them both at moments of crisis between them.

I suggest that he think the whole thing over very carefully in the light of what I have said in an effort to determine whether or not there might be a real chance that the thing will keep gnawing away in his subconscious. For if he has any doubt about it, then I think he had better face that fact squarely, and realize that it would be folly for him to marry the girl. There is far too much dynamite in such a set of circumstances to make it wise to run any risk.

Dr. Boyce Addresses W.M.S. Meeting

RAWDON — The April meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Jeffs. There were 15 members and five visitors and several children in attendance.

The meeting was opened with a quiet music played by Miss Ruth Linn. The W.A. president read a poem, following which the group hymn "Take up Thy Cross," and prayer.

The program convener, Mrs. Roy Thrasher, presided in place of the W.A. president.

The recording secretary presented her report. The report of the treasurer gave $35.50 thankoffering to date. Mrs. Percy MacMullen dedicated the birthday cent in the program she read a story, "One Who Shared Easter," by Margaret Sherwood, which gave a glimpse of John Frederic Oberlin, Valley of Stones, France. The corresponding secretary read two letters of thanks; the commercial friendship secretary recorded 25 house calls, as well as a few bandaid calls. The supply department would like print quilt blocks and patches.

The three delegates, Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Mrs. John Hulbert and Mrs. Herbert Smith each gave a full report of a session of Belleville Presbyterial held in March at Picton.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker was Mrs. George D. Bryce, M.A., Ph.D., the former Lucy Winifred Robinson, daughter of a Church of England foreign missionary. Dr. Winifred Bryce has given full time service as a missionary and in 1945 she wrote the W.M.S. Study Book, "India at the Threshhold."

Dr. Bryce has served as secretary of the Christian Home Committee of the National Council of India and Pakistan and has also edited a magazine in India.

Dr. Winifred Bryce went as a missionary at the time of 1918 and on her first furlough in 1928 she obtained her M.A. degree. She and her husband returned to Canada in 1954 and both are now retired.

EASTER PROGRAM

The Easter program was based on "Christ, the Hope of the World," and all sang Cecil Alexander's Easter hymn. Miss Ruth Linn contributed a vocal solo. The convener read a poem and Mrs. Ira David read the Bible lesson. Mrs. Ernest Spencer gave a reading, "The Two Mites." Mrs. Carlton Potts and Mrs. Will McAdam sang "The Old Rugged Cross" with Mrs. Ken Weaver as accompanist.

Miss Doris Sine read a prepared paper on "The Meaning of Easter."

Mrs. Frank Jeffs spoke briefly and expressed thanks for hospitality, the program and reports.

The service closed with "Throned Upon the Awful Tree," and a special prayer from the March monthly, "Bless Us and Make Us aware of the Glory of the Presence of the Living Christ."

The hostess served light refreshments and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WIDOW'S VALIANT SPIRIT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. At the funeral of a husband and father the widow stood beside the casket most of the time, shaking hands and speaking with those called to pay their respects. Was this correct?

2. After the service the widow followed the casket, walking between her son and daughter-in-law. Was this correct, or should the daughter-in-law have walked with another husband?

3. Is it proper for two, women, both widows, to walk together as mourners? — M.

1. Correct indeed it was, and very touching too that the widow was so valiant of spirit that she could stand proudly to greet those who came to pay their respects to her husband who had "gone before." Instead of delegating some one else to receive these memorial greeting from relatives and friends, she showed bravery and poise in preferring to receive them personally. Such a spirit is, I think, a great tribute to a beloved relationship.

2. There are no strict rules about this processional procedure. The widow would, of course, decide whom she wished to walk with her. And apparently she chose to have the comfort of both her son and her daughter-in-law.

3. Yes.

NECESSARY TO GIVE GIFT NOW?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last week I was invited to a surprise bridge party and I bought a gift to take with me. However, I was not able to go to the party. Now I am able to go, is it necessary for me to give the gift? — K.

What would you like to do? If you'd have a happy feeling giving the gift you intended as the bridge day gift, it would be a friendly gesture for you to give it. Not necessary, of course . . . but gracious in thought.

INTRODUCING A BOY FRIEND TO MOTHER AND STEPFATHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me: When I introduce a boy friend to my mother and stepfather, should I say, "Mother and Dad, I'd like to present a friend of mine, John Allen, John, is my mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Brown." Marjorie

First, for the initial introduction, it would be best not to use the rather stilted "I'd like to present a friend of mine." Say: "Mother and Dad, this is John Allen. John, may I present Mr. and Mrs. Brown, and my stepfather, Mr. Brown." Or make separate introductions: "Mother, this is John Allen. John, John Allen. Father, may I present Mr. Brown, and my stepfather, Mr. Brown."

FUNERAL USHERS DO NOT OFFER ARMS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I went to a church funeral service the other day, and afterward she said that the ushers should have offered their arms to the women guests whom they were escorting to their seats, but as wedding ushers do. I maintain that this procedure is not right—that ushers at funerals do not offer their arms to the women guests they are escorting. Who is right about this, please? — Dorothy K.

You are absolutely right about this. The only exception is that an usher at a funeral would, of course, offer his arm to an elderly or infirm person, woman or man.

RECEPTION GUESTS SHOULD NOT BE KEPT WAITING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it considered improper for the bride and groom to arrive after the guests have arrived at the wedding reception and dinner? — Joyce

The correct, gracious procedure is for those who are to be in the receiving-line to arrive promptly, as possible before the guests arrive, so that the receiving-line will be formed and in readiness for the receiving. It is awkward, thoughtless procedure to keep the guests waiting.

ANNOUNCEMENTS NOT SENT TO THOSE INVITED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding is to be rather small, and our invitations are being extended by personal visits to relatives and intimate friends, some by telephone, some by notes. But we are sending out quite a large number of announcements. I believe I recall reading in your column some time ago that formal announcements are not sent to those who were invited to the wedding, whether or not those people attend the wedding. Am I right about this? — Beatrice T.

Yes . . . announcements are not sent to those who were invited to the wedding.

Spring Arrival

By VERA WINSTON

Jackets are longer or are cut to appear so, and the longer jacket look is very apparent in this early spring arrival done in gray men's wear woolen. The collar is large, flat linen used to stand away from the neckline, making a nice foil for the polka-dotted silk scarf. There is a leather belt above the peplum which is lined for stiffness and has bubbled pockets worked into the seaming. Horizontal pockets at the breast. The skirt is pored, and there is interesting detail at the jacket cuffs, as indeed, the whole suit is interesting and new.

Oh Happy, Happy Wedding Day!

CONTINUED

By Mary Moore

Ten minutes late (not twenty-four hours later as this copy might make it seem) and directly after Marianne and Herbie left the sanctuary we descended to the church social hall, the cake-cutting picture which, some of you saw, and other pictures were taken.

When the receiving line was formed came the test of Mary's memory and right arm. If you will picture a mere mouthful of tea and a slight boost I didn't forget one name or face of those one hundred and seventy-five guests. Pete on my left did equally well and Herbie tells me that Marianne farther along the line was right every time. Remembering names is quite almost every guest had seen as they reached her. One little delight which endeared us all was when a close friend of mine, whom Marianne knew only slightly, shook her hand and said "Mrs. Pittle!" But Marianne thought she had heard wrong, for she was very helpful and she said "Mrs. Pittle! What a coincidence!" It did not dawn on her immediately that she was my friend Mrs. Gordon almighty being properly amusing.

The reception itself was a fine style. I'll tell you about the food later. Being Mrs. Wee we could not have dancing so after cake cutting and passing, toasts were proposed and responded to by my brother, Dr. Bates, Herbie, Bob and Pete. The bride and groom circulated amongst all of the guests then Marianne reluctantly left to change in the choir room ("I hate to take it off mother"!)

When she was in her going away outfit Marianne's wedding silk suit dress, seal brown moleskin jacket, suede shoes and pillbox purse, natural flowers and hat with one rose over her right eye) she back through the auditorium platform door and the pianist struck up "Oh You Beautiful Doll" and everybody joined in singing and applauding. On the steps she stuck a stance and with a mighty heave sent her bouquet, quoit. Doreen in bouffant gown and all made the basketball leap of the century and caught it in mid flight, and believe it or not took it back to the plane for Calgary, British Columbia in a box in her lap!

Then they kissed a few of us again and left with their cars and packs and hair full of confetti and their hearts full of love.

We had buffet service at the reception. I will give you a quick run-through of the table arrangements and food. '

The social hall is under the sanctuary and just as big. The florists did a quick switch, down the back stairs, of all the standards and white snapdragons and stocks and tulips, and the palms and candelabra with tall white tapers, as soon as the guests started to leave the sanctuary, and banked them on and around the lower auditorium stage. At the other end of the hall the receiving line formed twenty people in length. After it came the serving tables in a widely spaced u-shaped formation. First the punch bowl table — space — bride's table with her cake, tapers, bridesmaids' bouquets; big spaces then down the far wall the buffet table started with the flower arrangements of snapdragons and white tapers, tray-catching platters of shrimp on frilled toothpicks, hot bouchees, hot tiny tea buns filled with lobster, chicken, ham; every known fancy sandwich, relishes diminutive tartlets, petit fours, and other cakes in fluted cups. The coffee table was handsome with a huge copper coffee urn.

Chairs and tables were set up for about half of the crowd but those chairs were brought in so nearly everybody but hosts and hostesses sat down at one time or another. Marianne and Herbie managed to speak to nearly everyone as they circulated.

Pete and I lamented that with all that aggregation of our dearest friends we could not get the chairs and have a long chin wag with everyone.

Flowers and favors from some of you so kindly saying you knew that Pete had a beautiful wedding I hoped you were right. The five or six experienced mothers of brides sat together and Herbie said it was the most beautiful wedding they had ever attended made me feel very proud. I also read on my pillow, content that Marianne was having hands, at the end of the perfect day.

Reflections on Beauty For a Lovelier You

Make sure there's a mirror in the hallway, so that you can give your appearance a last-minute check before stepping out on a date.

By HELEN POLLETT

It's all done with mirrors—arranging hair, applying make up, making decisions about dresses, coats and hats. The reflection in the looking glass usually results in a little mental reflection that should direct you along the path to beauty.

AS OTHERS SEE YOU

Just as professional dancers use mirrors to get "the audience point of view," so you and your family can use them to see yourselves as others see you. In a full-length mirror you can get the complete picture. Such a view should inspire you to stand straight and tall. It may also warn you that it's time to count calories.

In a framed mirror over the mantel, you will be able to see yourself as you appear among your surroundings. You can note what draperies and furnishings do to make a pleasing background for you.

WELL-LIGHTED MIRROR

In the bathroom, a well-lighted mirror will help Dad give himself a nice smooth shave. The children can regard their cherubic faces in it when they wash their hands or comb their hair. An inferior mirror and a dim light are no help in the important matter of cleanliness and grooming.

In every home, there should be a decorative mirror in the hallway. It will allow for a last-minute check before you leave the house for the office or a date with the big man of the moment.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

SKIN BLEMISHES

Time was when beauty griefs were endured as Pilgrim endured his burden. Every defect that mars the appearance of the individual, especially these pesky blemishes, moles, warts, scars and superfluous hair. There are various types of blemishes which may be set in the skin color, some bright red. Those who suffer from them should see the family physician to recommend a reliable specialist to treat these disfiguring spots.

Moles, as a rule, are harmless. But no inexperienced lay person should meddle with them since, now and then, a mole can become malignant. The trained eye of the expert can immediately distinguish between the badmess and dangerous ones.

"If they are removed by electrolysis, by freezing with carbon dioxide snow or X-ray. If a mole is where it is constantly irritated by the friction of clothing it should be removed.

Warts, like moles, are usually harmless and are destroyed by the same methods. The scaliky wart is an exception. It develops rapidly, shows broken, white scales and calls for professional treatment.

Experts in plastic surgery are remodeled. Deep wrinkles are corrected by means of the face lift. Incisions are made beyond the hair line at the temples, thinner are drawn up, tucks are taken in them, and the facial surface becomes smooth again.

Superfluous hair is a blemish that no woman can endure with fortitude, nor should she, as there are many methods of removing these unsightly growths.

Canned Fruit Has Many Uses

The season for fruit has been extended over twelve months of the year thanks to our modern methods of preservation. Those who handle this delicate produce — from grower to grocer — know just how to process fruit to retain its high quality from remote farms and orchards to our tables. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, point out that up-to-date canneries are located in the heart of some fruit producing area where under expert supervision the best crops are grown, and harvested at the correct time to ensure highest quality and flavor.

When shopping for canned fruits here are a few points to remember. Fruits are packed in standard size containers which are —10, 15, 20 and 28 fluid ounces. There are also two larger sizes — 48 and 135 fluid ounce cans, but these are sold for the most part to institutions, restaurants and hotels. For the special benefit of the consumer a description of the fruit as well as the size of the can is found on the label. For example, peaches are marked as "Whole", "Halves", "Quartered" or "Sliced". Also on every label is the grade mark which indicates the quality of the canned fruit. In order of quality the grades are "Canada Fancy", "Canada Choice" and "Canada Standard".

SEVERAL GRADES

"Canada Fancy" canned fruits are as nearly perfect as possible in all respects — flavor, odor, color, size, and texture. This highest quality grade is ideal to use for special purposes where appearance is most important. "Canada Choice" canned fruits which consumers often think of as the general purpose grade are not as uniform in either size or color as "Canada Fancy" and the texture may be less firm. With "Canada Standard" the flavor and color is about the same as the two higher grades but they are not as uniform in size or color and the texture may be softer than that of "Canada Choice". The pennywise homemaker buys this grade of fruit to use in puddings and desserts in which the fruit is cut up or pureed.

No longer are canned fruits considered only a dessert. We can use them as a delightful introduction to a meal and the mild flavor of fruit adds a pleasing contrast to most meats, especially pork and veal. Peach or pear halves broiled or baked, glazed or spiced, or even barbecued along with the meats are delicious as well as making a colorful garnish. Canned apricots are wonderful in the stuffing for a roast duck or goose or pureed in a colorful glaze for ham or pork. Canned applesauce adds delightful interest when perked up with horseradish or cinnamon and served with pork. Canned peaches or pear halves filled with red currant or mint jelly, or canned whole apricots studded with almonds make an attractive and tasty garnish for the cold meat platter.

A combination of fruit jellied or plain on crisp lettuce with a mound of cottage or cream cheese makes a delicious salad especially at this time of year when we want something light. If fruit salad is to be served as the main dish it must be substantial enough to suit all appetites. A smaller one with or without cheese make a refreshing side salad to serve between the main course and the dessert.

FRUIT DESSERTS

There are many places in the meal where canned fruit may be served but its most popular place is and always will be in the dessert course. The Consumer Section has rome interesting ideas for using canned fruits, as desserts. First of all they suggest this novel way of serving green gage or prune plums. Simply spoon well chilled canned plums into dessert dishes and service MM M and serve with a splash of sour cream on top.

Here is a tempting apple dessert that is very easy to prepare. Just slightly sweeten and chill a tin of canned apples and beat some whipping cream. Then add to the whipped cream a small amount of fruit or icing sugar, vanilla and a combination of spices to suit your family's taste, for example, a little nutmeg and cloves. Put a generous spoonful of this on top of each serving of the chilled apples.

Last but not least any of the canned fruits may be drained and served with ice cream or they may be used, juice and all, to make pies, cobblers, crisps and a whole array of other deserts both hot and cold. Fruit is a natural food, juicy, healthful and delicious and since canned fruit knows no season it is one of our main standbys for appetizers, salads and desserts.

MUTE COUPLE WED

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A deaf and mute couple used sign language Saturday to say "I do" at their marriage ceremony. Their fingers formed the words of the marriage vows as the former Margaret Hopf, of Clifford, Ont., became the bride of Buddy Steele.

Women's Activities

W.A. MEETING

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Clarence Thomson was hostess to the Women's Association of Rylstone United Church. There were 14 ladies and one child present. The president, Mrs. Ray Stewart opened the meeting in the usual way.

Mrs. Fred McKeown's topic "The Easter Story" was read by Mrs. Fred McKeown, and during "What is Good About Good Friday", was given by Mrs. Ray Stewart.

Mrs. Stewart announced that the coffee table, donated to the W.A. fair at the home of Chester McIlwain had been bought by one of the ladies present for $10. The members are grateful to Mr. McIlwain for his generous donation.

A reading "Going Home", was given by Mrs. Fred McKeown, followed by a vocal and second-ton duet, "Can't You Hear the Blessed Jesus Calling Your"— given by Margaret Spencer and Mrs. Bob Spencer and "Room to Live In", was read by Mrs. Will Rutherford and a junior vocal quartet sang "Room Enough In" by Patsy, Sherry and Lynn Spencer and Mrs. Bob Spencer. Other readings "Time to Think" and "Religion in Life", were given by Mrs. Jim Milne. There will be an exchange of flower slips. The ladies will meet to clean the church on the regular W.A. meeting day, May 11th.

MASSASSAGA W.A.

MASSASSAGA — The Massassaga W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Albert Wallbridge for the April meeting with the president, Mrs. George McKillop, presiding.

The roll was answered by 27 members and there was one visitor and 13 children present.

Under communications, "thank yous" were given from Mrs. S. Parks, Mrs. Salisbury and Mrs. I. Nightingale, for flowers received while ill.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. William Jose.

Mrs. Harry Way had charge of decorating the church for the "Good Friday" and "Easter Sunday" services.

Mrs. Howard Adams, the corresponding secretary for the Presbytery Woman's Association, gave a preview of the convention to be held at Madoc, May 26th.

After the general business Mrs. Harry Way, group leader for April, took charge of the program.

The devotional period was opened with "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

Mrs. Way read the theme for April, "The Resurrection and the Life." "Jesus said to her, 'I am the resurrection and the life'."

Mrs. Clarke read the Scripture taken from Luke 24:1-11.

Mrs. George McKillop read the third instalment of the "Statement of Faith" dealing with the "Church" and "Ministry."

An "Easter Service of Worship" was given by Mrs. Way and Mrs. William Jose.

Mrs. Hal Johnson invited the W.A. to meet at her home for the May meeting with the accustomed sale of plants and candy.

Mrs. Way conducted an amusing contest which was won by Mrs. H. Adams.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wallbridge, Mrs. Way and her group, and a social half hour enjoyed.

EGGLETON W.M.S. - W.A.

The April meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William McMullen, with 13 ladies in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, presided over the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Harry Clarke.

Mrs. Clarence Fitchett read for the Scripture lesson "The Easter Story of the Risen Lord," and gave the meditation on the lesson.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley read an Easter prayer.

A reading, "The Third Day," was given by Mrs. Warren Harris.

A piano solo by Mrs. Bruce Stapley was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Bert Reids gave a reading, "Easter In Egypt."

The W.A. president, Mrs. William McMullen, took charge of the business period as follows:

Mrs. Bruce Stapley offered her home for the May meeting and Mrs. Warren Harris will prepare the program. Members of W.A. to pay their fees at May meeting. It was decided that bills be paid for flowers and fruit sent out during the past month. Also that members of W.M.S. and W.A. will meet at the school house on May 23rd for a pot-luck dinner, and during the afternoon will quilt the two quilts for the missionary bale.

The W.M.S. president, Mrs. Maurice Clancy, was appointed to purchase material for quilt linings, bats and thread for the quilting.

A letter was read stating that the missionary for prayer this year is Miss Greta L. Gould, Reg. Nr., of Formosa. Also that the allocation of $90 remains the same as last year.

A letter was read inviting any W.A. members who wished to join the T.V.D. groups on the boat trip to Rochester in June.

Mrs. Harry Clarke presented the chapter from the Study Book, "Growth of the Indian Church."

The president thanked Mrs. McMullen for opening her home; the program convener, Mrs. Clarke; and all who had taken part on the program.

The hostess served refreshments, and all enjoyed a social half hour.

SCOTT'S W.A. - W.M.S.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Copeland opened their home for the April meeting when a fine crowd sat down to dinner.

In the afternoon Mrs. M. Sine, president of W.M.S., called the meeting to order.

The W.A. president, Mrs. Geo. Pollard, conducted the W.A. business — next dinner (in May) to be held at the home of Mrs. A. Martyn and arranged to buy a new fire for the dining hall.

The roll call of the W.M.S. showed nine members present with a thank-offering of $10.75.

Mrs. Copeland gave a short report on temperance showing how badly it is needed.

LENTEN MEDITATION

The president gave a Lenten Meditation — "If we would share in the glory and power of the resurrected Christ; If we would reign with Him in the arena of life, we too, must be willing, even go out actively to suffer with Him in the saving redemption work of the world. "If we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him."

The program in the missionary monthly was followed by the program group. It contained some excerpts from a report on the World Council of Churches held in Evanston last summer. The theme of the conference was "Christ—the Hope of the World."

All the members took part in a discussion on "Gambling or Stewardship."

The discussion brought out the facts that gambling can start in a small way, "for a good cause," and sometimes can not be checked. "We as Christians, must be careful to avoid the very appearance of evil."

Mrs. M. Sine gave the highlights of the Presbyterial W.M.S. annual meeting held in Picton in March. "The addresses by Dr. Bryce were a fitting climax to the study on India. We will always watch India's advance and give her our thoughts and our prayers."

Women's Institute

MELROSE W.I.

Mrs. C. Hagerman graciously opened her home for the regular meeting of the Melrose Women's Institute.

Mrs. J. McLaren, president, opened the meeting.

A welcome was extended to two Plainfield guests, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Elliott, dist. president.

Committees were appointed to procure a thank-you gift for Miss Bruce in appreciation of her participation in the program of a former meeting; also a gift for Mr. and Mrs. Asseltine, recent fire victims and a floral tribute for Mr. and Mrs. William McLaren, celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Elliott presided at the election of officers for the coming year and the following officers were nominated and elected:

President, Mrs. J. McLaren; 1st vice-president, Mrs. C. Wease; 2nd. vice-president, Mrs. C. Bates; secy.-treas., Mrs. F. Boaly; dist. director, Mrs. A. English; alternate dist. director, Mrs. H. Bates; press reporter, Mrs. R. Badgley; pianists, Mrs. T. Leslie, Mrs. L. Wease; auditors, Mrs. S. Demille; Mrs. R. McLaren; conveners, Canadian Industries, Mrs. E. Pascoe; citizenship-education, Mrs. O. Stratton; historical research-current events, Mrs. K. McKechnie; public relations-community activities, Mrs. R. McLaren; home economics and health, Mrs. N. Demille; resolutions convener, Mrs. R. Badgley; social committee, Mrs. S. Demille; Mrs. J. McFarlane, Mrs. J. Haight, Mrs. C. Osborne, Mrs. O. Stratton; lunch committee, Mrs. T. Howard, Mrs. S. Demille, Mrs. R. Whiteman and Mrs. C. Hagerman.

ANNUAL REPORT

The standing committee was advised to have its annual report prepared for the next meeting. Mrs. R. McFarlane was appointed to procure flannelette for a layette to be made at the next quilting.

Mrs. Elliott mentioned the district annual in Canniffton on the 9th of June and chose as her subject "Institute in the Home", and quoted from "The Farmer's Wife", answers were given to the roll call "The courtesies you expect of children."

The president expressed the appreciation of the institute to Mrs. Elliott for her inspiring talk and closed the meeting.

TWEED

H-S Assoc. Hears Talk On 'Glands'

TWEED — The regular meeting of the Tweed Collegiate Home and School Association was held Wednesday evening at the school; due to the holiday of other meetings, the attendance was not as good as usual.

President Graham Moock presided.

The financial report was given by the treasurer, Mr. S. Walters. During the business portion of the meeting, a number of different matters came up for discussion and a committee was appointed to bring in a new slate of officers at the next meeting for the year.

Mr. Moock introduced and welcomed the guest speakers from Peterborough.

Mr. James Goldie and Mr. William Nash of the Canada Packers Co., (Peterborough), were the guest speakers. Mr. Goldie brought greetings and best wishes to the Association from the former Tweed residents now with the company in Peterborough. He spoke briefly on the company and especially their policy of saving all animal glands for the making of medicine and research. He explained that the late president of the Packers had made it a rule that all glands were to be saved regardless of cost to the company. Mr. Goldie introduced William Nash, chemist with his company.

ANIMAL GLANDS PRESERVED

Mr. Nash in his talk stressed how carefully these minute glands were taken from the animals, and the importance of their preparation in medicine and research. He showed the various glands; thyroid used for extract in treatment of thyroid cases; pancreas used in making insulin; adrenal gland extract of which is used in ear, eye and nose operations; pituitary gland used for pituitrin and ACTH; also rennet and pepsin used for digestive purposes.

Mr. Nash said this was a comparatively new field and stressed the importance of saving the right glands for the laboratory. He spoke briefly on the Salk vaccine and the difficulties facing the chemist in working on these small glands.

The Canada Packers Co., gave a gift of products as a draw which the winner being Mrs. Ruby Montgomery. Mrs. Montgomery's room again won the banner.

The program for the May meeting is a film entitled, "Canada in the Coronation", in technicolor, shown through the courtesy of the RCAF.

Mr. Moock thanked the speakers.

Refreshments were provided.

Moira

MOIRA — Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson were recent guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. J. Lake, Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vandewater were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Horton, Carmel, on Sunday for dinner.

Mrs. Frank Emerson spent last week visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Jack Canning, and Mr. Canning of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Shaw, Ivanhoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Mumby and family have moved into the home of Mr. Harold Elliott.

Mr. Donald Kinsella is spending Easter holidays in Toronto with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McInroy spent Friday afternoon as tea-hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. McInroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Emerson, Belleville, were Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elliott, of Gilleville, called on several old friends and neighbors on Saturday and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson.

Mr. Lyle Williams of Frankford, is spending Easter holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ketcheson, Ann and Larry, Guelph, were the week-end guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. George Foster and also Mr. Gordon Foster.

Moira Victory Class met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rogenesburg on Thursday evening with a good attendance. The guest speakers were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stevens of Louisville, Ohio, formerly of Holland.

Mrs. Mac Longwell and Donald of Port Colborne; Mrs. John Blakely and Gwen and Mr. and Mrs. McInroy of Tweed, were Monday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. W. McInroy.

Miss Evelyn Emerson, Miss Lois Ketcheson and friends are spending a few days in Syracuse, U.S.A.

Moira and Thomasburg Y.P.U. met at the home of Mr. Gordon McInroy on Tuesday evening. Miss Ann Proctor accompanied by Marie Clarke, of Toronto, was guest speaker. She spoke on "Caravaning in Northern Ontario," which is her work during the summer months.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Vandewater on the birth of a son in the Belleville General Hospital.

Reds Blame Crash of Constellation on Saboteurs

The three survivors of the India Constellation crash—Co-pilot M. C. Dixit, left; Flight-Navigator J. C. Patak and passenger A. S. Karnick—are escorted down the gangplank of the frigate HMS Duncan, assisted by sailors, on their arrival in Singapore. The Constellation crashed into the sea off the coast of Sarawak while carrying eight Communist Chinese delegates to an Afro-Asian conference now under way in Indonesia. The Communist China has charged that the plane was "sabotaged" by agents of the U.S. and Chinese Nationalists. The survivors reached safety on an island, four miles from crash scene after spending eight hours in the water. (Central Press Canadian.)

Germans Disturbed Both By Their Weakness, Strength

Editor's Note: AP's Paris bureau chief Edmond Taylor has spent weeks talking with Germans in all walks of life. His impressions are set out in the following story.

By PRESTON GROVER

BONN, Germany (AP) — Germans are as much afraid of themselves as others are afraid of the Germans.

They are disturbed both by their weakness and their strength, although proud that hard work and industrial genius have brought them prosperity.

The major problem, stated perhaps too simply, is this:

"How can we avoid becoming again what we were!"

WANT MEN FREE

A demand for a new German outlook has been voiced by Friedrich Meinecke, dean of German historians:

"What we lived through in the last 14 years forces us to accept entirely new perspectives and problems in the evaluation of our past. We must relearn in many ways."

Germany has been more or less in conflict with the West for more than a century, ever since Napoleon. Now there is a widespread desire for realignment.

"Germany has a place only with the West," said Otto Brenner, chairman of the Metal Workers Union, biggest in Germany.

A major problem is the setting up of machinery to keep an army democratic in spirit and under civilian control. Since Bismarck the German officer corps has been an elite group with vast influence on national policy.

UNLOVED, UNTRUSTED

The director of a big manufacturing industry said:

"Despite its defeat the German army came out of the First World War with a high reputation. This was not true after the second. It finished the war with the officer corps neither trusted, loved nor respected."

He said, however, that in 10 years the situation might change. If Germany found herself with a government as unstable as France's it would be hard to say the people would not turn again to the army.

Officially the government is determined to avoid such paths. That is why Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is determined to fit Germany into the Western community. But major roadblocks stand in his way. One is the matter of reuniting Germany. The other is contention over the rich Saar region.

TRADE WITH THE EAST

France wants to attach the Saar's economy to her own. Adenauer's government has reluctantly agreed—until a peace settlement is reached. But France is pushing to make it permanent.

On reunification some German leaders say the Russians won't give up East Germany as long as the Americans are in Western Europe.

Dr. Karl Hunsbaeuen, director of a Krupp branch, said no German could admit he was not interested in seeing the country reunited; but since it was not going to happen right away that situation must be accepted as it is with. Among other steps needed, he said, is permission for Germany to trade with the East.

"We can't sell much to England and France or their empires, and not at all to the United States. We must find Eastern markets in underdeveloped countries."

SCREEN ALLIED RETREAT

Then there is Adenauer, 79 and whose most trifling sniffle is major news.

"What about him," I asked a foreign office official, "Where are the successors?"

"There is certainly less concern in Germany than elsewhere about what would happen if Adenauer died," he replied. "Another Christian democrat would replace him. Nobody can say right now who it would be. There are several possibilities."

A group of Heidelberg students and their straight, all-out pro-German divisions added to the 15 allied divisions in Germany could stop the Russians.

Moreover, they agreed, Germans are convinced that in an attack the German divisions would screen an American retreat behind the Rhine. This opinion is widespread in Germany.

How do you choose a Bank?

Probably because you find it convenient and like the people there. Both The Bank of Toronto and The Dominion Bank grow in Canada through many years of close, personal service to their customers in all walks of the nation's life.

That familiar, friendly service will continue to be a dominant feature of The Toronto-Dominion Bank. The experience of the men and women who contributed so much to the progress of the individual institutions is now combined to serve you better.

You'll like the Toronto-Dominion people—and you'll like the convenience of over 450 branches across Canada.

RAWDON

Daisy Mission Band Holds Easter Service

RAWDON — On Easter Sunday Morning, Wellman's Daisy Mission Band presented its annual Easter service under the direction of Mrs. Burton Morton, and Mrs. Gerald Clancy. The theme was "Glorious Easter Day", and members of the Mission Band occupied the choir loft.

The accompanists were Mrs. Lorne Watson, Mrs. Omar Dracup and Mrs. Gerald Clancy.

The service opened with two recitations, "Easter Bells", by Betty Maybee, and "Christ is Risen", by Freda Graham.

AN ACROSTIC

An Acrostic entitled "Hope Is Born Anew" was presented by Janet Heagle, Doreen Maybee, Mary Dracup, Donna Dracup, Carol Beckett, Lois Morton and Yvonne King. This was followed by an exercise "Have You Heard?" given by Jimmy Chumbley, Donald Maybee, Bernard Beckett, Richard Dracup, Allan Fletcher and Mildred Morton. Vocal solos were presented as follows: "Glad Easter", Mary Dracup and "Garden Divine" by Jimmie Chumbley. Duets: Janet and Jean Tompkins "Tryes the Manger to the Cross"; "O Sacred Spot," by Yvonne King and Mildred Morton and "God is Love", by Carol Beckett and Donna Dracup.

Three Juniors, Betty Maybee, Donald Maybee and Doreen Maybee sang "Love in the Heart of Jesus." A junior chorus composed of Janet Heagle, Doreen Maybee, Lois Morton and Freda Graham sang "Easter Day."

The Fall Mission Band choir sang three choruses throughout the service, entitled "Glorious Easter Day"; "Look Beyond"; and "Our Living Lord". By request the Rawdon male quartet sang "Christ Arose".

Rev. W. G. Fletcher spoke on "The Dawn of Easter". The offering was $2.00 for Baby Band and $3.00 for Minister Band.

MISSION BAND REPORT

Wellman's Daisy Mission Band have held five meeting during 1955 in the church vestry. At each of these a film has been shown to the children in addition to the other program. At the Belleville Presbyterial, held in March, at Picton, Wellman's Mission Band received another star. This is four years in succession that they have completed the duties and standards as set down by Dominion Board. They received their certificate for 1951 work and a star each succeeding year.

GATEWAY SIGN

RAWDON — Wellman's Cemetery Committee on the sixth concession of Rawdon, has recently installed a new gateway sign in arch effect over the two front decorative pillars. The design is in aluminum. It was made possible by the late Mrs. Sam Gummer, who left a special gift of money and the officials decided to use it in this way.

Wellman's Cemetery committee held its annual meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bonter. The new Cemetery Act was read and several items discussed. Mr. Victor Graham will attend the next undertaker for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Rainie and James and Miss Emma Rainie, entertained for the Easter week-end: Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKinnon and Malcolm of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Russell and Margaret Dracup spent Easter with Miss Muriel Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Totten, Lorena and Robert, Toronto, attended the wedding of their cousin, Miss Barbara Bristol, in Belleville on Saturday, and spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton and family.

On Sunday morning they attended the special Mission Band Easter service at Wellman's United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott spent the Easter week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Jack Fletcher and sons, Toronto.

AUSTRIA MOSCOW SIGN TREATY

Stirling

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

STIRLING—St. Paul's W.A. of Stirling United Church, sponsored a three-act drama "The Absent Minded Professor," given by Stockdale-Zion United Church Young People's Union on Thursday evening in the Community Hall, with a good attendance of patrons.

Dr. A. Packman spoke briefly and introduced Mr. Harold Pitcher, one of the directors of the play and Harold introduced the cast as follows:

CAST

Professor I. Q. Allen, a meek, mild, timid and extremely absent-minded little man, Glen Bird; Mrs. Allen, his wife, who planned a birthday party for the professor, Helen McDonald; Templeton Barr, a crook who stole the valuable statue of Nioke, Jack Wickens; Snatch Bazonie, his accomplice, Gordon Terry; Biff Terry, a football player, Allan Ford; Davey Brewer, a College student, Allen Patrick; Hiram Hummel, the constable, Guy Thomson; Lillian Brewer, who is engaged to Biff, Edith McDonald; Betty Ann Mason, Mrs. Allen's sister, Beverly Forge; Imogene Gene, who wants to be an actress, Linda Terry; Kate Cole, a reporter on the college paper, Florence McDonald; Sadie James, her friend, Leola McDonald.

The cast was all amateurs and this comedy was their first attempt at play-acting. It was their 5th presentation as they have given it at Plainfield, Wooler, Thomasburg and Frankford.

ACTION OF PLAY

The entire action of the play took part in the summer cottage of Professor Allen and this cottage was set deep in the woods at Silver Lake. The three scenes beginning with an evening in autumn, followed each other in succession.

Throughout the play, there was plenty of action, thrills, mix-ups and complications of all kinds, including what at first appeared to be ghosts. There were plenty of laughs and the audience was attentive.

The cottage was lit with old-fashioned coal-oil lamps; rag rugs were on the floors, and a fall-leaf table of olden days.

The cottage has been closed since Labor Day so Mrs. Allen goes on ahead to get it in readiness for the birthday party for her professor husband. However, though several of the guests grow hungry, it was never possible to get the food assembled, as the various interruptions simply upset the apple-cart.

TWO THIEVES

The two thieves had previously stolen the valuable statue in a near-by town and decided to hide it in the Allen cottage. They finally had to push it out a window and eventually hide it in the forest.

The professor was a riot of ideas, clever fun, he got mixed up in many tight corners and was so forgetful that he was real funny. However, he did unconsciously bring the thieves to justice at the close of Act III.

Imogene with her dramatic ambitions to convince others that she had great actress ability brought along a classic Grecian costume, and did her best to convince the professor that she was really "Niobe."

In one of her speeches, she said, "Men are so suspicious. Why, even when they dug me out of the ruins of Thebes in 1785, men doubted that I was really the statue of Nioke, and now professor, you doubt it."

Between acts, Misses Florence and Leola McDonald sang a duet and Mr. Charles Margetson a solo with Mrs. Kerr playing the accompanist.

Following the presentation, St. Paul's W.A. executive assisted Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher at their home where the group was entertained and served refreshments and enjoyed a social hour before returning home.

Eldorado

ELDORADO — Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McCoy and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCoy were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McAdams.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart entertained their family over the week-end. Sunday being the occasion of Mrs. Stewart's birthday. Best wishes are extended for many happy returns of the natal day. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Donaldson and Susan, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holland and Stewart of Havelock and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stewart, Glen and Marilyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spencer, Lynn and Suzanne were Easter Sunday guests at the home of her sister, Mrs. Roy Young and family, in Campbellford.

Mrs. Lily Anderson has returned home after spending some time in Peterborough with her son, Clarence, his wife and son, Lorne.

Donnie Heath is spending a few days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Heath, Ridge Rd., Stirling.

Hillier

HILLIER — It was with deepest regret those of this community received the news of Mr. Stanley Thompson's passing. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved.

Sunday School services were well attended last Sunday morning. The scholars of the different classes had been practising for Easter program, which was well presented. The Senior class prepared the devotional exercises and delivered a special Easter anthem. Mr. C. Clapp was guest speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. W. St. Pierre and family and Mr. Calnan of Belleville spent Easter Monday at the home of Harry MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Timmerman entertained their daughters and families on Easter Sunday: Johnny Lewis remaining for Easter holidays.

Mrs. H. Tice spent a day with her sister, Mrs. C. MacDonald, in Belleville. All are glad to know Mrs. MacDonald is gaining and trust for an early recovery from illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McLean, Peterborough, spent Easter with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timmerman and Mr. and Mrs. B. McLean.

Friends here extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Hurst of Belleville who mourn the loss of a loving daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Lancaster, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Power, Picton visited with their parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Wanamaker for Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Cruickshank of Melville, spent Easter Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude McCartney.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Hubbs have been visitors with the former's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. E. Carson.

Mrs. W. Young spent Easter Sunday at the home of her son, Mr. Noble Young.

On Monday morning, the moving of a barn through Rose Hall to the Lake Shore attracted much attention.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Sherwin of Hillier has not been too well of late.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conley had an enjoyable trip to the U.S.A. en route visiting their daughter, Mrs. M. Danford and Mr. Danford in Oshawa.

SPACE EXPERT

Seven-year-old Stanley Scott Unites of Horsham, won a letter of praise from the U.S. air force for sending in his design of a rocket ship with wheels all around. "We have your idea all ready for a rocket ship under study," wrote Lt.-Col. James J. Dimel of the office of the chief of staff for guided missiles. "Your idea of putting wheels all around this ship is a good one, because who say say which direction it is in for a strange planet?" The letter also stated the wheels would act set as a safety device in a crash landing in which the ship might overturn. Stanley is shown at home in "space" helmet.—Central Press Canadian.

Traffic Engineer Questioned On Toll Roads

TORONTO (CP)—W. G. McGee, a traffic engineer in the Ontario highways department, said Monday surveys have shown that four Ontario highways with traffic volume considered the minimum to make toll roads worthwhile.

Mr. MacNee said 3,000 vehicles in one mile at any time during a 24-hour period is the desirable minimum. The Queen Elizabeth way, Highways 3 and 5 and Highway 11 from Toronto to Barrie have 3,000 and up.

He said if the Queen Elizabeth way and highways 400 and 401 are not to be overtaxed by heavier loads any others would come close to the 3,000.

Mr. MacNee was questioned on traffic volumes at the first meeting of the Ontario legislature select committee on toll roads, Chairman is John P. Robarts, Progressive Conservative member for London.

HUGH MACNEAGH

Donald Collins, committee secretary, said it had been predicted by W. E. Holden, president of General Motors of Canada, that Ontario's motor vehicle registration would be doubled by 1965.

"Well, we can't double our highways in 9 years so that is probably the best argument in favor of some other method of financing than we have now," said Dr. S.F. Leavise, Progressive Conservative member for Waterloo North.

Mr. MacNee said much of the increase will be in two-car families, resulting in a greater increase in city than rural traffic.

Municipalities Should Be Helped Says Marler

OTTAWA (CP)—Provincial governments should assist municipalities lacking adequate financial resources to eliminate railway grade crossing hazards, Transport Minister Marler said Monday.

He made the observation shortly before the house began second reading—approval in principle—to government legislation to provide up to $5,000,000 from $1,000,000 the annual federal contribution to the railway grade-crossing fund.

Progressive Conservative and CCF members said the amount still will not be sufficient to solve the grade-crossing problem. They said the amount should be considerably in excess of $5,000,000 to help finance a major program, to eliminate crossings.

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) and Claude Ellis (CCF—Regina) said the legislation does nothing to lighten the burden of municipalities. The bulk of them could not afford to enter into arrangements for elimination of crossings.

NEW YORK (CP) — The company formed by Isidor Rosenblatt to build a Canadian centre in Manhattan has purchased a site on Fifth avenue a few blocks north of Rockefeller Centre.

The cost of the property—at the corner of 54th Street and Fifth avenue—is reported to have been more than $2,000,000.

Consul-General Ray Lawson, in announcing completion of the property Monday, said it has not yet been decided whether to erect a new building on the site or add several storeys to the six-storey building already there.

It is hoped, Lawson said, that if a new building is erected, it will be ready for occupancy by December, 1956.

To be called "Canada House," the building is planned as a centre for Canadian governmental, industrial and cultural activities.

Canadian organizations now are scattered in Manhattan. The Canadian government, for example, has offices in the Rockefeller Centre.

More than a score of Canadians have contributed $10,000 each to finance the project. These sponsors — known as the Canada House (New York) Limited—will meet in Toronto this month to decide whether to erect a new building.

WOULD BE GIFT

It is reliably reported that erection of the new building would cost between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000.

The plan is to operate Canada House at a profit until the original capital is repaid to the sponsors. Then the building will be turned over to the Canadian government as a gift to the Canadian people.

The property was acquired from Louis J. Glaser, New York real estate operator, who earlier had announced he would construct a 19-storey office building on the site.

Lawson told a press conference the present building could support another three storeys.

"It could be converted into a modern air - conditioned building which I believe would enjoy good economically," Lawson said.

"The building . . . is being built for the purpose of furthering Canadian relationship in the United States and with all other countries in the world.

"It will provide an information centre for the promotion of trade, and we hope it will be the headquarters for many Canadian manufacturing companies."

1,500,000 Hear Sermon

GLASGOW (AP) — American evangelist Billy Graham preached to 1,500,000 people in a crusade terminated by his organization at 1,500,000 persons.

They heard him in 2,000 churches and auditoriums throughout Scotland and England, linked by relay lines to Glasgow's Kelvin Hall.

Approximately 17,200 persons were in Kelvin Hall for the opening of the fifth week of Graham's six-week all-Scotland crusade.

Finance Minister Called On To Back Up Charge or Resign

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris "should be ashamed of himself" and be asked to resign today, CCF Leader Coldwell said in an interview Monday night he presumes Mr. Harris has charged in the house being a Trotskyite. The CCF Commons member from Nanaimo, B.C., said he will ask the minister to substantiate the charge or resign.

"Even the CCF caucus have not received of Mr. Harris' statements in Toronto on April 14 charging that there are Trotskyites among the 24 CCF members of Parliament and his naming of me today (Monday) in the House of Commons, I presume that he has charged me with being a Trotskyite," said Mr. Cameron shortly after he arrived by air from the west coast to find himself the centre of a controversy between the CCF and Mr. Harris.

"I also assume that in doing this Mr. Harris is prepared to abide by the time-honored British parliamentary traditions which requires a member of Parliament making a serious charge against a fellow member to substantiate it or resign in disgrace by being prepared to resign if he is unable to substantiate the charge," Mr. Cameron added.

"Tomorrow (today) I shall call upon Mr. Harris to do thus and to substantiate the serious charge he has made against me."

CCF Leader Coldwell levelled the charge of smearing against Mr. Harris for statements dealing with Trotskyism and CCF MPs which the Socialist leader said are affecting particularly against Mr. Cameron.

TV, Radio Aerials Must Be Built To Standards Set

OTTAWA(CP)— A bill subjecting Canada's growing forest of television and radio aerials to certain technical standards of construction and erection was passed Monday by the Commons.

But Transport Minister Marler assured the House the Canadian handyman still will be able to put up his own antenna—provided he does it to the required standards.

He said the new law will be based on standards for receiving aerials prepared by the Canadian Standards Association. But there was no thought of licensing certain firms to make the aerials to the required standards or to give them a monopoly on putting them up.

The discussion came as the bill passed through all stages after a bill revising the Radio Act.

EXEMPT ELECTRIC EYES

The measure also implements the international telecommunications convention on private radio broadcasts and will exempt certain low-power radio devices—such as electric eyes used in moving garage doors—from the necessity that they be licensed. These devices are considered broadcasting stations under the present act.

Mr. Marler said that with the advent of television and the erection of these aerials it was now necessary to control their technical features in the safety of air navigation and property.

It was the government's intention to have the regulations available for use by municipalities who wish to control them. Municipal inspection officers would do the enforcing.

The amendment relating to broadcasts not intended for the general public was added to the act. There have been complaints about the misuse of such facilities as baby - sitting services. Commissioner of Harris Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) said investigations into ill cases of theft are being conducted by service police, the RCMP and local and provincial police.

It did not give the amounts involved in the thefts but said they do not include petty thievery. It also did not say when the thefts occurred.

One of the inquiries involves the theft of stores, including hand tools, from No. 11 Works Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, of Vancouver. Articles confirmed March 18 by Brig. George Kitchin, army commander in the British Columbia area, that there had been large-scale thefts in the works company.

GIVE FOR RESEARCH

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Folks around here shelled out $22,251.29 Sunday to fight cancer—not they mind Dr. Jonas Salk, who developed the polio vaccine. They plan to send the University of Pittsburgh researcher a new car, a "telethon" by radio and TV was on for 6½ hours to raise cancer funds. Among many items donated was the car.

Contemplate No Changes

MONTREAL (CP)—The federal government does not contemplate reaching changes in its labor code despite recent strikes and jurisdictional deficiencies arise in the present act, Labor Minister Gregg said Monday night.

Mr. Gregg told a gathering of industrial-relations experts at McGill University that one of the responsibilities of the process is to provide machinery for collective bargaining.

TRAPPED IN WRECKAGE

Trapped for more than two hours, Technical Sgt. G. E. Woods is freed from the wreckage of a United States C-119 transport plane which crashed in a bog off the end of the airport runway at Reserve, N.S. The plane jackknifed after the pilot made two unsuccessful passes at the runway. Three men were injured in the crash. (CP Photo).

Services Probing Equipment Thefts Ranging from Paint Brushes to Wheel Assemblies

OTTAWA (CP)—Thefts of equipment ranging from paint brushes to a 2½-ton truck wheel assembly to wheel assemblies from a maintenance lot at Abbotsford, B.C., are being investigated by the armed services.

A return tabled Monday in the commons for Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) said investigations into 111 cases of theft are being conducted by service police, the RCMP and local and provincial police.

The amendment relating to broadcasts not intended for the general public was added to the act. There have been complaints about the misuse of such facilities as baby-sitting services. IN ADDITION

In addition to the paint brushes and wheel assemblies, other cases include theft of:

Tools from the RCAF base at Claresholm, Alta.; clothing from quartermaster stores at Barriefield, Ont.; bedding from barracks in North Jericho, B.C.; blankets from a storeroom at London, Ont.; cable from a compound at Fredericton; a camera from a naval photographer in Toronto; a movie projector, typewriter and socks from a mess office at St. Eustache, Que.; an army projector from a YMCA check room in Montreal.

Since Nov. 22, 1954—date of the report by Montreal accountant George S. Currie into widespread irregularities in the army works service at Camp Petawawa, Ont., and elsewhere—the defence department has received 23 complaints alleging thefts and irregularities.

Investigation has been completed into 22 of the complaints. Thirteen were found to be without foundation, including four indicating possible malicious intent. Four were shown to be unwarranted, two appearing to come from eccentrics. One was not specific enough to make an inquiry possible. Of the other four cases, two resulted in court actions, one in dismissal from position and one in disciplinary action.

DIES DURING GAME

OLD FORGE, N. Y. (AP)—A high school girl collapsed and died on a school athletic field Monday under circumstances similar to those under which her brother had died—at the same age and on the same field—three years ago. Patricia Tiffany, 17, complained of feeling dizzy while playing softball during a physical education class. Dr. Eugene Reubach said she died, like her brother, of heart disease.

32 MEN INJURED

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) A small-calibre artillery shell, accidentally dropped by a marine standing in a mess line, exploded and injured 33 men Monday. A spokesman for the 1st Marine Division said the Marine was believed to have picked up the "dud" artillery shell on the firing range as a souvenir. He dropped it and it exploded.

In one of the best photos ever taken of an atom-bomb explosion, a huge mushroom rises about 40,000 feet over Frenchman's Creek after a king-sized blast rocked the Nevada Desert. At right are rocket trails. The explosions gave off a flash twice as brilliant as the sun and left a mighty dust cloud to determine atomic bomb effects on battlefields and cities in wars of the future. Some 100 aircraft and three pilotless jet drones participated in the test.—Central Press Canadian.

World Leaders Mourn Passing Of Physicist

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—World leaders and scientists today mourned the passing of Albert Einstein as one of history's great men.

From all walks of life poured messages of tribute for the 76-year-old genius who died Monday of a ruptured aorta and hardening of the arteries.

Several hours after the physicist's death his body was cremated without funeral services. But, seeking to further medical science even in death, he left his brain and other vital body organs to research.

It was through his theory of relativity and his work in nuclear fission and cosmics that the atom bomb was made possible, although he did not work on its development.

Many national and international leaders have been invited to a public memorial tribute to "Einstein, set for Sunday night at New York's Carnegie Hall.

TO EXAMINE BRAIN

The small, bushy-haired Einstein left his brain to Dr. Harry Zimmerman, pathologist at Lincoln College at Columbia University.

Zimmerman said he doesn't expect to "find the cells that made him a genius" when he starts examining Einstein's brain within the next few days.

Although Einstein's life centred around science, he was vitally aware of world conditions. In fact, Prime Minister Nehru of India received a letter only recently from Einstein in which the latter offered proposals for a five-year truce in the cold war.

The letter was disclosed by a member of the Indian delegation to the Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia.

Einstein's letter proposed that nations get together to formulate a long-term substitute for war. He was a spokesman said, that the world would be destroyed by weapons of mass destruction if man failed to find a method of living in peace.

The crux of his passing was reported in Moscow by the Soviet news agency Tass, whose report described Einstein as "one of the world's greatest scientists and physicists."

Workers Favor Strike

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Members of the Nanaimo Free Press composing room staff voted 15-1 in favor of strike action if their demands for a wage increase, it was announced Monday.

The vote was held under government supervision.

The International Typographical Union (AFL-TLC) are asking for $2.43 an hour compared to $2.06 the Nanaimo Free Press pays now. The present rate is $2 an hour.

Abrupt Dismissal Hottest Political Issue in Capital

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The abrupt dismissal of a special state department adviser on refugee problems is the hottest issue in Washington's hottest political issue of the year.

The issue is swirling around the bulky figure of Edward J. Corsi, voluble Italian-born immigration expert who was invited last December by State Secretary Dulles to come to Washington as his special adviser on refugee problems and, sooner or later, to head the lagging United States refugee program working.

Corsi accepted, settled into the job and then, suddenly, was let out Easter week-end.

The big question is: Why was Corsi fired?

Corsi, prominent in New York Republican circles, claims Dulles bowed to pressure from Representative Francis E. Walter, Pennsylvania Democrat who leveled charges that the New Yorker had been associated with Communist front groups. This Corsi denied.

Dulles says Corsi was ousted because he lacked ability to handle the job. But the state secretary hasn't yet reconciled this with his statement from abroad when Corsi was appointed, that the Italo-American was the "best qualified man in the United States" to do the job.

The resulting upheaval has produced sharp newspaper criticism of Dulles and the Eisenhower administration generally and columnist comment that the ouster may alienate the Italo-American vote in the 1956 elections and cost the Republican party the presidency.

Western Maverick Publisher Found Not Guilty of Inciting To Murder Senator McCarthy

By BILL BECKER

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Hank Greenspun, Brooklyn - born publisher with a touch of western maverick in his editorial makeup, was freed Monday night of a federal charge of mailing matter tending to incite the murder of Senator Joseph McCarthy.

A jury of six men and six women acquitted the 45-year-old publisher and columnist of the Las Vegas Sun after two hours and 45 minutes of deliberation. Jury foreman Gail Andres said "there was never any doubt in our minds" that Greenspun's fiery column posed no threat to the Wisconsin Republican senator's life. The jurors, however, had to wade through a long list of technical instructions.

Greenspun hailed the verdict as an affirmation of freedom of the press, saying: "This proves the people of Nevada, one of the last of the frontier states, will not tolerate any attempted control of their sacred dights of freedom of press and freedom of speech."

FIFTH TRIAL

The verdict closed a five-day trial which reached a climax in the final arguments of counsel. The jury obviously was convinced by the closing two-hour speech of Edward P. Morgan of Washington, championing of Greenspun's fourman legal staff.

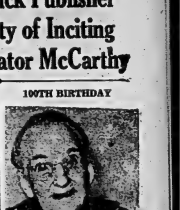
Morgan used Greenspun's words from the indicted column of Jan. 7, 1954, piece by piece to dismantle McCarthy and McCarthyism.

"Hank was out there calling this monster what he is long before it was popular to do it," Morgan said.

He repeated Greenspun's printed description of McCarthy as a "disciple of perverts" and said the publisher had evidence to back it up.

McCarthy could not be reached in Washington for comment on the lawyer's statement.

BIBLE QUOTED



Both Morgan and the prosecutor referred to the Bible in interpretations of the harsher section of the column: "Live by the sword and you die by the sword!"

"From there, it went on:

"Destroy people and they in turn must destroy you." The chances are that McCarthy will eventually be laid to rest at the hands of some poor innocent slob whose reputation and life he has destroyed through means failed to find a method of living in peace.

"Really, I'm against Joe getting his head blown off, not because I do not believe in capital punishment or because he does not have it coming, but I would hate to see some simpleton get the chair because a public service as getting rid of McCarthy."

The latter, incidentally, has a million-dollar damage suit on file against McCarthy. He charged the columnist falsely called him an ex-Communist.

North Bay Man Will Stand Trial In Death of Wife

NORTH BAY (CP) — Joseph P. Roy, 29, charged with murdering his wife Cecile March 21, was committed for trial after a four-hour preliminary hearing in magistrate's court here Monday.

Magistrate M. G. Gould committed Roy after his counsel, P. L. Gratton, appealed for dismissal, saying there was no direct evidence connecting Roy with the crime.

The magistrate said Roy was the only person found in the immediate neighborhood of the crime. The injuries to Roy did not suggest the theory that another person had attacked him.

Ambulance attendants called to the Roy home found Roy slumped over the kitchen table, with his head on his right arm. The left arm was lying outstretched and had been bleeding profusely from a cut in the wrist over the elbow.

On the bedroom floor they found the body of Mrs. Roy, a silk stocking wound around her throat and on the bed was the couple's two-year-old son, also strangled. Unharmed in the living room in her crib was the two-year-old daughter.

WITNESSES HEARD

Two witnesses, one a doctor and the other the probation officer and family court counsellor, testified that the status was changed to a need of psychiatric treatment.

Pft. Lt. John Sissett, senior medical officer at the Roy RCAF station, said Roy consulted him in March and accepted suggestions his wife was trying to poison him and was unfaithful to him.

He formed the opinion, said the doctor, that the suspicions were unfounded and very impressed with that the man had quite distinct paranoiac tendencies."

Roy was a civilian cleaner at the RCAF station.

Keith Tennier, family court and probation officer, said Roy consulted him March 16.

Roy told him, said Tennier, that he suspected his wife was going around with another man and also claimed food she prepared had made him ill. He had seen her put strange motions over food."

New Administrator

OTTAWA (CP)—J. P. Donihee, 41, of Cornwall, has been named divisional administrative officer for the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority at Iroquois, it was announced Monday.

The authority is in charge of the Canadian end of navigation works for the seaway. Construction is under way at Iroquois on one of the main seaway canals.

Mr. Donihee is a Cornwall businessman. A lieutenant-colonel in the militia, he commands the Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry Highlanders based at Cornwall.

Canada Going After More Tourist Dollars This Summer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada is going after more of her own tourist dollars in 1955, as well as those from abroad, and expects to drum up a record tourist business—if the weather co-operates.

The weather put a bit of a crimp in things in 1954, say federal officials. But despite a wet, cool summer in most parts of the country the national take from foreign tourists reached $300,000,000, just $2,000,000 short of the record set in 1953.

Though no accurate and separate figures are kept on the domestic tourist trade, it is roughly estimated at more than $300,000,000 for 1954, making a total national tourist trade of some $600,000,000.

OVER-ALL DEFICIT

On the heels of foreign spending in Canada and Canadian spending abroad, however, Canada has had a deficit for a number of years. Last year Canadians are estimated to have spent $320,000,000 abroad, mostly in the United States leaving a deficit of $80,000,000.

Tourist officials are planning to keep more Canadian tourist dollars at home.

Georges Lavellée, director of the Quebec bureau of tourism and research and president of the Canadian Tourist Association, said "see Canada first" will be the theme of the tourist week May 1-7.

The 1955 tourist year, he said, was born with a silver dollar in its mouth, so to speak. Abundant snow and ideal skiing conditions increased winter tourist business at the Quebec mountain resorts by 25 per cent over last year.

GOOD U.S. RESPONSE

D. Jean Dolan, head of the Canadian government travel bureau, said the bureau had received fine response to its 1955 tourist advertising campaign, particularly from the U.S. The lower level of the Canadian dollar in relation to its U.S. counterpart also would favor more American travel in Canada, Mr. Dolan expects many Canadian resorts will absorb the exchange rate themselves this year and take U.S. money at par.

All provinces except Manitoba predict business as big and probably bigger than 1954. Manitoba officials say the volume may be the same or slightly lower since Manitoba had a record year in 1954 with 803,000 visitors who spent an estimated $26,375,000.

Here is the tourist picture by provinces:

MARITIMES

Newfoundland distributed some literature last year but is delaying a big campaign until a road across the island is completed, probably later this year.

Prince Edward Island attracted 309,000 visitors and an estimated $3,000,000 last year, exceeding 1953 by five per cent. It expects 1955 to shatter all records with the province's beaches again being the chief attraction.

Nova Scotia had an estimated 680,000 visitors in 1954 and they spent some $33,000,000. Just as many and probably more are expected this year. Beauty spots like the Cabot trail, Cape Breton Highlands National Park and the Annapolis valley attract most of the tourists.

New Brunswick had a record year in 1954 with an estimated $30,000 tourists and trade worth $15,000,000. Even bigger things are hoped for this year with advertisements commemorating the 200th anniversary of the Acadian expulsion.

Quebec expects, on the basis of requests pouring in from the U.S. and other points, to exceed the estimated 1953 total take of $145,000,000. The Gaspe peninsula is a top attraction along with the national parks and the province's sailfish bowl.

CENTRAL CANADA

Ontario gets about 20,000,000 individual entries a year from outside the province—though many are just passing through—and estimates its overall annual tourist take at around $250,000,000, the biggest in Canada.

Officials say 1954 was almost as good as the record year of 1953 despite adverse weather with an estimated 17,580,800 entries from the U.S. alone. They expect 1955 to be a "substantial year."

WEST

Manitoba had 803,000 visitors last year and they spent an estimated $26,375,000, increases of 4½ per cent and $1,000,000, respectively, over 1953. The province plans another short course for tourist operators following the initial success last year.

Saskatchewan tabs 1955 prospects as "pretty good" with golden jubilee celebrations coming up. The province entertained an estimated 525,000 visitors last year, 125,000 of them Americans. Spending was estimated at $70,000,000.

West Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON — Monday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Reid included: Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Wilson and Nancy, of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Foster Wilson and Sarah and Arthur Wilson.

Patrons of the West Huntingdon Cheese Manufacturing Company held a meeting on Wednesday evening and made plans for the coming year. Mr. Gerald Fluks was engaged as cheesemaker.

Mr. Philip Carr is attending the OERC convention at Toronto.

The Merry Makers Club gave the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, the usual rousing welcome on Monday evening.

Mr. William Grant spent the holiday week-end with friends in Toronto.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Chapman and Patsy were the dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Moorcroft and Mrs. George Barrager.

Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond were: Miss Jane Raymer, of Ajax; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hammond and family, of Colborne; and Mr. Glen Hammond, of Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson, of Wellington, were dinner guests at Mr. H. R. Burke's home.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr were: Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brunnwell and family, of Massassaga; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mason, of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McKeown and family of Foxboro, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Brunnell and family, of Norwood.

estimated at $12,000,000. American visitors like the province's northland with its many lakes and good fishing and boating.

Alberta also will have golden jubilee celebrations. The province now is co-operating with British Columbia in joint maintenance of a tourist agent in San Francisco to lure tourists to both provinces. Alberta has had double the number of tourist enquiries this year. British Columbia, with the exception of 1954, has been setting tourist records for a number of years and expects another banner season in 1955. A total of 1,040,000 U.S. tourists visited the province last year and the total tourist take of them Americans. Spending was estimated at $70,000,000.

PLANES DIVED AT HIM FROM SKY

Bill Kolynski was chopping wood on his farm near Newcastle, Ont., when a plane appeared to be diving at him out of the sky. "It was such a shock I couldn't move for several minutes," he says as he tells how the plane passed within a few feet of his head and buried itself in the ground and exploded. The pilot, R. Baynes, of Wheeling, Va., was killed.—Central Press Canadian.

572 Immigrants Deported in Three Years Is Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration department deported 572 immigrants in the three years 1952-54, the Commons was informed Monday. Criminal activities and mental illness were the main reasons given.

In a return tabled for Harry O. White (PC—Middlesex East) the department also reported that deportation orders against another 1,310 immigrants were not carried out.

Of the 1,310 cases, 780 were deferred for further review and 114 immigrants were allowed to stay after appeals were granted. In 223 cases, it was decided that deportation was not practicable, nine were allowed to stay under permit, 10 disappeared, seven died, 42 left voluntarily, 29 are awaiting a decision on appeals and 96 are awaiting deportation.

"How you can be young in thought and action about your hearing loss"

Mr. Rupert Hughes, world-famous author, playwright, producer, portrait painter, composer, raconteur, wit, two world wars' Hollywood writer, friend of artists, writer and commentator.

Prominent author Rupert Hughes talks from personal experience...

"If you need a hearing aid, I hope you are not hesitating because you have the mistaken notion that it might make you look older.

"Actually, a hearing aid will help you to look, act and feel years younger.

"If that seems surprising, have you seen yourself—as others do—with your face showing the strain as you try desperately to hear? Have you noticed yourself losing confidence and enthusiasm?... withdrawing deeper into a hollow shell of suspicion and loneliness?

"All this is the tragic result of not being able to hear properly. It places a burden on family and friends, robs you of happiness and opportunities, makes you old before your time.

"Don't let it happen to you!

"Years ago, I brightened my life with a Zenith Hearing Aid, and I have been thankful ever since. If you want to be good to yourself, modern and progressive, I urge you to do the same."

* * * * *

We are grateful to Mr. Hughes for granting us permission to place his important message before Canada's hard of hearing.

Mr. Hughes is one of a distinguished group of authors, statesmen, statisticians, executives and millionaires who can afford to pay any price for a hearing aid but wear the $75 Zenith.

Some people who do not know the astonishing facts about hearing aid prices and quality are surprised when they learn of Zenith's widespread acceptance by those who always buy the finest. They find it incredible that Zenith Aids, selling for $75, $100 and $125, are unsurpassed by others priced at $250 to $300 and more.

Indeed it does seem incredible! But the answer is simple:

All makes of hearing aids cost about the same to manufacture. Highest quality Zenith costs no more to sell for $250 to $300—so do many others—because they do not include a high profit mark-up for so-called "selling expenses."

You cannot buy a better hearing aid than a Zenith at any price. Anyone who tells you differently is misinformed, or may have an interest in your purchase of a more expensive make.

Zenith's superb line of 5 tubeless, transistor models offers 62 individual power-tone response modifications. Get the one best suited to your hearing loss—no extra charge, no hidden "fitting" costs!

We invite you to try a Zenith Hearing Aid on our 30-day Money-Back Guarantee. Use it at home, work, church, anywhere—you must be satisfied! Full-Year Warranty, Free-Year Service Plan. Easy Time Payments. Stock serenoid provided; custom earmold or bone conduction device at small added cost. Your Zenith Hearing Aid Dealer is listed in the classified telephone directory. Indians Shooting For Flag With Loaded Dice; 'Bums' Win Seventh In Row

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"THERE'S MANY A SLIP . . ."!

Milstead J. Baldwin, writing his story of the first game between the Kingston Goodyears and the Sarnia Sailors, had his typewriter "bustin' all out" with optimism over the outcome of the senior "B" finals series. You could almost hear the Underground, Royal, or whatever mill Richard was to grind his sports grist fairly gurgling with glee. The "bell" rang gaily with triumphant jangles as the carriage zipped to and fro.

Summing up that first 5-3 victory he wrote: "The outlook appears very grim for the Western Ontario champions, who, rated off their initial showing are not as experienced or as formidable as were Whitby, Belleville and Orillia during group semi-final and finals tests. Goodyears are earmarks to that championship throne and Sarnia's interests and thoughts will turn to football before this series has run its course."

But, Sir Michael, after the Sailors had been edged 3-2 in the second tilt, and dashed a goal which observers said they should have had, adds a wrecking note "their peppery aggregation will bear watching if they continue to give it the old college try."

Careful, Don Mig, a series is not over until a team has four in the bag and a game is not finished until the final whistle blows. Remember Orillia!

ALL EVEN!

Point Anne unleashed its power in the second and third periods in Moscrop last night as they defeated Boston 11-6 to square their OHA intermediate "C" series at a game each. The third and deciding game will be played in Boston tomorrow night. The Boston crew is a big, rugged bevy of puckchasers which held the fast-skating Ox Pointers to a first period four-all tie. The winners of the series meet the Electrics, a place near Wallaceburg for the provincial title.

"HERE ONE FOR COOP"

Texas are fabulous Notre Dame football teams, exhorted to the drawing rooms to "go out and win this one for Cleo," or the Rockne, or Gipp, Knute Rockne, galloped out on the gridiron and won the games in tribute to the fallen heroes.

Yesterday a modern version of these famous incidents with a National Hockey League human interest touch came to light.

Mr. Lawrence Eggert, of Detroit and Florida, who owns a well-appointed cottage in Rossmere and is and has been a staunch supporter and friend of the Detroit Red Wings stars way back when, wrote this despatched from Landerdale-by-the-Sea down in the grapefruit and orange country.

Mr. Eggert's letter dealt in the main with the untimely passing of Carson Cooper, well known Detroit scout and latterly with the New York Rangers. "Coop" was an intimate friend of the Eggert family and was a many-times guest at the Rossmere cottage.

Among the players Cooper "discovered" for the Wings were Red Kelly, Ted Lindsay, Alex. Delvecchio and others, besides Harry Lumley, Toronto goalkeeper. He never forgot his interest in "his boys even after he left them the big time. We recall being a guest at the Eggert cottage a couple of years ago when "Coop" and Red Kelly were present. "Coop" kept up a fatherly interest over his protege, subsequently growing redhead and at one time when we queried him about it he smiled proudly and said "Thats m'boy."

Mr. Eggert, who knew Cooper during his playing days when he (Eggert) used to travel with the Wings, enjoyed a close personal friendship with the former scout. He wrote: "He was never given proper credit as is true of most scouts for the great talent he discovered. So many of them loved the guy, as he had a way all his own when he appreciated them."

"He continued giving them good advice about their play whenever possible. He was extremely fond of Kelly, Lindsay (whom he matched from under the nose of the Smythian scouts), Delvecchio and many others."

And here comes the punch line to this story.

"His death had genuine effect on the Red Wings than anyone on the outside could realize," Mr. Eggert declared. "They called us all the way from Montreal to Florida to let us know. The Red Wings went out there and won that last game for their beloved "Coop."

A number of the Red Wings will be guests again at the Eggert cottage this spring—and in the fall before training starts. We have met Gordie Howe, Red Kelly and the irrepressible Marty Pavelich, the only hockey player extant who can talk and chew gum at a fried half-chicken at the same time, as well as other Wing stalwarts at the Eggert cottage where Mike Philips "looks after da boys" like a mother hen over her brood.

In the meantime, Howe, Dineen, Reibel, Delvecchio and Prystai are headed Florida way where they will enjoy the Eggert hospitality. Pavelich will drop in, too, but with him will be his brand-new bride. He gets married next Saturday.

And smiling down from a ghostly Valhalla upon his beloved boys will be "Coop." Along the boards in that misty, mythical haven he will blaze down with Lionel Conacher, Howie Morenz, George Vezina, Herb Gardiner, Bert McCaffrey, George Hainsworth and other hockey greats, who wrote blazing pages in the book of National Hockey League history.

Have Hot 'Murderer's Row' With Half-Dozen Hatchet Men; Erskine Pitches, Hits to Win

By The Associated Press

Cleveland Indians have come up with a modern Murderer's Row—six hatchet men who keep swinging until they get the other guy's scalp.

All of which gives manager Al Lopez the guaranteed payoff of a savings bond. With Al Smith, Bobby Avila, Larry Doby, Al Rosen, Ralph Kiner and Vic Wertz swinging for him, he's shooting for a second straight American League pennant with loaded dice.

Cleveland's hatchet men have hatcheted in 29 of the Tribe's last runs this season, with the big four of the wrecking crew—Doby, Rosen, Kiner and Wertz—driving in 19.

BLACKWELL GOT IT

Before an overflow crowd of 31,323 Monday night at Kansas City, Ewell Blackwell got the treatment. He came on in the ninth for Athletics, who had rallied from two runs themselves for an 8-6 lead after four frames. Ken Blackwell received, Cleveland had swung back to a mere 9-8 deficit.

A walk and a fat batsman put Blackwell in the hole. Bob Lemon and Smith went and got Avila on a pop up. Then he had to face Doby. Blackwell got as far as a 2-2 count on the big guy, then awaited 375 feet over the right-field screen.

That was it. Cleveland had it 11-8, moving to within half a game of the American League leading Red Sox.

Only two games were played in the league. In another nighter New York Yankees' Whitey Ford set down Baltimore 6-0 on three singles as Orioles, still winless, lost their ninth.

DODGERS STILL UNBEATEN

The National had a full slate. Brooklyn stayed unbeaten with a five-run clout in the last Philadelphia Phillies 5-3 for Dodgers' seventh victory; and Cincinnati got rid of Eric Kunkel's hitting as the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4. Both were night games.

In the afternoon, New York Giants whipped Pittsburgh 12-3 and Milwaukee Braves edged Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Brooklyn pulled off the fourth five-run inning in its winning streak to top Phils, who had a 2-0 lead. Duke Snider hit a three-run homer, run of the season good fly three runs to start the rally and Carl Erskine capped it with a bases-loaded single. Erskine was the winner, collecting his second victory, but left because of wildness in the latter part of the game. He hit the Phils the rest of the way.

Opening Day For International

NEW YORK (AP)—The International League, baseball's oldest minor circuit, opens its 72nd season tonight with its third franchise shift in two years.

Columbus, for 23 years a pillar of the rival American Association, has replaced Ottawa in the three-country, triple-A league. A year ago Havana and Nashua took the places of Baltimore and Springfield, Mass., finishing fifth and seventh respectively.

The new setup, however, will have to wait until Wednesday before making its inaugural before the home folks against Rochester.

Tonight's two openers will be staged in the loop's two quadrennial cities, Richmond and Havana, Montreal, runner up to Toronto's pennant winners in 1954, visits Richmond. Buffalo, sixth a year ago, furnishes the opposition to the Cuban Sugar Kings.

President Frank Shaughnessy looks for "a highly exciting race."

"There is a chance for a record gate for the circuit" said Shaughnessy, beginning his 19th season as league president.

MAKE APPEARANCES

Three new managers make their appearance this season—Nick Cullop with Columbus; Harry Carnavale with Buffalo, and Greg Mulleavy with Rochester.

Toronto Maple Leafs have practically the same personnel which won the 1954 flag except for Elston Howard, who has gone to the New Yorkers, and has already received in return catcher Lou Berber, a .317 hitter with Birmingham last season. Manager Kent Cooke is confident he has another winner. Toronto fans have responded "with record purchases of tickets." Luke Sewell is a holdover as manager.

Columbus, a civic-owned club has an abundance of talent in individual tickets—good any time.

SEE GOOD HURLING

Montreal Royals' new manager is expected to come up with good pitching, great batting power and one of the best defensive infields in baseball. Second-baseman Charlie Neal, acquired from St. Paul; third-baseman Clyde Sukeforth brought up from Elmira, N.Y., and shortstop Chico Fernandez, re-acquired from Brooklyn Dodgers, were all top men in their leagues last year in double plays at their positions.

Buffalo and Syracuse both feature young, strong teams — the cream of farmhands from the Detroit and Philadelphia clubs, respectively.

Brantford Sox Hold Workout

BRANTFORD (CP) — Brantford Red Sox of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League held their first workout of the season Monday. More than 20 players were on hand.

Among the signed players were three making their first appearance in the Intercounty circuit—pitchers Don Robertson and John Brelja; and shortstop Jim Shephard.

Robertson, righthander with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League for part of the 1953 campaign, won 17 games and lost 11 last season in Tri-City of the class A Western International League.

Beavers Rely On Youth For Victory

KITCHENER (CP) — Fort William Beavers, western Canada hockey champions, have a youthful combination that averages out to 23.6 years for the team.

They rely on that blend of youthful zest and experience to bring them victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Allan Cup hockey finals that open here tonight. Reserved, with 29 players in the party, arrived here Monday.

Playing-coach Bob Drainville, at 34 the oldest member on the club, said Beavers favor an, offensive game and he expected the series to be a wide-open, action-packed affair.

Following a parade through the city in convertibles, the Beavers checked in to their hotel quarters and later held a practice at the arena.

The second game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled here Thursday, with the fifth Saturday. Dates for the other games have not been set.

Nobody is making any rash predictions for the series, Drainville, Fort Bill's 6-foot-3 goalie whose victories in the western Canada senior playoffs, takes the wait-and-see position.

And Dutchmen, who walloped Moncton Hawks in three best-of-seven set for the eastern Canada title, are just as cautious.

Poirer Wins Over Busso

NEW YORK (AP)—The name is Gene Poirer and mark it down if you're a fight fan. You're going to hear a lot about this 23-year-old ex-platoon sergeant from Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The angular-faced Korean war vet faintly resembles Tony Zale facially and has had the middle-aged middleweight champion. For two rounds against Richmond Busso Monday night Gene showed a pretty good left. Then early in the third he capped an overhand right against the 20-year-old New Yorker and that was that at 1:16.

Busso went down.

It was Poirer's sixth straight victory and his eighth in the last nine. Interweight's service-interrupted record is 24-1 with 14 knockouts. It was the first time Busso had been stopped. His record now is 21-3-1.

Poirer, a native Buffalo lad at Niagara Falls High, was stopped in the finals of the one Henry Hank on Aug. 3, 1954. That was his first defeat. After 21 months of service, 13 of them in Korea and six in Korean action.

"I'm in good shape and heavy—a middleweight," said Poirer, who weighed 161½ Busso's 161½ Monday night. "I wanted some money so I fought."

Poirer, who signed after his army, Gene outpointed Tony DeMarco, former welterweight champion, in an eight rounder on May 15, 1952.

Detroit Gets Injunctions Against Argos Players

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts are "afraid" they won't get Jungle Jim Martin, Detroit Lions defensive lineman, as assistant playing coach this year.

Team director Harry Sonshine of the Big Four club said in an interview Monday night that published reports the American is ready to sign with the Big Four club for "triple what we are chances of getting him."

"We had hoped to keep this secret," Sonshine said. "Martin was to ask Detroit for his release to take a coaching job in Canada, but now I'm afraid we'll lose him."

Martin still is under contract to the National Football League team.

Sonshine's comments were made after the Lions filed motions for injunctions here to prevent Martin, Tom Dublinski and tackle Gil Mains playing with Argonauts this season. The motion asks the Supreme Court of Ontario to restrain the two players from "breach of contract with the plaintiffs."

Lions will ask the Supreme Court to recognize the option clause in the two contracts. Under the contracts, Lions could exercise their options to sign Dublinski and Mains by registered mail by May 1.

Argonauts, embarking on an ambitious 1955 rebuilding program, headed into Monday night's meeting with it was reported the club had signed Bucky Curtis, an end from Cleveland Browns, and George Dixon, an assistant coach at Notre Dame last season. Dixon would be back field coach under head coach Bill Sriranka, picked up a few weeks ago from New York Giants.

Swiacki made a see-day stopover here Monday. He was on hand back at the end of June.

The reports said that Martin was headed this way.

Sonshine dismissed the reports, saying he was "not confirming Curtis and I'm denying Martin and Dixon."

The news of the signings marked another chapter in the Argonaut story started last winter when the Big Four club, an alleran in the eastern football race in 1954, announced that none of its 1954 imports would be invited back this year.

Argonauts went after established NFL stars and the Big Four stepped in by ruling that only four NFL players could be signed by each league club in 1955. The clubs still fill their cards, reported to be.10 imports, with American college players.

Argonauts have already signed their limit of NFL stars—Dublinski, Mains, and tackle Billy Shipp and guard Bill Albright from New York Giants. The Big Four will permit clubs to sign 30 to decide the total number of imports each team may carry.

THE SHAUGHNESSY STORY — Part 2

When Frank Joseph Shaughnessy was fired as manager of Montreal Royals in the International baseball League in 1934, it could, in a sense, be written down as the most fortunate thing that ever happened to him in his soldier of athletic fortune.

It was certainly fortunate for the League. A few months later he was named President of that body. And, as it developed, only the iron will and stern discipline which had the second-oldest baseball league in the world together as an eight club organization for the start of its 72nd campaign this week.

As told in the first of these 2 tabloid sketches, two real pillars of the International, Newark and Jersey City, suddenly collapsed in 1950 and 1951 respectively. Ottawa and Springfield replaced them for a year, or so, until 1953, the League remained intact. Then storm-clouds gathered again. Chicago Cubs of the National League withdrew their support from the Springfield venture. Baltimore, which had been in and out of the International almost from its inception had a chance to return to the majors. Shaughnessy was left with six clubs.

This was a crisis. Sources had seemingly been tapped dry. There was nothing left from which to draw. At least, that's the way it looked to anyone except to Shaughnessy.

The big Irishman's vision ranged south, far beyond the poisonous bounds of television. If Grant could take Richmond, he mused, so could Shaughnessy. So Shaughnessy took Richmond, inveigled that city into the International League fold.

But he still had a vacancy in his loop. Here a favoring Fate stepped in to aid the harried leader. A letter from Havana, sought conditions for an International League franchise. And so, in December, a solid-looking Havana citizen named Bobby Maduro appeared at a meeting in Montreal and offered his pay the freight for all teams travelling to Havana south of Richmond. Havana, colorful capital of Cuba, was welcomed with open arms. The International was eight-club again.

And so it starts the 1953 campaign. At the helm, the tough old guy who refused to accept defeat, who had kept the League financially alive with the play-off plan, and a Class AAA of gustation, by his ability to find new territory.

Regina Pats Have High Hopes Of Winning 3rd Memorial Cup

REGINA (CP)—Regina Pats, a team loaded with tradition and fighting heart, represent the West this year in the Memorial Cup hockey final opening here Thursday night.

Pats take on the powerful Toronto Marlboros in an attempt to break the supremacy eastern teams have shown in junior hockey in recent years.

Coach Murray Armstrong, a former star with Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, figures the East this year is a for a surprise.

Pats boast plenty of tradition and power. Their victory over Winnipeg Monarchs of the Manitoba Junior League in the Abbott Cup final marked the 12th time a Saskatchewan team has reached the Canadian junior final. Regina teams have captured the western championship nine times, all but one victory recorded by Pats.

The team has won two Memorial Cups, in 1925 and 1926. Regina Monitors won the title in 1928.

Regina went through the regular season with 39 wins and 11 losses. They were stretched to eight games in edging Medicine Hat Tigers in the Western Junior Hockey League semi-final and best Lethbridge Native four league games to two in the final.

Pats defeated Humboldt Indians from the Saskatchewan Junior League in five games and ran up to same record against Winnipeg in the western final.

Armstrong says barring injuries received in training he'll have all but in top shape for thestout-seven Canadian finals, except for all-star defenceman Murray Ballow who cracked a kneecap in the series against Lethbridge.

A vital cog on the team is goalie Joe Selinger, in his second year with Pats, he allowed sixaverage of 2.33 goals a game in games this season.

Toronto Marlboros, Regina Pats Gu For First Memorial Cup in 20 Years

By BILL HENRY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — If being hungry has any bearing on winning the Memorial Cup, this year's Canadian junior hockey final may be one of the hardest-fought series on record.

Neither Regina Pats nor Toronto Marlboros, who meet in the best-of-seven series starting in Regina Thursday, has taken the trophy in more than 20 years.

It may be an omen for Pats that the last time they won the cup—a team in the finals. Marlboros won the trophy in 1939 when they defeated Winnipeg Rangers. That was the last year the Dukes were in the Canadian final.

EMBOLDED WIN

Tuck Brodie, Marlboro coach, says that "as long as the boys don't get the idea this series will be a pushover, we should win."

Brodie, who has had years of coaching Dukes led them to their first Ontario Hockey Association junior A title in 25 years, said his boys are in top shape.

Marlboros have been the surprise team of the East this season. They finished the Ontario Junior A schedule in third place with 29 victories, 17 losses and three ties after a shaky start. They won the last six games of the schedule.

Most of the team's power has been supplied by Toronto-born players. Nineteen-year-old Billy Harris, 154-pound centre, is the second line, led the team in scoring with 46 points in 46 league games. Billy's total included 27 goals, fourth highest in the OHA.

Harris, along with his right-winger Bobby Pulford and left-winger Ken Girard, both natives of Toronto, also sparked the team in the playoffs. Marlboros scored 39 goals against St. Catharines Tee-Pees in the league final and the Harris line notched 11 of them. Harris had 14 points in the six-game series.

COURTEOUS IN FINAL

In the eastern Canada final against Quebec Frontenacs the line scored six goals.

Captain Mike Nykoluk, 20, centres the first line with Gary Collins on left wing and Glen Cressman on right. Nykoluk and Collins were born in Toronto, Cressman in Kitchener. Both Collins and Cressman were obtained from Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks in a mid-season trade.

Cressman had four goals and three assists in the six-game series against Quebec, Nykoluk one goal and six assists and Collins two goals and two assists.

Seventeen-year-old Bill Kennedy, 4 native of Toronto, centres the third line with Winnipeg-born Jerry James, 20, on right wing and Gary Aldcorn, 20, on left. Aldcorn was born in Saskatchewan.

Five-foot-six Johnny Albani, who weighs only 144 pounds, is the Marlboro netminder. Born in Toronto, he won the Dave Pinkney Trophy as the OHA's best goalkeeper this year with an average of 2.95 goals a game.

Chadwick May Try Channel With 'Marilyn'

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's Marilyn Bell may have competition from veteran swimmer Florence Chadwick when she makes her first attempt at the English channel this summer.

By telephone from Nashville, Tenn., where she is on tour with Catalina Bathing Club, Miss Chadwick said Monday in an interview with the Toronto Star she planned the swim nine months ago. She will go to England June 17.

She was surprised to learn the 17-year-old from Toronto was also planning a channel attempt.

"I don't care if Marilyn jumps in or not," she said. "The channel is big enough for both of us and it wouldn't make any difference one way or the other."

SET A RECORD

First woman to swim the channel both ways, she did it from France to England in 16 hours 19 minutes in 1950 to set a record for the crossing.

Marilyn will get $15,000. Miss Chadwick said she hasn't yet found a sponsor. The 22-year-old from Ontario last summer but only Marilyn finished.

"My only concern is to try to break records," Miss Chadwick said. "And I'm better right by swim could take place on the same day Marilyn attempts it."

aul Andrews eets Slade

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo's Paul Andrews will tangle with Fred Slade of New York May 18 in a 10-round heavyweight bout in Aulo in five years.

Promoter Harvey Michaels announces that the 10-round scrap will be Memorial Auditorium. Fight fans pack Andrews will fight James J. Parker Harris, Ont.

Andrews, fifth-ranked nationally among light heavyweights, says he'll easily a heavyweight. His most impressive victory so far have been over Dai Nardico and Boardwalk Billy Smith. Slade has defeated Dodo Marino of England and Tommy (Sicane) Jackson.

Regina Pats Have High Hopes Of Winning 3rd Memorial Cup

REGINA (CP)—Regina Pats, a team loaded with tradition and fighting heart, represent the West this year in the Memorial Cup hockey final opening here Thursday night.

Pats take on the powerful Toronto Marlboros in an attempt to break the supremacy a string of teams have shown in junior hockey in recent years.

Coach Murray Armstrong, a former star with Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League, figures the East this year is a for a surprise.

Pats boast plenty of tradition and power. Their victory over Winnipeg Monarchs of the Manitoba Junior League in the Abbott Cup final marked the 12th time a Saskatchewan team has reached the Canadian junior final. Regina teams have captured the western championship nine times, all but one victory recorded by Pats.

The team has won two Memorial Cups, in 1925 and 1926. Regina Monarchs won the title in 1936.

Regina went through the regular season with 39 wins and 19 losses. They were crowded right ahead of the edging Medicine Hat Tigers in the Western Junior Hockey League semi-final and beat Lethbridge Native Sons four games to two in the final.

Pats defeated Humboldt Indians of the Saskatchewan Junior League in five games and ran up the same count against Winnipeg in the western final.

Armstrong says barring any injuries received in training his team will be in top shape for the best-of-seven Canadian final, except for all-star defenceman Murray Balfour who cracked a kneecap in the series against Lethbridge.

A vital cog on the team is goalie Joe Selinger. In his second year with Pats, he allowed an average of 2.83 goals a game in 64 games this season.

Toronto Marlboros, Regina Pats Gun For First Memorial Cup in 20 Years

By BILL SENYK

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — If being hungry has anything on winning the Memorial Cup, this year's Canadian junior hockey final may be one of the hardest-fought series on record.

Neither Regina Pats nor Toronto Marlboros, who meet in the best-of-seven series starting in Regina Thursday night, has been champ in more than 20 years.

It may be an omen for Pats that the last time they won the cup—team in the finals, Marlboros won the trophy in 1936 when they defeated Winnipeg Elmwoods. That was the last year the Dukes were in the Canadian final.

SHOULD WIN

Turk Broda, Marlboro coach, says that as long as the boys don't get the idea this series will be a breeze, they should win.

Broda, who in his initial year of coaching Dukes led them to their first Ontario Hockey Association junior A title in 23 years, said his boys are in top shape.

Marlboros have been the surprise team of the East this season. They finished in Ontario junior A schedule in third place with 29 victories, 17 losses and three ties after a shaky start. They won the last six games of the schedule.

Most of the team's power has been supplied by Toronto-born players. Hinsberger-paced Billy Harris, 154-pound centre of the second line, led the team in scoring with 86 points in 48 league games. Billy's 1954 included 37 goals, fourth highest in the OHA.

Harris, along with his right-winger Rodney Pulford and left-winger Ken Girard, both natives of Toronto, also sparked the team in the playoffs. Marlboros scored 30 goals against St. Catharines Teepees in the league final and the Harris line notched 11 of them. Harris had 14 points in the six-game series.

COUNTED IN FINAL

In the eastern Canada final against Quebec Frontenacs the line scored six goals.

Captain Mike Nykoluk, 25, centres the first line with Gary Collins on left wing and Glen Cressman on right. Nykoluk and Collins were born in Toronto, Cressman in Kitchener. Both Collins and Cressman were obtained from Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks in a mid-season trade.

Cressman had four goals and three assists in the six-game series against Quebec, Nykoluk one goal and six assists and Collins two goals and two assists.

Seventeen-year-old Bill Kennedy, a native of Toronto, centres the third line with Winnipeg-born Jerry James, 20, on right wing and Gary Aldcorn, 20, on left. Aldcorn was born in Saskatchewan.

Five-foot-six Johnny Albani, who weighs only 140 pounds, is the Marlboro netminder. Born in Toronto, he won the Dave Pinkney Trophy as the OHA's best goalkeeper this year with an average of 2.95 goals a game.

Kitchener, Fort William Open Allan Cup Classic Tonight

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — The four-year-old Fort William Beavers set out tonight to attempt a trick Fort William team has never accomplished—win the Allan Cup, emblematic of Canada's senior hockey championship.

Twice frustrated in attempts to gain the final after winning the Thunder Bay Senior League title, Beavers this season waltzed through the western Canada playoffs and now meet Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for the cup.

The best-of-seven series opens tonight in Kitchener with the second and third games Thursday and Saturday also scheduled in Kitchener. Dates for other games have not been set.

History of the Beavers dates back to the 1951-52 season, when following the disappearance of senior hockey in this Lakehead city, a group of hockey enthusiasts got together and formed the present organization.

FLOPPED IN PLAYOFF

In their initial season the Beavers' success story ended abruptly. They won the first three games of the Thunder Bay district playoffs against Fort Frances Canadians, only to fall flat and lose the series 4-3 in games.

Canadians that year won the Allan Cup, something no Fort William team has been able to do despite four times sending a team to the final.

The following year the Beavers won the district title but fell before the powerful Penticton Vs in six games of a subsequently won cup for the western Canada crown. Vs lost in the cup final to Kitchener, which this year again won the western crown.

Last season, the Beavers again got safely through their district playoffs, but were eliminated by Winnipeg Maroons in the western semi-final. Penticton whipped Maroons and subsequently went on to capture the cup over Sudbury Wolves.

FAR IN FRONT

This year the Beavers made it to the final without difficulty. They ran through the Thunder Bay schedule with ease, winning 12 games against nine losses and finishing 18½ games ahead of Fort Frances Canadiens in the final standings.

In district playoffs the Beavers brushed Fort Frances aside in four games. They met Maroons in the western semi-finals and rubbed them out with four wins and a draw in the best-of-seven round.

Last Thursday night they eliminated Vernon Canadians, who won the British Columbia crown while Penticton was at the world championships. The Beavers beat the Canadians in the western final, taking the best-of-seven series 4-2 in games. The Beavers had stretched their undefeated string in playoff competition to 11 games when they took the first two games against Vernon, 3-1 and 3-1, but Canadians came back to win 7-3 in the third game. Beavers won 4-1 in the fourth and dropped another 7-3 decision in the fifth.

Thursday they cleaned it up and it is with high hopes they meet Dutchmen.

Paul Andrews Meets Slade

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo's Paul Andrews will tangle with Jimmy Slade of New York May 19 in the first major heavyweight bout in Buffalo in five years.

Promoter Dewey Michaels announced that the 10-round scrap will be in Memorial Auditorium. First published reports were that Andrews would fight James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont.

Andrews, fifth-ranked nationally among the light heavyweights, says he'll campaign from now on as a heavyweight. His most impressive victories so far have been over Danny Nardico and Boardwalk Billy Smith. He has also defeated Don Cockell of England and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson.

South American Rules Favorite In Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Reinaldo Gorno, a 26-year-old sanitation engineer from Buenos Aires, rolled a solid favorite to maintain the recent monopoly of foreign foot-racers in the famed Boston AA marathon—but showery weather might be his undoing today.

Gorno, second to Cascholavakia's great Emil Zatopek when the Czech Olympic marathon mark in 1952, would prefer a sunny day with temperatures in the low 60s for this 26-mile, 385-yard grind from rural Hopkinton to downtown Boston.

But anticipated showers boosted the chances of the other foreign stars. Sweden's lean, swift Gustaf Jansson—who lost by only six sights of a mile to Gorno for second place in the last Olympics—was accorded a strong chance to take it all.

Canada's best chance is represented by Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., four-time winner of the marathon. Fifteen other Canadians are entered.

How Many Would Robin Chalk Up With a Batting Club Behind Him?

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—It's going to be a tough year for Johnny Antonelli of the Giants if his manager persists in matching the brilliant young southpaw against Robin Roberts of the Phils.

Johnny probably is the best lefthander in the National League, as his admirers claim, but Roberts just happens to be the most effective pitcher in the game today.

Watching the Phillies fireballer outdoist Antonelli for the second time in the young season and finally wear him out in the 11th inning, one got to wondering how many games Roberts would win season after season if he had a hitting club behind him instead of an outfit which was seventh in runs-batted-in last year.

Were he pitching for, say, St. Louis Cardinals, who drove 748 runs across the dish as compared to the Phils' 620, it seems reasonable to surmise that Roberts would rack up 30 victories or better every year. He is the only Phil flinger since Grover Cleveland Alexander's day, incidentally, to win as many as 28.

GOOD RECORD

Over the last four seasons, working for a club that finished fifth once and fourth not two occasions, the tireless righthander has won 21, 28, 23, 23, in that order.

Over the last three seasons, Roberts has averaged roughly three strikeouts to each base on balls, almost surely leading the regular startsds of both leagues in that respect.

Watching him pitch this spring, our impression had been that the Phil ace was making more use of a change-up pitch to throw batters off balance than in other years, and he confirmed this after his second victory over the Giants. The slow one, coming on top of a blazing fast ball, made the strolling Willie Mays look pretty silly on a couple of occasions.

Toronto Peewees Charged With 'Dirty Tactics'

GODERICH (CP)—Coach Frank Hollingsworth of Newmarket Peewees has charged Ted's Pals of Toronto, grand champions of the Young Canada Week pewee ice hockey tournament, with "dirty tactics."

He made the charge after he withdrew his class A champions from the grand championship preliminaries Saturday.

"Until they clean up their minor hockey in Toronto and cut out their dirty tactics we won't play them," he said. "I'm responsible for these boys and I was afraid that some of them might get hurt."

Kneeing, butt-ending and elbowing are common in the Toronto Hockey League, parent body of Ted's Pals, he said. The youngsters are taught these tricks in order to prepare them for professional hockey.

Fred Pollard, coach of the East York AA entry that lost 6-0 to Toronto in the grand championship final, also called Ted's Pals a "pro" team.

Holm Wins Pro Badminton Title

MONTREAL (CP)—Paul Holm of Toronto won the world's professional badminton singles champion ships Monday night with 15-2, 15-3 wins over Stan Cutts of Montreal.

The championships were on best-of-three games basis, the other two games played over the last two weeks. Holm won the first match 15-3, 15-11 while Cutts took the second 8-15, 15-2, 15-8.

Cutts had held the championship since 1946.

MAY MOVE DERBY

LONDON (AP)—Acropolis, Lady Derby's entry in the world's most thoroughbred, was named favorite for the Epsom Derby at a betting shop today as rain threatened to spoil Monday night.

The derby is scheduled to be held at Epsom May 25—the day before Britain's general election. That clash is due to mean that the Derby may be moved from the traditional Wednesday to the following Saturday, May 28.

RIDES 5 WINNERS

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Jockey Willie Hartack rode five winners in the first five races at Laurel track's opening Monday and missed his sixth winner by a neck. A sixth victory would have equalled the record for most winners ridden in one day in Maryland.

ALL-STAR LINEMAN

MONTREAL (CP)—Chet Lukaw-ski, a 220-pound former University of Detroit football star, has signed with the Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football League, club president Hal Ramsay of the club announced Monday.

Lukawski plays offensive guard or tackle and was a member of the Kentucky Sugar Bowl and Rose Bowl champions in 1950 and 1951.

SNEAD IS CERTIFIED

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sam Snead Monday was certified as the 214th and final qualifier in the $15,000 Las Vegas open golf tournament which will be held April 28-May 3 over the Desert Inn course.

He thus became one of three pros who have qualified for all three renewals of the rich tourney. The competition is limited to winners of the previous two tournaments. The other three-time entrants are Cary Middlecoff, recent winner of the Masters, and Lloyd Mangrum.

BIG DOUBLE TAKE

MIAMI (AP)—Lucky bolders of $2 tickets on the daily double Monday at Hialeah Park's Tropical Park collected $1,536.10. Dearisme was the first race and paid $118.90, while Mrs. Palmer took the second, paying $27.20.

HORSE NICKS LEG

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Trainer Frank Andolino reported Monday that undefeated Boston Doge nicked his right foreleg in training his 10th race Saturday at Bowie so may not be able to start in Saturday's Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel.

Sarnia Holds Grid Workout

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union took the winter's creaks out of their limbs Monday night in the first session of a three-week's spring training program.

Imperials might have the services of Andy Sokol, ex-Winnipeg Blue Bomber. He was out on the field, along with his brother, Bob. Andy said he had not signed a contract.

OUTCAST WINS SPECIAL

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Alfred-G. Vanderbilt's favored Social Outcast captured the $38,500 Lincoln Special Monday. Spur On finished second and Wise Margin was third.

The Kibitzer

The bridge questions I get, rudimentary or complex, are always good subjects for discussion here. From my mail is selected a letter with this deal:

♥ 10 7 5 4 3

WEST
♠Q 9 8 4
♥K 6 2
♦10 8 7 2
♣A 7

EAST
♠8 7 5
♥10
♦K 9 4 3
♣10 9 3 2

SOUTH
♥A Q J
♦A Q 7
♣K Q 9 6

The bidding went like this:

South	North
3 No-trump	4 Hearts
6 Hearts	Pass

The slam was defeated and south writes to say that north, who was an expert player, criticized the slam bid. The four heart bid was not sufficient to get to a slam, north claimed.

North said that he counted his own hand was worthless at any no-trump contract and would play best in hearts. This was his only reason for taking out the no-trump game into a heart game.

My sympathies are with both partners. The deliberation of north is worthy of his ability. But he did not seem to be figuring to its conclusion; that is, the effect or his act upon partner.

An opener of three no-trump announces his confidence of such a game and a help of any kind. Even if he is downed by a bad break he is entitled to acceptance of this assurance.

Therefore, no rescue of such an opening is expected. For this reason any responding bid is encouragement to investigate or go to slam. North should have considered this in his reckoning.

It would be a valuable bridge asset to use such a response for both purposes. Projecting of course, that the opener can distinguish when it means one and when it means the other.

Was there a special agreement that such a takeout was only for rescue? If not, south could not be blamed for using its customary meaning. Even an expert knows that much.

'See It Now' Program Evolves By Plan, by Accident, Nerve

By SAUL PETT
(For Wayne Oliver)

NEW YORK (AP)—Ed Murrow's "See It Now" program evolves in a variety of ways, by plan, by accident, and sometimes, by sheer nerve.

As of this morning, for example, Murrow and his coproducer, Fred Friendly, at times have shown "in the bank," well filmed and ready to go. They concern book-burning, cigars and cancer, and the story of a U. S. atomic bombing unit in Europe. Two more, about the Salk polio vaccine, the shows which have been in the making for weeks.

You'll probably see one of them tonight, unless some tremendous news breaks during the day. If, for example, President Eisenhower should make unusually big headlines in the next few hours, Friendly and Murrow would be ready to go on the air with considerable footage on Eisenhower. One of the show's three camera crews stationed in the United States (a fourth works out of London) has been shooting the president as he makes speeches he's made since his inaugural.

Murrow's memorable interview with Dr. Robert Oppenheimer was accidental, Friendly and his wife were guests at the dinner party Princeton, N. J., and dropped in at the host's home for the advanced Study.

That suggested a program on the institute, and arrangements were made. Several weeks later, Murrow came back with a camera crew. He began talking with Oppenheimer, thinking they would give a five-minute segment for the show. Murrow got so interested he and Oppenheimer talked for almost four hours. "See It Now" condensed this into a half hour for the whole show.

The average "See It Now" show costs about $80,000, of which $35,000 is for air time. The budget for talent and other expenses runs to about $25,000. When the program goes over this figure, CBS picks up the tab for the difference.

Melrose

MELROSE — Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives of the late William Robert-son whose body was interred in the family plot at Melrose cemetery.

Mrs. Harold Kimmerley and children visited her parents last week, returning home on Saturday. On Easter Sunday her parents were guests at her home, when her baby was christened.

The Jack McLarens were a part of the family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Onderdonk on Easter Sunday.

On the evening of the 7th the teacher and pupils sponsored a euchre in the Township Hall. Eleven tables used for cards after which the senior boys and girls served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Embury entertained members of their family from Toronto over the Easter holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Milligan were pleased to have their son, Lewis, with his wife and family, with them for Easter. They are now residing in the U.S.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Murray and girls of Merrilton have been visiting at the home of William Mc-Cook and other relatives here and in Bellville.

All are pleased to report Mrs. Harry Davis able to return home from the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blatherwick spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur English.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hurst, Belleville, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Goodfellow on Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cumsbey and family moved to the Joe Doyle farm on the fourth concession last week.

The girls of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cook are holidaying with their grandparents in Wellington.

The tragic drowning accident at Hay Bay on Saturday also took the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fox last Sunday, and a gloom over this community. Many attended the funeral service at Napanee on Tuesday afternoon. Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Badgley visited Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McCabe, Napanee, on Easter Sunday.

CHIEF RESIGNS

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP)—The resignation of New Zealand's chief of police was announced today by Prime Minister Sidney Holland. The police chief, E. H. Compton, was the central figure in an official inquiry into the police force of Auckland in which he was accused of telephone tapping and bribery. Compton was cleared by the commission, but in his statement today Holland said that "in the circumstances Mr. Compton had been unable to maintain the authority of his office.

'On the Waterfront' Stars Marlon Brando

Marlon Brando stars in Columbia Pictures' memorable "On the Waterfront," now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Karl Malden and Lee J. Cobb co-star and the film marks the haunting motion picture debut of lovely blonde Eva Marie Saint, stage, radio and television actress "On the Waterfront," a surging drama of the jungle world where the city meets the sea, re-unites the team of Brando and director Elia Kazan who were responsible for the highly successful "A Streetcar Named Desire." In the new drama of brass-knuckled love and terror, Rod Steiger and Pat Henning are the principal featured supporting players. "On the Waterfront," an Elia Kazan Production with music by famed composed Leonard Bernstein, was written for the screen by Budd Schulberg and produced by Sam Spiegel.

Point Anne Wallops Beeton 11-6 To Square Intermediate 'C' Playdown

MARMORA — (Special) — The Point Anne Comentsmen's high scoring line of playing-coach Tim Williams and the Coyne brothers, Gerry and Leo, erupted for seven goals and ten assists here last night to lead their club to a 11-6 victory over the Beeton Combines. The victory knotted their O. H. A. Intermediate "C" semi-finals series at one game each with the deciding battle slated for Beeton Wednesday night. The winners will meet Electric for the Provincial championship.

Last night's game saw the visitors take a 4-2 lead early in the first period but the Cementmen laced home two goals by Brian Mulvihill and Leo Goyer to make it 4-4 as the period ended. Point Anne outscored the losers in the middle session to carry a 8-6 lead into the final twenty minutes when they added three unanswered markers to win going away.

Leo Goyer turned in a fine effort, scoring three goals and assisting on Gerry Goyer's goal. scored once and picked up three assists while Tim Williams collected a trio of goals. Pat Gilmour, team captain, netted two goals with singlefoots going to Leo Scott and Brian Mulvihill. Nichols led Beeton's attack with two goals while Holcomb and McLean each had a goal and assist. Letts and Wallace also scored.

After Gerry Goyer put his club in front at 2.20 of the initial period, Holcomb and Nichols scored and Leo Goyer tied it at 10.20. Nichol bit the hemp again at 12.08 and McLean made it 4-3 40 seconds later but Mulvihill and Goyer scored in the dying minutes of the period.

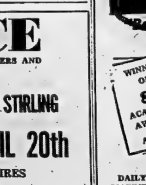
Timmy Williams sank a pair within six seconds during the first minute of the second session and Joe Scott added another before Letts and Wallace registered on blueline shots. Williams completed his hat-trick at 19.05

Leo Goyer added it 8-5 before Pat Gilmour clicked for his two insurance goals in the final period.

The Combines received nine minor penalties to Point Anne's six while Letts and Williams went off together with majors for fighting in the wild third period.

The teams:

Beeton— Goal, B. Kearns; defence, Letts, Kelly; centre, Letts; wings, D. Kearns, Nichols; alternates, Porter, Hooper, Norton, Holcomb, McLean, Wallace.



Point Anne—Goal, Bates; defence, Semark, P. Green; centre, L. Goyer; wings, G. Goyer, Williams; alternates, J. Green, Hunter, Gilmour, Strahan, Scott and Mulvihill.

Referees—Herb Payne and Ned Vitarelli, of Peterborough.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, April 20, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Strong benefic aspects from the Moon and Mars hold promise of high accomplishment if you direct your energies where important, too, to be reasonable, fair.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This can be a generous, constructive period for you, especially if you are broad-minded, unselfish in your aims, and do not worry or fret too much about personal recognition. Be duly zealous, aggressive.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Pinpoint your many talents and capabilities on immediately urgent business matters, chores, study, etc. You can make some progress, advancement. Fresh opportunities. Be kindly.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some extra energy, a reasonable amount of aggressiveness and astute management should result in immediate and lasting gain. Don't be averse to heeding sound criticism and advice. Be your pleasant self.

July 24 to August 22 — (Leo)— You may have to search harder, strive for more co-operation than the stars offer now, but you won't regret doing so. And remember, we can all find good leads, take suggestions from both old and young.

August 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)— Fine indications for all work requiring artistry, skill and accuracy but household interests such as foods, cooking, canning, etc., are especially favored.

September to Oct. 23 (Libra) — Same as Taurus now. Your intuitive powers and perception of people's wants and needs should bring you new advantages—even honor—if used to advantage. Some strong, propitious rays.

October 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio) —Stop! Take time to properly evaluate your obligations and your problems. You can reap a fine harvest if you know what you are about, and do your ablest.

November 23 to Dec. 22 (Sagittarius) — Enthusiasm and ambition should be stirring now. This is fine but, of course, you must be on the right track, motivated by fine ideals, going ahead to true achievement.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Good rays still linger from your Saturn's aspect and, coupled with these, you have fine Moon and Mars aspects. Such vibrations are encouraging for difficult trades, all honest efforts. But you must co-operate of course.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)—Sound progress possible, but don't indulge in extremes or be careless about associations. Switching from a planned schedule should be studied, done with forethought. Your natural patience can win.

Feb. 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Strictly confidential matters, handling liquids, chemicals, oil need more than casual attention — care! Otherwise this day can be beneficial, gainful for intelligent efforts.

YOU BORN TODAY are studious, have excellent mental powers, are generally capable, talented. You have an aptitude for trade or investment, and history shows us that many noted religious figures were born in your sector of the Zodiac. Worry and dissatisfaction over needless matters should be avoided. But active disappointments as part of life's whole scheme and spend energy, time and your fine capability on achieving and living hopefully. Prayer and wholesome cheerful associates will be very helpful to your happiness and success. Have faith in yourself and God will guide you. Birthdate: Dinah M. Craik, Eng. novelist; Napoleon III Fr. Emperor.

Attlee Dashes Back to Britain To Electioneer

VICTORIA (CP)—Clement Attlee dashes back to Britain today to lead the Labor party in the election campaign he opened 6,000 miles from home. He is scheduled to arrive in England at 8 a.m. British time Thursday and start his election work two hours later.

The former British prime minister made the last speech of his 27-concord Canadian tour before 5,000 persons Monday night. The trip was cut short when the May 26 election was called by Prime Minister Eden.

It was at his last appearance that Mr. Attlee received one of the greatest tributes of his Canadian trip.

Ranjit Singh, a member of the Khalsa Diwan Society which represents most of British Columbia's East Indians, made a presentation in appreciation of Mr. Attlee's "outstanding work for the welfare of the human race as a whole.

"Mr. Attlee is a well-known statesman of the world," Mr. Singh said. "In countries of Asia and Africa he is recognized as one of the greatest men in the Western world."

In his speech Mr. Attlee expressed fear that mankind has not the moral sense to control its own invention.

"Mankind has acquired enormous power but not yet attained sufficient moral sense to control it," he said.

At a press conference earlier Mr. Attlee said he does not think it probable that the pound sterling would be made convertible under a labor government. He said it all depends on economic conditions.

Trade Delegation From Kitchener Visiting London

LONDON (CP) — A Kitchener, Ont., trade delegation, opening a 10-day visit to London, today conferred with trade commissioner Richard Stapleford at Ontario House and arranged a number of business appointments.

The group, headed by Mayor Donald Weber, arrived Monday night by air from Canada. Its main purpose is to attract British industry to Kitchener, described in an Ontario House statement today as the most highly industrialized city in Canada for its size. Kitchener had a population of 52,000 in 1954.

Weber, accompanied by Kitchener's industrial commissioner, Vic McKenty, and assistant commissioner Harold Ball, posed for photographers at the Ontario House. Panels in the window showed Kitchener's principal industries.

A delegation from St. Catharines, Ont., now touring Britain, Switzerland and Germany, is expected here Friday to study industrial prospects. The group is led by Richard Robertson, industrial commissioner for St. Catharines and district. Also in the party are T. Edmisson of the St. Mary of the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce and W. Beecker, who emigrated to Canada from Germany

Tryingto to Develop Equipment Enabling 'Copters to Shed Ice

By JOHN BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Research Council, trying to make helicopters safe for winter search and rescue work, has launched a long-range program to develop equipment which will enable the 'copters to shed ice.

Success of the project also will speed the day when a more economical helicopter can be used year-round on scheduled flights for transport of mail, passengers and freight.

De-icing equipment is not installed on RCAF helicopters used for search and rescue or freight operations or on machines used by commercial aircraft companies because it is too heavy and would almost eliminate the aircraft's ability to carry anything else.

OTTAWA PROJECT

The research is being conducted at the RCAF's Uplands station on Ottawa's outskirts. A specially-designed spray rig has been built to produce artificial icing conditions and permit scientists to test anti-icing equipment on the machines borrowed from the navy.

The tests started early this year will be continued next winter. Results of experiments to date will receive laboratory study this summer.

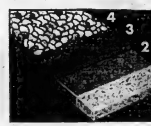
They follow completion of experiments with the air force's famed "Rockcliffe Ice Wagon" on the development of better de-icing equipment for conventional aircraft. These experiments, done over a five-year period, showed that the best method for de-icing employs the electro-thermal principle.

Ice is allowed to form for a short time on the propeller, wing or fuselage. Sufficient heat then is applied to surface padding to produce a thin film of water between the ice and sections of the aircraft where ice has accumulated. The heat destroys the adhesion of the ice and it is thrown off by aerodynamic forces.

TEST LIGHTER EQUIPMENT

Lighter equipment employing the same principle is being tested in an effort to find a way to permit helicopters to throw off ice, too.

Icing conditions present a severe hazard to helicopters on mercy missions. Waiting for good weather so they can fly might mean the difference between life and death for persons stranded in an area approachable only by this type of aircraft.



The day is not too far off when helicopters will be used for scheduled movements of mail, passengers and freight over short distances. This will be possible with the development of light de-icing equipment and design of machines which will be cheap to build and can carry a heavier payload than at present.

New post office buildings in Vancouver and Winnipeg are being equipped with roofs on which helicopters can land.

Postal officials say they probably will move mail between city post offices and airports. The post office roofs also may become terminals for transporting passengers to airports by helicopter instead of by automobile.

The tests with the "Rockcliffe Ice Wagon" resulted in the development of fully-automatic electro-thermal de-icing systems for the Canadair CF-100. Other equipment developed included an icing detector now in large-scale production and a device to rid propellers of ice.

ASPHALT SHINGLES
What do you want most in a roof? Naturally you have your own ideas about color and style but every homeowner agrees a roof must provide maximum protection at low cost. Compare J-M Asphalt Strip Shingles, feature for feature — you'll discover they offer more for your roofing dollar.
Weather protection—With a roof of J-M Asphalt Shingles even the stormiest weather creates no worries. And under the blazing sun these shingles are protected from drying out with a high quality asphalt coating and a firmly imbedded mineral surface.
Fire protection—That same mineral surface, made up of millions of fine granules, minimizes the danger of fire.
Beauty—J-M Asphalt Shingles have been called "the most beautiful buy in roofing." And with good reason. From the wide range of rich, solid colors and distinctive blends, you'll be able to find the color exactly to your taste.
Low cost—J-M Asphalt Shingles are your most economical investment, being both inexpensive to buy and inexpensive to apply.
Long life—You can be sure of this. For J-M Shingles are made to the most rigid standards of quality. A built-in quality based on nearly 100 years of roofing experience.

HERE'S HOW J-M ASPHALT SHINGLES GIVE EXTRA PROTECTION!
This diagram illustrates the basic elements combined in J-M Asphalt Shingles to assure greater protection and longer life. 1—Extra high quality felt base. 2—Asphalt saturant, the vital water-proofing ingredient. 3—Asphalt top coating for protection against the drying-out action of the sun's rays. 4—Colorful, mineral granules, to safeguard against weather and wear.

Quarter Billion Needed To Finish Highway No. 401

Trenton-Belleville Section Is High on Priority List

TORONTO (CP)—W. J. Fulton, director of planning for the Ontario department of highways, said Tuesday the cost of the new 900-mile No. 401 highway is $500,000 to $700,000 a mile.

Mr. Fulton, appearing before the Ontario legislature committee on toll roads, said the cost varies according to development.

John P. Robarts, committee chairman, asked: "With that figure could be completed in five years at an annual cost of $45,000,000. He based his estimate on figures provided by Mr. Fulton.

Mr. Robarts, Progressive Conservative member for London, said it was too early to determine whether the $45,000,000 could be raised without toll road financing. An argument in favor of such financing was the release of government capital for other uses.

Mr. Fulton was the last witness at the committee's two-day organizational meeting. It was set up at the last session of the legislature. He said Highway 401 could be built at the rate of only 75 miles a year, providing money and materials were available.

REVIEWS PROGRESS

Reviewing construction progress on the new four-lane, controlled-access highway, Mr. Fulton said he expected the Toronto by-pass from the Queen Elizabeth Way to Weston and a 35-mile section between London and Woodstock will be finished this year and 28 miles east from Windsor next year.

Other sections will be completed in the privately list were the Toronto to Kitchener and Trenton-Belleville-Kingston sections. Another section in the St. Lawrence seaway area was scheduled for early completion.

Mr. Fulton said 10 miles have been graded between Trenton and Belleville, the Kingston by-pass is under construction and work is progressing on the second by-pass in the Belleville-to-Gananoque section.

In reply to a question by W. E. Sandercock, Progressive Conservative member for Hastings West, Mr. Fulton said a large percentage of roads in the province are adequate to handle their traffic load.

FOR THE RICH

Arthur Reaume, Liberal member for Essex North, said toll roads were for the rich. He asked what the poor will drive on one road, the rich on another.

E. B. Grummett, CCF member for Cochrane South, said the fee for travel on a toll road was hardly the difference between what a rich man and a poor man could afford.

M. Fulton said about two-thirds of Ontario's population lives within three miles of four-lane controlled-access highways, he said.

The committee set a tentative date of May 9 and 10 for the next meeting.

Tribute Paid

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda today printed a two-column tribute to Dr. Albert Einstein, describing him as "one of the great transformers of natural sciences."

The Pravda article, signed by A. N. Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Academy of Scientists and other leading Soviet scientists, had high praise for Einstein, who died Monday at Princeton, N.J.

ADVISE AGAINST SUPPRESSING LOSS-LEADERS

Commission Presents Report to Commons

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament's anti-combines body has advised the government against suppression of loss-leader selling, sometimes defined as the offering of goods at below cost to attract customers and cause competing shops.

The three-man Restrictive Trade Practices Commission says a year-long study has shown the practice is neither widespread nor serious. Moreover, it found businessmen disagreed on defining clearly what a loss-leader is.

The commission's 278-page report was tabled today in the Commons by Justice Minister Garson.

Some merchants, particularly operators of small independent shops, have appealed for outlawing of loss-leader selling on the grounds it threatens their trade. In hearings before the commission, they argued that big chains, backed by a lot of money, could use loss-leaders to drive them out of business.

Manufacturers of some quality goods complained also that loss-leader sales damage the prestige of their products; that they were cheapened in the eyes of the public when advertised at exceedingly low prices.

DEMAND CREATED

The commission, headed by C. Rhodes Smith, disagreed. It said it found the opposite is true—low prices created a big demand for the better-known products.

British Tax Cuts Enhance Eden's Victory Chances

LONDON (AP) — The welcome tax cuts in the new British budget were widely regarded today as strongly enhancing the Conservative government's victory prospects in the May 26 national election.

Newspaper and political comment on Tuesday's budget message by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, mainly follow party lines.

The opposition Labor party was quick to denounce it as a "rich man's budget," giving tax relief to the rich on a toll road was hardly the difference between what a rich man and a poor man could afford.

M. Fulton said about two-thirds of Ontario's population lives within three miles of four-lane controlled-access highways, he said.

The committee set a tentative date of May 9 and 10 for the next meeting.

Say Chou Causes Deadlock In Parley on Bill of Rights

By ROBERT EUNSON

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—The Asian - African conference of 25 delegations took their differences behind closed doors today as committees turned to the meeting's seven-point agenda.

And within a few hours Communist China caused a deadlock in the No. 1 conference group, the political committee made up of the chief delegates.

Although reporters were barred from the session, reliable sources said Premier Chou En-lai-refused a suggestion from other delegates that a conference declaration on human rights be based on the United Nations Charter.

"How can I discuss anything under the UN Charter when we are not members of the United Nations?" the sofare quoted Chou.

Iraq, Lebanon, Pakistan, the Philippines and Thailand all were reported pushing the move to adhere to the charter, with Ceylon and Japan—members of the UN—backing them.

After private talks during a recess had failed to settle the dispute, the committee adjourned for lunch. It planned another try for agreement at an afternoon session.

Other agenda items, in addition to "human rights and self-determination," include problems of dependent people, use of nuclear energy, weapons of mass destruction and promotion of world peace and co-operation. Presumably most of all these will be considered by the political committee.

The committees are scheduled to formulate communiques, in general terms, on each agenda item. The full conference then will agree to them.

One report circulated that the sponsoring Colombo, powers—India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia — hoped to foster a private discussion with Chou on the Formosa issue. However the Chinese premier said in his policy speech Tuesday that his government still considered Formosa "entirely a matter of our internal affairs and the exercise of our sovereignty."

The Indians also reported that Chou, since arriving in Bandung, had told Prime Minister Nehru of India that he was considering a Chinese request for stations in the talk Tuesday night, but left it for Nehru to handle personally.

Striking London Paper Workers Accept Offer

LONDON (CP)—Striking newspaper workers voted today to go back to work, ending a walkout which has left Britain without any major national papers for the last 27 days.

In offices up and down Fleet street plans were being put in roll the huge presses again with regular editions for Thursday morning.

The strikers, 700 maintenance men and electricians, voted at a mass meeting to accept an interim settlement on their wage claim reached at negotiations Tuesday night between their unions and the Newspaper Proprietors' Association of further pay negotiations within eight weeks.

The mass meeting decided on a return to work at 5 p. m. today, giving employers time to get all rushing through most, if not all, normal editions of London's 11 daily and seven newspapers.

MUCH OPPOSITION

The meeting lasted more than 2½ hours, a sign that there was considerable opposition to the back-to-work recommendation from the leadership.

The mass meeting came only a short time after a new threat which had arisen overnight was settled. One of the big printing unions, whose members were laid off for the latter part of the maintenance workers' strike, made undisclosed demands which caused fears for a time that the return to publication might be delayed.

But after a short meeting with the publishers this morning an understanding was reached. No details were disclosed.

Liberal Leader Most Critical Of Road Dept.

HENSALL, Ont. (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, says last year's irregularities in the provincial highways department have "become the subject of political scandal the province has ever known."

He made the statement Tuesday night at a nomination convention which chose James Scott of Seaforth as Liberal candidate for Huron South riding in the next provincial election.

Mr. Oliver criticized the court decision in which three construction firms were fined for defrauding the government in roadbuilding contracts with the highways department.

"I would give the prosecutor a medal for doing such a good job for the government," he said. He said the crown prosecutor got three contractors to plead guilty, but the prosecutor, after getting them that far, probably propounded them so that they would not be guilty.

"SCANDALOUS DETAILS"

"Once more the government got away without having to bare all the scandalous details. When they pleaded guilty there was no need to bring out all the evidence and the government was able to keep all the facts secret."

The provincial Liberal leader said there is a striking resemblance between the present Progressive Conservative government and the George Henry government which was swept out of power in 1934 after the Ahltisk scandal in Ontario.

Both governments "wasted their substance by poor administration,"

TWO OPPOSITION PARTIES CRITICAL OF NEW BUDGET

Say It Neglects Low-Income Taxpayer

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative and CCF spokesmen agree in their criticisms of the new federal budget: That it neglects the low-income taxpayer.

J. M. Macdonnell, the Conservatives' financial critic, said in the Commons Tuesday that Finance Minister Harris' April 5 budget provided no relief to those in the lowest income group.

CCF Leader Coldwell said the cut in income tax rates for less than two cents a day to a married taxpayer with two young children and earning $3,000 a year. Yet it would give a tax reduction of $977 a year to the married father of two children with a $100,000 income.

"The higher the income, the more of a rebate he receives," Mr. Coldwell said.

"FILLED WITH MIL"

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the budget, which forecasts a $160,000,000 deficit, gave the economy a mild hypercardiac flutter. "It's filled with mil."

Mr. Low suggested a $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 deficit.

The three speakers launched the opposition attack in the budget debate, which continues today.

The main thrust of the Conservative and CCF criticisms were summed up in two motions of non-confidence in the government.

Head-End Men Blown Out Of Engine, One Dies

LEIGHTON BUZZARD, England (AP)—A runaway passenger train, its fireman and engineer blown out of the cab, rushed headlong through two stations today before an emergency brake finally brought it to stop.

Back up the line lay the body of the dead fireman, L. A. Capp, and engineer R. Burchett, the latter dazed but not severely injured.

The slow-down driver, the fireboy was believed responsible.

Railway officials made this preliminary report today:

The train, with 16 passengers, left Dunstable, north of here, for Leighton Buzzard at 8:30 a. m. Both towns are about 30 miles northwest of London.

UNAWARE OF TRAGEDY

After a few miles the fireboy blew out. The engineer and fireman was struck by blows from the cab or leaped to escape the flames.

With the passengers unaware of the tragedy up ahead, the train rushed along, slowing down only for sharp curves or stations.

When it smashed through a pyramid of closed gates at a level crossing the guard "pulled the air" to end the pilotless run of more than a mile and a half.

Smog Greatest Single Factor in Lung Cancer Says Leading Scientist

By RICHARD HERRY

PASADENA (AP)—Smog is the greatest single cause of lung cancer, says a leading research scientist. "We have air pollution laws and its relation to public health. Atmospheric pollution is the main answer to lung cancer more than any other single agent," Dr. Paul Kotin, University at Southern California pathologist, told the third national air pollution symposium Tuesday.

Connecting smog with lung cancer in mice found more than four years of experiments with thousands of animals under a United States public health service grant. Kotin and his research team conducted the experiments at the USC medical school and the Los Angeles County General Hospital.

The scientists said the study showed smog "has a prolonged cumulative effect" as a tumor inducer.

"We have no concept of the dosage of smog required," he added, "but I feel that the accumulative effect through an ordinary siege in many cities may be too much."

His experiments have all been with animals subjected to artificially-created smog.

The pollutant which is the irritant causing the cancer was isolated, he said, at least one type of hydrocarbon in the oxidized state. Hydrocarbons are found in auto exhausts, industrial emissions and in gasoline vapors.

His conclusions will be the basis for new experiments aimed at detecting which hydrocarbon is guilty, and what chemical state it is in when it does the damage, he said.

With the exception of cancer, Kotin said he and his research team found smog had no permanent ill effects on the health of test animals.

Grain Handlers Settle Strike, Gain 3-Year Contract

Get 12 Cents an Hour Boost, Most of It Retroactive

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The strike of 1,200 Lakehead grain handlers was settled today. The grain handlers voted this forenoon to go back to work at 1 p. m. today under a three-year contract providing for wage increases totalling 18 cents an hour.

About 85 per cent of the members of local 650, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (AFL-CL), voted in favor of the settlement. The strike started Saturday.

The contract covers a period from Jan. 1, 1954, to Dec. 31, 1956.

The wage increases include five cents retroactive to Jan. 1, 1954, three cents retroactive to Oct. 1, 1954, two cents retroactive to Jan. 1, 1955, and three cents effective Jan. 1, 1956.

The contract also included provisions for a company contribution of $1.50 an employee a month to a health and welfare plan.

TWO MORE HOLIDAYS

Members of the union were granted two more statutory holidays, Remembrance Day and Thanksgiving, and one week's vacation after 25 years service instead of 40 weeks.

The vote of acceptance was made at an orderly meeting today in contrast to one that was broken up Tuesday night by the Port Arthur arena.

Eric Taylor, federal mediator in the dispute between the union and 16 companies of the Lakehead Terminal Operators' Association, today denied a statement attributed to him that 24 Communists had caused the wild uproar which ended Tuesday's meeting.

The meeting was a cancelled shortly after union officials walked out of the room to announce terms of the proposed contract.

Frank Hall of Montreal, Canadian vice-president of the union, said the proposal was a "concrete" one. He said it "is not perfect than anything so far."

The union struck for a 20-cent hourly wage increase over the present basic $1.35 plus a 10-cent hourly cost of living bonus. It also wanted separate contracts for 1954 and 1955.

COMPANY OFFER

The Lakehead Terminal Elevators' Association, with 16 member companies, offered four cents retroactive to July 19, 1954, and an additional two cents in 1955. It wanted a two-year contract.

A conciliation report last December recommended a three-year, and Friday nights at 8 o'clock. each increase from 1954 to 1956.

The settlement proposal appeared to please both sides today. It was believed to contain a provision for "standard wages, a guaranteed annual wage and statutory holidays and welfare benefits plus a no-strike clause and a right to management clause" demanded by elevator operators. It was understood both sides have agreed to sign a contract running to December, 1956.

Meanwhile 19,000,000 bushels of grain are awaiting shipment and 3,000 railway cars are lined up for unloading. Railway officials have ordered an embargo on shipments of grain to the Lakehead as at least 25 grain ships piled up, waiting for cargoes.

Crash Pilot's Case To Be Reconsidered

OTTAWA (CP) — The case of Trans - Canada Air Lines Capt. T. N. Ramsay, blamed for "negligence" in the crash of a TCA airliner near Toronto's Malton airport last December, will be reconsidered next June, a transport department spokesman said Tuesday.

He then will face either cancellation of his licence, a further suspension period or restoration of his flying ticket.

The national TCA pilot has been under transport department suspension and not permitted to fly since the crash. No one was killed in the crash.

Two Principals Qualify As P.S. Inspectors

Two Belleville public school principals have been notified by the Department of Education that they have qualified as public school inspectors.

J. M. Cousins, principal of King George School and H. L. Frink, principal of Queen Mary School, received confirmation of their qualification as inspectors, they said Saturday. They were prepared for their examinations by T. J. Kelly, administrator of public schools for Belleville, and tried their written and oral examinations in Toronto on April 6th.

Neither principal intends to take an appointment as an inspector. They intend to continue working in Belleville. They qualified as inspectors as part of their work towards the degree of Master of Education.

Purchasing Agents To Hold Parley In Kingston

Belleville representatives of the Eastern Ontario Purchasing Agents Association will mingle with members from Smiths Falls, Batawa, Trenton, Brockville, Cananoque and Kingston May 7 in Kingston for the association's second annual conference.

The members will take part in an active schedule that includes guest speakers and panel discussions.

Principal speakers will be Professor J. L. MacDougall, Queen's University commerce department, who will speak on business forecasts for the year.

Other speakers will be G. A. Davis, president of the Structural Steel Limited; D. D. Lillie, Good-year Tire and Rubber; J. E. Sarson Kingston barrister who will address the conference on the purchasing agent and the law.

There will be a 25-minute question-and-answer period following each address.

Registration forms are obtainable from secretary-treasurer H. M. Farley, Corbin Lock Company of Canada Limited, in this city.

Belleville Sailor Is Home After 16,000-Mile Sea Jaunt

A sixteen thousand mile sea jaunt with shore visits of up to nine days at ports on three continents is the kind of a cruise for which winter vacationists pay real money.

But for Able Seaman Nell Donovan of this city, bandsman with the Royal Canadian Navy, it is all in the line of duty.

As a member of the navy band aboard the cruiser H.M.C.S. "Quebec" Nell has just completed the three month tour which took him around the south of Africa, through the Indian Ocean, then through the Red and Mediterranean seas and back home across the Atlantic.

Arriving back home on Belleville last night the young seaman is enjoying leave with his mother, Mrs. Leonard Rushworth, 34 Pownall street.

Nell is bubbling over with enthusiasm about the three month jaunt aboard the big 8,000-ton Canadian cruiser which took him to the South Atlantic with appropriate ceremonies as they crossed the equator. Calls were made at Capetown, Port Elizabeth and Durban in South Africa with short leaves ranging up to nine days at each port.

The big ship then cruised up through the Indian Ocean with a call at Mombasa, then through the Red Sea with stop-overs at Alexandria in Egypt and Malta.

Continuing westward through the Mediterranean they called at Naples, France, and at Barcelona, Spain.

The final port of call before sailing through the Atlantic was the British naval stronghold at Gibraltar where crew members had the privilege of inspecting the big defence installations.

LOSES NAVY LIFE

Still only 19 years of age, Nell will soon have been in the Navy for three years and for him it is "just the life." Since completion of his initial training he has been bandsman and was assigned to the H.M.C.S. "Quebec" just prior to the commencement of the tour in mid-January.

"It was my first sea trip and it was just terrific," he said.

Special trips into the interior were arranged for crew members at each port of call, the trips including high points of interest. Their longest stop was at Durban where they remained for nine days.

As a bandsman whose duty it was to remain aboard ship to play for special functions and official receptions, Nell's shore leave was necessarily shorter than that of most of the other ratings, but he says he still had ample free time ashore.

All in all it was a memorable cruise and one which he would not have cared to miss.

Uranium Mines' Merger Forecast

Another advance in the mineral industry of North Hastings was forecast recently with announcement of a merger of Centre Lake and Croft Uranium Mines for the purpose of bringing the combined properties part way into production at a cost in excess of $6,000,000.

Prediction at the two properties, which are located on the boundaries of Hastings and Peterborough counties about 10 miles northwest of Bancroft, would be in the order of 1,000 tons per day.

The proposed merger will be submitted to shareholders of Croft Uranium at the annual meeting April 26th. The plan is to merge the companies through formation of a new 4,000,000-share company to be known as Croft Centre Uranium Mines. Basis of the amalgamation would have 80 per cent of stock going to Centre Lake shareholders and 40 per cent to Croft shareholders.

It is believed that amalgamation will make it easier for the company to acquire the $6,000,000 required for construction of mining and milling plants which, it is felt, would be difficult to secure on the basis of each property by itself.

Mill tests on ores from both properties are continuing in Ottawa and company officials have taken steps to negotiate a sales contract with the government-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Co.

Maximum Service Plan Suggested To Kiwanis Club

A maximum service program yesterday was suggested as the best assurance for a happy, healthy, progressive club, to Belleville Kiwanis by a Salvation Army representative.

Speaking to the club was Mrs Cy Fisher, wife of the captain of the local Salvation Army unit.

Linking the Kiwanis club club with that of her own sphere, she told the club: "It is the personal touch that makes the difference in our work."

In such work, dedicated to service of mankind, the volunteer worker is superior to the paid worker in that he has someone's need at heart and his service is not governed by time.

He works with only thought of someone's burden at heart " . . . prompted by motives good and noble.

However, clubs should develop a better club member, for "your club is only as good as the individual members."

"This building (of service to humanity) begins in our own immediate spheres.

"But there is nothing to stop you and I from building the best one that we can."

"Do you realize that man's spiritual happiness rests not in the things he can buy but in the giving of things he can't buy for gain."

"Any good building demands a good foundation and I think we can say that love is the true motive of a very effective life."

The theme of "Love Thy Neighbor" is the "secret I think of really effective living . . . that will stand the test of time."

The Christian religion is the only basis for the building.

Mrs. Fisher was introduced by her husband and thanked by Stuart McDougall.

The program also included several choral selections by Salvation Army cadets from Toronto, presently in Belleville.

Obituary

MRS. MARY CROUTH GRANT

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Crouth Grant was held Tuesday, April 19th, from the chapel of the Bellefeuille Burial Company Funeral Home. Rev. S. E. Larmour conducted the service.

Bearers were: Ernie Reynolds, R. Collins, Hugh Clancy, Russell, Charles and John Grant. The latter three are nephews of the deceased.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

JOSEPH T. F. OSBORNE

CAMPBELLFORD — A well-known resident of this community, Joseph Thomas Fraser Osborne, known to everyone as "Tom," died at his home at 158 Balaclava St., on Friday. He was 57.

Born in Paisley, Scotland, Mr. Osborne was the son of Frank Osborne and Elizabeth McGregor. He came to Canada as a child and to Canada at an early age, settling in the Campbellford area. He enlisted in the 139th Battalion in the First World War and served overseas, returning to Campbellford in 1919, where he had resided since. He was married to former Mary Eleanor Hardy, who survives him.

Surviving besides his wife, is a step-daughter, Mrs. R. F. McDonald (Mary) of Campbellford, and three grandchildren.

He was employed by the Campbellford Public Utilities Commission, reading metres throughout the town. He was a member of Anglican Church and was a member of both the Masonic Lodge and the IOOF as well as Branch 103 of the Canadian Legion, BESL.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Canon Sills, rector of Christ Anglican Church on Monday afternoon. Services were under the auspices of the Campbellford Legion, who accorded military honors at the graveside. Members of the Legion acted as bearers and burial was in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

LATE MRS. HELENA WILSON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Helena Wilson took place this afternoon from the Rev. O'Brien's funeral residence to St. Michael's church, where Requiem Mass was said by Rev. L. B. Garvin. The funeral was largely attended with members of the Catholic Women's League forming a guard of honor at the church. Prayers at the home and at St. James' Cemetery were said by the Rev. J. Murphy.

Bearers were George Westlake, David Fisher, Albert Bigonesse, Maurice Wilson, Jack Meagher and James Coughlin.

MRS. ROBERT W. GIBSON

After a brief illness, Mrs. Jessie Gertrude Gibson, 15 Dufferin street, died suddenly in the Belleville General Hospital early last Wednesday morning. She was born in England, 53 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Simpson and coming to Canada as a young girl she settled in Belleville and has been a continuous resident for many years. She was well known and highly respected in her community and her sudden passing will bring sincere regrets to a wide circle of friends.

The late Mrs. Gibson was a member of Christ Church and active in church work and was also permitted. She is survived by her husband, Robert W. Gibson and 2 sons, Charles Gibson of Toronto, and five daughters, Mrs. Harold (Alice) Thompson, of Rossmore, Mrs. William (Nellie) Scrymgeour of Belleville, Mrs. Fred (Annie) Horton of Long Beach, California, Mrs. Harry (Verna) LeGrow of Belleville and Mrs. Hector Churchill also of this city.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Kinsmen Hold Inter-Club Meet At Shrine Club

Approximately 80 members from the Belleville Kinsmen Club attended a Kinsmen Inter-Club meeting held Monday evening at the Shrine Club.

Deputy Governor "Andy" Anderson of Tweed presided over the luncheon meeting, which saw club members present from Picton, Tweed, Campbellford, Kingston and Belleville with representatives also present from Trenton where it is expected a new club will shortly be formed. Speaking briefly at the meeting were "Bud" Good, governor of No. 6 Kinsmen district, Trenton and Jack Gagnon, Quebec, past district governor.

Guest speaker for the evening was Malcolm Robb, well known Belleville lawyer.

PIPELINE DATE APRIL 28

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners on Tuesday set April 28 for hearing of an application by Transcanada Pipelines Ltd. for extension of a deadline on financing of its proposed natural gas line from Alberta to eastern Canada. The original deadline was Dec. 1, 1954. Later, Transcanada got an extension to April 30, 1955.

Absent Students Cost Board Considerable Sum in Grants

The increased tendency of high school students to remain away from school once Easter examinations are completed is causing concern on the part of members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board who point to the reduction of school grants because of empty seats.

Thus the last day of school prior to the Easter holidays 281 students were absent from their classes at the Belleville Collegiate and a corresponding percentage failed to turn up for classes on Tuesday School.

Board members point out that as a result of students remaining away from classes the board loses considerable money in attendance grants, which are paid on daily attendance records.

Discussion on this matter took up considerable time at the Tuesday evening meeting of the board Tuesday evening and members were unanimously concerned of this tendency of students to remain away from classes until session officially closes.

Various methods of combatting the absenteeism were discussed, including the carrying over of examinations to the last day of school.

First, however, the co-operation of parents will be asked in seeing that their children remain in classes until session officially closes.

Students away from classes during exam-papers have in direct educational costs, it was pointed out.

5 TEACHERS RESIGN

The resignations of eight high school teachers were received by the board. All positions, however, with the exception of science teacher at Belleville Collegiate, have been filled by qualified teachers.

Teachers who will leave Belleville at the end of June include Mrs. William Watson, C. C. Wright, Sheila Doyle, H. Cameron Tanner, Miss Mary Ann Hamilton, Patricia Hames and Susanne Shantz. The majority of these have already accepted teaching positions in the Toronto area; one will go to Kingston, while one has requested a year's leave of absence to go to Europe.

The board's size and accommodation committee has been instructed to proceed with the construction of an agricultural building at the Quinte Secondary School, Trenton, the cost of which is estimated $3,500, will house a tractor, poultry and bee projects and will be paid for out of agricultural grants received by the school board.

Installation of cadet stores shelving at the Quinte Secondary School was referred to the property and supply committee for action. The purchase of a new set of 21 pictures of the new Quinte Secondary School was authorized.

TOUR IS PROPOSED

Agricultural teachers at the two high schools will investigate the hiring of a bus to transport agricultural students to the Ontario Agricultural School for a tour of the school.

A letter of appreciation will go out from the board to William Shelly, Dufferin Ave., for the donation of bee-keeping supplies to the Quinte Secondary School.

The salary of Bandmaster Alfred Cowell be increased $300 per annum, retroactive to January 1st.

Pay of night school teachers was also increased, with such increases ranging from $8 per evening instead of the present $7. This will bring pay for night school instructors in line with rates paid at Peterborough, Kingston, and Oshawa. Salary of the night school principal was raised to $500 per year from the present $425. Janitor's salary was increased by board, was increased from $25.00 to $500.000.

WANT STREET CLOSED

The board will again request city council to close North College Street, north of Evans St., which was previously made to council and then was withdrawn.

The Belleville Builders' Agencies Ltd. was authorized to construction and foundation of a tractor garage at Belleville Collegiate.

Motor mechanics instructor Ardell Wilson was authorized to attend a three day conference for technical teachers, while Enid Vanderburgh will attend a General Motors refresher course. Both events are scheduled for the latter part of June.

Principals' offices at Belleville Collegiate and Quinte Secondary School, along with the board's secretary's office, will go on full summer hours on May 2nd. The offices will thus be closed on Saturdays, and will be going to less a lot of sales."

At last night's meeting a new slate of club directors was returned for the coming year.

Directors are: Scott Denton, Bill Holway, Bill Meagher, Sam Mulholland, Frank Murray, Irv Shulman and Bill Welford. Governing president is Harold Meyers.

The club also heard an appeal on behalf of the Belleville section of the Hastings County Chest-X-Ray Survey Council by Don Kingsley, secretary - manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Gaitskell Guest Speaker At Art Exhibit

Dr. Chas. D. Gaitskell will be the guest speaker at the official opening of the East Central Ontario Travelling Art Exhibit.

The opening will be held in the Sir Winston Church School Auditorium and will have 63 paintings on display from municipalities as far west as Oshawa, east to Kingston, and north to Peterborough and Lindsay. The paintings exhibited are pictures chosen as best in their specific locality.

Dr. Gaitskell, director of Art for the Ontario Department of Education, has spent his entire career in the educational field, being employed first as a teacher at Prescott and Smiths Falls, inspector of British Columbia in 1933. The following year he was principal of a Junior and Senior High School and late; supervisor of Art in that district. In 1944 he came to Ontario with the Ontario Department of Education where he now holds the position of Art Director for the Province.

Dr. Gaitskell received his B.A. and M.A. from the University of British Columbia, where he majored in English, French Education, and Philosophy. He also studied Art at the University of Toronto, and the Ofli Art Institute, Los Angeles. Besides having a number of books published pertaining to "Art", Dr. Gaitskell has had paintings exhibited at the Montreal Gallery of Fine Arts, Exhibitions in Western Canada, and the U. S. A. — and received

Zhukov Sure Eisenhower Will Promote Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov has sent his best wishes to President Eisenhower and said he felt sure the president will do his best to promote in practice the cause of peace."

The greetings were contained in a letter to the Overseas Press Club of America on the occasion of the club's annual dinner Tuesday night.

Zhukov, while appealing for peace, assailed politicians who he said were trying to spread the fear that war is inevitable.

He said the international situation has been aggravated by the latest developments connected with the ratification of the Paris and London treaties for rearming Western Germany.

Zhukov began his letter by expressing to the American people "friendly sentiments and good wishes from the peoples of the Soviet Union."

The Zhukov letter was sent in response to an invitation from the club.

The Stone Award for paintings (Vancouver Gallery, 1944).

The East Central Ontario Travelling Art Exhibit, making it's initial appearance with the opening in Belleville, will be open to the public, Monday, April 25th, each night from 7:00 p.m. to 9.00 p.m.

Sales, Ad Club Hears Address On Advertising

What is advertising?

There are many definitions, but: "The one I like is telling the truth."

James Matthews, copy chief and account executive of Walsh Advertising Company Limited, Toronto, told the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club here last night.

Mr. Matthews was expounding on the small business operator's relationship with advertising. Title of his address was "Little Things That Mean Big Business in Advertising."

In essence, advertising is "putting the right message before the right people at the right time," he said.

For the businessman: "It consists of who you are, where you are located, what you do and why you do it better than anybody else."

"Apart from a few special techniques, all advertising can be boiled down to that very simple formula," he said.

Organization of advertising campaigns falls in two divisions—national and local advertising.

National advertising attempts to instil in prospects a desire for goods and services which, because it is general in nature and can only give general information, it places responsibility on the smaller local operator.

He must tie in with the national campaign and focus attention on sales of the product at a specific locality and point of sale.

"The retail counter is the last three feet of sale . . . the race can't be won at that point," Mr. Matthews said.

The race is a three-man relay among national agent, distributor and retailer and the last two must carry through together.

However, Mr. Matthews said, "Distributors in Canada have been quitters while distributors are supposed to be."

"The ultimate distributor must up the baton and help the retailer carry it to the tape. And if he does not do it, we are going to lose a

Landslide Buries 500 Villagers In Central Java

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—A landslide buried 500 villagers in central Java, Indonesia, last Sunday and only two survivors have so far been dug out, according to delayed messages from Jakarta.

The survivors were brought out from under the rubble of 46 houses piled 15 feet deep.

So far only four bodies have been recovered. It is feared more can be recovered from the rubble.

Officials have left Semarang, the central Java capital, to investigate.

Denies Toronto Possible Link In Baby Racket

TORONTO (CP) — Inspector Archie McCathie, Toronto's chief of detectives, today called "nonsense" a report that Toronto is possibly a major link in the baby racket ring in which children command prices up to $4,000.

He referred to a published report which quoted a Montreal detective as saying newsy expectant mothers are picked up in Montreal and driven to Toronto.

Inspector McCathie said an investigation of such occurrences goes on all the time.

Engineer Tests Validity Of Labor Agreement

MONTREAL (CP)—The validity of a collective labor agreement covering 10,000 Canadian National Railways employees across Canada is being contested by a 59-year-old engineer.

An action was filed in Superior Court Tuesday by Robert Sloan of Montreal asserting that the agreement between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers (Ind.) and the CNR be declared null and void because a clause in it is the "closed shop" checkoff of union dues violates Canadian labor laws.

The agreement became effective April 1.

In the petition Mr. Sloan says the Brotherhood has no legal right to impose a compulsory checkoff without the consent of each union local.

The petition also says the agreement, in effect, deprives Canadian workers of the right to select a bargaining agent of their own choice since it provides for collection of union dues from the pay of employees whether they are union members or not. This is known as the Rand formula.

Sloan, a member of the Canadian Association of Railway Men (Ind.), a rival labor group, claims his failure to pay dues to the Brotherhood would result in his dismissal.

O. B. C. Notes

Among recent graduates of Ontario Business Colleges were Bermuda girls — Louise Jackson, Marie de Grilla and Glenda Peets. Miss Jackson and Miss de Grilla have returned to Bermuda and secured good positions. Miss Peets is visiting friends in New York before returning home. Three fathers from Bermuda — Nathaniel Cann, Leonie de Silva and Shirley Harris — are nearing completion of their courses at O.B.C.

Within a brief time the following have gone directly from the College to business positions: Marilyn Bird, Hilda Durell, Mary Mernun, June Gardiner, Beverley Morgan, Ann Belite, Joan Slade, Sheila Squier, Joy Davies, Louise Jackson, Marie de Grilla, Gisela Wickerson, Darryl Carr, Allan Dafoe, Neida Wasmund, Joan Lloyd and Shirley Superton.

A young lady in Antigua, British West Indies, has written that she will come to O. B. C. soon for a business course. Timothy O'Reilly, who came from Antigua last September, has made excellent progress and will soon have his course completed. There are many graduates in the West Indies, holding good positions, and recommending the O. B. C. courses to others.

Last week two visitors (one from British Columbia) were amazed to see young people here from distant countries and to learn that this has been a notable feature of the College for many years.

Most business colleges draw all their students from their own localities and near places. Ontario Business College has had students come from every province of Canada, every county in Ontario, eighteen of the states of U. S. A., Bermuda, Eastern, West Indian Islands, Panama, British Guiana, Dutch Guiana, Brazil, Peru, Nigeria, West Africa, and Great Britain.

The courses are practical and thorough. The instructors are all well qualified by training and experience. Students receive a great amount of individual help in addition to class instruction, and they may enter any time except in July. In view of the great benefit of this training, the cost is low, time and money is very moderate.

'Battle of Curbs' Reopened By Letters from Sen. Fraser

TRENTON (Special) — Senator W. A. Fraser re-opened the Battle of the Curbs here last night firing two sharp volleys at council in the form of registered letters.

The Senator charged that residents with properties on the vicinity of the Dundas and Henry Streets intersection had encroached on town property by building boulevards out on the street allowance. He pointed out that the curbs where violators had reduced the width of the street from 40 feet to 29 feet. His attorney clerk O. W. Larry to place before mayor and council the question: "Why do they permit this type of high handed tactics by certain people?"

Senator Fraser drew attention to another problem. There has been much discussion regarding parking space in Trenton during the past several years," he said, "so with the Country Club and the apartment house on one and McColl Street and one on the extension of Henry Street — parking has now become a problem in this area as a result of the unauthorized action on behalf of the property owners taking possession of public streets. Further may I point out it is not only the fact that these streets, provided for the use of the public, have been taken possession of illegally but the town receives no revenue for the property thus taken possession of. In other words, public property is being used by property owners for their own use to the detriment of the public in general."

Senator Fraser indicated in a signed letter addressed to the town clerk O. W. Larry that he wishes mayor and council to do him a favor since he has been appointed by a person who seeks to buy the lot he owns at the corner of Catherine and Henry Streets.

"To sell him the size of lot he requires would mean that the new driveway of ingress and egress to my garage at 194 Catherine would be destroyed. I would be forced to purchase land at the rear and take in eleven or twelve feet of Henry Street for a lawn, thus providing me with a front entrance for his house.

Perhaps if the mayor and council do not wish to give this permission they will agree to treat my purchase in consideration of the above matter in the same way as other citizens have in the past and are being treated.

In this connection I might refer you to the encroachment on Wragge Street and Lorne Ave. at the corner of Wragge Street and Lorne Avenue where Mr. William Ross has built a stone wall on these two streets, absolutely incorporating public streets with his own property."

Councillor Claude Graham, acting mayor for the past month as Mayor Ross Burt attending a Public Utilities convention in Quebec City, said that the subject of curbs had been brought to the attention of council time and again since last year. He expressed hope that by the next meeting council would have a policy that could be followed by property owners who propose to build curbs on street allowances.

Councillor Robert Smithrim has been working on the matter since Senator Fraser advised council of the irregularities.

Councillor N. J. McNair, one of the five councillors present, said curbs be placed in front of the property on Queen Street immediately the appearance of the property and when other residents on the street took similar steps the whole street looked better.

CHAIRMAN NOT PRESENT

Chairman of Finance Gerald Weaver was not present to comment.

In a third piece of correspondence addressed to the clerk-treasurer Senator Fraser was critical of council allowing erection of a boathouse on town property along the river south of the bridge. Notice that someone is building a boathouse on town property on the river bank along the river road. An assuming that whoever is putting up this building received either permission or a lease of the property from the town.

During the past it has been the policy of the town council in conjunction with the Parks Board not only to preserve but to improve the bank of the river north of the Albury property.

In the last few years the Parks Board provided considerable fill and I should imagine somewhere in the records you will find a motion passed whereby the town would provide the necessary money to buy an additional lot from the owners along the river bank each year.

Understand you have a Planning Board in town, and I phoned a member of the Planning Board today asking if they had been consulted regarding the erection of this boathouse. The answer was "no."

Will you kindly bring this letter to the attention of the Mayor and Council next Tuesday night, as I want to know why the Mayor and Council are permitting unauthorized boat houses to be built on the bank of the river that should be retained for the use of all citizens as an asset with the natural beauty as much as possible preserved for visitors, passing yachts and local citizens.

What is the use of having a Planning Board if they are not going to be consulted about matters of this kind?"

PERMIT NOT TRANSFERABLE

Acting Mayor Graham explained that council granted the private privilege of building a boathouse a sickly resident who has since died and that since the permit is not transferable the town will see that the building is removed from the river. Councillor Joe Gould encouraged the idea of laying aside enough money each year to buy additional property along the river bank.

Appearing as delegate, former councillor Eben James told council that he had observed a lot of sidewalks laid in recent years in a state of deterioration and hoped that some new sidewalks were built proper tests would be made of the materials used in building them. He made reference to the raise in the milk rate and said council rescind the by-law authorizing salaries; a salary of $1,200 yearly for the mayor and $300 annually for each councillor, before it was presented to the Municipal Board. He felt that the amount was insignificant for them to bother with and while they could afford the extra third of a mill difference in the rate, town's people, many people couldn't.

Acting Mayor Graham looked at the salary question differently with the attitude that if police and Public Utilities are to be paid the mayor and council should be.

Mr. James figured the decision of salaries should be placed with town electors in the television in December. He said he was pleased to see Councillor N. J. McNair vote against receiving pay.

Heavy Police Court Docket

TRENTON. (Special)—Pending trial on charges of indecent assault and assault Walter Cox, 27, of Trenton, was released from custody yesterday on $2,000 bail. He will appear before Magistrate T. Y. Wills here in police court next Tuesday.

A gun-toting youth from north of Smithfield was fined $10 and paid costs of $18. Police picked up Willard Hailstone in a local restaurant after he displayed a revolver he was carrying in his pocket. He was arrested and charged with having fire arms without a permit to carry same.

Tough kick comes in bunches according to Bernard J. Deevey of Peterborough, who was found guilty of fraud and handed a sentence of 14 days to run concurrent with a jail term of two months he is serving for taking a car without the owner's consent. Deevey's trouble started when he tried for a joy ride in a neighbor man's car.

Two charges of drunk driving against Russell Sunderland of Grove street, Belleville, was remanded to driving while Imperial and he was ordered to pay a fine of $50 and costs of $13. He must also pay the fine and the fine and cost of $13 for having liquor in possession at the time police stopped him.

Ronald Donaldson and Edward Nobles of Trenton, found they could not evade the long arm of the law and each must pay $213, the penalty imposed for violating the Unemployment Insurance Act.

During the long afternoon session Magistrate disposed of 133 cases chiefly concerning speeders and town parking violators.

Three Children Burned to Death At Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — Three young children were trapped and burned to death today in a fire raced through a six-room slum dwelling in less than an hour.

Listed as the blaze were Roger, 2, Margo, 3 and Tyre, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Oliver.

Both parents were absent at the time of the outbreak. Four other children were in school and a fourth was outside playing.

The house was a complete loss as firemen and neighbors battled to save nearby homes with a bucket brigade bringing water to the pumpers from a nearby brook. There is no hydrant in the district, in the city's north end on the shores of Bedford Basin.

Cause of the outbreak was not known immediately.

Biggest Storm Of Year Leaves 16 Inches Snow

EDMONTON (CP)—The biggest storm of the year has left up to 16 inches of snow in Alberta and it is feared that livestock losses will run high.

Those caught farmers and ranchers off-guard. Hardest hit are those areas where two days of snow clogged highways and snarled transportation. The outlook for the season's normal temperatures.

F. N. Bell, district agriculturist at Drumheller, said reports from the storm undoubtedly trapped a great number of newly-born calves and lambs. "Cattle and sheep were turned out to range pasture during the recent fine weather.

The snow stopped Tuesday afternoon in southern Alberta but continued in the Edmonton region.

After striking Alberta, the storm moved into Saskatchewan where more rain than snow as expected.

The weatherman predicted a high of 50 today for Edmonton, about 18 degrees below normal for the season.

French Airliner Crashes in Africa

PARIS (AP) — Search planes circled the West African coast sighty structures today looking for a missing airliner with 12 persons on board.

The airline, Union Aerienne de Transports, announced the crash but French authorities here had said communications with the coastal area of the French Cameroons had been broken by early scanty details. The plane has been missing since Monday night.

The four-engine plane last reported as it circled the south Atlantic coast, apparently separately near its destination. It was on a flight from the Ivory Coast country, from inland Yaounde to Douala on the coast.

The plane was one hour overdue when it made its last radio report and the message gave no indication that anything was wrong.

Jaw Locks Open Shouting Name Of Candidate

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — Jesse Osborne, 38, campaigned a little too vociferously in north Chicago's city election Tuesday.

While driving around town shouting the name of his favorite candidate through the window of his car, Osborne's jaw locked in the open position.

He drove to a hospital but nurses there were unable to close his mouth. Then he was taken to another where a physician put him in jaw.

Osborne then returned to his campaigning—with a little less gusto.

THE FAMILY COURT REPORTS

"A gradual decline in the incidence of juvenile delinquency" in Hastings County and Belleville during the past two years was noted in a report of the Family Court, submitted to the Hastings County Council last week.

Statistics for the three years reveal that the decline has been more impressive than the use of the word "gradual" might suggest.

In 1953 a total of 64 cases was heard. In 1953 this number had dropped to 38 and in 1954 it was down to 30. What may interest and puzzle the average reader are the figures for cases concerning children from rural areas. There were 23 of these in 1952, but only one in 1953 and only three last year. The decline in the number of cases involving Belleville children was, in fact, "gradual," from 23 in 1953 to 18 in 1954 and 17 last year. Between 1952 and 1953 there was no decline in the number of cases involving children from towns and villages in the county, 16 in both years, but in 1954 this figure fell to nine.

The number of cases may appear surprisingly small to some. The report indicates the reason. "The Court does not report occurrences as such unless they later result in Court appearances," says the report. Judge Daly is to ensure that teachers and other organizations to consult our Probation Officer (D. I. MacKinnon) where there appears to be any tendency toward delinquent behavior in the case of children, and in many cases the counselling has, we believe, been instrumental in adjusting tendencies in child behavior which might have resulted in acts of delinquency where Court appearance would be necessary.

The report says "we dare hope" the decline in juvenile delinquency is due to "a growing awareness by the public of the problem and the work of the Probation Officer, and the greater emphasis that is being placed on the preventive side of the Court's work."

Far from detracting from the pleasant nature of the Court's report, this enhances it. We have here some solid grounds for hoping that the decline is not merely a coincidence but is the result of a well-organized and efficiently administered service which should continue to provide excellent results in Belleville and the county.

But are you Belleville youngsters going to let the country folks have like that? How about a nice "gradual" decline from last year's 17 cases to a half dozen or so this year?

TWO SIMILAR VIEWS

We do not suppose that either Hon. L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, or Rt. Hon. Clement Attlee, leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition in the British House of Commons, believes in mental telepathy.

Still, speeches which they made on the same evening, at such distant places as Princeton, N.J., and Calgary, Alta., while not identical twins, certainly bore distinct family resemblances to each other.

At Princeton, where he has been delivering the Stafford Little Lectures on the Princeton University campus, Mr. Pearson said that the western nations should guard against the false idea that they should or could purchase allies. It should be added, as Mr. Pearson did, as he argued, should be extended not as a means of fighting Communism but "out of a recognition of kinship with our Asian neighbors that we might succeed in improving the political atmosphere as well as promoting human welfare."

At Calgary Mr. Attlee, who is on a lecture tour of Canada under the auspices of the CCF, said that Britain must help raise the living standards of other parts of the world, because Britain's economy is based on exports and this means that Britain's well-being depended on other countries being able to purchase British-made products.

Mr. Pearson's viewpoint may strike some as idealistic, with Mr. Attlee's being realistic, but they actually complemented each other. Mr. Attlee did not overlook the idealistic angle, observing that it was "ethically right" as well as in Britain's economic interests to endeavor to raise the standards of living in India, China, Africa and elsewhere. Mr. Pearson, we may be sure, would agree it is in Canada's own best interests that Asian countries should enjoy improvement in their living standards.

Here are two men with widely differing political beliefs voicing almost identical opinions. But if that surprises some Canadians, it will not surprise Mr. Attlee. Earlier in his tour of Canada he had said that the foreign policies followed by Sir Winston Churchill during his last term as prime minister of Britain were almost identical with those which Mr. Eden had followed when he held the reins of power. And he had added that foreign policies were often determined by historical and other interests, so that the views of parties otherwise opposed to each other frequently coincided in the foreign policy field.

HUSBAND SHAKEN

A Port William lady won a 19-pound ham at a bingo and phoned her friends to tell of her good luck. The husband of one of the friends was sitting in the kitchen listening to his wife's side of the conversation. He gathered from statements such as "isn't that wonderful" and "I'm so glad for them" that someone had had a baby.

No wonder he leaped to his feet in astonishment when his wife added "and 19 pounds at that." (Fort William Times-Journal.)

"DEAR FRIEND"

"Dear friend" the letter long begins,
And since I'd never met the man
I thought that salutation "dear"
To put it plainly: Insincere.

I had been chosen with a few
For whom a favor he would do.
A stranger he. I had to laugh
At such a flattering paragraph.

"Dear friend," I'm penning my reply.
"Your letter came. I'm sorry I
Just what it was you had to sell.

"That favor you would do for me
No obligation, risk, and free
Your introduction told about,
Dear friend, I'll get along without."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

APRIL 20, 1935

Mr. E. A. Ross and Miss Dorothy Ross of Erickson, Manitoba, are visiting her brother, Mr. Milton Ross, Corbyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson, Bridge Street east, have returned home after a very pleasant holiday, in March 5 they left Belleville and motored to Boston, Mass., from which port they sailed on March 8 on the steamship Lady Somerset for Hamilton, Bermuda; Nassau, Bahamas, and then to Kingston, Jamaica, where they spent several weeks with the island. Having their car with them they spent much time motoring. On the return trip they spent some time in Miami Florida.

Mr. Percy Robbins, formerly of Belleville, has been appointed to this district from D'Arcy, Sask., where he has resided for the past 18 years.

In response to an invitation from Prince Edward Lodge, No. 391, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mr. Knight Mc-Gregor, Mrs. Knight McGregor, and formerly of this city, was an overnight guest recently at the White House in Washington, where he gave a concert in connection with the reception to officers of the Army and Navy, one of the most colorful events of the social season at the White House. Mr. McGregor, Mrs. McGregor and her son, Graham, are now spending a vacation here with Mrs. Henry Graham, Forin St.

30 YEARS AGO

APRIL 20, 1925

It was thought that spring was here; gardens were being put upon for the expected warm weather, but alas, such was not the case as we had a real snow storm yesterday. At times the snow fell so thick and fast as to obscure vision for some distance: about a foot of snow fell. Several showings on Front Street stores, which had not been raised, were broken by the weight of snow. During the afternoon the weather cleared and the sun came out. In the night the temperature was seven degrees below freezing and at ten o'clock this morning it was two degrees below freezing. Some shovelling turned out in force yesterday, a number of them were employed by the city public works department. City Engineer Campbell ordered a snow plow to be put to work, but the snow was too deep and heavy for the wheels.

horse to draw the plow and the idea was abandoned.

40 YEARS AGO

APRIL 20, 1915

Messrs. J. W. Davidson and F. H. Henry have been appointed city auditors at a salary of $180 each per annum.

Mr. A. S. Lazier has been granted the lease of the market for this year; his tender for the tolls was $1350.

Mayor Panter informs us that the water in the tank on the east hill, near the Tabernacle, has been thoroughly cleaned. Citizens will be pleased to learn this.

Mr. J. D. Hutchison, new manager of Griffin's Theatre, has arrived here and will assume his duties at once.

Owners of launches and sailing boats are getting their craft ready for the season. The boat builders are busy.

At a meeting of the Civic Welfare League, the following officers were elected: Hon. President, Stephen Burrows; president, Dr. Dee Ponton; first vice-president, John Elliott; second vice-president, W. B. Deacon; secretary, J. L. Wills, and treasurer, Robert Templeton.

50 YEARS AGO

APRIL 20, 1905

Messrs. Allen and Bert Morden, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morden of Canterton, will leave shortly to reside in Western Canada. A party of this a large number of friends and neighbors visited the home of their parents on Thursday in address, presented each of the boys with a handsome dressing case. The address was read by Mr. B. Fiskin and the presentation was made by Mr. J. Leslie.

Mrs. D. R. Murphy, Trenton, is the guest of Mrs. Thos. Wragg, William St.

Mr. S. J. Young, of Trenton, was in town today.

Mr. W. H. Reed, manager of Stroud's store is spending a few days in the head store and office in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Holley, of this city, are visiting friends in Toronto.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DELVING TO LEARN

All the knowledge we have in this world came about because people were curious enough and energetic enough to them to know more and to learn about this strange earth which came as a part of their birthright at birth.

Ignorant people only have a smattering of happiness. With knowledge comes enjoyment, the urge to know more and a willingness even to sacrifice much in order to gain new knowledge. We have delve, however, dig long and deep at times to satisfy this hunger for growth of mind and spirit which is so full of personal satisfaction when found.

It is because of curiosity that men dug into the earth to learn all about the ores and precious minerals, precious stones and other sources of wealth. This has added so much to our civilization. The source of much knowledge is in the ground, but it often takes patience and doggedness to bring it to the surface. We can delve into books. The world is now rich with them. There you will run into intellectual "pay dirt" that will amaze you. You will learn about people, cities, animals, the world of nature and endless other things. The longer you live—and learn—the happier you will become.

Many have flower gardens, beautiful ones, each flower with a voice, but very few, indeed. Edwin Way Teale, the famous naturalist, has an insect garden! There it is that he studies the lives and habits of insects. And how much seekers after knowledge have learned from them. Fabre, the French naturalist, became world famous because of his lifetime study of insects. There is no more fascinating reading that any of his books.

Books are wonderful companions from which to learn, but knowledge that we have gained from personal research and careful observation always stays with us longest and proves to be the most valuable. We learn by listening, observing and reading, but we are happiest when we have become discovers by our own digging deep into the unknown and untried!

Before It's Too Late

Migration Hazards

(By Keith Reynolds in the Los Gos Free Press.)

Migration times are times filled with peril, especially for the smaller land birds. Storms, attacks by predators, collision with obstructions, and exhaustion combine to take a severe toll each year.

Storms are probably the most potent hazard encountered, especially among birds that make long over-water crossings. On one occasion just such a calamity was witnessed from a ship in the Gulf of Mexico and at the Mississippi river. Great numbers of small migrants, chiefly warblers, were caught in a thunderstorm gale and forced into watery graves when they could have been almost within sight of land and had about 25 per cent of their long flight behind them.

On another occasion, in the autumn of 1906, a sudden drop in temperature accompanied by a heavy fall of snow resulted in the deaths of many thousands of migrants. Their bodies were eventually washed up on the shores of the lake and piled in wind-rows by the waves. On one stretch of beach, a distance of a few miles, were something like 1,000 dead birds per mile. Such an ornithologist estimated that the number lying dead on the ice of two small lakes, each about a square mile in area, after the worst rate of destruction was at least 1,500 square miles.

At that rate, the total number of longspurs killed in that storm would be in excess of the order of half a billion!

These are only a few of the more spectacular destructions which have been reported. Doubtless many more, of smaller size in nature, although individual destructions as large as these are still large.

Lighthouses, buildings, tall buildings, piers, bridges, monuments, and many other aerial obstructions take a toll of migrating birds every year. The strong beams of lighthouses and lightships seem to have a particular attraction to birds, especially under overcast conditions.

The attraction does not seem to be as great when the sky is clear, but on warm, misty or rainy nights these lights hold a deadly fascination, luring birds to their death.

The steady, continuous beams are the most destructive; relatively few birds seem to fall victims of the flashing, on intermittent type of light. In the case of steady lights the birds may be caught up the beam and dash themselves into the beacon or they may flutter around the glass from a lot of giant moths until they become exhausted and fall to the rocks or the water, seven feet.

On one occasion we happened to be at Cove Island Light, off the northern tip of the Bruce Peninsula, while just such a destruction of birds was taking place. On this warm, drizzly, autumn night, we huddled on the narrow catwalk outside the glassed-in dome that surrounds the beacon, while at frequent intervals birds fluttered about the glass, but most of them fluttered out of the gloom, then beat their wings against the glass, often for some minutes at a time.

The majority of these would eventually flutter off again but many fell to the floor or dropped to the floor of the catwalk or to death on the rocks at the base of the lighthouse.

A notorious migrant-killer in years past has been the light at the Isle of Lake Erie. One of the greatest destructions occurred on one autumn, then the autumn of 1929, when Lorne Brown, the lighthouse keeper, counted 1,500 birds, about one-half of birds, mostly warblers and vireos, that whipped them to Dr. W. E. Saunders for study.

For many years the Washington Monument, in Washington, DC, although not illuminated, took a heavy toll of migrating birds in migration. This obstacle, tomorrow, like the lighthouse of yesterday, is most potent in the days when the city was not well illuminated and before the advent of the illumination of the city has improved, the number of birds killed has been reduced.

It is also noteworthy that in the early days of the erection of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, was kept lighted, as many birds were destroyed by its single night.

Exhaustion, doubtless, plays its part in reducing numbers of birds but not much is definitely known of this factor, above that of the golden plover, which make a non-stop over-water crossing of 2,400 miles from Nova Scotia to South America, probably are the most exhausted by their travels, but on the way encounter severe storms or other unfavorable conditions that do not bring about such exhaustion in itself is an important factor of destruction.

Bandung Meet First of Kind

(Montreal Gazette)

The meeting at Bandung is one of the most remarkable in all history. No other meeting like its has ever taken place. For it is a gathering together of nonwhite men, to discuss their requirements, taken together must control about one half the people on the face of the earth.

Though such a conference is somewhat hard to visualize, it is the thinking about it that is not been new. One of the commanding figures at Bandung is Prime Minister Nehru of India. And there is a very relevant statement of Mr. Nehru's thinking in the recently-published autobiography of Chaim Weizmann, the first President-General of the United Nations.

In this book Mr. Weizmann interviewed Nehru with regard to a settlement of world affairs through the United Nations. And of this interview he writes: "My approach did not seem to interest the Prime Minister of India. His starting point was a different one—that first. The peoples of Asia themselves would have to decide the future of Asia, he thought, and he was not moved by reference either to the United Nations or to Communism, or to the interdependence of all continents and the universal equal concern for them all. His mind seemed to be impressed by the concept of Asia as a separate entity."

It is such an attitude that has prevented the meeting, though the concept of Asia has been exaggerated. Nehru, that is, does not alter the conception of non-white peoples bandung together, but only of their problems apart from the western world.

Certainly the nations at Bandung have one great thing in common—the fact of the end of colonialism which most of them have suffered from, or are afraid of Colonialism that remain are sufficient to embitter this feeling, so that the whole thing of history but of present fact.

Undoubtedly the Communist influence at Bandung will do its utmost to stir these bitter ingredients in the hope of pouring off a witches' broth. And yet the effort to imprison the conference in the concept of a separate Asian-African entity, with its own special bitterness, is unlikely to be quite to succeed.

Among the nations that have attended the conferences are a number which have established more or less firm contacts with the west and have a clearer view of the interdependence of all continents and the global aims of world communism. Second are the foreign minister of Iraq has declared at Bandung that "Communism is a new form of colonialism much more dangerous to us in the East than colonialism." And significantly he added: "No nation on earth is free from its effects."

When he had finished speaking, Mr. Nehru was followed by the Pakistan (which has a mutual defence treaty with the United States) walked across the conference floor and shook hands with him. This gesture was significant, for it cannot accept the idea of the non-white people's problems in separation from the west. There are strong western ties with the Philippines, Thailand, Turkey and the Philippines.

Indeed the representative of the Philippines, Carlos P. Romulo, on the eve of his departure from Bandung, said that Asia and neutral policies in hopes of staying out of it. He is staying out of it if it should erupt. But protestations of neutrality will not stop Communist imperialism. The only way to insure that the Communist threat will not be to help the free world build an unchallengeable defence."

The success of the Bandung conference will be important. Whatever unity may be found in some matters, there is likely to be a clash of voices. And the thing Mr. Trygve Lie feared in 1950—that the peoples of Asia (or Africa and Asia) might try to solve their problems without reference to the global aims of Communism—not likely to be unitedly attempted.

Personal Health Talks

CANUCKS ARE FINE PEOPLE

From Hamilton, Ontario, came this letter to brighten my day:

Dear Dr. Brady:
Your articles contain enough humor that even those not interested in good health could enjoy them.

There is nothing in life outside of our heart wishing you long life and happiness as much as our happiness as good health, earnestly feel that no one person in America has done so much for his fellow man as you.

I have read your articles for years, at first with tongue in cheek but now with a prayer in my heart wishing you long life and happiness and your readers common sense.

I have a set of your little books which I call my second Bible, and so overstuffed box of your writings. For well over ten years we have laid aside all laxatives, Cathartics, sauerkrauts, also the headaches, headaches, bellyaches, indigestion, constipation, and all respiratory infections without doctoring or even mentioning. We consider that something of which we may be proud.

Now do not bring your sense of humor into question. The evidence is there as I am serious. I have given much thought to what procedure would be necessary to start a campaign to have you made Man of the Year" . . .

If it would mean anything to you I would be glad to send a copy of this letter to the officers of all the papers that have your personal health service.

Very sincerely,
(Signed) ————

If my judgment could confirmation this letter would do it. But since the day as listen I first lamped the lovely auburn-haired, brown-eyed, pink and white head nurse on the surgical ward and decided she'd make an ideal wife and mother — which she did — I had known that Canucks are fine people.

I confess the nice kind lady's letter gives me a tremendous lift, makes me a little proud, in fact, especially so, coming from a Canuck. Not just because I married one, but from all the associations I have had with them. Canucks, in my book, have a general I. Q. at least equal to that of the Scandinavians in the three States to the west of Ontario, and there's probably nothing higher in North America.

But there's just one thing. I'm a little disturbed by the humor in-cheek remark. Does it mean, heaven forfend, that some people don't take my best, selfless and sincere in my health teachings? If that were true I'd tear my hair if I had any to tear.

You ought to know, knuckle-heads, that I don't condone excitement anything unless I believe it is good, and by the same token there would be no need to enlist that I do not hesitate to tell you if I think anything is n. g.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

STAND UP AND BE COUNTED

The secret belief is one of the chief factors of democratic government. It is one of the privileges of a citizen to vote their choice in private and to make their decisions without fear of reprisal.

Yet, important as the secret ballot is politically, the fact remains that many of the most important decisions of life men have to stand up at certain times and be counted. The time comes when our fellows want to know on which side of a given line we stand. For a long time we can rub our hands with smile and declare that there are two sides to every question and that pro and con seem to balance each other to a nicety, but if we keep on saying this, men will hate us. If a man will fail of injustice and pain, we will not at certain times stand up and declare our faith for something against something else, then we might just as well crawl under the ground and save the undertaker the trouble of burying us.

We are told sometimes of the courage of men who lived centuries ago and who went to the stake and gallows rather than remain neutral on a moral issue. Today we are not called upon in this country at least —the necessity for such spectacular heroism. But the necessity of standing up and being counted is as imperative now as it has ever been. We are called on daily in the moment of moral decision.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

No doubt all hotels are run for profit. But the best hotels, never, never let you suspect it.

They should be considered, I suppose, on that very basis. The more you are conscious of skimping and scrimping, the more comfortable the hotel. The more you feel you are getting what you're worth, the better the hotel. Yet the difference in price between accommodation in the best hotel in town and the second rate hotels is only a matter of a few dollars. Why the best hotels do it is a mystery. How the second-rate ones get away with it is even a bigger mystery.

The best hotel is spotless, housekept, sweet-smelling. The second raters are dowdy, musty. In the best hotel, the taps run hot and clear. In the second-raters, the taps give grudgingly; you have to wait until enough water for a flow. Basins empty swiftly in the good hotels. In the second-raters, you cannot help but wonder what it is that plugs the drain, so slowly and suckingly does the waste water wobble out of the basin. Towels are lustrous and fluffy in the one; in the other, they are thin, and often ironed skew-gee. In the good one, the writing table drawer is fully stocked with writing paper, envelopes, unmarred blotters. In the other, you find two or three disordered sheet of letterhead and an envelope that should be considered forgotten by somebody else. In decisions small and large, the good hotel treats you like a guest. The second-rate hotel, like a boarder. Hotels that charge the same rates in a second-rate hotel that charge in the best hotel have the pens most frequently in cities where the hotel accommodation is inadequate. Good hotels must therefore be very profitable establishments. Testified to by the manager of such an establishment, and he was most indignant. He said he would have no idea what the cost of upkeep and repair of an elderly hotel would be.

Rather than pay it, elderly hotels prefer to keep a handyman around.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The report of the Jamboree selection committee was presented to the local association by Dr. J. H. Conversey, who was assisted by ADC. Don Allan and Ralph Knowlton. A minimum of ten boys will go to the Eighth World Jamboree.

Dick Fuke and Larry Gerow of the 1st Belleville; Gleon Stewart and Richard Novlodnik of the 2nd Belleville; Dale Burley, 3rd Belleville; Jim Schadelee, 4th Belleville; John Goodman, 8th Belleville; Peter Robson, 1st Avondale; Jim Purcuiloo, 1st Cortyville; Jim Churchill, 1st Foxboro.

Twelve Scouts from restricted currency countries will attend the Jamboree through the generosity of the following:

Deacon Shirt Co., one Scout; Rotary Club of Belleville, one Scout; Kiwanis Club of Belleville, one Scout; Scouters Club, one Scout; Local Association, two Scouts.

The 1st, 2nd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th groups of Belleville and the 1st Avondale group donated sufficient funds for six Scouts.

Mr. W. L. Glasspole has made arrangements with the Shannon Bus Co. for a daily bus service for Jamboree visitors. Group committees are requested to start working on this now. As soon as a party is made up Mailty Mr. Glasspoole or the secretary. The fare is very low and the trip will be lached Niagara Falls.

Capt. Watson is back with us and gave a very interesting and useful description of the Southern Conference of Scouters, which he attended. The main topic was: "How Can We Attend the Jamboree?" Also present was Capt. Watson Belleville will have quite a number of 1955 Scouts encamped here because we are on the 80-mile fringe. Nobody is permitted to camp within this distance from the Jamboree camp.

The annual conference, attended A. S. Lewis, announced that the combined Church parades of Guides, Scouts, Brownies and Cubs will be on May 15th at Bridge St. United Church at the evening service. The R.C's will attend St. Michael's Church.

A Scout Camporee will be held on May 21st, 22nd and 23rd.

A Camporee will be at Wellington on June 11th.

At the PACA swimming pool more badges have been won:

Dale Burley of St. Michael's, the really difficult Rescuer's Badge.

Barry Arnott, 1st St. Thomas', Scout badge.

Club badges were won by: Jimmy Woodcock, 4th Kiwanis; Bobby Boyle, 4th Kiwanis; Dean Williamson, 4th Kiwanis; Teddy Butcher, 10th Holloway; Jack Jury, 11th St. Joseph's.

Drug Addiction Probe Will Hear Police, Doctors

VANCOUVER (CP) — The men who fight the narcotics racket and those who try to patch the shattered lives of its victims will join today to seek a solution to their mutual problems.

They will appear as witnesses before the special Senate committee on narcotic addiction, first such group ever to meet outside Ottawa.

Tuesday, the committee heard that Vancouver, described as the crime capital of Canada, was studying the question of whether to give its children a short course in the dangers of narcotics addiction.

It also heard warden Hugh Christie of Oakalla prison farm proclaim that addicts can be cured and E. E. Wisch, CCF member of the legislature for Burnaby, who said they must be. Mr. Edna Marcuille of Narcotics Anonymous stressed a need for medical centres and stiffer penalties; Dr. R. G. E. Richmond, Oakalla psychiatrist, said addicts were delinquents first and addicts second.

SUGGEST PRESCRIPTIONS

Community Chest representatives said 'drug trafficking could be reduced if doctors could prescribe narcotics for addicts.'

The John Howard Society's representative said treatment centres should be set up across the country and, for the incorrigible addict, sentences should be similar to those provided under the habitual criminal section of the Criminal Code.

Today, Dr. A. W. Bagnall, representing the British Columbia Medical Association, is to head a medical delegation.

Supt. Jack Hueston will bring veteran narcotics detectives to testify alongside Sgt. Harold Price, head of the RCMP drug squad in this area.

Action League Will Apply For Charter

TORONTO (CP)—The Parents' Action League, formed by three Toronto housewives to combat the growing number of sex crimes, said Tuesday it will make immediate application for a provincial charter.

The three founders, Mrs. Bernard H. Dorfman, Mrs. Murray Hahn and Mrs. Leslie Sivesmar, said they have formed a provisional executive because PAL has grown into a big organization too much for the three of them to look after.

Mrs. Sivesmar, named as president, said leading experts in law, psychiatry, psychology and social work are being invited to participate in the work of the executive.

She said PAL will start research in Canada to determine how to control sex criminals and to try to improve legislation.

ADVISE AGAINST

Canada, it added, operates under a free economy and because of this system "competition is the great regulating force that operated in the interests of all."

If there are to be laws to interfere with free competition, it said, they will have to be justified on the ground there is factual proof of the evil which the laws are designed to eliminate.

Specific recommendations are sections of the Criminal Code which prohibit agreements reached over certain kinds of unfairly low pricing."

It is said there is a law against deceptive selling in this section but it is puzzled why the trade has not made wider use of it. Greater cooperation with Better Business Bureaus was urged to oppose fraud and misleading advertising.

Monopolies, it said, can be broken up under federal combines laws. If there was a monopolistic situation not covered by the combines laws, it could be on the basis of a general investigation under the Conciliation Investigation Act.

NO DEFINITION

The loss-leader inquiry was the largest undertaken by the commission since it was set up in November, 1952. It held 25 days of public hearings in seven cities, Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Vancouver and Victoria, and heard representations from 134 witnesses and 29 organizations.

Before it began its study, T. D. MacDonald, combines investigations chief, gathered factual information from scores of drug and grocery chain stores, sellers of electrical household goods, tobacco shopkeepers and others.

At the outset, the commission ran into a major handicap: Businessmen couldn't agree on a clear-cut definition of a loss-leader. Some said it was selling at below the cost price; others maintained it was selling at below traditional retail prices or on small profit margins.

The commission concluded there was no point in trying to reach an arbitrary definition. It also decided that the trade generally is concerned not so much with selling below cost as with general competition and advertising tactics created by the return of the buyer's market.

The commission found that a feature of the current market situation is the low prices established by shopkeepers who concentrate on a turnover of a big volume of business.

FIND NO ABUSE

This was done by reducing costs in the movement of goods from the factory to the consumer. It had helped reduce consumer prices, particularly in such items as household electrical appliances, groceries and cigarets.

"In their general aspects, therefore, such developments indicate the effective working of the competitive system and not an abuse of competitive selling," the commission said.

ASKS HALT A-TESTS

LONDON (Reuters)—Atomic and hydrogen bomb tests should be halted pending international research into the genetic hazards of radiation, the Medical Press, British professional journal, said Tuesday. It added that "if the struggle to perfect nuclear weapons is in fact a struggle towards peace it will indeed be ironical if it produces results more horrifically disastrous and fearful effect which war could bring."

Temperatures much above normal are predicted for most of Ontario, parts of Quebec and Manitoba according to the long-range forecast issued by the United States Weather Bureau. Saskatchewan, Alberta, the Maritime provinces and the remainder of Manitoba are expected to have above—or near—normal temperatures. The coastal part of British Columbia probably will have weather much below normal. (CP Photo).

Labor Leaders Call for Action On Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's labor leaders have called for action on unemployment, which reached new heights in March, after rising to a post-war peak in late February.

The government, in issuing its joint unemployment figures Tuesday, said there were indications a spring employment pickup had begun by the end of March. Labor leaders, however, calling the situation disgraceful, called for anti-unemployment action at the federal-provincial conference April 26.

The bureau of statistics estimated the number looking for work at: March 19 was 401,000. A month earlier it was 378,000.

PRESIDENTS HOPEFUL

Presidents Claude Jodoin of the Trades and Labor Congress and A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor said they hope the federal and provincial representatives at the April 26 meeting will resolve the difficulty of constitutional responsibilities for the unemployed.

CCL Secretary-Treasurer Donald MacDonald said the employment situation has been allowed to deteriorate because of the federal government's "persistent failure to regard the unemployment problem in its full seriousness."

The federal government, whose figures were "evidence of an alarming and disgraceful condition," should present the premiers at the forthcoming meeting a plan for public assistance to all jobless workers not entitled to unemployment insurance, he said.

CAMPBELLFORD

Electric Fan Cause of Blaze

CAMPBELLFORD—What might have been a serious fire, was discovered in time to avert more damage by Mrs. D. W. Burgess of Bridge Street East, Campbellford. An electric fan, which is reported to have been left running in an upstairs bedroom apparently tipped over, stopping the blades of the fan. The motor of the fan caught fire setting fire to a rug, and burning a hole through the floor.

Firemen chopped away the burning section of the floor and extinguished the blazing rug and fan with water. Damage was estimated at several hundred dollars.

Toronto More Radioactive Than Usual

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto is three to 10 times as radioactive as normal, a check by a firm of electronic experts showed Tuesday.

Eric Leaver, president of Electronic Associates Ltd., said:

"I don't think there's any doubt this increase in radioactivity is caused by radioactive rain brought about by H-bomb tests in Nevada."

Doctors interviewed said the radiation level would not harm humans.

Mr. Leaver said radioactivity 10 times normal was recorded in places where rain sized in pools, and three times normal in other places. The tests were made with a scintillometer, which is more sensitive than a geiger counter.

He said a small amount of radioactivity is always present and is known as "background" radiation.

An official of the National Research Council's Suffield, experimental station in southern Alberta said it was "nothing to get excited about."

He said radioactivity readings 10 times normal now are common in pools of rainwater across Canada. This was the result of atomic tests.

Quebec Minister Defends Wages In Province

MONTREAL (CP)—Quebec Labor Minister Barrette says anyone who criticizes province's wage scale and holds Ontario up as an example is "either incompetent or downright dishonest."

"There are a few essential facts which these people might take into consideration when they are making comparisons between the two provinces," he said Tuesday night in an address.

"Here in Quebec we have a system of agricultural credits which they don't have in Ontario. We have a progressive provincial program — to help Quebecers build their own homes. They don't have one in Ontario.

"In Quebec we have an office of rural electrification."

He said that Ontario has no minimum wage scale for men and that in addition in Quebec more than 700,000 workers are protected by minimum wage provisions for small wage earners. More than 225,000 workers were protected by orders-in-council decrees but in Ontario only 12,000 came under the province's minimum wage act.

ROADS COMPARISON

Quebecers had roads built, maintained and kept open by the provincial government but in Ontario only the King's highway was built and maintained by the province. The rest was left to municipalities.

Mr. Barrette said Quebec municipal and school taxes are 40 per cent lower as a result of provincial government subsidies. Moreover nearly 50 per cent of provincial farmers owned their own farms as against only 32 per cent in Ontario.

The average weekly wage in Quebec last year was $55 compared with $63 in Ontario but Quebec wages had increased since 1939 by 161 per cent against a 148-per-cent increase in Ontario.

Howe Will Learn Inside Story Of Hazardous Wartime Landing

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP)—When Canada's Trade Minister C. D. Howe reaches Christchurch next Tuesday he is due for a shock. He will learn the inside story of a hazardous wartime landing and realize he was closer to death than he imagined.

Howe is on a goodwill mission to Australia and New Zealand. J. O'Neil, navigator of a plane which took him from London to Prestwick, Scotland, during the war, plans to tell him the background to the trip.

O'Neil has a high regard for the Canadian minister. Here's why.

"On Oct. 22, 1943," he says, "I was with No. 24 squadron in England. I was given the emergency job, with a French pilot, Lieut. Paul Perrier, of taking Mr. Howe from London to Prestwick.

"When we arrived at Prestwick, the wind was blowing, which meant we had to land upwind. Unfortunately the upwind runway was under repair and there were oil drums on it.

WHERE IS AYR?

"Eight miles away was another airport beside the town of Ayr. Paul, who could not speak English very well, kept saying he wanted to land 'Ayr.'

"Neither I nor the control tower realized he meant Ayr, was they brought him in. He almost came down on top of an oil drum. I lifted him off at the last and by this time he had become rather agitated.

"Paul kept shouting over the inter-com that there was no check but 'Eyr,' so I made a circuit and they brought him in for a crosswind landing, which was very difficult under the high wind conditions.

"The tail came down first. We bounced on to a wing and by the time we stopped we were written off both wingtips, the tail, propellers and undercart.

"It must be realized that Mr. Howe had been torpedoed in the Atlantic on the way to Canada and has spent more than two weeks in an open boat.

"He could have made alot of trouble, but he stepped calmly from the remains of the plane, remarked, 'It was a ——good landing,' and walked away. I thought he was a very fine fellow to take such an attitude in the circumstances."

THREE-MONTH TOUR

Miss Hollis P. Merry, formerly head of the English department at the Belleville collegiate, sails from Quebec on Friday, aboard the "Homeric" for a three-month tour of Europe.

She will be travelling with her sister, Mrs. Percy Rutledge of Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

They will disembark at Le Havre, and will pay extended visits to Paris and Rome before arriving in England in mid June.

In London, Miss Merry and Mrs. Rutledge, will be joined by a cousin for a 10-day motor tour of Scotland.

Miss Merry expects to return to Belleville by July 15th.

Dist. Vice-Pres. Addresses Foxboro W.M.S.

The recent Thank-offering meeting of Foxboro W.M.S. was held on Thursday at home of Mrs. H. Shetler and was opened with call to worship and prayer by the president, Mrs. C. Wilson. A warm welcome was extended to all the ladies and guest speaker, Mrs. Grant, (district vice-president), and her mother.

The business was conducted. The Easter thankoffering was gathered and dedicated by Mrs. Derrick. An invitation to Tabernacle church on May 3rd was accepted. Mrs. Reynolds invited ladies to her home for the May meeting with Mrs. Daniels in charge of the program.

PROGRAM

Mrs. McCurdy took charge of the program and led in an impressive worship service. Several readings on 'Easter' were given.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Grant, was introduced by Mrs. McCurdy. She spoke on "Life of People and the Easter Customs in Africa".

"They have several days of worship and hold evening meetings. She told of the luxuriant growth and beautiful flowers of this country. Easter means a great deal to them. She gave a challenge to go and all the world and teach the gospel under the power of prayer.

"Great things can be accomplished through work, study, prayer and giving."

Mrs. Grant closed her address with prayer and sang a beautiful solo, accompanied by her mother at the piano.

Mrs. W. Stambough extended thanks to her for her fine address and solo.

Mrs. Thomson read a poem entitled 'Duty.'

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed after which Mrs. Shetler was thanked for the use of her home and kind hospitality.

1955-6 Officers Elected By Ivanhoe W.I.

The annual meeting of Ivanhoe W.I., was held at the township hall on Wednesday. After a delicious pot-luck dinner at noon, the meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Jayne Gay, who opened the meeting by reading an Easter poem.

Dues for next year were paid.

A farewell message was read from Miss Anne F. Lewis, and it was decided to send her a card from the institute on the occasion of her approaching marriage.

Reports of standing committees and a report of secretary-treasurer was then given.

1955-56 OFFICERS

The slate of officers for next year were then given by Mrs. Earl McMaster, president of nominating committee, and are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Earl McMaster; president Miss Jayne Gay; 1st vice-president, Mrs. John Gay; 2nd vice-president, Miss Helen Kerby; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. I. Douglas; district directors, Mrs. McMaster, Mrs. W. French; pianists, Mrs. R. Hall and Mrs. K. Berry; Board of Directors, Mrs. P. Harvey, Mrs. S. Reid and Mrs. Mac Saries; auditors, Mrs. A. Wood and Mrs. W. Shaw; stick committee, Mrs. G. McInroy, Mrs. J. Wright and Mrs. E. Wood; standing Committees: Agricultural and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Howard Cook; Citizenship and Education, Mrs. A. Gray; Historical Research and Current Events, Mrs. R. Haggerty and Mrs. W. French; Public Relations and Community Activities, Mrs. H. Benson; Health, Mrs. Wright and Master; International, Mrs. J. Wright; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. H. MacMillan; Press reporter, Miss E. Tanner; girls' club, Mrs. Jean McInroy.

The president gave a short address.

C.W.L. Holds Annual Meeting

Mrs. E. Logan presided at the annual meeting of the Catholic Women's League, held recently in St. Michael's high school. The Very Rev. Dean Garvin opened the meeting.

A resume of the year's work was given by recording secretary, Mrs. A. Wilkinson. Also the detailed annual reports which followed were evidence of a busy and successful year. Report of the 1st vice-president, Mrs. R. Dafoe, showed an active membership of 430 and 25 honorary members. Convenor of Education, Mrs. J. C. Baker, reported that approximately $700 was spent on educational projects, some of which included scholarships to St. Michael's high school; prizes to St. Michael's Academy and Music Studio, and various items of equipment for these two schools.

Members staffed and canvassed Baldwin ward for the annual Red Cross campaign and the financial statement given by Mrs. J. E. Boyd showed that cash donations were made to Red Cross Society, Quinte Welfare Bureau and the Victorian Order of Nurses and that a total of $1540 was given to St. Michael's Building Fund during the year.

St. John Ambulance Holds Inspection

The annual inspection of St. John Ambulance Division 105 was held on St. Andrew's Sunday School room with inspecting officers Lt.-Col. I. M. R. Sinclair, D.F.O., O.B.E., M.C., Toronto, provincial commissioner of St. John Ambulance and Mrs. G. R. Anderson, Reg.N., provincial nursing officer. Accompanying them was Col. J. Fifteen Brigade members and seven officers, Mrs. J. McLeod, Nursing Sisters Ruth Keller and Mrs. R. Henning, Mrs. Ashley, Mrs. C. Richards, Mrs. Barbara Haynes and Mrs. Edith Anderson were present.

DEMONSTRATION WORK

Following the inspection, members of the Division gave demonstrations of the work done by St. John members: the first being artificial respiration to and from the assistance of a person who had attempted hanging. This was done by Mrs. Dillon, the patient, Mrs. Dafoe and Mrs. Truis McLuskie, Mrs. Baverstock respiration team with the commentator Mrs. Hillman.

For the second demonstration, St. John Ambulance set up a first aid post at a picnic, staffed by members of a home nursing course). The post was in charge of Mrs. Marriott, Mrs. Granstone, Mrs. Fritshaw and Miss Hanna. Miss Hanna met with an accident and first aid was given by other brigade members.

Mrs. Ashley and Mrs. Richards gave a demonstration on "Simulation" wounds" assisted by Mrs. Wood. Girls of the St. John Ambulance crusaders acted as victims of an accident.

The final demonstration, in the program of home nursing was in charge of Mrs. Rita Henning, nursing officer of the division and Miss Ruth Keller, nursing sister assisted by patient, Mrs. Walsh and Ambulance Sisters Mrs. Hobbs, Miss Brown, and Mrs. Keller. Miss Ruth Keller was the commentator.

Present at the inspection were members of the Airport nursing class and members of the Picton St. John Ambulance Division with their superintendent, Mrs. C. McKibbon.

Following the inspection, and demonstrations, First Aid medallion cards and Home Nursing pendant cards were presented by Mrs. Anderson to Mrs. J. McLuskie, Mrs. R. Henning (nursing officer), Mrs. E. Anderson, Mrs. Barbara Haynes, Mrs. Ashley, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Marriott, Mrs. Fritshaw, Mrs. Alice Hobbs, Mrs. Truis McLuskie, Mrs. Nora Baverstock, Mrs. Ethel Little; Mrs. May Grandazzo, Miss Pearl Brown, Mrs. Muriel Dafoe, Mrs. Margaret Hillman, Mrs. Dillon, Mrs. Wood, Miss Vivian Hanna, Mrs. Joan Kelly, Mrs. Kellar.

A group of ladies of St. Andrew's church served refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

GOOD MANNERS

ENGAGEMENT - ANNOUNCE. MENT CARDS NOT CORRECT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter has just become engaged, and the engagement is to be announced in about a month. My husband and I are planning to give a party to announce the engagement, a late - Sunday - afternoon party. But I thought that also we should have some kind of good-looking engraved announcements to send, and today, while shopping, I saw two good samples of engraved announcement cards. But what I mentioned to my daughter, she said that the other evening her fiancé's mother happened to bring out one of these engagement-announcement cards that had arrived in the mail that day, and she said what terrible taste these cards are. (Our Phyllis had not mentioned these cards.) Now I need your help to guide me about these . . . and about who is right. — Mother

It's true indeed that people of good taste do not send engraved (or printed) engagement announcement cards. I'm so glad you wrote me about this possible plan, you had in mind, for it fills me to save you from sending out these incorrect cards, and for the pleasure (even though not expressed) of your daughter's fiancé's mother. You and your daughter are most fortunate to have found out about this incorrect procedure in time . . . without having had to show your hand!

FIANCE SHOULD WRITE TO HER FIANCEE'S DIVORCED FATHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Jim and I have just become engaged. My mother and father are divorced, and both have remarried. I live with my mother and stepfather; my father and stepmother live in a city quite a distance from here. My father and I have always remained quite good friends, and corresponded frequently. My fiancé's family, who are very wellbred and mannerly, insist that all the correct gestures—coming to call on Mother and me, welcoming me into their family, making sure also that they are most happy about the engagement, I have, of course, written my father all the news about my engagement. But now I have a problem with him: I feel very strongly that Jim should write to my father, talking over the engagement - news with him. Jim thinks this is not only not necessary, but in very good form, since I live with my mother and always have. However, Jim says if I'll ask you (he knows I've written to you several times before for advice) he'll follow your advice. —Bettie.

Thank you for asking me about this. Your point of view about this extremely important question is completely right. Your Jim should write at once to your father telling him the news (even though you have already told him), naturally telling him of his love and devotion to you, and any other facts re-assuring to a father. After all, you and your father have remained "quite good" friends in a not-easy situation, and it is important that your fiance should show interest and enthusiasm for this relationship. (Also, I imagine you may be considering inviting your father to give you in marriage? If so Jim's letter is even more important and called-for.)

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CULTIVATE AN OBSERVING EYE

Make it a habit to size up the women you meet and those whom you pass on the byways. It's a jolly game and a profitable one. By making an appraisal of others one can set a value on one's own good points and become inspired to improve upon them if one can not so good.

Almost every woman possesses some pleasing quality of pulchritude. It may be the proud manner in which she carries her head, or the lovely curves of her back. Or, a smart little trick in the arrangement of her hair. Or, the graceful way she folds her fingers together when her hands are in her lap.

If you are in a public conveyance, note the feet of the women passengers. They should be close together, pointing straight ahead. They're more likely to be far apart, even resting on the sides of the soles of their shoes. Not pretty!

Regard their clothes. If one looks dowdy, take a survey and find out what makes her "look like that." Perhaps she has a round, fat face and wears a round, fat hat that accents facial curves. If you happen to be a bit on the plump side, you won't make that mistake.

The girl who uses so much make-up that she looks like a lithograph is a bad example which should steer every other woman. Think of her when you play with the items in your make-up kit and you will self-pedal your own make-up.

Look at cyebrows. It's surprising what can be done to enhance or destroy their loveliness. Some of the clear cut, beautifully arched ones are a joy to the beholder and an ornament to those who have them. Others, tweezed and teased to a line of single hairs, make a woman's face look vapid and her eyes smallish.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE TIME HASN'T COME . YET TO MAKE A DECISION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There are two men in whom I am interested. One is David, who is 35, and the other is Gregory, who is 38. I am 19.

David is a junior in college. He seems to like me, but shows no sign of wanting to marry me. I, myself, went to college for two years.

For three years I went steady with Gregory, but never learned to love him. He is a farmer, with only a high school education. He has asked me to marry him several times but, while I know he loves me and would always work hard to make me happy, I am not at all sure I love him. I have known him and his family all my life.

Should I marry Gregory, or should I wait and hope that David will some day ask me and ask me to marry him? Gregory offers me love and security, but, on the other hand, David and I really have more in common. I don't know much about David's family or his background, but he is a broad-minded, cultured person, who would make a good, intelligent husband and father, and I know I love him for that.

Please help me decide between these two prospects. — C. Sheridan.

What two prospects? You can hardly call David a prospect, can you, when you say he has given you no reason to believe he wants to marry you?

I can't see that any decision whatever in regard to these two young men is necessary, or even appropriate, at this time. While Gregory wants you to marry him, you don't know whether you want to or not. David hasn't asked you. All you can do at this point, therefore, is to wait and see what happens. It certainly would be foolish to agree to marry Gregory when you're not in love with him, and you obviously can't marry David, so why not just make up your mind to be patient awhile and see what the future holds for you.

In time you may find that you really do love Gregory, who seems like a substantial, worthwhile person. You may find also that David never does come across with a proposal; yet of course he might. It may even be that some other young man will come along who will interest you more than either of these others.

You have plenty of time ahead of you, and I advise you to wait until the future shows its hand and leads you to the right decision.

SINGER ROBBED

NEW YORK (AP)—The Greenwich Village apartment of Pearl Bailey, star of the hit musical "House of Flowers," has been looted of $17,000 in furs and jewelry, police said Monday. The burglary was discovered when the singer returned Monday night from a performance at the theatre.

SALK MAY GET PENSION

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Jonas Salk, who developed the polio-fighting vaccine, would get a federal pension of $10,000 a year for life under a bill introduced Monday by Senator Patrick McNamara (Dem., Mich.).

Striving for the Impossible

By Mary Moore

First of First of all read this letter from Shirley M.:

". . . I may be taking a lot for granted . . . but I think you may be able to help me . . . How can I feed a family of four on $10. per week? Believe me that is a problem. We live in a small town and prices are higher for everything than they would be in the city. I do all my own baking with the exception of bread and buns. Could you work out some menus for 1 week? Also could you send me recipe for bread pudding, also one for brown sugar icing? My husband takes his lunch to work every day. My two daughters, 6 and 3, lunch at home . . . all baking done with evaporated milk. Is this cheaper than the other? We have to buy all our vegetables including potatoes of which we use a lot. I have never used cake mixes but some people think they are cheaper than making my own. Is this right?

"After reading this letter you may think me awful stupid but we are saving for a new house and I want to give my family the right foods with a minimum of cost . . . we buy our own eggs from a farm . . . 5 dozen every 2 weeks at 40 cents a doz. . . . this does not come out of the $10. for food. — Shirley M."

This is a problem that must be tackled objectively and at length and so will be continued next week.

What good is a new house if the people in it are suffering from malnutrition? And have to, as a consequence, spend money on doctor's bills and expensive medicine. You just cannot adequately nourish four people on $10. per week in Canada.

Nutrition experts who do not care one whit about food prices direct or customs work diligently on basic food needs and their findings are summed up in

CANADA'S FOOD RULES

(We have all known for a long time that health depends on the kind of food we eat. Chickens, pigs and cattle do not develop equally well on just any kind of food we eat. Neither do human beings.)

1. Milk: Children (up to about 12 years); at least 1 pint per day. Adolescents: at least 1 1/2 pints. Adults: at least 1/2 pint.

2. Fruit: One serving of citrus fruit (orange, grapefruit etc.) or tomatoes or their juices; and 1 serving of one other fruit.

3. Vegetables: At least 1 serving of potatoes; at least 2 servings of other vegetables preferably leafy, green or yellow and frequently raw.

4. cereals and bread: 1 serving whole grain cereal, and at least 4 slices bread (with butter or fortified margarine).

5. Meat and fish: 1 serving meat, fish, poultry, or meat alternates such as dried beans, eggs and cheese.

Use liver frequently.

In addition: Eggs and cheese should be eaten at least 3 times a week each.

Vitamin D: At least 400 International Units daily for all growing persons and expectant and nursing mothers.

Answers to Shirley M. will be continued Wednesday April 27. I will give specific menus at minimum cost too.)

ALY IN HOLLYWOOD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Moslem Prince Aly Khan is in Los Angeles today and says he hopes to meet his former wife, Rita Hayworth, to discuss a vacation for their daughter, Yasmin. The Prince said he hopes to take five-year-old Yasmin to Paris with him.

SIDE-SHOW FAT WOMAN

Jolly Jennie Brooks of St. Jacobs, Ont., ten miles north of Kitchener, tips the scales at 488 pounds and her ambition is to reach 500. A side-show fat woman, she has been in show business for five years and loves it. Jennie, who is 34, measures: head, 22 inches; bust, 59 inches; hips, 83 inches and height five feet, eight inches. (CP Photo).

Jolly Jennie Brooks Wants To Tip Scales at 500 Pounds

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Jolly Jennie Brooks has a burning ambition to tip the scales at 500 pounds. She now weighs 489.

The side-show fat woman who hails from the Waterloo county village of St. Jacobs, 10 miles north of here, has been in show business for five years and loves it.

She admits she is no Marilyn Monroe but she has learned to accept her weight and doesn't mind people staring at her outside her tent.

BULK BRINGS PROBLEMS

Her measurements are: Head, 22 inches; bust, 59 inches; hips 83 inches and height 5'8".

But her great bulk has its problems. Beds, chairs and tables have as great a weakness for Jennie's weight as she has for food.

"It's embarrassing sometimes," she said, "especially when I break through the pews at church."

Jennie who is 34 was always stout—she weighed 15½ pounds at birth. She eats five meals a day and a five-pound chicken is just a snack.

Of her life with carnival people she said: "They're the most wonderful crew in the world. Just like a big family. I've learned to love the sawdust."

SHE DANCES TOO

She includes a dance in her act. Patrons can't quite believe this until they actually see her performance.

Jennie long ago dispensed with a girdle. Her last garment was size 64 and then she decided to give up dieting. She hopes to reach the 500-pound mark soon.

She is strong and healthy. She'll demonstrate by lifting a 168-pound man up in one arm. Many fat women suffer from high blood pressure and other ills. But Jennie's weight doesn't seem to have affected her health.

One of the most embarrassing things about her girth is getting stuck in telephone booths and showers. She once worked as a practical nurse in Elmire but had to stop when she got too big.

Cooking is one of her greatest problems. Now she makes all her own with a leaning to man-tailored suits which are easy to fit.

Women's Activities

REDNERSVILLE W.A.

The April meeting of Rednersville W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Hillman, Thursday evening, with 25 members and three visitors.

The president, Mrs. Ralph Stafford opened the meeting. The president also gave the special reading and prayer.

Mrs. Ross Roblin read the Scripture, Luke 24. It was decided to send $10 to the Quinte Disabled Fund.

The meeting was then turned over to the convener, Mrs. Roy Wannamaker, who gave a reading, "The Queen's Tiny-pieces," which was enjoyed by all. A contest was given with winners being, Miss Marjorie Roblin, Mrs. Landry and Mrs. Dawson. The door prize was won by Mrs. Meens.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Hillman for opening her home for the W. A. meeting, and all enjoyed the evening.

The May meeting is to be held at Mrs. Harry Adams' home.

W.M.S.

5th LINE THURLOW—The April meeting of the 5th Thurlow W.M.S. was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. Marlin with an attendance of 16. The president opened the meeting with an Easter hymn, after which Mrs. James Huffman led in prayer.

Business was then conducted. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Yorke, with Mrs. Charles Huffman and Mrs. W. Clare as conveners, and the roll call will be answered with the world "Mother." The mite boxes were distributed and it was reported that a quilt was finished for overseas relief. Members were asked to bring used clothing for the sale, when a special offering will be collected to provide for sending the sale.

The next meeting will be held at 2.30 D.S.T. A letter of appreciation was read from the Throop family. The Easter thank-offering was received and dedicated.

Mrs. Bertrand gave an interesting report of the Belleville Presbyterial meeting held at Picton.

An interesting worship service was conducted by Mrs. Bertrand, using the theme, "The Meaning of the Cross," and Mrs. W. Badgley read the Scripture lesson, which was followed by singing "Beneath the Cross of Jesus." The meditation followed. Miss Mary Bertrand rendered a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," and a poem, "The Lost Christ" was read by the leader.

Mrs. Carman Huffman took charge of the following program: Miss Mary Bertrand gave a synopsis of a chapter in the study book and Mrs. G. Livingston contributed a piano solo entitled "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Readings were given by Mrs. McCullough, "The Lenten Meditation"; Mrs. C. Martin, "A Bermuda Easter"; Mrs. W. Clare and Mrs. W. Badgley rendered an appropriate duet, and "The Greatest Hymn in the English Language" was read by Miss M. Livingston.

A social half hour was then enjoyed while the hostess served refreshments.

Can a food help you to overcome

IRREGULARITY?

You've probably tried lots of laxatives. But do you know about Kellogg's All-Bran? It's the original natural laxative cereal pioneered by W. K. Kellogg nearly 40 years ago. All-Bran is a delicious dish that promotes comfortable elimination without harsh purging.

Relief from Constipation

The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects for cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage. All-Bran, is made from the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel and supplies natural food bulk. Just eat daily a one ounce serving for breakfast and drink plenty of water. It will improve your "Intestinal Tone" so necessary to comfortable regularity.

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Double Your Money Back

All-Bran is a wholesome, good tasting cereal that has helped millions. We'll prove to you that Kellogg's All-Bran will give you gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or give you double your money back. But be sure you get Kellogg's, the one and only All-Bran. Kellogg's, London, Ontario.

First Woman To Hold Civic Post in Dept.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Angela Cawthorn, first woman to hold the civic post of assistant medical officer of health in Ottawa, likes to travel.

"But one has to stay put sometimes," she said in an interview, adding with a smile, "if only to save up enough money to get off again."

Since coming from England to Canada in 1953 the attractive, 32-year-old health officer has covered considerable territory—New England, Alaska, California and a trip to Vancouver in a small English car.

She took a graduate course in public health at the University of Toronto and was assistant medical officer with the St. Catharines-Lincoln county health unit in western Ontario until last June.

RURAL ROUNDS

Her work there involved driving an average of 400 miles a month to rural schools to give medical examinations and immunization shots to children.

"I liked going from place to place," the petite, brunette Dr. Cawthorn said. "Although sometimes we had quite a time in schools with no facilities for even washing, particularly in winter."

A native of Southport, Lancashire, she became a doctor more by accident than by design.

"I didn't decide at any early age to become a doctor," she explained. "It was just that my father wanted me to go to university like my brothers, and medicine interested me more than anything else I could take."

She was a resident hospital physician in Liverpool for six years before the travelling urge led her to Canada.

Dr. Cawson thinks she will stay put in her tiny health department office here for a while. She likes Canada.

"Besides," she said, "by living and working here I can afford to go home for visits. If I stayed in England, I'd never get to see my friends here."

She was in the middle of a five-month vacation at home when she landed her present job in February. One of her first major tasks will be to help administer Salk polio inoculations to Ottawa school children.

SET CRIBBAGE DATE

PORT ERIE (CP) — The provincial Canadian Legion annual cribbage championship contests will be held here April 30. Possibly 192 players will compete, with the largest team, 40 players, coming from North Bay.

Foxboro W.I. Appoints New Officers

The Foxboro Women's Institute held its annual meeting recently in the school auditorium, with 18 members present.

Mrs. M. B. Shorey presided and opened the meeting in the usual way. Correspondence consisted of a letter of thanks from Mr. T. Hamilton and a letter from Miss Lewis.

It was decided that a card be sent Miss Lewis, also that all officers be elected to office for two years.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ann Gordon (Mother of 5)

Mothers frequently ask how to counteract jealousy in an older child when a new arrival appears on the scene. A few tricks that often work magic!

1. Present the older child with a special gift from the new baby.
2. Arrange special play hours in which baby is not included.
3. Make sure the older child understands that baby belongs to him as much as to you and me.
4. Permit big brother or sister to share in the care of baby by performing simple tasks.

Cute, Cuddly toy for all tots of all ages—THE EXCLUSIVE GERBER BABY DOLL—a $3.75 value for only $2.00 and 12 Gerber's Baby Food Labels or Cereal box tops. This delightful 12 in. doll, a charming replica of the famous Gerber Baby, is completely safe with soft, vinyl plastic head, rubber body. It drinks, wets, sits up ... has movable arms and legs. Added attractions: diaper and bib, a tiny nursing bottle, Gerber's Cereal play boxes, cereal dish and spoon.

Mail money and labels to Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Limited, Box 64, Toronto 18 Canada. Offer good only in Canada. Expires Dec. 31, 1955.

Bright idee division. Save the net bags the family fruits and vegetables come in. They make good bathing sacks for baby's bath toys.

Roll call. Ever so often it's a good idea to review the grand choice of Gerber Baby Foods. There are 3 cereals and over 36 Strained and Junior Fruits, Vegetables, Dinners, Meats and Desserts—specially processed to preserve a high degree of wholesome food values and the tempting true flavors that make baby's mealtimes pleasurable pastimes.

It was further decided that after the election of officers and conveners, the members with the exception of the president and secretary-treasurer, be divided into six groups to help the conveners.

Mrs. Shorey gave a sketch of Mrs. McArthur's report which was most interesting.

Mrs. Simmons, as a past president, presided for the election of officers and Mrs. B. Hollinger was secretary.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The new officers are as follows:

Past president, Mrs. M. B. Shorey; president, Mrs. Cecil Hubble; first vice-president, Mrs. M. J. Weber; second vice-president, Mrs. W. Rombough; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. L. Johnston; assistant secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. Reynolds; district director, Mrs. M. H. Shorey; branch directors, Mrs. W. Simmons, Mrs. J. Churchill and Mrs. R. W. Skinner; card secretary, Mrs. B. Hollinger; flowers, Mrs. R. Demill; pianist, Mrs. A. MacPhee; assistant pianist, Mrs. R. W. Skinner; auditors, Mrs. C. Bamber and Miss E. Johnston.

Conveners of Standing Committees: Home Economics-Health, Mrs. P. Kilpatrick; Agriculture - Canadian Industries, Mrs. M. Jamieson; Citizenship - Education, Mrs. C. Bamber; Community Activities - Public Relations, Mrs. I. Moore; Historical Research - Current Events, Mrs. F. Frindle; resolutions, Mrs. W. Simmons.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the committee.

Memorial Cross, Plaque Given To Church

A special service was held on Sunday last in Plainfield United Church when a cross and plaque were presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCreary, in memory of Mrs. W. R. Tanton. The Rev. R. J. Kersey, minister of the church, accepted, and dedicated the gift, and gave a sermon on "The Meaning of the Cross." He was assisted in the service by the Rev. J. F. Everson, of Belleville and the Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of Stirling.

The communion table was filled with spring flowers. The choir rendered a suitable anthem.

Visitors were present from Belleville, Napanee, Tweed, Stirling and Toronto.

After the service Mr. and Mrs. H. McCreary entertained in their Plainfield home.

LABOR VOTES PENALTY FOR OVERTIME

In what might be a unique vote in labor history, workers of A. V. Roe airplane manufacturing plant at Malton, Ont., turned down a union-sponsored plan to reduce the work week to 35 hours and voted instead to penalize their own members for working overtime. The union meeting was called to discuss policy regarding the lay-off of 1,000 workers and the expectation of another lay-off of 2,000 within the next few months.—Central Press Canadian.

Madoc

D.D.D.F. PAYS OFFICIAL VISIT

MADOC — On Monday night Mrs. Miss Embury, D.D.P. of District No. 4, paid her official visit to Crescent Rebekah Lodge at Thomasburg.

She was accompanied by Mrs. Bessie Heyworth, P.N.G., and district secretary; also Past Grands Mrs. Wambred Hill, Mrs. Edith Hatch, Mrs. Eliza Parks and vice-grand Vera Hill.

After the regular lodge meeting, the visitors and members enjoyed a social evening playing bingo.

The District Deputy President, Mrs. Embury, thanked the members for their gift and commended them on their work. She also moved a vote of thanks for the happy evening spent together and for the bountiful refreshments.

The new district deputy for Dist. No. 4, to be installed in July is Mrs. Stella Wood, P.N.G., of Tweed Rebekah Lodge.

80TH MILESTONE

Miss Phronsie Danford, a long resident of Madoc Village, celebrated her 80th birthday quietly at her home on Tuesday. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Danford, who owned and operated the woollen mills at Madoc for many years, and where Miss Danford also worked. Her sister, Miss Tillie Danford, a missionary in China for 30 years, passed away one year ago. The citizens and old friends of Madoc and district join in wishing Miss Danford health and happiness in the sunset of her life.

PASSED AWAY

The death occurred in Ottawa General Hospital, April 9, of Mollie McBeth, widow of James Elwood Cleak, formerly of Windsor and mother of Mrs. Gordon (Jean) McIvor, in her 68th year. Funeral service took place at Ottawa on Monday at 4 p.m. Entombment in Mount Pleasant Mausoleum. Mrs. Cleak was well-known in Madoc by the older residents, being a niece of the late John McCammie and Mrs. Watson and visited here often.

Death took place in Victoria Hospital, London, Ontario, of Harry Dulmage in his 75th year. He was the husband of the late Lou Wellington, a former Madoc lady. Funeral service was held in the London funeral home on Wednesday, April 13th and the remains were brought to Madoc for burial in Lakeview cemetery on Thursday afternoon. He is survived by two daughters; Mrs. Norman (Barbara) Boyd of Windsor, and Mrs. Elmore (Dorothy) Searle of London, Ont.

ST. JOHN'S W.A.

Continuing their social studies the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of England held its second study night in the parish hall. Mrs. Glovette, the president, was assisted by Miss Waring in the worship period. Mrs. J. Daniels reviewed the second chapter of the study Book "Christ In India," in the Diocese of Amritsar, in India.

The theme of the evening was "Easter," and a recording of the Lord's Prayer as sung by John Charles Thomas was used.

Mrs. Hugh Empey read a short Easter poem written by the late Gertrude MacGregor Moffat, a former resident of Madoc. Mrs. Will Hart gave a paper on the "Passion Play" as she saw it presented in Spearfish, South Dakota.

Mrs. George White was introduced by Mrs. Hart and gave a talk and showed fine slides on her recent trip abroad.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. White.

A recording of "Largo" by Handel concluded the program and Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Doober served refreshments.

GRAIN HANDLERS' STRIKE IS SETTLED

Loading spouts at pool elevator 4A at Port Arthur are here shown being lifted but they will soon be lowered to the holds of lake vessels, as the strike of 1,200 grain-handlers at the Lakehead has been settled. One of the grain-carrying ships is shown tied up alongside the elevator. She will soon be loaded and on her way. (CP Photo).

PRESIDENT OF INDONESIA IS HOST TO 29-NATION CONFERENCE

With two members of committee, President Soekarno of Indonesia goes over last-minute details of the Asia-African conference, which opened in Bandung on April 18th. Soekarno said that in a world atomic revolution mankind must regain the morality it is losing. Explaining reasons for the 29-nation conference, he said the world was divided into many opposing tents that were in conflict with each other and that some way had to be found for them to live together. Believe China May Release 11 American Fliers

By WILLIAM HARCOURT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Negotiations on two of the United Nations' current problems—Formosa and the American fliers imprisoned in Red China—appear to have received from the moment at the Afro-Asian conference in Indonesia.

Before the conference started Monday at Bandung, informed sources here predicted that the conference could see Red China announce the release of the 11 American fliers and tacitly agreeing to hold off further aggravation of the Formosa crisis.

These sources expected Red China's Premier Chou En-lai might yield to the urgings of India and release the fliers as a gesture to ease East-West tension.

They also expected Chou might privately agree to hold back any attacks on the Chinese off-shore islands, of Quemoy and Matsu to give more time for current diplomatic moves aimed at cooling the Formosa crisis.

Reports from Bandung now say India's Prime Minister Nehru has asked Chou to release the fliers and that Chou is considering the request.

Further evidence that the Bandung conference is dealing behind the scenes with the Asian touchy problems came indirectly Tuesday.

Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold held a press conference that while no "new approaches were under way toward getting the fliers released, it would be correct to say that new moves were in progress.

Hammarskjold also said he presented to the United Nations in June the Formosa problem to diplomatic talks rather than have the UN deal directly with the matter.

In another UN development Hammarskjold revealed Russia united in the Security Council to postpone action on Israel's demand that Egypt be condemned for recent border clashes between the two neighbors.

Council President Adlai A. Stevenson of Russia and others by the group seems called for at present, after the council discussed reports from UN officials in Palestine, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada.

Acton Mayor Padlocks Door Of Town Hall to Keep Out Union Denounced as Red-Led

ACTON, Ont. (CP)—The mayor of Acton has padlocked the front door of the town hall to keep out a trade union he denounces as being Communist-led.

The door was locked against the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.). The union is seeking to become bargaining agent for the town's newest industry, the S. G. Smallwood electrical parts firm which employs 80 persons.

The union tried to keep out the mayor, Tyler said, "by calling a meeting. After an unwitting "yes," town council revoked its permission Monday.

Mayor Jed Tyler said: "Every time I get a chance to stamp on these damn leeches I am going to take it, as a private citizen or as mayor."

Five of the eight council members were informed of the move before it was made. The others, deputy reeve A. Footit, and councillors R. Langford and A. J. Irwin, demanded to know why council had become involved in a "labor-management problem."

"Because the group is a Communist-dominated one," said the mayor. "I will do everything I can to keep a Communist group out and I have proof that this union is a Communist-dominated one."

An unidentified woman attempted to rent the hall for the union, council was told. When it was discovered she represented the union, telephone calls to five council members brought a rejection of the idea.

"Are we setting out to do something the federal and provincial government will not do—outlaw communism?" asked Mr. Footit.

"I am not in sympathy with this union but I do want to know why they were refused the hall."

Mayor Tyler said the council went to great trouble and work to bring industry to Acton, a town of 3,000 persons.

"Now it is here, is it suggested we aid a Communist-dominated union which could get it out again," he said. "And if some of our governments have not the intestinal fortitude to denounce communism, that is no reason why we must follow suit."

He said the refusal was supported by the heads of several other local unions.

"Mr. Footit asked if a padlock was actually placed on the door.

"Yes," said the mayor. "This is how good they were going to use our hall anyway and we were just making sure they did not."

England Allotted Five Extra MPs Making House of 630

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The United Kingdom has pushed the boundaries of more than half its parliamentary constituencies in time for the May 26 general election.

England has been allotted five seats, the finishing touch to a Commons total of 630.

Revision, delayed by passing 52 draft orders-in-council covering 315 ridings, wasn't a peaceful operation.

"Jiggery pokery" was the term used by bitterly protesting Labor members, arguing the changes further tipped the electoral scales against their party. Labor polled more votes than the Conservatives in 1951, yet elected fewer MPs.

And the revisions produced some unusual alliances. Conservative Ralph Assheton and left-wing Socialist Mrs. Barbara Castle decidedly saw eye to eye in protesting when their constituencies were lumped together in Blackburn, a new riding.

Then there was a serious constitutional question when two taxpayers obtained a court injunction restraining the home secretary, Gwilym Lloyd George, from passing some approved boundary changes on to the Queen to become law.

A higher court set the injunction aside, and the Conservative government rammed through the remainder of the draft orders-in-council.

The new U. K. constituency standings, as evolved by four separate and independent commissions in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland:

England—511 ridings, up five from last changes, including 11 new county constituencies and six abolished; Scotland—37 of 71 ridings including Glasgow's redrawn boundaries outmoded by housing developments; Wales—six of 36 revised; Northern Ireland—none of 12 revised.

Local authorities, political and otherwise, had a chance to present their views before the commissions made recommendations to the government. Changes were then introduced in parliament, being carried out by a Labor government in 1948—first revision in 21 years. House of Commons membership then was reduced by 15 to 625.

Since then two ridings—Romford and Hendon—had swollen to more than 100,000 electors each, and one had fewer than 35,000. The England-Wales electoral quota of a constituency now averages 57,122—which is still above the minimum laid down in the 1949 Boundaries Act. But while England swamps Wales and Scotland in total MPs, her electors actually have a smaller share of per capita representation in the House.

Main problem facing the commissions has been combining geographical divisions and population density. County ridings are based on size and less on population to some cases, contributing to the fact that Conservatives have to get fewer votes than Labor to win an election. Urban areas, where Labor tends to hold sway in industrial areas, contain more electors in a smaller area.

The 1919 act governing redistribution is not regarded by many as a good one, if only because of the constitutional scare thrown by the court case. In advocating boundary investigations every three to seven years, it asks for too much, critics say. Better would be investigation every 10 to 15 years.

Col. G. Sanders, Veteran of Three Wars, Dies

CALGARY (CP) — Col. Gilbert Sanders, 91, CMG, DSO, veteran of three wars, pioneer policeman and early Calgary magistrate, died here Tuesday.

Col. Sanders rode across the Prairies before Alberta was a province and knew British Columbia before it was part of Canada.

He was born at Fort Yale, B.C., 100 miles from Vancouver when British Columbia was a dependency administered by England. He was educated in England and returned to Canada in 1880 to attend Royal Military College. When he graduated he obtained a commission as an inspector in the Royal North West Mounted Police.

Shortly after his return to the West the Riel rebellion erupted. In the war that followed Sanders saw service around Carleton and Prince Albert;

SUBDUED SIOUX

In 1890 inspector Sanders was attached to U.S. forces engaged in subduing the Sioux rebellion.

Later he saw service on the African veldt with the Canadian Mounted Rifles during the Boer War. He returned to Canada in 1901 and was given command of the RNWMP in Calgary.

During the First World War he raised a company of the 1st Canadian Pioneers and overseas was named commanding officer of the 2nd Canadian Pioneer Battalion. He was twice mentioned in dispatches signed by Winston Churchill.

On discharge in 1919 he was made a commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George and returned to his duties as magistrate in Calgary.

TO ATOMIC TESTS

CAMP IRWIN, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. Army's big armored tanks for the first time will furnish protection for troops at an atomic test. Fifty-five Patton 48 tanks today head a task force nine miles long starting a 175-mile trek to the Nevada proving grounds where they'll participate in tests April 26.

U.S. Commission To Rule on Sale Of Gas to Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — A proposal to increase sharply exports of Canadian natural gas to the rich industrial areas of southwestern Ontario comes before the federal power commission here today.

Officials of Union Gas Company of Canada Limited will appear before the commission for cross-examination in a resumed hearing on plans by an American pipeline company to build facilities to the Union Gas by 12,500,000 cubic feet a year as a stop-gap until the transcontinental pipeline starts operating into eastern Canada.

The Canadian Montcalm Eastern Pipe Line Company, already provides Union Gas with 2,500,000,000 cubic feet of gas annually under an export permit granted by the commission in 1952. The new application would raise exports to 21,000,000,000 cubic feet a year.

If the application is approved Union Gas proposes to build a 322-mile pipeline with underground storage area in Dawn township, in Lambton county, to the Niagara frontier. It also plans to link to Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph, Brantford and other distributing systems.

When the application first was filed in January, American customers of Panhandle expressed fear the U. S. company would neglect them to supply the Canadian firm. Counsel for Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, for example, said an unsatisfied demand existed in the U. S. and his firm was ready to buy all the gas covered in the application.

Canadian officials testified that the Panhandle contract, based on a 20-year period, is the only contract when Alberta natural gas becomes available for export.

Under the 1946 export permit, deliveries to Ontario are limited to 300,000,000 cubic feet April 1 to October each year. Deliveries under the new application would be made on the basis of two-thirds in the summer and one-third in the winter.

In 1951 the commission dismissed a similar application from Panhandle, ruling that because of increasing demands for natural gas in the U. S. it was "not in the public interest" to allow the export of gas to Canada "on a firm basis at this time." The 1951 application was for the export of 18,000,000,000 cubic feet a year.

Suspect Arson In Barn Fire

CORUNNA, Ont. (CP)—Inspectors of the Ontario fire marshal's office investigated the possibility of arson today in a $20,000 fire which destroyed a barn owned by Frank DeGurse near this Sarnia district village.

Mr. DeGurse said he began to suspect arson when he discovered footprints beside the barn doors after a severe electrical storm Monday night.

Less than a year ago, fire swept through another barn on Mr. DeGurse's farm and destroyed 26 head of cattle with a loss of $20,000.

"I don't know what I'll do now," he said. "A man can't carry on when they burn a man's barn down every year."

Make Further Studies

OTTAWA (CP) — Engineers are to make further studies of effects of St. Lawrence seaway on Montreal's traffic problem, it was agreed Tuesday at a meeting of federal, Quebec and Montreal municipal authorities.

A federal official said Tuesday night this was the upshot of a conference called at the request of Montreal civic officials, who are anxious lest the seaway worsen traffic conditions between mainland and the south shore of the St. Lawrence.

A major port of navigation works on the seaway will be in that area.

AUSTERITY AHEAD

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe has warned American servicemen in Germany that their living conditions will become "more austere" after West German sovereignty. The United States army's European commander said Tuesday night in a recorded broadcast over the American forces network that there will be many cuts in services for army families when Allied forces switch from occupation status to being "guests of the German federal republic."

Mindy and Monty, grizzly bear cubs born in captivity at the Assiniboine Park zoo in Winnipeg, make one of their first appearances with mother Maude. Papa Minto was banished to another den so the cubs wouldn't become the victims of domestic strife. Last year the cub born to the grizzly pair was crushed when the parents quarrelled. (CP Photo).

Pickersgill Taken Over Coals By Hon. Earl Rowe

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, deputy Opposition leader, Tuesday night heaped coals of irony on the head of Immigration Minister Pickersgill.

Speaking in the Commons budget debate, he referred to a speech by Mr. Pickersgill in Victoria in which he said:

"I don't believe that any immigrant—no matter where he comes from or how good he is—is as good as another Canadian baby because the immigrant has to learn to be a Canadian and the baby is Canadian to start with."

Mr. Rowe said Trade Minister Howe apparently would have been a better minister if he had been born in Canada. (Mr. Howe was born at Waltham, Mass.)

What a great man Sir John A. Macdonald might have been if only he had been born in Canada, Mr. Rowe said.

THREE OTHERS

What a pity that Fisheries Minister Sinclair, CCF Leader Coldwell and Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) had not been born in Canada. (Mr. Sinclair was born in Scotland, Mr. Coldwell in England ad Mr. McIvor in Ireland.)

Mr. Rowe said he wondered why Mr. Pickersgill was not friendly with him. At first, he thought it was because he was a Conservative. Then he realized it was because he (Mr. Rowe) had been born in Iowa.

He added that because Newfoundland joined Canada only six years ago, Mr. Pickersgill's electors were not born in Canada. Mr. Pickers gill represents the Newfoundland riding of Bonavista-Twillingate.

"He (Mr. Pickersgill) may have been a beautiful baby, but baby, look at him now," Mr. Rowe said. Mr. Pickersgill was not in the chamber while Mr. Rowe spoke.

SENTENCE WELLAND MAN

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Robert C. Lee of Welland was Tuesday sentenced to 18 months in jail for car theft.

Bed-Rock Principles for Merger Of Canada's Two Largest Labor Bodies Agreed On by Officials

OTTAWA (CP)—Key union officers have agreed on bed-rock principles for a 1,000,000-member merger of Canada's two major labor congresses.

Officials of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the Canadian Congress of Labor said Tuesday the amalgamation now is virtually certain for early 1956, subject only to expected ratification by their individual conventions.

It will unify the oldest and largest central labor body—the TLC with 600,000 - members—and the younger CCL with about 400,000 into the biggest congress in Canada's history.

HAVE EYES ON CCCL

Only about 200,000 organized workers — mainly the 100,000 of Quebec's Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor—would be outside it. And the CNTU - TLC "unity" negotiators have their eye on the French body, though there has been no announcement of any firm approach.

Announcement that agreement on basic principles had been reached came at the end of a two-day meeting of a committee jointly established by the TLC and CCL last year with a view to eventual amalgamation of the two big central bodies.

"All the basic principles of the merger have been agreed upon," said secretary-treasurers Gordon Cushing of the TLC and Donald MacDonald of the CCL in a joint interview.

They said a constitution for the joined congress still has to be drawn up but in the meantime the committee is in agreement on proposals to be submitted to the TLC congress at Windsor in May-June and the CCL convention at Toronto in October.

The constitution would be drawn up after the conventions of the individual organizations, to be presented to the first constitutional convention of the greater congress next year.

NAME OFFICERS SETTLED

Meanwhile, the officers said, they have cleared away obstacles such as a name for the new congress, how its top jobs would be split among high officials of the TLC and CCL, finances, organizational structure and staffs of the two congresses.

Labor observers considered the name of the new congress would be presidents Claude Jodoin of the TLC and A. R. Mosher of the CCL, secretary-treasurers Cushing and MacDonald.

Informed speculation among labor men was that Mr. Jodoin, 41, would emerge as president.

Mr. Mosher, according to the same speculation, might be named advisory or emeritus president. He founded the CCL in 1941. A vigorous 72, he is from Halifax.

The new organization is expected to divide jobs perhaps designated as secretary-general and executive vice-president between Mr. Cushing, now of Ottawa, and Mr. MacDonald, formerly of Sydney, N.S. Both are in their early 40s.

SEES CANCER LODGES IN SLEEPING VIRUS

Dr. Ludwick Gross of the Veterans' Administration hospital, Bronx, N.Y., reported that he has discovered "sleeping" viruses in normal cells that can wake up and cause cancer. He has examined his findings before the annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research in San Francisco. He said that "sleeping" viruses would be absolutely harmless until some outside "trigger" came along to make them vicious.

Presbyterians Poor Spenders Is Claim Made

QUEBEC (CP) — Presbyterians are poor spenders, Rev. Dr. A. Neil Miller of Toronto said Tuesday.

Dr. Miller, secretary of stewardship and budget for the Presbyterian Church in Canada, said Presbyterians have the lowest "giving" record of any church-members in Canada. The Presbyterian Church in Canada collects less per member than any Presbyterian church in North America.

He said the church's revenues had doubled during a seven-year period but expenses increased faster.

Addressing the meeting of St. Andrew's church members here, Dr. Miller said the church's revenues also doubled during a seven-year period but expenses increased faster.

SET UP SALK FUND

NEW YORK (AP) — Establishment of a Jonas Salk fund with money sent to the discoverer of the polio vaccine by admirers was announced Tuesday. The fund was reported to plan to use it in the field of preventive medicine. The announcement said the fund will be administered by a committee headed by Jonas Salk's father, Daniel Salk.

Member Says Anyone Calling Him a Trotskyite Is a Liar

OTTAWA (CP)—One of Canada's most vigorous exponents of CCF socialist philosophy was accused during him of being a Trotskyite Communist is an "unmitigated liar."

Colin Cameron, member for Nanaimo, B.C., made the accusation with the Trotskyite movement in a Commons statement referring directly to Hazen Argue, Assiniboia Liberal.

The statement was couched in the strongest language heard in the Commons in years. Mr. Harris listened but made no reply.

The finance minister was reported in the Toronto Star, as telling a Liberal meeting in Toronto Saturday that there are Trotskyites-followers of an unorthodox type of communism—among CCF members of the Commons.

Challenged Monday by CCF Leader Coldwell to name the members, Mr. Harris denied the accuracy of the news report. However, he declared, he did not have time to listen by Mr. Cameron appealing on behalf of Paddy Stanbury, Toronto, one of 14 persons ejected from the Ontario CCF party on grounds they were Trotskyites.

Mr. Harris said Mr. Cameron's description of Stanbury—"An agitator, a rabble-rouser and an embarrassment to all responsible people" but with a clear Communist message—was a "rather fair description" of Mr. Cameron himself.

Speaking on a question of personal privilege, Mr. Cameron said: Mr. Harris' "false and malicious" statements outside this chamber and references within this chamber, should ever impute to me the charge of being a Trotskyite or a Trotskyite sympathizer he would not only be an unmitigated liar but he would be an unprincipled scoundrel and a contemptible coward."

DID NOT ASK RESIGNATION

Mr. Cameron did not carry out his intention stated Monday night on his arrival by plane from Vancouver to ask Mr. Harris to resign if he could not "substantiate the serious charge he has made against me."

He said he accepts Mr Harris' denial of the accuracy of the Toronto news report. However, he said Mr. Harris had an opportunity to correct the report before it was published.

The newspaper reporter who wrote the story, he said, spoke to Mr. Harris after the Monday meeting and asked for elaboration of the minister's statement. Mr. Harris had permitted the false report to "wend its slanderous trail back and forth across this country" for nearly 48 hours.

Mr. Cameron said he himself has made speeches for 20 years without being misquoted. "It (misquotation) appears to be a scrupulous disease of Liberal cabinet ministers."

Road Department Prepares Manual For Motorists

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Highways Minister Allan has announced his department is preparing a manual for motorists which will include safe driving rules based on the province's highway traffic act.

Mr. Allan told a meeting of the St. Thomas Motor Club that the manual will cover knowledge required for written or oral examinations for operators' permits and will attempt to make it impossible for anyone to plead ignorance of safe driving legislation in event of an accident.

Mr. Allan said recommendations of the Ontario legislature committee on highway safety which suggested re-examination of all drivers' permits within 10 years are being studied.

"We have found that withdrawal of the privilege of driving is the most severe punishment which can be meted out to offenders.

CONTINUOUS EFFORT

"The department is relying on that fact in a continuous effort to remove drivers from our highways who disregard the plain rules of common sense in the operation of motor vehicles."

He said 21,038 drivers had their licences suspended last year in the province.

Fatalities last year were down 3.4 per cent from 1953 while gasoline consumption increased 6.7 per cent, he said.

"On the basis of gasoline consumed, the death rate from motor vehicle accidents during 1954 was lower than during any previous year since the compilation of accident statistics was started in 1930," he said.

The minister added that, contrary to a widespread belief, youthful drivers are not the persons causing the most accidents. The majority of drivers in accidents last year were between 25 and 54, he said.

Rossmore

ROSSMORE — The ladies of the afternoon Euchre Club entertained their husbands at a banquet and social evening recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross opened their home and graciously received some 25 guests. The ladies had prepared a chicken supper which was served at 6 o'clock.

Before partaking of the delicious repast, Mr. K. Anderson proposed a toast to Mr. and Mrs. Ross on their 31st wedding anniversary. Mr. Ross replied suitably on behalf of his wife and himself, and all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

After the dinner was heartily enjoyed by all, a social evening of euchre ensued. Prizes were awarded according to score, which brought a pleasant evening to a close.

The members of the Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Charles Reddick Tuesday afternoon. A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed. Tribute was paid the hostess on the event of her birthday, and all joined in wishing her many more in the future. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

IT MAY BE YOUR LIVER

If life's not worth living

It may be your liver

It's a hard 24 hours up to bye time of bees take a day to keep your digestive tract in top condition. Your liver is the largest gland in your body and one of the most important. It's your liver that pours out bile juices — you know up bile — to help digest the fats in the food you eat. If bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest properly. It just decomposes in the bowels and you become constipated. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get sick headaches, dizzy spells, nausea, bad breath, constipation and feel "all down". Your whole system is poisoned and you feel as if the world were against you. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food helps you to feel fine by helping your liver do its work. Also it is a nerve tonic. Nerve Weakness

How common is it among men and women over a certain age?

Nerve Weakness—Nervous Exhaustion. There are many words for it, including the Greek word Neurasthenia, meaning nerve weakness. Nevertheless it often used to describe a condition that can affect many people over forty—when you may complain of being easily tired, with no energy or inclination for your daily tasks.

Yet your symptoms are vague, hard to trace to any definite physical cause.

LIFE AFTER FORTY

It is often after forty that the wear and tear of modern living may take a lot out of you—day after day, the same old things to do, the eternal rush with the clock.

Although you consider yourself physically fit, from time to time you may run into a spell of feeling "not up to par" — restless in work or other people-trouble, moody, poor appetite. Such a spell may last for weeks — or for months. At such times many people wisely turn to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for dependable help.

How long should you take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?

It's important to remember this: it may have taken many months for you truly to become gradually "run down", finally nervous and distressed, signals that many people call "nerves".

Although Dr. Chase's Nerve Food helps to build up nerve energy quickly, for best results you should continue for at least six weeks. The great body-building effects of this tonic food can get under way then. Why not get started today?

SCOUT JAMBOREE

This will be a familiar scene at Niagara-On-the-Lake, Ont., in August when some 10,000 scouts and leaders from every continent are expected to attend the eighth world scout Jamboree. The Jamboree will last 10 days. This photo, taken at the international Jamboree in Austria in 1951, shows Ron Spalding (right) of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Roy Strickland (left) of Lindsay, Ont., trading souvenirs with scouts from India. (CP Photo).

10,000 Scouts and Leaders Expected at World Jamboree

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—The biggest gathering of boy scouts ever held in Canada will be held in this historic town in August.

Some 10,000 scouts and leaders from every continent are expected to attend the eighth world jamboree—the first ever to be held outside of Europe. Already it is being called "the jamboree of new horizons."

Together they will camp under canvas for 10 days, cook their own meals over charcoal fires and weave the bonds of a world brotherhood that has jumped the barriers of nationality, language and distance.

A BROCK CAMPSITE

Their camp ground will be a square mile of rolling park land which was a military camp in the war of 1812 for General Brock's troops. It is close beside the quiet town whose 3,189 inhabitants live along tree-lined streets in one of Ontario's first settlements.

On Aug. 13 the population will multiply six-fold when the scouts move in for the jamboree that will last until Aug. 22.

The meeting, says the Canadian Boy Scouts Association, will portray the scouting method of teaching the democratic way of life."

Some 1,500 Canadian scouts will be here, spread among the 19 subcamps to get the most from the mingling of ideas and activities. Another 1,500 will come from the United States.

Groups from various countries will put on demonstrations. There will be special scouting activities on the sub-camp level and major get-togethers in nightly shows in a $20 000 arena to be built to hold 16,000 visitors near the old moats and stockades of Fort George.

Because the Niagara river which flows past the camp is too dangerous for group swimming there will be daily trips to the beaches of Lake Ontario on the other side of town. Afternoon excursions will be made daily to Niagara Falls, 20 miles upstream.

TO OPEN AUG. 30

After the campers have two days to get settled, the jamboree will be officially opened Aug. 30 by the chief scout for Canada, Governor-General Massey. It will be closed Aug. 27 by by Maj.-Gen. Dan C. Spry, a Canadian who is director of the boy scouts international bureau in London, England. The scouts will have another day after that to break camp.

Except for a $50,000 Canadian government grant, the jamboree is expected to pay its own way through a fee of $30 from every-one attending. The fee will cover such things as food for 31 meals and charcoal to cook it, excursions to Niagara Falls and other points, accident and sickness insurance and certain basic camp equipment.

Scouts will have to pay their own way and facing their own tests. For arrangement to help those from distant provinces will mean that no Canadian will have to pay more than $45 for the round trip.

Invitations have been sent to 58 countries outside of Canada and to some 47 other countries and colonies of the British Commonwealth and Empire which are represented by Great Britain in the world scouting organization.

Large and small contingents are expected from Armenia, Brazil, Ceylon, Germany, the Gold Coast, Israel and South Africa.

A British contingent of 1,000 will come by airlift in 14 chartered airliners over a 28-day period.

TWO QUEENS

Some groups will do extra travelling, such as the French contingent of between 800 and 1,000. Arriving by boat in Quebec City, Aug. 8, the French scouts will be guests in homes of scouts at Quebec for three days and at Montreal for four days. They plan a three-day pre-jamboree camp of their own, possibly at Cobarra, Ont.

Australian scouts will be away from home five months and plan to be guests of scouts in Vancouver, Calgary, Winnipeg and Hamilton before the jamboree and in Ottawa and Montreal afterwards. They will return home via Great Britain, staying there about a month.

Problems of caring for such a huge gathering of teen-age boys of many nationalities are being worked out by a Canadian committee.

It involves such things as sign language, instead of printing, for camp directional markers, rearising water and showers for each of the 19 sub-camps.

A chaplain service will be established to provide spiritual leaders for every denomination represented.

TO HEAD GROUP

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. P. E. Moore of Ottawa, director of Indian health services, will head the Canadian delegation to the World Health Organization assembly opening in Mexico City May 16, the health department said Monday. The delegation will include Dr. W. G. Blair of Perth, Ont., Progressive Conservative MP for Lanark.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop's head started to bob behind his paper after dinner, and ma said, William, are you going to spend a night's rest and then complain bitterly in the morning because you cant understand what made you so restless?

Not at all, my dear, I'm meerly going to have a short rehearsal for a good night's sleep, pop said, and ma said, Now William, why dont you take a little refreshing walk to wake yourself up?

The general is good, but why dont I lift 2 beds with one yawn by doing a little useful work around the house? pop said, and ma said, Well yes, why dont you? You bought a new shower head for the bathroom about a week ago, and it's still lefty languishing. Why dont you bestir yourself right now and put it on? she said.

Well, yes, pop said. Still, that would hardly take long enough to do the trick, he said, and ma said, Then start polishing the cromeium on the car, I got the jar of cleener for you some time ago, at your request. If you just get the front bumper done, you'll be wide awake, she said.

That's true, but a gleaming front bumper will only make the rest of the car look still worse by comparison, pop said, and ma said, Then put a stronger bulb in the kitchin ceeling for me. You'll find the ladder in the basement, she said.

That's a thought, pop said. That gives me 3 choices. Yee gods, the thought of all that work has rocked me out completely, he said.

And he put his paper down and leened his head back and went right to sleep.

Being the end of the skuject.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 30 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied your money will be refunded promptly.

FANTASTIC YARNS

Many fantastic stories have come "out of the woods" to us speak, and the majority add color with the telling.

Many of the field workers of the Lands and Forests Department, stationed in out-of-the-way places are men who worked in the old lumber camps of yesteryear, who followed the "anchors," when the only means of moving heavy loads was by oxen and pedomel. They have lively imaginations and spin yarns from a logs monster in the northern lakes to the "he-men" who carried prodigious loads on their backs.

Conservation officers and forest rangers can carry heavy loads, not forgetting canoes—and carry it with a heavy packsack full of groceries, fire equipment or other supplies. There is a story of one who packed in a piano but it has yet to be confirmed.

Veteran Algonquin Park ranger Gerry Kennedy, whom we met on and a few occasions during various canoeing trips back through the lakes is a story that is the delight of them all. He claims he knew a man who could match the prowess of storied Paul Bunyan who started his career on the Ottawa River when it was a logging stream.

Gerry liked to tell the story in the comfort of a log cabin with "overdrafted" audiences. Other rangers would start the story parade which lasted until bedtime—then sat back for Gerry's nightcap yarn.

"This fellow," Kennedy would relate, "carried four 100-pound sacks of flour on his back. He almost his ten-year-old son his shoulders. He pulled a loaded toboggan weighing 1,200 pounds with a tumpline. He carried two 100-pound pails of lard in his hands, and kicked a full barrel of gasoline uphill through deep snow.

Then Kennedy, with not a smile twitching his features, would get up and stalk upstairs to bed.

A friend of ours in the city related a yarn the other day, which she claims is true and happened down in New Brunswick.

Travellers proceeding along one of the herring-choker highways guessed when they came to a large crowd which was attracting attention by the roadside. They joined the throng when they saw the head of a majestic moose peering out from some dense underbrush. Sometimes the head would move from side to side as if inspecting the audience. Occasionally it would shew complacently on bits of grass which appeared in its mouth.

Cameras clicked. Movie cameras whirred. The moose was not the least perturbed about its audience, nor did it attempt to move with the exception of the lateral motions of its antlered head.

Then a youngster appeared from a bush with a shotgun. The crowd, however, stopped him from shooting the animal, so he retreated into the bush.

The roadside play went on for some time while unsuspecting motorists the most of them tourists from the United States, took their pictures, wrote notes, etc.

The truth of the matter is that some local youngsters had an uncle who owned a log cabin in the district. In a corner stood a moosehead that had been there for years and outlived its usefulness. He decided to consign it along in the garbage heap—but the youngsters had other ideas.

They rigged up a contraption in the roadside brush and carefully concealed everything but the moose head. They inserted a long stick in an opening at the back of the head, so it could be moved from side to side. Occasionally they would push bunches of grass through the mouth which had been readied for the occasion.

They had a whale of a time for a few hours. And a lot of tourists went back to their homes in Canada and the United States marvelling they had been hoodwinked by a couple of young pranksters.

TRIBUTE TO A GOOD GUY!

It is not often that this department pays tribute to a retired CNE engineer. But this time it is different. Jack Hall, 31 Hamilton Road, who retired the other day, was as familiar a figure at the baseball park as he was with his railroad buddies at the CNE. Jack loved—and still loves—baseball, and other sports. During his career as a railroad engineer, Jack took time out to support in more ways than one, Belleville baseball and other teams. But his first love was baseball. Come rain or shine Jack was there—and when son Ted was with him they made one of the best "rootin'" duos that ever supported a city team.

Now Jack is retired. He says he is going to take "it easy." He says he is going to sit back and enjoy life. But, unfortunately, he may be deprived of his favorite diamond game, in the city, at least. For baseball is a questionable product. In any event, baseball or not, other sports that are open to the public are assured of a loyal Belleville supporter.

Congratulations, Jack. Nora, Ted, Olive, and those three "Hallmarks", long may your lum reek.

Roll Merrily On With 7-6 Win Over Philadelphia Phils; Indians Edged by Kansas City

By The Associated Press

The western division clubs better shake a leg and get going on their first swing through the East before the Brooklyn Dodgers get any fatter on the likes of Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh in the National League race.

This was supposed to be a neck-and-neck pennant race in the NL, but the Brooks have been gobbling up everything in sight—namely the Phils, Giants and Pirates. Those three have provided the Dodgers with eight straight victories as Brooklyn opens an 1½-game home stand tonight, just one short of tying the modern major league record for consecutive triumphs at the start of the season.

Philadelphia tumbled as victim No. 8 Tuesday night, although giving the Brooks a hard time before bowing 7-6.

OUT IN FRONT

That moved the Dodgers 2½ games ahead of Milwaukee, which beat Chicago 3-2 in an afternoon game, and 5½ ahead of the sixth-place Cubs, the other contender in pennant chasers, who were made idle by cold and rain against Pittsburgh. The other NL game went to St. Louis 4-3 in 11 innings over Cincinnati under the lights.

Kansas City took off for its runs in the ninth to beat Cleveland 8-7 in the only American League game. Main guy in the Athletics' comeback doubleheader at Boston, the only other action scheduled.

A fast start, and new to the Dodgers. They won nine straight in 1949 to shake loose from the Cards in 1918 Giants and 1944 St. Louis Browns. In 1942 Cincinnati went 11 to win the pennant in the world series. Brooklyn wound up 13 games back in second.

Ed Roebuck came on to quiet the Phils Tuesday night. The young righthander, up from Montreal, stepped in after Willie Jones had tied Brooklyn's lead in 7-6 with a two-run homer off reliefer Jim Hughes in the eighth.

BOOZED IT

Roebuck, who no-hit the Phils for 5⅔ relief frames to save No. 7 the night before, got Peanuts Lowrey to hit into what could have been an inning-ending double play, but booted it himself, then he got Jim Bobby Morgan to hit a grounder and last shortstop Don Zimmer fumble it for the forth killing.

That saved Don Newcombe's second victory. Carl Furillo and Roy Campanella hit homers in the sixth.

Milwaukee held on to second place when Bob Rush walked four men in the eighth, forcing in the winning run.

St. Louis blew a 5-0 lead and was extended into extra innings by Gus Bell's solo homer in the ninth, but capitalized on Cincinnati errors to save the game. Two errors, a bunt and Bill Sarni's pinch single won it for Cincinnati in the 11th. Ted Kazanski hit a three-run homer for Cincinnati.

Cleveland had its usual power, but rookie Herb Score went wild in the ninth and Mike Garcia was clobbered in relief. Vic Power tripled, Elmer Valo hit a pinch double and Bill Wilson, who started the A's big inning with a walk, capped it with a base-loaded single that scored the winning run.

Woodbridge Wins Over Woodstock; Hull Gets Two

WOODBRIDGE (CP) — Woodbridge Dodgers defeated Woodstock Warriors 10-3 Tuesday night in the fourth game of their Ontario Hockey Association junior B finals. Woodbridge leads the best-of-seven series 2-1 with one game tied.

The finals will be played at Woodstock Thursday and the next at Woodbridge Saturday. If necessary the seventh will be at Woodstock the following Tuesday.

Gary Etaugh led the Dodgers to victory with four goals in a close-fought game. Harvey Wallace scored two while Bob Curry, Dave Gray, Jim Demerse and Bob Belyea shared the singles.

Hull scored twice for Woodstock, including a picture-book goal with a minute of play left when he took a pass and walked through a relaxed Woodbridge defence. Rogers scored Warriors' other goal.

For Etaugh, who played with champion Waterloo Siskins last year, it was the best night of the season. He scored the game's first goal after 26 seconds, added another at 16:21 then scored the first goals in each of the second and third periods.

Royals Open International With Victory

By The Associated Press

The Montreal Royals, runners-up to Toronto's pennant winners last year, and the Havana Cuban Sugar Kings, the International League's southernmost team, opened the 1955 season on the right foot Tuesday night.

Ken Lehman, an 18-game winner last season, hurled the Royals to a 2-1 victory over Richmond Virginians. The Sugar Kings scored four runs in the last two innings to beat Buffalo Bisons 4-2.

The other four clubs open their seasons today.

Lehman checked the Virginians on five hits as Clyde Parris' sixth inning triple with two mates on provided the winning margin.

A newcomer to the Havana fold, Andrades Baro, led the Kings to an uphill victory with a three-run homer in the seventh inning.

Cardinals Ask Waivers On Vic Raschi

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday gave up on veteran pitcher Vic Raschi, a star with New York Yankees for many years, and announced they are asking for waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

The big righthander, who cost the Cardinals an estimated $85,000 in February 1954, developed arm trouble during spring training this year and failed to last two innings Monday night in his first assignment of the season.

Eddie Stanky, manager of the Cardinals, said "we believe we are compelled to stake the Cardinal chances for success in 1955 on younger pitchers who have shown fine promise."

The six-foot - one, 210-pound Raschi won 120 games against only 50 losses in his career with the Yankees from 1947 through 1953.

The 36-year-old pitcher won his first five games with the Cardinals but wound up the 1954 season with a disappointing 8-9 won-lost record.

Fans' Refunds Can Go To Player Fund

MONTREAL (CP)—Hockey fans who wish to forego their refund as a result of the riots March 17 at Montreal Forum can contribute toward the money can also go to some established charity, if the fans desire.

Meger, a forward with Canadiens of the National Hockey League, has been in hospital since November when he suffered a skull fracture during a game in Boston.

The riots of March 17 ended the game, on Sunday, between Detroit Red Wings and Canadiens after the first period, with Detroit leading 4-1.

Selke said many fans had told him they didn't want refunds. They were sorry about the loss and about the riots and thought the money could be put to better use in Meger's behalf.

Selke said that following the coming Duke of Edinburgh series—between the Western Hockey League and Quebec Hockey League winners—he will have forms prepared so subscribers can waive refunds in behalf of Meger or a specified established charity. It is expected that the fund will anywhere up to $25,000.

It is not known yet if Meger, who is 26, will ever play hockey again. In any event during his convalescence here is a job for Meger on the Forum staff, said Selke. Meger is an electrician.

It is estimated that "Riot Night" cost the Forum around $75,000. This includes the money that will go to Meger or be refunded to the fans and has through banning of standing room.

Dutchmen Defeat Fort William Beavers In Allan Cup Opener

Edge Fast Lakehead Team 3-2 As Big Series Gets Under Way; Rookie Stars With Two Goals

KITCHENER (CP)—Rookie Jim Logan, who had scored only one goal for Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in their last 14 playoff games, picked an ideal time to end his slump.

The speedy, 21-year-old left-winger, who starred for Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series last year, netted both goals Tuesday night to lead the Dutchmen to a 3-2 victory over Fort William Beavers in the opener of the best-of-seven Allan Cup finals. Second and third games of the series will be played here Thursday and Saturday.

Logan, a 20-minute student, got both tallies in the first period, one while his team was playing a man short. Jack McKenzie, fast-skating right-winger who has turned down offers to play professional hockey, scored what proved to be the winning goal with the only counter of the second period.

COUNTED TWO

Defenceman Pete Goegan, also a graduate from junior ranks this season, scored Fort William's two goals. Both were deflected into the net off Kitchener rear guard Gordon Hayard for Fort William Canadiens of the Thunder Bay Junior Hockey League in 1953-54.

A crowd of 4,986 fans saw the Beavers, who eliminated Winnipeg Maroons and Vernon Canadians to advance into the Canadian senior hockey championship, outplay the home team in the third period after being outplayed by a good margin in the first two stanzas.

Fort William was tagged for five of the nine minor penalties handed out and two goals were scored while men in the penalty box.

Defenceman Joe Schertzl, a 30-year-old native of Bodgard, Russia, got a 2:30 Kitchener first goal 3¼ minutes after the start of the game. One of Kitchener's leading scoring rearguards in the playoffs this season, Schertzl dug the puck out of the corner and passed to Jackie Hamilton behind the Fort William net. Hamilton relayed the pass to Logan who had little trouble beating Paul Meric.

Centre Ken Laufman, the Ontario Hockey Association senior A scoring champion and Kitchener's top scorer in the playoffs, was off for cross-ice checking. Logan made it 2-0 at 8:52. The Kitchener speedster snatched a loose puck behind the Beavers' net, dropped in front of the goal and tapped the puck between Meric's legs.

HIT DEFENCEMAN

A dribbling shot by Goegan struck Kitchener defenceman Howie Lee's leg and bounced past Keith Woodall in the Dutchmen nets to put the Beavers on the score sheet at 17:03.

McKenzie fired the winner at 6:16 of the second period with the Beavers playing four men to five. Standing alongside the crease, McKenzie took a pass from centre Jackie Hamilton, a former professional with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, and drove a low shot into the nets.

With Fort William forcing the play in the third period Goegan closed the scoring, counting at 12:35 on another bouncing shot that was deflected into the goal by a Kitchener defender.

Marlies Slight Favorites Over Regina Pats

REGINA (CP) — Toronto Marlboros, brimming with confidence and good health, arrived in Regina Tuesday night to prepare for their Memorial Cup hockey final with the western champion Regina Pats.

Coach Turk Broda's Marlboros were surprisingly slight favorites to win the Canadian junior hockey championship for the second time in their history. Odds quoted here lifted Marlies as 11/10-to-1 favorites to take the first game and 3-to-1 on the best-of-seven series.

First game will be played Thursday and the second Saturday night. The team only had time to check their baggage in their hotel rooms before they were whisked away to the stadium for an hour-long workout.

The long train ride worried Broda and he was anxious to see "just how good the boys are."

Sundridge Edges Walkerton 4-3

WALKERTON (CP) — Sundridge Beavers upset Walkerton Capitols 4-3 Tuesday night in the fourth game of their Ontario Hockey Association intermediate B all-Ontario final. The best-of-seven series is tied at two games apiece. Ross Johnson, Harold Hill, Ivan O'Dell and Harold Kidd scored for Sundridge. Orby Kerr notched two markers for Walkerton. Gerry Hass got one.

Fifth game will be played here Thursday night.

Japanese Wins Famous Boston Marathon Race

BOSTON (AP) —Hideo Hamamura has established more than a sparkling record of 2:18:22 in winning the 59th Boston AA marathon—world's second fastest time for the classic distance.

The 26-year-old's tremendous finishing drive over the last 10 miles Tuesday signalled the emergence of Japan as perhaps the leading producer of distance runners.

Hamamura, a government clerk in the town of Yamaguchi, beat all previous clockings except the 2:17.39.4 by England's Jim Peters last June in London. Kelso Yamada, Hamamura's countryman, holds the fourth best time and the best previous mark in the BAA with a 2:18:51 two years ago. Peters also is credited with No. 3 on the books—2:18:34.8 at Turku, Finland, October, 1953.

Canada's cherubic great Emil Zatopek holds the Olympic marathon mark at 2:23:03.

The Japanese, who have entered the BAA only twice before, have won three of the races and none of the competitors from Nippon have finished out of the top five.

Hamamura, 5-6, 125 pounder, came home four yards ahead of Finland's Eino Pulkkinen whose second place time of 2:19:13 would have won almost any previous BAA marathon.

Nick Costes, of Natick, Mass., running beyond all expectations, led much of the way and came in third in a brilliant 2:20.57—almost six minutes faster than any American previously had done.

The chill, overcast day was just what the runners ordered for good times over the 26 miles, 385 yards from rural Hopkinton to Boston's Back Bay.

Dick Irvin May Coach Hawks; Authoritative Source Says Offer Made to Habs' Mentor

By W. R. WEAVERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—With coach Dick Irvin of Montreal Canadiens reels acceptance or refusal of a shift to Chicago Black Hawks.

From an authoritative hockey source Tuesday The Canadian Press learned that an approach has already been made to the veteran coach.

Furthermore, National Hockey League governors and other top brass will meet informally in New York Thursday and Friday and it is highly significant that Irvin will be present. So will Jim Norris, president of the Black Hawks.

Whether Irvin has yet made up his mind is not yet known, but he will be 45 next July 19. It is taken for granted that his course will be determined by his health as well as monetary considerations.

During the latter part of the NHL season and the playoffs Irvin was plied with questions by backhouse, director of farm clubs for Canadiens and general manager of Shawinigan Falls of the Quebec Hockey League, was in Detroit last Thursday for the final game of the Detroit-Toronto series. He was there as a stand-by in case Irvin became ill. The grey-haired coach, his face white and drawn, put his physical feelings in the background and carried on.

It is believed that Norris has offered or will offer Irvin more than the coach can expect from Canadiens. Norris is anxious to build up the Hawks into a perennial contender. He won't be worried about the money involved.

Competent informants say that Norris is well satisfied with Tommy Ivan as general manager.

Should Irvin move to Chicago he would displace Frankie Eddolls, a rookie coach in the NHL this past season. Eddolls, with a long career in the NHL as player, will be 34 July 5. It is believed Norris would like a veteran of Irvin's calibre to take over for a few seasons while Eddolls remains in the Black Hawks' organization. On Irvin's retirement Eddolls would be considered for the job again.

If Irvin should make the change he won't be a stranger to Chicago. In the late 1920s he was player and then coach with the Black Hawks. Starting the 1931-32 season he coached Toronto Maple Leafs for nine seasons, taking over in Montreal in the 1941-42 season.

Irvin has coached four Stanley Cup championship teams, three in Montreal and one in Toronto. For the last five seasons he has had his Canadiens in the cup final—a record for the playoff series by two teams.

In case Irvin is not with the Montreal club next season, it is understood the Canadiens management would consider half a dozen prospects all within the Canadiens organization. Who they are, nobody is saying.

Those more closely associated with the organization in Montreal and nearby include Roger Leger, coach at Shawinigan Falls; Elmer Lach, coach of Canadiens Juniors; Sam Pollock, handling junior farm clubs; and Dandy Tim Hahn, former coach of Valleyfield in the QHL. All except Pollock are former Canadiens players.

Coaches Agree Allan Cup Series Will Be Tough

KITCHENER (CP)—There was no disagreement between rival coaches after the first game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup finals Tuesday night.

"It's nice to get that first win but it's going to be a tough series" said Dutchmen coach Bob Bauer after his eastern champions won the opener 3-2.

"Yes, we missed some chances in that last period," said coach Bob Drabinville of the Beavers. "It's going to be a tough series."

Drabinville was satisfied with his team's showing after a long train trip.

Bauer wasn't unhappy, either. He wants another look at the Beavers before comparing them with the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds who made the Dutchies go seven games to win in the all-Ontario final.

"We'll be flying Thursday," he predicted.

ELGINS SIGN 11

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The defending Senior Intercounty League baseball champions, St. Thomas Elgins, expect to have 13 players signed by the end of the month. Eleven are signed now.

A special try-out camp will be held April 23-24. Regular practice will not get under way until after the end of the month.

Seven of those signed are holdovers from 1954, including Tommy White, playing-manager. His pitching record last season was 6-1.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Beginners, take warning! This player is going two ways at once. That's wrong. "X" marks the spot where the ball was. Now, if you'll mentally draw a line from the "X" you'll see that it will pass through the player's left shoulder. This will tell you that the player has moved his head to the right as he swung down. This is the "rocking chair" swing but it isn't golf. If his head had remained in a fixed position a perpendicular line from the ball would have passed through his left eye. The best point about this golfer's swing is that his shoulders are rotating fairly well. His left going up as his right goes down and under. His stance is alright, too, but our player has let his right side sag. His head moved back and his weight is back on his right leg. It should be forward, on his left. Too bad the old rocking chair has him.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, April 21, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Check to see whether you are on the right course, doing the right thing, being efficient. Be ready to act, but wary in these confused times. Be steady.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Duties first, then leisure matters. In this way you will assure the essential being done properly and you can expect ample returns. After 4 p.m. personal affairs, romance, family affairs favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Cut your usual speed some in order to avoid needless mistakes, worry. Avoid extravagance, get-rich-for-the-moon attitude.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Take care that you don't miss the better opportunities in your haste to accomplish some non-essentials. Also avoid emotionalism and petty discussions.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't start your day's schedule without giving all matters proper study, research. Take care of immediate requirements, making the best of all influences. Associates can be valuable.

August 23 to September 22 — (Virgo) — The fact that things are going along smoothly does not mean that they will continue to do so without your help. Stay sharp, aware of trends; look farther than the immediate. All is not gold that glitters.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Planetary outlook slightly mixed. Avoid unpleasant arguments, a tendency to anger if you don't win. Often a set-back awakens us to our faults, mistakes, and results in good, all around.

October 24 to November 23 — (Scorpio) — The Zodiacal chart puts you in a mildly generous line for personal affairs, family or romantic interests. As to business, money, your position: be smart, don't rub others the wrong way.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — You will get out of your activities what you put into them today. Stars warn against extravagance, careless thinking and action; all could be costly. Discourage dissension.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Planetary indicate that prospects are somewhat negative now. Be alert to avoid being drawn into unnecessary debts, taking on responsibilities which are really not yours.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Use caution most of the day; double check, especially in other than ordinary matters. Don't allow thoughts to rumble, or switch needlessly from one thing to another.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Not entirely auspicious vibrations, but your aptitude and tolerance plus a little extra effort and imagination will help you. It's pretty up to you.

You born today are a natural leader; capable, can be very clever. You are sometimes too impatient or irritable to reap the benefits you could in business, employment, with friends. Use your good practical sense to overcome these traits and to achieve more — as you can. You have ability for business, mining, building; as orator, salesman, artist. Should live well with the opposite sex, but don't always expect the other person to take things for granted. Don't succumb to fault finding or stubbornness. Emphasize your innate graciousness. Birthdate: Hippolyte A. Taine, Fr. critic, historian.

Statuesque German Beauty Having 2nd Fling at Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cornell Borchers, a statuesque beauty from Germany, is having a second fling at Hollywood. This time it appears she will make the grade.

Miss Borchers is the third German lovely to cause a stir here since the war. Previous entries were Hildegarde Neff, who is starring on Broadway in "Silk Stockings," and Ursula Theiss, now Mrs. Robert Taylor.

The new import is tall, flaxen-haired and shapely and has often been compared to Ingrid Bergman. She did resemble Bergman when she first came to Hollywood—wholesome, intelligent and full of a healthy kind of sex appeal. She has been signed for a picture a year by Universal - International and the bosses have big plans for her. She's now co-starring with Rock Hudson in "A Time Remembered."

This is not the first time she has been here.

"I came to Hollywood a few years ago," she related. "Everybody—Fox brought me here to appear in a picture called 'Maedchen in Uniform.' Actually, Mlle. Neff was a goal, and the story told how it was used for an escape from behind the Iron Curtain.

"It was rather a fantastic story and I'm glad I never made. I walked around for four months, doing nothing. Finally I told them I was going home."

And she did. But her return to Hollywood was more triumphant.

Miss Borchers was born in Heydebrug, Germany, daughter of a large producer. Her family home in Hanover was destroyed by Allied bombings.

After the war, the beauty went to Berlin, where she attended drama school and got small roles in films and plays. Her big break came when George Seaton picked her for "The Big Lift," starring Montgomery Clift and Paul Douglas.

She is currently under contract to Universal-International, but she is also being groomed for stage productions

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was changing ..is shoes to his slippers after dinner and ma said, Oh dear, I had a narrow escape from having a romantic thrill this afternoon, William.

Do you mean to say you thought some goof was whisking at you in the street till you realized he was winking at some silly blande behind you? pop said, and ma said, No I dont, I mean a delivery man rang the bell with a box of flowers, and I was sure you had given way to a romantic impulse to send them to me in the middle of a meeningless week, I mean without actually having anything to celebrate like an anniversary or birthday, and then came the only climax. The mails took another kick at the address and realized he had made a mistake, and my house of cards collapsed like an empty soap bubble, she said.

Yee gods, that's a living proof of mental telepathy, pop said, and ma said, What, how?

Why, I was sitting in my office, and the thought came over me that here I was just monotonously making money when I could be indulging a sentimental impulse to send you flowers as a slight indication that I consider you the fairest ornament of a bewitful life, and then the telefone rang, or I had to sneeze, or something elts interrupted me, but by golles it seems the thought must of registered just the same, pop said. If that wasn't mental telepathy, what was it? he said.

Never mind what it was, William, it's nice to think of you racking your brains to invent that rigamarol just to make my little illusion come true, so the principal is the same and I feel much better, William, ma said.

And she laffed with a happy expression, and pop got up and gave her a kiss and changed his slippers back to his shoes and took her to the movies.

New Quakes Kill 12 In Greek Town, Wipe Out Villages

No More Than 100 Homes Remain Undamaged in Volos

ATHENS (Reuters)—The earthquake-ravaged seaport of Volos in central Greece shuddered violently from new tremors today and scores of panic-stricken inhabitants rushed to the docks and cried for transport to leave the stricken land."

Latest official reports said 12 persons were killed and 51 injured in today's catastrophe, following a severe quake only two days ago which made 3,500 homeless and killed one person.

Troops searched the smoking ruins of the once-thriving town for further victims. Today's tremors at the stricken town 150 miles north of Athens brought final ruin to houses cracked open Tuesday.

CROWDS IN PANIC

"No more than 100 houses are still intact in Volos," a police official telephoned to Athens. "Many surrounding villages have been entirely destroyed."

Women and children, moaning aloud and covered with dust, crowded the docks in panic and begged to be taken on every available vessel.

In the capital, which also felt the shock, the interior ministry announced that a message from Volos reported "Fresh tremors continued after this morning's strong shock.

The head of the Volos police force in his last message to the interior ministry here said: "Earth trembling continues, more than 40 houses collapsed. Town covered with huge dust cloud."

Two U.S. Sixth fleet destroyers were dispatched to patrol the destroyed parts of the town and take over security in the area.

Prime Minister Alexander Papagos and his cabinet ordered the air force and navy to send emergency supplies and aircraft to the stricken area. A battalion of army engineers was rushed to the spot.

Queen Frederika, wife of King Paul, and Mrs. Papagos, an official of the prime minister's office who represented the queen after a tour of inspection at Volos, reported that 500 houses at the port and 90 percent of the countryside around had collapsed in Tuesday's quake, but only one person was killed at that time.

An earthquake in the same area last April killed 27 persons and destroyed 3,500 houses.

Anglican Bishop Of Algoma New Metropolitan

TORONTO (CP) — Rt. Rev. William Lockridge Wright, Anglican Bishop of Algoma, Wed. was elected Metropolitan of Ontario by the Ontario House of Bishops of the Church of England in Canada.

Before the ballot was taken, Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto, tendered his resignation from the episcopal appointment thus making himself ineligible for election as Metropolitan although he is the senior bishop in the ecclesiastical province.

Bishop Beverley has been acting Metropolitan since the archbishopric became vacant last September with the retirement of Most Rev. Robert J. Renison.

The new archbishop comes from a long line of clergy. His grandfather Rev. William Wright, served as a missionary in the diocese of Ontario and his father, Canon John Wright, also was a member of the clergy of the province.

After graduating from Trinity College, Toronto, in 1927, Archbishop Wright served as a priest at Kingston Cathedral and later was for two years curate of the Church of St. John the Martyr, in Toronto.

His first parish was at Tweed where he was rector from 1928 to 1932. Then he was appointed assistant to Very Rev. C. E. Riley, rector of Hamilton Cathedral.

In 1936 he returned to the Church of St. George the Martyr as rector and four years later he was appointed St. Luke's Pro-Cathedral in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. In 1944 he was elected Bishop of Algoma, one of the youngest prelates in the church.

He is a member of the Masonic Order and active in activities outside the church. Keenly interested in all phases of athletics, he has a particular liking for hockey, rugby and basketball.

In his younger days he played on basketball teams in both Toronto and Hamilton.

His wife is the former Margaret Claire of Orillia. They have two children, Clare, John, Peter and Jane.

264 Employees Of CNR Being Laid Off

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Marler said Wednesday that 264 Civil servants will lose their jobs through the closing of a repair shop at Leaside, Ont., and changes in shop operations at Brockville and Winnipeg.

Replying in the Commons to a series of questions by opposition members, he said that effective Feb. 7 that no further layoffs were anticipated. He said his statement at that time concerned mercly an opinion expressed by J. R. McMillan, vice-president of the railway, in a speech in Winnipeg.

Mr. Marler said the closing of the shop at Leaside and operating changes at Brockville and Winnipeg were in the interest of economy and greater efficiency.

The railway had decided to eliminate Brockville as a throughput inspection point. As a result, 26 men were laid off April 15.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis. The band of showers which moved into Ontario Wednesday now lies along the western Ontario border and will continue eastward today. The low pressure area associated with these rainds is northwest of Lake Superior this morning and will move to northern James Bay by Friday morning.

Skies have cleared rapidly in the wake of the storm in the south but conditions will improve more slowly in the north country. Temperatures are expected to be a little higher today and Friday.

Ceylon Premier Denounces Red 'Colonialism'

Chou Immediately Asks For Time for Reply

By ROBERT HEWETT

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon announced "Communist colonialism" at the Asian-African conference today, and Red China's Premier Chou En-lai immediately demanded time to prepare a reply.

The Ceylon leader, appearing before a closed session of the political committee, demanded that the conference declare itself against all forms of colonialism, including Communist domination of satellite states in central and eastern Europe.

Delegates later said that as Kotelawala finished, Chou turned to his feet and demanded that the conference take a statement he circularized to all delegates of the 29 - country conference so Chou could reply to it at Friday's committee session.

CHOU REPLIES

In earlier debate the committee heard Chou express the opinion that peaceful coexistence between different systems is possible.

Kotelawala, who had already taken the lead in urging a proposal made outside the conference for condemnation of Soviet Premier Formosa, told the committee there two forms of colonialism, and the Communist variety was the most dangerous both equally.

Another attack on colonialism came from Prime Minister Said el Islam el Hassan of Yemen, who complained that Britain is trying to maintain her colony of Aden, which adjoins Yemen.

He raised also the question of colonialism in Africa, and his colleague Dr. Malik, an official of the prime minister's office who represented the Lebanese after a tour of inspection at Volos, reported that 500 houses at the port and 90 percent of the countryside around had collapsed in Tuesday's quake, but only one person was killed at that time.

Radioactive Fallout in Canada Infinitesimal Says Dr. Solandt

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. O. M. Solandt says Canada and perhaps the entire world are subjected to no some radioactive dust, the amount is infinitesimal and harmless to human, animal and vegetation.

The 46 year old defence research board chairman estimated radioactivity caused by United States and Russian atomic explosions would have to be stepped up at least 100 times their present intensity for global radiation to be considered dangerous to humans.

"And I don't envision that kind of situation ever occurring unless there is a full-scale atomic world war," he added in an interview.

"Prime Minister St. Laurent Wednesday in the House of Commons said the government will consider whether a special Commons committee should be set up to study radioactive fallout in Canada."

Dr. Solandt disclosed the board has been monitoring radioactive fallout—the drift to earth of radioactive particles following an atomic explosion—at various points across Canada for several years.

The monitoring was primarily for undisclosed defence research operations. But in carrying them out the board obtained estimates of radioactive fallout and the movement of radioactive particles.

Dr. Solandt said radioactive particles have drifted over various parts of the globe, but they were harmless. Other particles were still in the atmosphere.

In the last few days, Alberta has felt by an unusual snowstorm and there was some indication the snow carried a relatively large amount of radioactive particles.

Board staff officers explained that snowstorms are "rainswept-in" picking clouds clean of radioactivity. So are rainstorms.

Scientists said there seems to be a popular belief that atomic explosions bring storms.

"That just isn't true," said a highly - qualified aide to Dr. Solandt. "Scientists absolutely no relation between the American Nevada desert explosions and the Alberta storms."

Writer Claims U.S., Russia Some Day May Fight China

BONN, Germany (AP) — A theory the United States and Soviet Russia may one day fight side by side against China is stirring attention in West Germany.

The theory is expounded in "The Red and Soviet Power," a best-seller by a physician who spent nine years in Russian work camps. Not- necessarily this specific theory, but the book as a whole has created a great impression among German officials. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has conferred the book as "one of the most potent political roundups to appear in West Germany since the war."

The author, Dr. Wilhelm Starlinger, says the Red Army Mutation soon will be expandnar at the rate of 20,000,000 a year. By official Communist figures, the population is nearly 600,000,000 today. The only outlet for her population is northern Asia—and Russia will face the alternative of giving up this area to China, Starlinger writes.

He says the cornerstone of West German policy must be the closest possible partnership with America. He envisions a vast "American empire" headed by the United States, including all the free countries "bring Soviet Russia to reason and enable serious negotiations which might lead to a peaceful understanding."

"But first," he says, "China must be detached from Russia. And Russia's leadership exists must also be terminated by the emergence of a new Stalin. Until then, it would be useless to talk with Moscow."

He warns the United States against becoming involved in a war with either Russia or China. To conquer either it would be necessary to "eradicate it," he says.

Starlinger expresses conviction that China can be detached from Russia if the United States drops China Kai-shek.

Eisenhower Asks For 3½ Billion As Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress Wednesday for $3,530,000,000 in foreign aid, most of it to help the free Asian countries stand firm against communism.

Conditions in Europe are greatly improved, Eisenhower said in his message. He pointed to the creation of defence forces that "now constitute a significant deterrent to aggression."

"The immediate threats to world security and stability now are centered in Asia," he said. "The preponderance of funds requested of the Congress will be used to meet the threat there. . . .

"Despite the continuing threat of aggression and subversion in Asia, I target part of the amounts requested for military assistance and direct forces support is to help and maintain the defensive forces of our allies there."

He did not say, country-by-country, how much of the money would go where, but he did say the continued Marshall plan countries of Western Europe needed no new help to Spain and Yugoslavia, which were not in the Marshall plan for bolwerking Europe after the Second World War. He spoke, without mentioning sums, of aid to be given Iran, Greece and Turkey, the Arab states and Israel, and countries in Africa and Latin America.

Vaccine Enough For 30 Per Cent Canadian Youth

Should Be Immunized Against Polio by July 1

OTTAWA (CP)—About 30 per cent of Canada's 5,000,000 children under 16 should be immunized against polio by July 1.

They would be the 1,500,000 persons Health Minister Martin estimated Wednesday will receive shots of the Salk polio vaccine by Dominion Day.

Mr. Martin, replying in the Commons to opposition questions, said all present stocks, enough for 750,000 doses, would be used or expended by July 1 still come from the University of Toronto's Connaught laboratories.

The two commercial drug companies licensed to distribute the vaccine would have a "very negligible" proportion of the total amount available.

PROVINCES HAVE CONTROL

Control over commercial distribution is in the hands of the provinces, he said, but as a result of federal - provincial planning last fall, the vaccine will be as readily available in the Yukon as in Ontario.

Mr. Martin said seven provinces will give vaccine shots in one or a five-weeks period and a third or loosed shot seven months later. The other three will give two shots in a matter of weeks would be used in Nova Scotia, Alberta and British Columbia.

Vaccine from the Connaught laboratories is also being distributed free through a 50-50 cost split by the federal and provincial governments.

Asked whether he had heard of a grey or black market in the vaccine, Mr. Martin said plans for the provinces to deal with such a problem already have been made.

Churchill Cuts Vacation Short To Fight Election

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill cut short his visit to Switzerland in Sicily and will fly back to London next Tuesday, it was officially announced today by the Conservative party.

The 80-year-old statesman, who handed over the premiership to Sir Anthony Eden two weeks ago, is returning to contest his seat as an ordinary member of Parliament for Woodford, a London suburb, in the May 26 general election.

President Issad weather in Sicily has ruined the visit for a party filled with sunshine after the long and tiring routine of his political activities and the emotional strain of his retirement.

Child Is Killed

KING CITY, Ont. (CP)—A five-year-old boy was killed Wednesday and his playmate was burned after they crawled into a tin barrel used as a farm incinerator to carry gasoline to farm machinery.

Danny Chalk and Donald Northey of King City crawled into the oil container while playing on the farm of Roy Pollitt, 20 miles north of Toronto.

Mrs. Donald Chalk was looking for her son and found the boy's feet forms inside the barrel. Police said the boy's mother tried to pull the boy before they realized their danger.

Donald was taken to hospital at Newmarket with burns to his body.

Current Goal Of Auto Workers Coming Says Croll

OTTAWA (CP)—The guaranteed annual wage, current goal of auto workers, is a coming thing, says David Croll, former Ontario labor minister.

Wednesday he suggested that a careful examination of the proposal be made by the Commons, which leaves discussion of the 1955-56 budget today to resume a sporadic debate on external affairs.

Mr. Croll, Liberal member for Toronto Spadina and an Ontario cabinet minister from 1934-37, said Parliament cannot stand aloof from the guaranteed annual wage issue.

"It will be on us before we know it. We should study it before it becomes a labor issue. . ."

Workers were seeking the guaranteed annual wage as an answer to automation — replacement of manpower with automatic machinery. It was the natural solution for labor problems in the automobile industry which laid off workers two months a year.

TO CUSHION EFFECTS

"The workers are not fighting automation, but they want to cushion its effects and they want to share in its fruits," he said. "The guaranteed annual wage is the worker's concept of wiping out the insecurity of layoffs and loss of wages."

Employers were using the same arguments against the guaranteed annual wage that they used against establishment of the minimum wage law, workmen's compensation, unemployment insurance, industrial pensions, the eight-hour day and old age pensions.

29th Birthday Is Celebrated By Her Majesty

WINDSOR, England (Reuters)—The Queen celebrated her 29th birthday today with a brief ceremony in Windsor Park with the Duke of Edinburgh.

To take the salute in the park near Windsor Castle where she is staying with her husband and their two children, she rode to tear herself away from a great stack of birthday telegrams and telegrams from many lands.

The Queen received presents from the duke and her children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. Another present she received was Princess Margaret joined a family luncheon party at the castle.

The Queen's "official" birthday, a ceremonial occasion, will be observed June 9.

Father Paid With Blood for Drugs For Children, Cannot 'Donate' Again

QUEBEC (CP)—An unemployed father of five, who said his sick children were refused drugs Wednesday at Quebec's St. Sacrement Hospital because he could not afford to pay cash, may appear before city council today to plead his case.

Ernest Moisan, who is not eligible for public assistance from the city, gave a pint of his blood one day to obtain drugs from the same hospital.

Hospital officials were not immediately available for comment.

Moisan said in an interview one of his three sick children requires hospital treatment but said the hospital told him they had no room for the child at the moment.

The children have been receiving drugs for some time from St. Sacrement under the public assistance program. Moisan said he undertook to donate blood after he collect for the drugs from the assistance office but were refused because Moisan, who had not lived here a year, is ineligible.

Moisan pleaded with the hospital told him Monday he could not receive any further donations of blood the hospital pays $25, and his offer was accepted.

Wednesday he returned to the hospital with further prescriptions and was told he must still arrange payment. He said he was told a second donation of blood was not possible so soon after the first.

"I don't care for myself," Moisan said, "but I need the money for drugs. I can't cure them with water and I don't have the money."

No More American Jive for Britons, London Daily Papers Back on Stands

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—An economist in the Daily Sketch started off: "As I was about to say when I was so rudely interrupted last night . . ."

A Daily Express cartoon showed a gentleman in a bowler hat crawling through the London fog—a month while his wife explained to a neighbor: "He's been out to fetch our paper."

And Daily Telegraph gave thanks that Britons now can stop trying to dig such North American terms as "Canadian Bronx" and "Canadeini Blank Brains."

The great London newspaper strike was over.

After 26 days in a muzzle, the nationally distributed dailies, most of them in expanded editions, set out Wednesday morning to tell their 15,000,000 readers what they had missed.

Much chit-chat, for instance, as the retirement of Sir Winston Churchill and the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II coming up May 26.

Plenty of room for book reviews, and part after Gotham's big 1953 strike, today's Times carries a 12-page supplement summarizing the local news day by day.

On the front page, where they always appear, are four solid columns of birth, death and marriage announcements—just the first instalment of a huge backlog.

The Telegraph has an eight-page supplement highlighting the lost 26 days and most other newspapers put the high spots in smaller condensations.

The Telegraph, noting that attempts had been made to fill the void left by flying in newspapers from the Continent and New York, implies strongly that the London Daily Mirror left this from being entirely successful — especially its coverage of the Queen's visit, and share in those blessings.

Ronan Cambridge Will Head Theatre Guild Next Season

Belleville Theatre Guild last night glanced over its shoulder at its activities during the past year and saw success and failure.

Results of its work were keynoted by president Stuart Robb, when he told the annual meeting at Queen Victoria school the year was one "of progress and a year in which we gained ground we had formerly gained."

The meeting named Ronan Cambridge, to succeed Mr. Robb, as president for the 1955-56 term. Scott Miller was vice-president and Harold Bankier as treasurer. All three have been active figures in theatre work in the city, Mr. Miller being chairman of the committee responsible for the Eastern Ontario Drama League Festival here in February, while Mr. Bankier has appeared in several major productions of the Guild.

Other members of the new executive are: Betty Barrie, recording secretary; Miss Mitzi Mann, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Irene Doyle and Robert Tanner as members-at-large.

In retrospect the past year was an articulated success, according to the Guild. Financially the "picture has not been a very rosy one," outgoing treasurer John Abramsky told the meeting last night.

Receipts for the year totalled $1,819 against expenditures of $1,-970. There was a carryover of $451 from the previous year, while the end of this term sees just $100 in the bank leaving a net loss of bank loan of $200. Simply this means the Guild lost just $451 on its year's activities.

"We have fallen down very badly on receipts in our production" Mr. Abramsky told the members.

During the year the Guild presented "The Enchanted" and Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine." Ticket sales on the first returned $532 and the second $505.41.

Mr. Abramsky suggested to the membership that they watch expenses "very, very carefully, and boost receipts."

BUSY YEAR

Highlighted by the staging of the Eastern Ontario Drama League Festival here in February, the year was a busy one for the Guild.

Besides its two major presentations, it also produced three one-act plays and aired seven radio plays. It opened its winter season by engaging Robert Christie, Toronto actor, to direct and produce "Ladies in Waiting," "Enchanted." It also sponsored the Belleville presentation of the Canadian Players' production of Shaw's "Joan of Lorraine."

In November the Guild won the award in the Peterborough Festival for one-act plays with its presentation of "Two Sides to a Tortoise." The same play also won the award for best actor in that festival.

Guild membership now stands at 140 paid members with 146 last year.

Presenting his report, President Robb made special mention of the efforts of the EODL festival committee, Court Millier.

Concluding the business session was a vote of thanks to the public school board for the use of Queen Victoria school's auditorium and auditorium and to Quinte High school board for assistance to Guild premises.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Gordon Robertson, chairman of Kingston's Domino Players.

"Little theatre in Canada and in Canada is growing by "leaps and bounds and it is the amateur theatre that is to blame," he said.

The amateur theatre movement enabled Canadian audiences to see the culmination of Canadian theatre in the Stratford Festival.

700 Christ Church Parishioners Open Drive to Raise $180,000

A fund raising campaign to raise a total of $180,000 over the next three years for church renovations and extensions to the parish hall at Christ church was under way Wednesday evening as approximately 700 parishioners attended a dinner meeting in the Belleville Armouries.

The internal canvass among church parishioners will get underway tomorrow and will continues until May 8th when it is expected the 1068 families within the church organization will have been contacted by canvassers. Those not seek cash but will ask for weekly pledges extending over the next 150 weeks.

It was an enthusiastic group of parishioners who attended last night's loyalty dinner and heard campaign officials explain the need of Christ church and the plan was planned to meet these needs.

Parishioners were told there was a dire need for an extension to the parish hall to provide additional accommodation for Sunday School pupils. Due to cramped quarters eight Sunday School classes are now being held in the church, while even the parish hall kitchen is pressed into service as a classroom.

Plans also call for the purchase of a new organ for the church, renovations to window settings and other repairs.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS HEARD

Speakers at the banquet included Leslie Lotus who outlined the needs at Christ Church. Fred Ebbiner told of plans to meet the need. Fred Beeby, canvas teams chairman, outlined canvass plans and E. R. Follwell stressed the importance of parishioners making pledges to their church.

Christ Church rector, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan gave a historical review of Christ Church, noting the congregation was formed in 1863 with construction of the first church beginning the following summer.

The first church was built at the corner of Coleman and Moira streets east of the present Canadian Tire Corporation store and was dedicated January 1st, 1865. Rev. Septimus Jones was the first rector.

St. George's Church on Station street was opened in 1875 with Rev. James Ardagh as the first pulpit. Two years later the two parishes of Christ Church and St. George's were joined under one rector and they have continued as one ever since.

DESTROYED IN 1881

The first church was destroyed by fire in 1881 and the present church was built. Archdeacon Creegan noted the cost of the present church was $30,000. It built today it would possibly cost $200,000. The present parish hall was built in 1910 and was completely renovated in 1951 at a cost of $10,000.

Harold D. Bateman, general chairman of the church canvass, presided over the dinner program noting that the night's banquet was possibly the largest attended church banquet ever to be held in the city.

Prayers were said by the Rev. K. P. Gooderham and the benediction by the Rev. Canon Ardagh.

The Christ church fund raising campaign is a co-operative effort on the part of the church congregation with just over 200 members and friends of the church taking active part in the canvass.

Friday will over 100 canvassers will continue making their rounds to accept pledges from the members of the congregation and in the words of general chairman Harold Bateman there is every confidence the campaign will "go over the top."

Shrine Club Annual Ball Huge Success

One of the most brilliant social events of the season took place at the Club's quarters on Friday night when upwards of 150 couples attended the first annual Shrine Club ball.

The Commodores orchestra's sprightly rhythms again evidenced its reputation of being one of the best dance aggregations east of Toronto. The dance stylings of Bill Nothing to be desired.

The ball inaugurated an annual social event on the calendar of the Shrine Club. The first held last night was the first of a qualified success that the Shriners as a whole agreed to make the ball's one of its yearly social efforts. The proceeds in their entirety go to the crippled children fund of the club.

It was a grand party. The Shriners left nothing to be desired from an entertainment point of view while a delicious luncheon was served at midnight.

Cy Leonard, versatile master-of-ceremonies saw to it that each and all had a good time. Topflighting the entertainment were "Hal and Helen" a tuneful singing duo whose melodic voices were heard in various numbers. Then there was Shirley Moore, a cute tap-dancing miss and other acts.

There were numerous spot dance "prizes and a substantial cash door prize.

Receiving the accolades of their fellow Shriners for a job well done in the annual ball were Chairman Noble Al Reynolds, president Jack Bush, and committee members, Nobles, Fred Lewis, Ken Smith, Ken Vivian and Court Millier.

APPROVE WORKS PROGRAM

Theatre Manager Guest of M-G-M At Buffalo

Tommy Mascaro, manager of the Capitol Theatre, was the guest of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures at that company's "Ticket Selling Workshop", a one-day meeting of leading theatre men at the Statler Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., on Monday, April 18.

Mr. Mascaro was invited to the meeting by M-G-M with a group of Canadian showmen from various cities of Ontario. Mr. Mascaro stated on his return from the meeting that there is every reason for the public to expect even more fine pictures in the coming season and he is convinced that theatre attendance will continue to rise as these pictures come to the Belleville theatres.

The meeting in Buffalo was called primarily by M-G-M to present to theatre owners and managers, ideas for attracting greater patronage at their box offices and to help the belief of the motion picture industry's best advertising and publicity men that people are becoming increasingly aware of the efforts being made by the industry to produce better attractions via the many new screen developments such as wide screen, Cinemascope, VistaVision, stereophonic sound, etc., and that as a result theatres must plan big advertising campaigns to take advantage of the public interest in the new pictures, he will benefit at the box-office as well as guarantee that his patrons will not miss any of the attractions for which they have developed what the trade calls "want-to-see".

Quinte Cadets Join Shipmates At Oshawa

Some 75 cadets from RCSCC Quinte this week mingled with nearly 300 fellow-sea cadets in an event that also brought cadets from Port Hope and Peterborough.

The meet of the cadets was highlighted by a church parade and an afternoon sports event.

Assemblage point for the event was at Oshawa collegiate from where the cadets marched to Memorial Park following which competed in a rifle-range contest among other events.

Quinte cadets took first in all the events and scored the highest points in the marksmanship contest.

A band tattoo finished off the day.

In attendance at the meet was assistant area officer Lt. L. Strike, RCM.

Later officers of the RCSCC Quinte expressed their thanks to Lt.-Col. P. H. Wills and Dr. J. R. Coolidge, who made the trip possible.

Cleo Colling New President Of Quinte District Druggists

Election of officers and addresses on the value of advertising in newspapers and on radio, featured the annual meeting of the Quinte District Pharmacists' Association held Wednesday evening in the Shrine Club. About 40 members and guests attended.

Cleo Colling, of Belleville, was elected president of the association for 1955 succeeding Joe Foley, of Wellington.

Other officers elected were: Harold Seldon, secretary; Bruce Latimer, Belleville, and Wayne Symons, Trenton, entertainment committee; George Brown, Trenton; Roy MacLaren, Campbellford; George Noble, Stirling, and Jos Foley, Wellington, membership committee.

Jack Bond, assistant advertising manager of the Ontario Intelligencer spoke briefly on the value of newspaper advertising and Bill Stovin, manager of CJBQ spoke on the value of radio advertising.

"Your success is as vital to us as it is to you," said Mr. Bond, "We want to see you get value from your advertising. What goes into your ad determines what we'll get out. Salesmanship sells as well as newspapers and radio do."

Mr. Bond stated that advertising money is wasted through lack of planning.

"Know what you are going to do and do it," he said. "An advertising policy builds sales and maintains them. Poor ads are badly prepared ads, hastily thrown together and sloppily presented."

"Tell your customers what you have to sell sincerely and in persuasive terms. Don't scrimp on your advertising budget. Sales are tied directly to advertising. The more people you tell about your goods and services the more you sell."

10,547 CIRCULATION

Mr. Bond stated that the daily average circulation of the Ontario Intelligencer is 10,547, almost all of which is delivered in the retail trading area from Trenton to Napanee and throughout Hastings County. He has an average of 3,000 readers for each copy of the paper the Ontario Intelligencer is read by 42,000 people daily.

"The newspaper puts your sales message in print where it can be preserved and checked," he said.

"People believe newspaper ads," said Mr. Bond. "People read newspaper advertising. Newspaper ads have long life and are available in the home for hours and even days to every member of the family who can read print. An ad at a time and place when they want to read it."

"Advertising is as important a business expense as rent, heat and power," said Mr. Stovin. "However, all too often when the budget is squeezed advertising is the first to be cut, it is false economy."

"Newspapers and radio cover two distinct markets," said Mr. Stovin. "Both mediums are necessary to cover any market."

First principles in an effective advertising campaign are to determine one's objectives, decide on what one has to offer, who buys what you sell, when do they buy and what do they buy and how much one should spend on advertising.

Mr. Stovin suggested that 1.37 per cent of the amount of sales should be spent on advertising.

He said that such a budget should be used to provide for a continuing advertising schedule, a special budget for saturation occasions, and an emergency budget for unforeseen events that can be exploited.

Mr. Stovin illustrated his address with large posters illustrating CJBQ's trading area, the distribution of radios in homes and in cars and listener loyalties among various age groups at different times during the broadcasting day.

In presenting one's advertising message Mr. Stovin said that copy should be simple, specific and believable.

He summarized his remarks by stating that advertising costs are a part of retail overhead; that radio is a direct selling medium and that radio can do a job for druggists.

Both speakers were introduced and thanked by Cleo Colling.

Outgoing president Joe Foley told members that pharmacy was on the fringe of the greatest era of prosperity it has ever known. "It is a great era for those in pharmacy do not encourage young people to enter the profession," he said in commenting on the decline in the number of student pharmacists.

Gardiner Duff led a sing-song accompanied at the piano by Jim Cornell.

Bruce Latimer welcomed the guests including representatives of Drug Merchandising Ltd., Toronto, the Canadian Pharmaceutical Journal, Parke Davis and Squibb pharmaceutical houses.

A social hour preceded the dinner meeting. Prizes were donated from Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Wellington, Madoc, Brighton, Marmora, Stirling, Bancroft and Campbellford.

Police Blotter

A 15-year-old Tyendinaga youth was charged with a theft he is said the world failed to get far last night after he left his parents' home by crawling through an upstairs window and attempted to hitch-hike a ride to Belleville.

The lad was picked up shortly before midnight by a motorist who turned him over to Belleville police. Police contacted his parents and the lad was returned home.

CNR police complained that gasoline was being stolen from CNR trucks parked overnight near the freight shed. City police were authorized to check the area regularly at night.

At the Capitol Theatre.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Most major sections edged ahead in active early afternoon trading at the stock market today.

Base metals led the upward trend with International Nickel, Falconbridge, Sherritt and Lake Cinch recording moderate gains.

Industrials also lucked up with steels, foods, constructions, utilities, papers, refining oils and manufacturers showing the greatest strength: Changes were small and ranged to 50.

Dominion Oil Cloth jumped 52, Minnesota and Ontario Paper 1¼, and Dominion Tar, Ogilvie and B. C. Telephone by each. Canada Malting dropped 52 for the biggest loss.

Most uranium issues suffered from profit-taking with losses of 20 cents or less going to Chimo, Cosnic, Headway, Lorado and National Explorations. Radiore jumped 35 to 52.95 and Cashboard 10 to 52.85.

Golds were strong but western oils were mixed to slightly weaker.

Bailey Selburn A fell 72½ to $9.90 and Husky 25 to $7.50. Consolidated Mic Mac climbed 20 to $2.32 and Liberal Petroleum, Canadian Oil Leads and General Petroleum A made smaller gains.

Present Bay Level 248.5 Feet And Rising Steadily Report

TRENTON, (Special.) —A general flooding of Trenton's downtown area along the river bank and behind the dyke will be inevitable as at least one person with property in the lower section of town prepares for the peak level, which is expected in June. At the present the level is at 248.5 feet and rising steadily.

Early this morning workmen started to raise the height of the retaining wall around the B. W. Powers and Son coal dock behind the company office on Front street. Parts of the yard adjacent to the river are already under a foot and a half of water. Mr. Alyea is looking for much higher water levels and is taking precaution against a general flooding.

A merchant with an establishment on Quinte Street has completed to consult about flooding from water backing up in floor drains. Town engineer Reid Clarke says he has nothing definite to recommend at this time. He found some manholes in lower areas just six inches above the level of the water in the river. He reported that the delegation to the Joint-Commission meeting in Toronto recently tried to get the commission to consider the problem limited to town along the waterways will have to face if the level of Lake Ontario is established at 250 feet above sea level. Mr. Clarke believes that if the Joint-Commission sets that level at the point recommended the government will have to provide permanent pumping stations to dispose of sewage before septic tanks made inactive by the heavy flooding.

NOT AT ALL-TIME HIGH

The water level of the Trent River has not reached the all time high. The pier under the swing bridge on the main highwater however is within two inches of being underwater. A meeting of council and high water levels coupled with unforeseen growth of the town have caused planning engineers to revise plans for Trenton's proposed sewage disposal plant. Estimates that were good five years ago have become outdated explains town engineer Clarke. It will take two years to get the plant in to operation and in the meantime some method of relieving overtaxed sewers has to be worked out. Mr. Clarke prefers pumping stations to force sewage from Trenton's septic tanks into the swift running water of the bay under pressure.

Want Full Council To Consider Civil Defence

TRENTON (Special) — The five Trenton councilmen present at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday night agreed that the question of setting up a civil defence organization should be considered by a full council since the decision involved the spending of the ratepayers' money. Town treasurer O. W. Larry pointed out that seven per cent of the people in the community would become involved in the defence set-up and that federal and provincial governments shouldered 75 per cent of the cost.

Newly elected president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce Donald J. Sutherland told council that the town would be missing a good bet if they failed to join the provincial government's Regional Development scheme.

Trenton's share of the organization's estimated $11,000 budget would be approximately $700.

McKinley Rankin New President Of Underwriters

The April meeting of the Quinte Life Underwriters' Association was held recently at the Queenway Hotel in Trenton. This meeting was arranged for by J. Gordon Jeffrey, Mutual of Canada in Trenton.

Jack McArthur of the Royal Bank, Belleville, was welcomed as a guest.

Charles D. Lundy spoke to the group for the Hastings County Underwriters Association, explaining their forthcoming campaign and asking for volunteer canvassers and clerks. Most of those present signed a pledge to assist.

Nominations and election of officers for the 1955-56 season were as follows: McKinley Rankin, Sun Life Assurance Co., president; J. Gordon Jeffrey, Mutual Life, secretary; Clarence A. Fuzzen, The Prudential Insurance Co., treasurer; executive committee—Robert W. Pogue, The Prudential Insurance Co., membership; Stanley C. Wiggins, London Life Insurance Co., program; Harold H. Carruthers, North American Life Assurance Co., Bulletin editor; executive members—Kenneth Hanna, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; Charles H. Rankin, North American Life Insurance Co.; William Bonnell, Monarch Life Insurance Co.; Gordon L. Brunt, Excelsior Life Insurance Co.

BRAMPTON MAN SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mr. Joseph C. Racine, branch manager of the Mutual Life in Brampton, Ont., was then introduced by Percy C. McGuire.

Mr. Racine, a graduate in Agriculture, from the University of Manitoba, has a wide knowledge of agriculture and knew as his topic, life insurance and the farm market.

Mr. Racine said that agriculture today is big business and each farmer a business man and if his hopes are to be carried out he must plan his farm management, life insurance, will and estate settlement. To this end a booklet was published from the Ontario Agriculture College, called Family Farm Business arrangements in Ontario and Mr. Racine highly recommended this both to the farmer and the professional Life Underwriter.

Mr. Racine was thanked by Charles N. Ransom and presented with a gift.

MILLIONTE NEW CHEV

DETROIT (AP)—Chevrolet Motors built its 1,000,000th 1955 model Chevrolet passenger car Wednesday. The milestone vehicle came off the assembly lines earlier this year than ever before.

OPP Sergeant, H. Ramsbottom, Made Inspector

Sgt. J. Harry Ramsbottom, of the Ontario Provincial Police Headquarters at Belleville has been moved to Chatham to take over the office of district inspector in the Western Ontario city, according to OPP Commissioner E. V. McNeil.

The transfer of Sgt. Ramsbottom to Chatham and his promotion to district inspector was made following the requested resignations of the district inspector and two sergeants at the Chatham headquarters. Sgt. Ramsbottom left Belleville yesterday to assume his new duties.

A native of Perth county district, Inspector Ramsbottom joined the Ontario Provincial Police about 25 years ago. He has been stationed at Belleville for the past six years, coming here from Trenton, where he had been for three years. Prior to Kingston he was stationed in the Chatham area.

Well liked as a police officer he commanded the respect of the public and his associates. Married, he has two daughters and one son.

HEALTH INSURANCE AGAIN

"Current Topics," issued periodically by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association, reprints an editorial from the Toronto Globe and Mail approving Premier Leslie Frost's recent declaration in the Ontario Legislature that his government would not introduce compulsory hospital and medical insurance at present.

One may conclude that the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association approves of this decision. In this view, they will be joined by the organized medical profession. Certainly the medical associations, in their public pronouncements, are much more adamant in their stand against health insurance than either Premier Frost or the Globe and Mail. Premier Frost said he would not introduce such a scheme at present; he did not say that he might not favor it at some time in the future, when conditions are different. The Globe and Mail, approving this decision, said that "this is not to say that the matter can be filed and forgotten. We would like to see it studied; particularly we should like to see it studied from the viewpoint of actuarial need."

It is with respect to the need for health insurance that opponents quote figures for those covered by voluntary health insurance. The Globe and Mail, in its editorial, tells us that the five million persons in the province three and one-half million now have hospital insurance, two million have surgical insurance and one and one-half million have medical insurance. Some have two of these; some have all three.

These figures are impressive. A majority of Ontario residents are, in the words of the Globe and Mail, providing their own protection. Where it is possible to solve a problem in this manner, it is much to be preferred to a system where the government takes over.

The question is not merely whether voluntary health insurance at present does solve the problem but whether it is possible for it to do so.

Some of those not covered by health insurance schemes do look after their own protection. They are so rich that medical and hospital bills are no burden for them. They need not concern us further in our consideration of this matter.

Of those who need health insurance but have not got it, some can afford to buy it and some cannot. All of the latter class and many of the former, when they go to hospital, will have their bills paid by the community as a whole has to pay, through rates for indigent patients and, in most cases, through grants to hospitals to cover deficits resulting from the free treatment being too low. These payments from the community come out of taxes. Much of this tax money comes from people who have already paid their own hospital and medical bills through insurance schemes.

Is it fair that a man who has paid his own hospital bills through insurance should be forced to help to pay for the hospital bills of his neighbor, who is just as able to afford insurance but who has refused to buy this coverage?

The Globe and Mail quotes Premier Frost as saying that a universal compulsory hospital and medical insurance scheme would cost Ontario residents $40 per head or $160 per household. Complete hospital and medical coverage is now costing individuals $45 for a single person and around $130 for a household. So the single man would pay less under a compulsory plan, the householder little more. The additional cost to the householder would be offset by the relief he would receive in lower municipal taxes.

Premier Frost probably had this in mind when he limited his remarks to a health insurance scheme at the present. As the Globe and Mail said, this matter needs further study—and the study should be not only of the necessity but also of the advisability of the proposal.

Insurance men, even those selling life insurance, may be expected to oppose any such compulsory plan. They are interested parties.

Medical associations are also interested parties. There is talk of regimentation, of socialization of medicine. The man in the street may find it difficult to understand the great difference between his paying his insurance premiums to Prudential Services and to the Ontario Government. Perhaps this puzzle was answered by an article in a Canadian magazine dealing with health insurance. It said that the average Canadian physician makes $15,000 a year or more. Ontario Cabinet ministers receive $10,000, plus a sessional indemnity of $2,600, plus a tax free allowance of $1,300, or a total of $13,900. It may be assumed to some doctors that if they are paid by the province the cabinet may be reluctant to set fees at a scale which would give the average doctor a higher salary than a cabinet minister.

EDEN EXPERIENCED

Sir Anthony Eden has stood so long in the shadow of Sir Winston Churchill that it is easy to overlook the fact that he brings to the prime ministership of Britain more experience than any major government leader on earth.

Eden is a prudent, wise and experienced leader of the type any country would be fortunate to have. (Milwaukee Journal.)

JUST FOLKS

LITTLE SPEEDSTER

If you can run faster than she,
Though her age is between three and four,
To see who it happens to be
You may beat her a step to the door.

If you have what many call
"pep,"
Which little girls happily own,
Perhaps you may beat her a step
In a foot race to answer the phone.

To action she's instantly stirred,
Though she may be stretched out on the floor,
As soon as that summons is heard
She runs to be first at the door.
She moves at a breath-taking pace,
Sometimes you will think she has flown
For she finishes first in the race
When there is a ring at the phone.

To my feet I no longer can
spring,
To sprint I don't try any more,
I know if the door bell should ring
That I'll be the last at the door.

That four-year-old's faster than
I,
A fact that for months I have known.
When Marjorie's here I don't try
To answer a call on the phone.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1935

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hopping and baby Marilyn of Campbellford are spending the Easter vacation with Mrs. Hopping's mother, Mrs. Hoag, Mary Street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kerr have returned to the city after spending the winter in Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Hunt and daughter, Patricia, of Hamilton are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Hunt.

Mr. H. W. Rathman with his son, Bill, of Toronto, are visiting his mother, Mrs. J. Rathman, Bridge Street west.

Mr. and Mrs. George Van-Blaricom of Toronto are the guests of his sister, Miss Stella Van Blaricom, Highland Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Handley of Oshawa are spending the Easter vacation with relatives here.

30 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1925

Mr. C. H. Bonisteel, West Bridge Street, has returned home from Bowling Green, Kentucky, where he spent the winter with his daughter, Mrs. Percy Dalton.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Patterson have left for Chicago where they will visit friends.

Miss Bessie Sinfield of the Daily Ontario staff, is visiting friends in Stirling.

Patrick O'Brien, who was born in Belleville and who has been superintendent of the Parliament Buildings in Toronto for many years, died in that city on April 17 at the age of 86 years.

The Rev. Neil Herman of Halifax, N.S., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Russell, Everett Street.

40 YEARS AGO
April 21, 1915

The Liquor Licence Commission for West Hastings met here yesterday and granted licences to fourteen hotels and three retail liquor shops in the city and also to the Belleville Club which will be opened to members in the near future.

A grass fire in St. Thomas' Church yard on the north end gained sufficient headway this afternoon to make necessary a call to the fire department; the firemen soon extinguished the fire.

Mrs. J. S. Sprague, George Street, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James Haggerty, West Huntingdon.

Mr. W. S. Morden, K. C., of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, was in town yesterday.

Dr. Edwards, M. P., Kingston, was a visitor in town today.

April 21, 1905

Mrs. M. G. Byam and daughter, Dorcas, of New York City, are the guests of Mrs. J. S. Ponton, King Street.

Mrs. J. Shea s visiting her daughter, Miss Kate Shea, in Toronto.

Mr. Arnold Lough of this city will spend Easter with friends in Marmora.

The steamer Annie Lake will carry passengers from the city to Rosemore on Monday evening to attend the maple sugar social at the Methodist Church. Fare for round trip 25 cents which includes admission charge to the social.

There was a light fall of snow today.

Mr. William Burke is home from London, Ontario, to spend Easter.

Mr. Warren Bogart is home from Toronto, to spend Easter at his home on east Bridge St.

Mr. William Rathman of Kingston spent yesterday here with relatives.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There was a picture in the papers the other day of a ewe and the four lambs she had given birth to, a rare thing nowadays to the farmers. A robin's nest on my neighbor's woodshed has seven eggs in it instead of the customary three or five. The first of the daffodils bloomed in the warm angle of the corner of our back kitchen have three blossoms on double-stalks instead of doubled, yolked or double-headed. They are as gruesome, in their fashion, as two-headed calves.

My neighbor is a thinking man. We looked at his robin's eggs, then set our daffodils and he went into his house and came out with the clipping. He was ewe and the four lambs.

"Now," he said, "you've heard about this so-called fallout from the atomic blasts. You may have heard what the scientists have said about the effect of this fallout of radioactive particles. They said it would seriously impair the reproductive powers of all life, both human and animal and vegetable.

"It stands to reason we, in these parts, have likely had some fallout from our own atomic bombs made or from Siberia. We've got two big potatoes growing out of atomic exploding on both sides of us. We're in the middle. I should say Canada is probably getting more fallout from the prevailing west winds than any other part of the earth.

"Okay. Look at the result. Seven robin's eggs, two-headed daffodils and four lambs to a ewe."

"These scientists are the most ignorant of all human beings. It is proved every day, because every day they are finding out something they didn't know yesterday."

"So you take their opinion about the effects of atomic fallout with a grain of salt. My own opinion, which is as wild as anybody else's is that in another couple of years, everybody will be having triplets, quadruplets and quintuplets. Single babies will become a thing of the past. Elderly ladies will find themselves in interesting conditions. Every tree will have three trunks. Trees will grow a mile high. Plant a field of corn and you'll grow a jungle. Canada, midway between Nevada and Siberia, will become the most prolific, two-headed, ninelived, seven-legged-breed, mapleleaf Paul Bunyan of a country the world has ever seen."

Disney Film Was Rejected

(Winnipeg Free Press)

The Saskatchewan film censor recently rejected the Walt Disney film "The Vanishing Prairie" from being unsuitable for public showing. The ridiculous reason for the ban was that the film includes a scene which shows the birth of a buffalo calf.

The film's distributors appealed this decision and the provincial Government set up a board of appeal, composed of private citizens, to review the censor's action. They apparently assumed that few people in Saskatchewan (young as that is) any longer believe that babies — human or buffalo — are found under cabbage leaves in the garden. They reversed the decision and the film will be shown without any cuts.

It is to be hoped that similar good taste and good sense on the part of Manitoba's censors will permit movie goers in that province to see the whole film.

The Gentle Anarchists

Philosophers and contemporary observers say that never before in mankind's long story was there so great an expression of human thought devoted to one end as is revealed today. It is shown by numerous, widespread yet common revolt against the old ideas of war. It appears in world-wide demands that the A-and H-bomb principles shall be applied to useful purposes. Who are the leaders of this revolution in thought? Farnell Britton, author J. B. Priestley recently examined them in a BBC broadcast from London to overseas, entitled "We Are the Gentle Anarchists."

J. B. PRIESTLEY
(BBC Overseas Broadcast)

I have called us anarchists because we distrust and dislike the power systems the immense machines, call it authority, believing that men would do better to rely on voluntary and informal associations. I have called us the gentle anarchists because we have no desire to run anybody else and have no intention of throwing bombs.

We are not members of an organized group, but simply a number of men and women in various countries who think along certain lines.

We are living in a time and in a world—whatever that we are all in a difficult situation. No sooner do we end one war than we have to begin thinking about, and preparing for, another, which seems promising to be more horrible still. Nobody wants war. We all want peace. Yet we are living in a world dominated by the idea of war.

* * *

What is the matter with us? Some people will say that the human animal is a fighting animal, man is still aggressive at heart, still the most treacherous bloodthirsty of earth's creatures. I think he is; nevertheless, the human animal, considered as to date. Modern wars, fought between great powers, do not necessarily offer little outlet for man's aggressive impulses.

A pugnacious man wanting to let rip would find more satisfaction in starting a fight in the nearest saloon bar. It is not the modern man's pugnacity but his intelligence that is also to blame.

He obeys orders.

Nothing that we are given him by the state. It is states and not people who make total war. But we are told that states represent people. But do they? They do not. They don't make a specific, or for we have already agreed that people in general want peace.

In no states do the people in general ever demanded atomic warfare, chemical and chemical warfare, and all the other horrors; their opinion has never been asked.

* * *

It is governments and not people that have created these nightmares. But do states want war? Again I think not. If we are not against war in the complete sense we which their ordinary citizens are against it.

After all, the state is a warmaking organization which has to come to terms with other warmaking organizations.

The state is in the power-and-force business.

If everywhere in the world we were busy weakening this instrument, cutting down the machine, then we could be moving away from war.

But in fact we are always elaborating the instrument, strengthening the machine, giving the state more and more power, offering it precious civil liberties that our forefathers had to fight for.

And war itself encourages us to do this, trapping us in a vicious circle.

The trouble with high power systems is that they are generally controlled by men who have themselves a deep-seated desire for power that can never be satisfied, unlike an appetite for food, drink, women, luxurious living.

Much of the ideological warfare of our time is merely an appetite over for a naked struggle for power. This explains why our age is so noisy with propaganda, why all the instruments of persuasion are used at once to slander and strong.

Ordinary men and women have to be persuaded that they do not want something that in fact they do want, that their own lives, their own lives in a sensible and satisfying fashion, and that they want what in fact they do not want, namely to sacrifice nearly all that makes life worth living to the drives of some power system. They will not accept this unless that the tolerable is intolerable, and that the intolerable is tolerable.

In view of these appalling dangers many thoughtful and well-meaning persons urge upon governments and upon government, which would free us for ever from the fear of war, that only such a government is to be preferred to world ruin.

But it is possible to take too hopeful a view of it. To be effective, such a government, if it is very powerful indeed. It would soon find itself interfering with our private and everything.

It could easily become the most crushing tyranny the world has ever known.

Opposition to it would be regarded as the most dangerous treachery. To guard against this the control of thought might soon be considered necessary. The whole freedom of expression would vanish. Even the right to live our own lives to live our own way would be seen as an act of dangerous rebellion.

Individuality could be the gravest treason.

* * *

Looking down on men from this vast, cruel power, the world authority, its controllers and their bureaucrats would see them as vague swarming masses to be sternly regulated and if necessary be coerced into submission. Such a power would be the world itself, organizing every individual impulse.

So the grim fantasies of science fiction might prove to have been prophetic. The human anthill would have arrived.

It is no use travelling faster, if we are going in the wrong direction. We have to alter the machinery of power to elaborate and strengthen itself at our expense, feeding it with our time and money, our rights and liberties, our very blood.

People do not exist to serve power.

And if power will not serve people, then we must weaken, cut down and if necessary destroy its instruments.

Camels Stingy With Sweat

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Does the camel have a special compartment in his stomach or hump for storing water? The answer to this old puzzler is, no, that is what two scientists found out in the Sahara desert. They were particularly interested in determining how the camel manages to survive in the hot, dry regions that mean death to most other creatures.

They learned that camels hardly ever sweat at all, even in extreme heat. This "stinginess" with body moisture enables them to go for months without a drink. One of the experimental camels subsisted for 17 days on nothing but hay and dried dates out in the scorching sun where the temperature often exceeded 100 degrees and then drank in only 10 minutes. it a camel does drink, it can tank up in a hurry. One moisture-starved camel downed 30 gallons within

The Lion's Share

A year ago a farmer in New York State started raising lions for business and pleasure. He says he's still raising lions but not for them; they eat too much. Even a young one consumes 25 pounds of meat daily, more when he is really hungry.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

PHANTOM THYMUS STATE

The favorite hobby or sport of a husky college freshman aged 19 is mountain climbing. It seems that the more difficult and dangerous the climb the better he likes it.

Oddly enough, when he was a baby he would become frightened if you placed him tossed him or even lifted him high. In the play babies usually like. Also the baby had what the doctors called enlarged thymus gland. The diagnosis was confirmed, the doctors said, by X-ray.

Dr. Brady

The baby breathed noisily, both inspiration and expiration, all the time, and occasionally had a spell of difficult breathing resembling asthma.

Extension of the neck relieved the breathing difficulty; flexion or bending the neck reduced it.

Along with the breathing difficulty the baby sometimes looked cyanotic, bluish or livid, instead of the warm pink one expects in a baby.

Temper brought on or aggravated all these symptoms.

Up to this point the medical story seems justified for the sake of reassuring anxious parents. But we can't go one step beyond this point, not in a health column. Nor in a personal letter.

When the baby was about three years old in the Mayo Clinic and a group of trick specialists who passed him around for all the world like various members of the "clinic" could contrive—and they finally decided to operate not on the thymus, but on what they diagnosed as adenoid hypertrophy.

I was opposed to this, but a prophet hath no honor in his own country. The child underwent the operation, but that is all.

Believe it or not, about ten years later, in a well meant endeavor to correct the boy's asthmatic tendency, another squad of trick specialists attempted to remove adenoids which were not there. This time an anesthesiologist, a hematologist, and allergist and an ORL (ear, nose and throat specialist) combined their talents, and the boy suffered severe hemorrhage. But again the crude surgery made no notable difference in the boy's asthmatic tendency.

The original diagnosis of enlarged thymus gland seemed to answer the classical medical textbook description of a condition known as "status lymphaticus" or "status thymico-lymphaticus." The X-ray film seemed to confirm this phony diagnosis—I say phony because it withstood no more about it than we did then.

Among other treatments the boy received was a series of exposures of the upper part of breastbone area to X-rays. The X-ray specialists, enthusiastically playing the guessing game with all the other specialists, thought this treatment would reduce the size of the thymus gland. Sure enough, in the course of a few months X-ray films showed gradual reduction in the size of the gland.

But all this to-do about enlarged thymus gland and "status thymicolymphaticus," in the opinion of medical authorities today, was just a bad case of synthetic anis in the medical pants.

Routine X-ray films of the thymus area of newborn infants in a large hospital showed enlarged thymus in many perfectly healthy babies.

A study of the subject by A. Graeme Mitchell, M.D., and Josef Warkany led to the conclusion that—

"If such a condition as status thymicolymphaticus exists . . . there is no justification for the belief that radiologic" (X-ray) "irradiation, extirpation of the thymus or administration of thymus extracts would have prevented. . ."

"If such a condition as status thymicolymphaticus exists," these doctors said.

As nearly as I can learn, it doesn't.

Three Pubs Of Their Own

(London Free Press)

Chesham, a sleepy English community has a public population of 13,206 residents, and two citizens who bear each other the utmost antagonism. Nevertheless, they have no need in any of the pubs they become immediately embroiled in brawls. A magistrate was so Solomon like he decided to have. Each man has been allotted three pubs from which the other agrees to stay away. Should they meet in any of the pubs assigned to them they agree to walk out at once with their hands still in their pockets.

Something of this sort is urgently required in the world at large; three pubs to Russia, three to Uncle Sam, and leave the other 40 to the rest of us. The fly in the ointment is that there is no magistrate to hand down the decision, no cop on the corner to enforce the law. The world is not as simple or as wise as Chesham.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEPING UP WITH INTERESTS

People do not get tired out from working where work is intelligently handled. Work, if it is interesting, is a stimulant. It's worried and a lack of interest in what one does that does and discourages.

Every one of us should have our pet interests—as many as we can handle efficiently and successfully. Interests should never be allowed to get cold so that all our enthusiasm is spent. Each day can be one of triumph if you keep up to your interests — if feeding them as they feed you!

A person of many interests is always attracting attention. He is never dull. The very air about him seems charged! These interests keep supporting one another because they are so interchangeable. A man of many hobbies is a man of many ideas—each a searching mind.

If the athlete slows up his training he finds himself losing interest. He soon becomes inactive, and often lazy, but so long as his interests care of you!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Beautiful Floral Arrangements Demonstrated at Hospital Aux.

Spring was really in the air at the recent Hospital Auxiliary meeting when Mrs. Willson Jardine demonstrated with deftness and skill how beautiful results may be obtained by commonplace or simple floral arrangements.

As he described different methods of treating flowers, he fashioned, in a few seconds, a dainty corsage for the president.

He advised cutting garden flowers in the late evening or early morning when they are full of water. A sharp knife is preferable to scissors, and the stem should be cut on the slant. Hard stems, such as lilac, if hit with a hammer will allow water to permeate. If excess foliage is removed it will not suck up water from rest of flower where it is needed.

BEAUTIFUL COMBINATIONS

Mr. Jardine made several beautiful combinations: one of hydrangeas and tulips, another in a blue decanter, of forsythia, yellow marguerites and one bright red carnation—effective and inexpensive. Pure calla lilies, rising one behind another in a flat crystal bowl were awe inspiring. Then —"Here, Lady Slipper," the speaker said, as he arranged rose clarkia and yellow daisies in a yellow china pottery, and combined carnations with a coral spray in another. With the pencil branch of a cypress tree, which, in its formation suggested a cathedral, he set a miniature figure of a mallorna surrounded with white 'mums and shasta daisies and white coral as a background.

"Adapt yourself to the flowers, not them to you," advised Mr. Jardine as he demonstrated the stem of a flower that would not stay on a spike; then a snip, a bit of pressure, presto! the flower recalls life and placed it securely in the vase. He pointed out the combine "complicated" tulips and sweetpeas using huckleberry twigs and pussy willows to complement bright and pastel colors.

Mrs. Hall thanked the speaker for sending speedy recovery to home emiling to the "coffee" much. Those wishing to contribute food may inform Mrs. Seibert or Mrs. W. Campbell who will collect the gift.

Miss Dickson opened on the Easter gifts to the bed patients. Mrs. Willson and Mrs. Hall distributed some baskets of fruit. Easter novelties for the children, and candy in the form of hot cross buns greeted the adults on their trays on Easter morning.

Mrs. Richen submitted the names of new members.

It was unanimously approved that the auxiliary members, under the convenorship of Mrs. H. Wray, plan to serve tea on Hospital Day in May.

Christ Church E.B.W.A. Sponsors Dainty Spring Tea

Fragrant Easter lilies, rose-tinted tulips, stocks, and more here and there a pot of pink hydrangea with ferns formed a pretty setting for the spring tea held yesterday afternoon in the parish hall of Christ Church under the auspices of the Evening Branch of the W.A.

The tea room, which was formed by a quadrangle roped off by long ropes of twisted pale green and yellow extending from pillar to pillar, was most attractive with its home cooking table at one end, and the long tea table at the other; while in between were the little guest tables, each appointed with its white cloth and centred by a green holder having one golden daffodil.

Receiving the guests at the door were Mrs. F. B. Cowgan, wife of the rector, and Mrs. A. Cooper, president of the Branch, while inviting to the tea room was the tea hostess, Mrs. Everett Sealey, wife of the assistant rector of the church.

PRETTY TEA TABLE

Those who poured tea at the pretty appointed tea table with its white damask cloth, centred with a lovely arrangement of spring flowers in a pale yellow container including tiny rose-colored daffodils and tall spikes of mauve colored Russian statice, mingled with huckleberry sprays and flanked by-tall, pale green and yellow candles in crystal holders, were Mrs. Charles Cook and Mrs. Percy Welch; Mrs. L. A. Page and Mrs. R. H. Goddeu; Mrs. A. Wonnacott and Mrs. E. Hickey.

Those serving were: Mesdames H. Stevens, C. Fuzzen, A. Swain, J. MacDonald, J. Ling, J. Spencer, W. Fleming, P. Burton, W. Ludlow and J. Hibbard. Assistant-Ludlow and J. Hibbard. Assistant-Lang, Mrs. C. Ling, and Mrs. I. Shamba, while replenishing the tea table were: Mrs. M. Button and Mrs. I. Reid. The teapot replenisher was Miss A. Rogers.

HOME COOKING

The homecooking table was replete with a fine assortment of bitter and sweet marmalades, relishes, beet and cucumber pickles, cup cakes, taffy tarts, chocolate cakes, lemon pies, cookies, chocolate macaroons, maple walnut loaf cakes, date and nut bread, Banbury tarts, orange bread, fruit loaf cakes, lemon cheese topped cherry pies, homemade bread, and frosting across the table centre was a complete train made from little biscuits of various kinds, complete with engine. This table was convened by Mrs. W. Ellsworth assisted by Mrs. W. Leathem, Mrs. H. Bidwell and Mrs. H. Ramey, with the convener of the memorable station being Mrs. G. Gilhem, assisted by Mrs. S. Bull.

At three moments of candles, which included pink Turkish delight, chocolate fudge, peanut brittle, chocolate fudge and maple creams was under the managery of the Junior W.A. and convened by Mrs. G. W. Cherry, assisted by Mrs. H. Bowen, Mrs. H. S. Clarke and Mrs. Jack Boyle.

On the "Country Table," convened by Mrs. H. Mills, assisted by Mrs. H. Ingram, Mrs. S. Bragg and Mrs. A. Hughes was a splendid collection of articles; little sun dresses in blue with matching embroidery trimmed bonnet; little blue trimmed dress with rows of dainty ruching; children's and grown-ups' aprons in half and full sizes; fancy lingerie and colorful gents; embroidered tea cloths, and others with applique; tea appliques worked by guest towels in yellow with embroidered initials; pastel colored tatted and yellow lace edging; embroidered tea cloths in ecru with gaily printed borders; kitchenette slippers in blue, green and coral; and many other articles, all dainty and most suitable for special gifts.

NURSERY FOR TINY TOTS

A nursery was also held for the little toddlers who ought be entertaining with their own rocking horses, and other suitable toys. This was in charge of Mrs. Arthur Hopkins, assisted by Mrs. C. Meadow and Mrs. T. Clarke.

Mrs. B. Wells acted as treasurer for the afternoon.

Special commendation goes to the convenors of the tea, Mrs. L. Mason and Mrs. E. Whitmore, also to the decorating committee, Mrs. E. Smith, Miss Brunskill and Miss Lucille Morton, for the attractive and delightful arrangements, with "nothing in excess."

Recent Bride Feted With Linens, Crystal

Last evening a happy time was spent at the Elwards Centre, Dundas street, when 25 friends of Mrs. Terrance Heard, of Peterborough, nee Barbara Alexander, formerly of Belleville, and recent bride, met to honor her with a linen and crystal shower.

During the evening, euchre and other games were enjoyed, as well as a social get-together. Following the games, Mrs. Heard was presented with a beautifully decorated clothes basket filled to overflowing with gayly wrapped packages from the appropriately adorned table with its white damask cloth and pink and white bows and streamers.

After the gifts had been unwrapped, and the accompanying cards read, Barbara most graciously thanked each donor, both for the gift and for the good wishes for her future happiness.

Refreshments, including coffee, were served, and delicious cakes, brought a delightful occasion to a close.

Two Books Discussed At Books' Club

At a recent meeting of the Great Books Discussion club, Mrs. Phillips led the discussion on the two chapters of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," dealing with the rise of the Christian church. Eight members were present.

On Monday, with Mr. Ross as leader, discussion was on Mills' Essay on "Liberty" with 13 members present, and Dr. Martin in the chair. What constitutes liberty provided ample scope for many divergent views. It would seem that liberty should be exercised by all up to the point at which it interferes with the liberty of someone else. The fine line of distinction becomes difficult to place.

The keynote of Greek art. Also to those behind the scenes whose willing assistance helped in its pleasing culmination.

G. Molyvdas Gives Talk On Grecian YMCA

The Y's Menettes club of Belleville, held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the YMCA, with the president, Mrs. V. Weir, presiding.

A short business discussion followed. It was decided to hold a bowling party for the following meeting.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. George Molyvdas, general secretary of the YMCA, in Salonica, Greece, who gave an interesting and enlightening lecture on the work of the YMCA in Greece, illustrated by pictures.

Mrs. Di Diamantides showed a beautiful display of Cyprus lace.

An enjoyable evening closed with refreshments served by the hostesses of the evening, Mrs. R. Clarke and Mrs. K. Yorke.

Weddings

BURTON—DELINE

Christ Church, Belleville, was the setting on Saturday, April 16, at high noon for a lovely double-ring wedding when Barbara Jean Deline, of Belleville, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Deline, of Mahone, Ontario, became the bride of Lionel Frank Burton, of Belleville, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Burton. White stocks, white snapdragons, white tulips, and white lilies adorned the altar, while baskets of pink and white tulips and pink and white snapdragons the chancel rail.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the boys' choir of eight voices who sang during the processional "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven," and while the register was being signed "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Owing to the illness of the bride's father, she was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Alfred Barnett. Her bridal gown was of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with fitted bodice of Chantilly lace with matching bolero having a Marie Antoinette collar and long, pointed sleeves. The sackle-length skirt in crinoline effect was enhanced by a tiered tulle and lace overskirt edged with seed pearls and iridescent beads. Her fingertip embroidered nylon veil was held by a tiara encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a white prayer book crested with garnet colored roses, with trailing streamers knotted with rosebuds.

Mrs. Alfred Barnett, of Malone, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Misses Betty Burton, sister of the bridegroom, and Patricia Holden, both of Belleville, were bridesmaids. All were gowns of aqua colored nylon chiffon in waltz length, featuring fitted, shirred sleeveless bodices with sweetheart necklines outlined with seed pearls and iridescent beads, with full skirts having back bows and long ties of matching material. They wore matching, feather headdresses ornaments and carried Colonial bouquets of pink carnations and sweetpeas interspersed with tulle.

Little Miss Carol Roxanne Barnett, of Malone, niece of the bride, was flower girl, sweet in her yellow ballerina-length frock of nylon with pink velvet sash and matching pink straw bonnet. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white pons and yellow, Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Sidney Allcorn, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were, Mr. George Foster, of Belleville and Mr. Deane Fry of Fairmount, Ontario, cousin of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, wearing a street-length gown of navy blue crepe with grey accessories and corsage of pink and white carnations, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in a street-length gown of grey taffeta with pink accessories and corsage of pink and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and New York State, the bride chose a pale blue linen ensemble with navy and white topcoat, navy and white accessories, and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Burton will reside at 238A West Moira Street, Belleville, upon their return.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Agincourt, Madoc, Marmora, Malone, Gananoque, Bannockburn and Picton, Ont., Mich.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride, a pearl necklace and matching earrings; to his groomsman and ushers, gold initialled tie clips. The bride's gift to her bridegroom, set of initialled brushes, and to her attendants, gold crosses and chains.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Alfred Barnett, of Malone, Ont.

Quintena Lodge Enjoys Evening Of Cards

A pleasant evening of cards was enjoyed at Oddfellows Hall by Quintena Rebekahs and their friends.

The evening was successfully convened by Mrs. Hesketh Webber, Myrtle Andrews and Annis Wells.

Prize winners were: ladies, Mrs. Howard Ahey, Mrs. Helena Darwell and Mrs. A. Williamson; men, H. Henn, George McWilliams, Mrs. J. Harwood.

The convenors and their assistants were recipients of many compliments for the delightful refreshments served after the games.

Bride-to-Be Feted With Trousseau Tea

A dainty trousseau tea was held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Jackson, MacDonald Gardens, in honor of their daughter, Shirley Joan, bride of this week.

Receiving the guests were the hostess, Mrs. Fred Jackson, wearing beige with white carnation corsage, and the bride-to-be, attired in black and pink with pink Sweetheart rose corsage.

Those who presided at the tea table with its white damask cloth and centre of white sweetpeas, fine candlewaxes, and yellow daffodils, flanked by white candles were, Mrs. James Anson and Miss Kay Campbell.

Those who served were Mrs. "Phil" Parnell, and Mrs. Brian Mulvihill.

In charge of the gifts, the guest book, and trousseau, and the Misses, were, the bridesmaids: Miss Dorothy Jackson, Miss Charlie Raycroft, Mrs. John Bachelor, and Miss Deanna Halsey, respectively. Assisting the eighty guests present was the mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. Lillian Stephens.

'Girl of Year' Crowned By Alpha Lambda

Mrs. Vincent McLean was crowned "Girl of the Year" at the annual Black and Gold Ball sponsored by the Alpha Lambda Chapter Beta Sigma Phi, at Club Cosmodore, on Friday night.

In recognition of the outstanding work given to the chapter during the past year. Sorority members voted Mrs. McLean this honor. Social Sponsor, Mrs. Clyde Ryan, crowned the honored member with a handsome tiara loaned by Mr. Paul Mercier.

Mrs. William McCutcheon, director of Sorority, presented Mrs. McLean with gold carrings mounted crossed with the Sorority crest.

SPRING MOTIF

The Club was decorated in Spring motif with boughs of apple blossoms used in artistic arrangement, through the capable supervision of Mrs. William Riley.

Numerous spot dance prizes were won by the guests, and the door prizes, donated through courtesy of Mr. Earl Kuntze, of Kuntze and sons, Mr. Donald Carr, General Electric Company and Mr. Glen Elliott were won by Mrs. Jack Spafford and Mrs. Ralph Knutson.

Mrs. Vincent McLean convened the dance with Mrs. Douglas Black as ticket convener.

Women's Activities

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown W.A. was held last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Hawke with a fair attendance. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Ken Stickle and the "Lesson Thoughts" by Mrs. McLean, all on the Easter theme.

Mrs. Ferguson thanked the hostess for the use of her home and welcomed Mrs. Plumpton to the meeting. Duties were paid. The report of the executive meeting of the Belleville Presbytery was read by Mrs. Alva Meyers. A thank-you note from Mrs. A. Vanderwyst was also read.

It was decided that all outstanding bills be paid. On June 2nd the Johnstown W.A. is holding a Spring tea and bazaar at Glen Miller hall.

Two of the ladies were appointed to clean the church in May. An account of money was given toward the expenses of the church. The birthday box was passed around and Mrs. M. Mallory, Mrs. Clayton Curtis and little Miss Julie Ferguson had a birthday, so "Happy Birthday" was sung to them.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. J. Meyers' with Mrs. Clayton Curtis and Mrs. Meyers responsible for the program.

Miss Evelyn Harry gave a piano solo. Several poems were read: "House to Live In", by Mrs. J. Bonk; "Afternoon," by Mrs. E. Sickle. A missionary reading was then given by Mrs. M. Mallory, missionary superintendent, "An Easter Story of Old Quebec"; a trio was arranged, consisting of Mrs. E. Bush, Mrs. C. Curtis and Mrs. Plumpton, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus". A couple of poems were read, "I Want a Wife," by Mrs. C. Curtis and "House Hunting" by Mrs. Brunt.

A contest was arranged and Mrs. Bush won the prize.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and convener.

Mother's Helper

By Ellsworth D. Pearson

CUT DOWN the legs of an old folding card table, and you'll have a fine play table for your child's room. Cover it with oilcloth to make a good sturdy surface for tea parties, "art work" puzzles. It's easy to tack away when play time is over.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF A HUSBAND SAYS "GO" WIFE STAYS

If your husband or your wife were to keep telling you that he or she as the case may be, were sick and tired of you and wished you would get out for good, what would you do?

One wife who has been married for eight years, and has three children, writes to ask what I think a woman should do under such circumstances.

Personally, I can't think of any easier question to answer. I should think that any wife would get out as fast as possible.

Why under the sun she would want to stay, I cannot see, unless of course, she would find herself with an insoluble financial problem if she were to go. Even then, however, it seems to me that any women with real self-respect and initiative would prefer to find some way of supporting herself and her children—assuming that she would prefer to take them along with her—than continue to accept support from a husband who preferred her absence to her presence in the home.

My feeling is that the woman who puts the question doesn't really want any advice that might lead her to walk out and assume such responsibility. She may well be one of those—and many of us are like that—who would rather not stay in an unsatisfactory situation, in the hope that it may at some time magically become a happy one, than make the effort to change it herself.

The reason I suspect this women does not really want to leave her husband is that her letter presents so many reasons for not doing it. She evidently likes to play with the idea of going; she even admits that if she did go, she is sure that she and the children would be happier. But instead of getting down to brass tacks, and specifically planning what she might do if she were to walk out and take her children with her, she goes on and on about how it would hurt her husband if she went; how it would upset her children to have their home broken up; and how she might have a nervous breakdown if she took such a step.

None of this, of course, is consistent.

For a woman to worry about hurting a husband who treats his wife as badly as this one complains of being treated seems ridiculous. He himself is apparently not very much worried about being hurt by her departure, since he has already told her to get a lawyer and start divorce proceedings. As for the children, I would say it was extremely questionable whether the break-up of their home would do them any more harm than living in a house where the mother and father were constantly quarreling and abusing each other. And so far as her fear of having a nervous breakdown if she left her husband is concerned, I would think she would be far more likely to have one if she kept on living under conditions which, she says, are wearing her down to a frazzle.

"How can a woman get courage to go through these things?" this wife asks, and I assume she means going through the complete readjustment of her life that leaving her husband would mean.

The answer to that, of course, is that when anyone wants something enough, he generally finds the courage to go after it.

The whole question, therefore, reduces itself to just this: Which is strongest in this harried woman, the desire for peace and relief from nervous and emotional strain or her fear of leaving the familiar, however unhappy it may be, and going out to face an unknown future. If the former is stronger, she will find the courage she needs to make a decision, act upon it and carry it through.

Spiced Beef

By Mary Moore

This is a common sense column. Spiced beef is a fancy delicatessen product, but made from a cheaper cost cut. It is your treatment of it that turns it into a delicacy.

For weeks I have been mentioning spiced beef and promising you the formula. Readers have had time to respond to my comments by sending their favorite spiced beef recipes to me. Out of this shaving of spiced beef we've eaten here yesterday.

It was a success, and a very good meat to have on hand during the time the wedding guests were in the house. In fact it was so popular that the groom's mother took about a pound of it sliced back to Castlegar, B.C., by plane for the groom's father (who quite not attend the wedding).

SPICED BEEF
(Courtesy Aileen A.)

These amounts were used for 2 5-lb. brisket joints from Hel Brand beef well-trimmed of excess fat. Be very fussy how and where you buy the brisket point.

Mix together 1-3 tablespoon salt petre (buy it at the drug store) and 2 tablespoons brown sugar. Rub this with fingertips over all of the surfaces of the meat and let stand in crock or enamel dish pan (no tubs) for 3 days in a cool place, turning over once.

Mix together and sift several times 3-4 oz. black pepper freshly ground, 1 oz. ground allspice, 1-2 oz. ground cloves, and 1-3 cup non-iodized salt. Measure this and divide into 8 parts (roughly 1 1-2 tablespoons in each part) and rub 1-8 of it into all surfaces of each piece with your fingertips every day for eight days. (Note: Some beef spicers do not add water but turn beat on very low until some of the juices are drawn from meat—this would be the method Mrs. D. N. MacM. is looking for.) Remove meat from heat, let stand in liquid with weight on top to cool. Skim off fat. Keep meat in liquid if desired. (I didn't.) I wrapped ours in parchment paper then in wax paper and stored it in the meat tender in the refrigerator.) Slice thinly and serve cold. (Or for the first serving slice warm and serve between slices of large rye loaf with dills.) This will keep for weeks. I started mine 40 days ago (with the salt petre and brown sugar treatment) and we ate the last piece yesterday. I kept it in the refrigerator throughout.

SPICED BEEF NO. 2

(Courtesy Hilda B. McN.)
Also called "Kosher". Buy a "Point of Brisket", have it boned and cut off fat. Original will be 8 or 9 lbs., but the meat will shrink to about 4 or 5 lbs. Two tablespoons salt petre, 4 tablespoons salt, 4 tablespoons brown sugar, 6 tablespoons mixed whole pickling spices, 6 bods garlic cut finely. Add 1-2 cup cold water (to above ingredients). Place meat in this brine in a glass dish, turn each day for 4-5 days. Boil 3 hours. P.S. The meat can be placed in refrigerator when finished.

Note—A letter from Marjorie A. gives another recipe for Spiced Beef. She included recipe for Hot Potato salad to go with it. Watch for it next week.

AUDIENCE GROWS

GLASGOW (AP)—Billy Graham, the American evangelist, spoke to 17,500 people Tuesday night, largest audience so far in his religious crusade in Scotland. Graham now has spoken to 480,070 persons at Kelvin Hall. In addition, more than 1,500,000 people have heard Graham over a telephone network to halls throughout Britain.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

WHEN BLONDS HAIR DARKENS

The blonde has a real grievance when she finds that her golden hair is becoming tarnished, the growth more dusty, or getting darker with every birthday. And she can't help wondering why Nature didn't give her a color guarantee along with her lovely tresses. Brunettes stay as is and red heads, too, as a rule.

This unhappy state of affairs is due to changes in the tiny pigment cells within each silky shaft. Why these changes take place as when the hair turns grey — nobody knows.

The blonde can take one beauty path or another. She can accept this transition resignedly or she can betake herself to a beauty shop and submit her tresses to bleaching treatments.

To bleach the hair successfully without devitalizing the delicate shafts is a project which requires a skilled operator who understands the effects of the chemicals used. It is no job for an amateur. The woman who fancies she can do a good job herself is heading a grave mistake. For one thing, no matter how smart she is, she can't see the back of her head.

A operator may use a pack known as white henna that is more satisfactory than the old-fashioned peroxide treatment. There is, of course, no such herb as white henna; it is a name the trade has created.

The pack is compounded of powdered magnesium carbonate, peroxide and a small amount of ammonia to form a paste. (No, Goldilocks, we will not tell you the proportions; this is not for amateurs.) The paste is distributed carefully, timing must be precisely right, as there is always the possibility of over-bleaching that will cause the growth to take on a lute-like quality that is anything but attractive.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE "ABSENTEE" GUEST OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Before I had my baby, a group of my friends gave me a Stork Shower — and how very helpful it was. Now one of my dearest friends, who lives quite a distance from here, is to have a baby. I was wondering if I might have a Stork Shower for her, even though of course she couldn't attend. Do you approve of this? Esther.

From what you tell me, I judge that your plan would be to ask a group of your friends, who don't even know your faraway friend, to come to a shower and bring gifts for her? This would certainly be a forced gesture, entirely out-of-order, just a bid for "help-ful" gifts for a mother-to-be who is a stranger, I take it, to all whom you would invite.

LADIES!

Sometimes we know you get the urge,
To really go downtown and splurge,
But take our warning, It's good advice,
If you want to save money you should think twice.

We're just off main street but you can guess,
That we're upstairs to give you the best.
Since the cost of travel is low you will soon find,
You can buy the best without keeping the price in mind.

We've lovely dresses and just the right styles,
To bring the spring spirit into your smiles,
We've shortie coats and long coats too,
And our motto is to bring them for less to you.

If you are not ready with the right answer and qualifications when the Dominion "Famous Brands" Fortune-Hunt calls, it is just like having $2,000 right in your hands, only to throw it away.

That happened to a number of Ontario people last Saturday night before Mrs. Bernard Boos, 58 Brien Ave., Essex, answered "Dominion Stores—Robin Hood Cake Mix." Today Mrs. Boos has the $1,000 you might have earned.

Mrs. J. R. McNeil, 99 Fairview Ave., Sudbury, had the right answer to win $1,000, PLUS the necessary qualifications to receive an extra bonus $1,000, but the call was answered "Hello." As a result Mrs. McNeil lost the big money, but won a $100 consolation prize.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES! Be ready to win $2,000 this week in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT. First, find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on this page but not illustrated. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $2,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand." If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calling, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a Dominion cash register slip dated this week and totalling $5.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand," you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Belleville Lodge 233 Wins Trophy

Guardian Lee Lucas and a good number of the juvenile girls and senior members of L.O.B.A. and L.O.L. journeyed to Kingston by bus, on Wednesday night to attend the Grand Lodge meeting of the I.O.L.

Sister Edna Lindsay, Grand Juvenile Director of Ontario East, presented the trophies to the various L. O. Lodges, with Belleville lodge no. 233 being the proud winners of the Pilling trophy for the best progress of the year; also the third getss for the most initiations.

Following the close of lodge, all enjoyed dancing.

Mrs. Ross Stickle thanked the ladies for standing behind her in the past few years she has been president. Mrs. Alva Meyers moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Stickle for her good work while she was president.

The district annual of the Women's Institute will be held at Sidney Baptist Church, near Stirling, on the 7th. of June.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perce Boulton on May 11th. Refreshments were provided by the hostess and conveners.

LAWN ORGANIC

FOR RAPID GROWTH

LAWN ORGANIC being a natural organic product will not burn as is the possibility when using an inorganic or chemical type of fertilizer.

Fertility, color and growth depend upon even distribution of LAWN ORGANIC, careless methods but only waste valuable material but leave telltale marks of dark green. Rapidly growing grass can be treated seven and thin, disappointing turf can shipped xmas.

On large lawns best results are obtained by using a fertilizer distributor which can be obtained from your dealer. In using these machines be sure of overlap otherwise the deficiency indicated stripe will have poor grass.

LAWN ORGANIC can be applied by hand. To obtain uniform distribution apply one-half the LAWN ORGANIC while walking in one direction and the balance while walking in a direction at right angles to this. Never drop the LAWN ORGANIC in piles. It is a waste and may smother the seedlings.

ESTABLISHED LAWNS. Use from 25 to 35 lbs., per 1,000 (1½ to 2½ lbs per 100) sq. ft. of lawn. Make one application in early spring and another about September 1st to encourage vigorous fall growth and thus insure better grass the following year.

On poor soil or where the grass is very thin an application in late May or June using one-half the quantity indicated will make the grass spread to form a denser sod.

Additional seed should be sown on old lawns where grass is now to form turf quicker. Sow the seed after applying the LAWN ORGANIC and rake lightly into sufficiently to cover the seed.

WATERING. Upon application of the LAWN ORGANIC the user will find that the soil will absorb moisture and watering often is suggested and recommended.

NEW LAWNS. Use 40 to 50 lbs. of LAWN ORGANIC per 1000 (1 to 1½ lbs. per 100) sq. ft. Prepare a smooth seed bed. Scatter the LAWN ORGANIC uniformly and work into the surface soil with a rake. Sow ample seed of good quality. Rake lightly to cover seed and roll. If possible keep the soil moist until a good turf is obtained. The nozzle of the sprinkler should deliver water in a fine spray otherwise soil will be washed out of ground.

SCOUT JAMBOREE SITE

A square mile of camping area has been set aside near Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., for some 10,000 Boy Scouts from 40 countries who will converge on the site for 10 days at the eighth World Scout Jamboree August 18-28. Here, Maximin T. Gray, general manager of the Niagara Parks Commission and George E. Simmons of Ottawa, executive Scout commissioner for administration and jamboree officials, view the historic site along the Niagara River. (CP Photo).

Careful Planning Required To Entertain 10,000 Scouts

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Some 10,000 teen-age boy scouts, far from their homes in every continent and speaking more than a score of languages, will camp for 10 days here this summer in the eighth world jamboree.

Preparations for their care require something more than such massive items as 300,000 meals, daily trips three miles to swim and a staff of 20 doctors, dentists and nurses.

Extras like a staff of translators, a chaplain service to minister to many faiths and a sign-language type of directional signs are being planned to meet the special problems of the International gathering of boys and leaders, meeting in North America for the first time.

THEME 40 NATIONS

Canadian boy scout headquarters at Ottawa still aren't sure of the full scope of the problem they face. For instance, how many languages will be spoken in the mile-square tent camp?

"It's anybody's guess," one official at Ottawa said. "We're estimating well over 36."

The majority of the 10,000 at the Jamboree Aug. 18-28 will be from the English-speaking world: 3,300 from Canada, 1,300 from the United States, 1,000 from the United Kingdom. But some 40 countries have said they will send contingents; countries like Austria, Egypt, Japan, Greece and Venezuela.

So among the 17½ tons of meat, 105 tons of dairy products, four tons of fish, 110 tons of fruit and vegetables and other supplies will be special foods to meet dietary requirements of various religions.

The scouts, tenting in patrol units, will cook their own food—using 50 tons of charcoal.

ROSE CAMP

The camp area, along the Niagara river, is an expanse of meadow and trees once famous as an army training centre.

The town itself—population 2,200—lies at the mouth of the Niagara and a fleet of buses will be needed for morning swimming trips of three miles to the beaches of Lake Ontario. A Canadian auto manufacturer is lending 36 cars and 36 trucks for camp use.

Health alone is a major item. There will be 10 first-aid centres spotted about the camp, each staffed by a doctor. The army will convert a nearby school into a temporary hospital, staffed by nine doctors, two dentists and 18 nurses as well as 31 other medical and dental experts.

Across Canada a movement is spreading to raise "hospitality gifts" of $20—$30 camp fee and $30 spending money — to bring scouts from various countries who would otherwise find it difficult to raise the Canadian funds due to exchange problems. Donors can choose the country from which their sponsored scout will come.

All scouts will have to pay their own travel expenses, but it is considered that foreign contingents will not have the same trouble in raising necessary funds in their own currencies to pay for transportation.

The camp itself will be a major-sized town with five times the population of Niagara-On-The-Lake.

It will have a specially-built arena seating 10,000, a business centre with four canteens, post offices, two stores and a bank. Water and electrical services will go into the headquarters of 19 sub-camps. The defence department will provide a fire department on 24-hour duty but internal policing will be handled by the scouts themselves—a force of 60 older rover scouts.

WHAT A WAY TO EARN A LIVING!

Reptile girl Korings sends shivers down the spines of spectators as she reaches the climax of her act with a full-grown crocodile in a Paris, France, circus. Here she pries open the gaping jaws of the monster in order to put her head between its rows of gleaming ivories. Korings—thus far anyway—keeps the reptile under perfect control throughout the performance. (Central Press Canadian).

CMA President Calls on Govt. To Cut Taxes by Lower Costs

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—J. A. Calder, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, yesterday called on the federal government to lower taxes by cutting government costs.

In an address at the annual meeting of the CMA's Atlantic division, Mr. Calder said that in five years, from 1948 to 1953, government spending rose to 18.1 per cent of the gross national product from 13.5 per cent.

The statement was contained in the text of the address, released to the press before delivery.

"It has been admitted by federal taxing ministers that, since the Second World War ended, the Canadian tax structure has not had what might be termed a salutary effect on the economy," he said.

ECONOMY URGED

Mr. Calder suggested the government ensure that it gets full value for every cent it spends. The savings can make possible lower corporate and income taxes without loss of government revenue.

Lower corporate taxes would attract more venture capital; more venture capital would mean increased productivity and lower prices; lower prices would mean increased sales; and increased sales would offset, and in all probability, more than offset, any loss of government income. This would mean that although the rate of taxation is lower, the total income from taxation would be as great or greater.

The same thing would happen if economies in government spending permitted the lowering of personal income tax. People could buy more goods to an amount equal to the added value of the tax and, through such things as sales taxes, government income would probably be increased.

Mr. Calder said every manufacturer, economist and business man knows that greater size should produce greater economy. But this has not been true with the government, he said.

"Figures indicate that, despite the economy which should come with the growth of the country, the proportion of our production which has to go to government spending has not decreased but increased.

STRONG EVIDENCE

"I will not claim that as proof of the possibility of economies in government, but I do most certainly claim that it is very strong evidence."

He said the problem can be readily resolved by an earnest and thorough study made in each department provided governmental leaders and heads of departments are seized with the importance, "or rather the absolute necessity" of taking steps along these lines.

OFFER FAROUK MOVIE JOB

ISTANBUL (AP)—Former King Farouk of Egypt, who is reported to be looking for a job, today was offered work as a film star by the Turkish Mayer Film Co. of Istanbul. The company deposited a cheque for the equivalent of $18,000 with the Istanbul newspaper Millyet as a guarantee, and promised that Farouk appear in three films over a one-year period, with all expenses paid during his stay in Turkey.

No Passes Will Be Issued For Fast Trains

MONTREAL (CP)—N. R. Crump, vice-president of the CPR, said Wednesday night that no passes will be issued for travel on the line's fast new transcontinental train service starting April 24.

The step, however, will not affect members of the Commons, the Senate and the board of transport commissioners, who travel on special certificates.

"The legislation is very clear on this point," Mr. Crump said in an interview.

Mr. Crump said a letter sent to the clerk of the Commons, Leon Raymond, and circulated among the members Wednesday, was merely aimed at outlining the CPR's policy with regard to the new service.

"We wanted to tell them what we are trying to do," Mr. Crump said.

Divided Labor Party in Britain Launches Uphill Campaign To Unseat Eden in May Election

LONDON, (AP) — Britain's divided Labor party has launched its uphill campaign to unseat Prime Minister Eden in the May 26 elections. The Opposition party depicts the former foreign secretary as a novice in domestic affairs anxious to get the election over before he gets into difficulties on the home front.

Herbert Morrison, deputy Labor party leader, opened fire Wednesday night, criticizing Eden's call for a general election less than two months after he took over from retiring Sir Winston Churchill April 6.

"Can it be," Morrison demanded in a speech before the national conference of Labor women at Harrogate, "that Eden feels rather shaky about his capacity? Or is it the case that the government foresees rough economic weather and high living costs and wants to get the election over first?"

The election for a new House of Commons, mandatory every five years, could have been put off until October, 1958. It has been no secret that most Conservatives wanted the vote while the socialists were weakened by their internal split between the followers of Aneurin Bevan, the left wing rebel, and those loyal to former prime minister Clement Attlee and the party's moderates.

In a weekly party newsletter published Wednesday, Eden called on Conservative workers to go all out in the campaign.

He declared that in the last 3½ years of Conservative government "the state of the country has been transformed." Economic strength had mounted steadily and employment and production had reached record levels.

"Yet in spite of all this, much still remains to be done in the cause of peace and progress. We must have a further term of Conservative government."

Despite Morrison's criticism of the election decree, most Labor leaders give the impression that they are ready and eager for the fight.

Admits Being Trotskyist For More Than 20 Yrs.

TORONTO (CP) — George (Paddy) Stanton, expelled recently from the Ontario CCF party, said Wednesday night he has been a Trotskyist for more than 20 years.

The annual convention of the Ontario CCF April 8 cancelled the CCF memberships of Mr. Stanton and 13 other persons on the grounds that the 14 were members of the Canadian section of the Fourth (Trotskyist) International, "in effect, another political party with aims quite contrary to the CCF."

Mr. Stanton issued a statement in connection with remarks in the Commons Tuesday by Colin Cameron, CCF member of Parliament for Nanaimo, who said he wrote a letter on behalf of Mr. Stanton whom he had known for many years on the Pacific coast.

NOT SORRY

Mr. Cameron said in part:

"If, as now appears, Paddy Stanton has, since I knew him on the Pacific coast, become a Trotskyite, and if, on account of that fact, he has to some extent betrayed my trust and delivered me to my enemies, I am not sorry that I wrote that letter."

Mr. Stanton said in his statement:

"To me . . . Trotskyism is just another word for socialism, for orthodox Marxism which is not guilty of any of the crimes of the Russian bureaucracy and is uncorrupted by liberal reformism.

"I have been a Trotskyist for more than 20 years. I was a Trotskyist, and widely known as one, the day I first took out a membership in the CCF in 1934. I am one now. I am widely known as a Trotskyist when on the west coast where I met and worked with Cameron and have in no way betrayed his trust.

"Cameron's letter was in defence of my right to remain in the CCF and a plea for the CCF to remain an all-inclusive party where all labor views, Trotskyist included, could be freely discussed and decided upon by the membership. I assume this is his stand now, as it was at the time of writing the disputed letter."

BIG HOLIDAY BILL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A hotel expert estimates $2,500,000 Americans will spend $10,000,000,000 on vacations this year. Canada will be the favored destination for six per cent of these travellers, predicts hotel consultant Fred Mindt.

Operate on Blind Fish

PORTUGUESE BEND, Calif. (AP)—A 23 - minute underwater operation on the eye of a nearly-blind pet fish was performed by a surgeon Wednesday.

Charlie, a 20-pound, three-year-old bat ray which damaged its eyes by bumping into things in its aquarium tank, had the cornea of one eye replaced by a healthy cornea from a donor bat ray.

Dr. H. George Blasdel, an eye surgeon, wearing a face mask and equipped with an oxygen tank, performed the surgery in 22 feet of water. Pat Patterson, a diver, was his "surgical nurse."

Charlie was swimming frskily several hours later.

ANCIENT RUINS BATTERED

ROME (Reuters) — Lightning sent a high wall of one of Rome's most famous ruins—the baths of Caracalla, nearly 2,000 years old—crashing down with a tremendous roar during a freak storm Tuesday night. The ancient baths are used in summer for open-air opera performances.

160 Attend Holstein Banquet

WELLINGTON — About 160 sat down to the annual Holstein banquet held in the Wellington Consolidated school on Thursday evening. After partaking of a delicious dinner put on by the Women's Institute a sing-song, led by Mr. Carson Scott, was enjoyed by all.

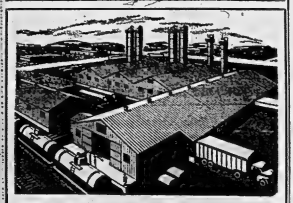
Mr. Joe McAuliffe and Mr. H. Jackson delighted the audience with some fine coronet duets, and the Prince Edward Farmers' quartet gave some excellent numbers, with Mrs. Jack Ward at the piano.

William Nightingale, president of the Holstein Club, was chairman.

Warden Parks and Reeve Clemmons, of Wellington, spoke briefly.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker was Major Douglas Burchette, an English officer attached to the RCAF, Picton. He spoke on the ways of farming in Kent, England, in the Balkans, in the islands of Greece and other parts of the world, which was most entertaining.



Vice-president Proctor thanked the major and presented him with a gallon of maple syrup, made in the county.

PRESENTATIONS

Mr. McColl presented long term record certificates to Mrs. Fred Webster, T. Nightingale and Sons, H. J. McFarland, D. O. Reynolds, Ross Parks and Oscar Parks and Sons.

Mr. Mesres presented the McFarland Farms trophy for the champion Senior-Get-of-Sire, to Mr. Dwight O. Reynolds. Tom May presented Dwight Reynolds with the May trophy for the best three-aldered females. Mr. Reynolds also won the Breeders' shield for the most winnings on animals raised.

New Delhi Grows Into Modern Capital, Five Times Former Size

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — New Delhi, once a city of bungalows and gardens, is growing into a modern capital five times its pre-war size.

Large suburbs of gleaming white luxury apartments, blocks of workers' quarters and industrial colonies are springing up all around the city.

Even the centre of New Delhi, around the Parliament buildings and the main shopping area, is undergoing a change. Five-storey blocks of government offices, business premises and apartments are under construction.

New Delhi's population in 1941 was 300,000. Today, it is 2,000,000.

HUMAN LABOR PLENTIFUL

Every year, 30,000 new houses are going up, providing accommodation for 200,000 people. Little modern equipment is used and the steel and concrete structures spring up under the hands of hundreds of men and women laborers passing up the material along human chains the height of the scaffolding.

It is estimated that from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 houses go up every year in cities and towns throughout India.

The Second World War started the boom in New Delhi's population. The 1947 Indian partition added to it by bringing in several thousand refugees, mainly from the Punjab. Independence and the growth of democracy have multiplied government departments and increased the number of government officials to at least five times the pre-war number.

The opening of embassies in New Delhi for the first time, and the growing need for businessmen to visit or settle in the capital to keep in touch with government policy, added to the pressure on living space.

NEW DELHI SPACIOUS

There are two main areas of the Indian capital—Old Delhi, city of the Moguls, with its narrow streets chittering around the red fort, and spacious New Delhi, with the parliament buildings and the government secretariat, put up by the British administration after the First World War when it decided to move the capital from Calcutta.

Under the development plans these two main areas, together with the numerous outlying suburbs, will be merged into Greater New Delhi. The plans provide for a national theatre which is to be one of the finest in the world, with seating for 2,000 to 3,000 people. A medical institute is planned. New hospitals and schools are under construction. There will be an art gallery and museum, and a zoo.

For the diplomats, a special enclave has been laid out, where embassies can buy plots of land for their offices and living quarters.

Tobacco Shops Should Be Able To Buy Cheaply

OTTAWA (CP) — Tobacco manufacturers should give corner tobacco shops, when organized in groups, the same opportunity as big food chain stores in getting cigarets at lower prices, says the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission.

The commission, in a year-long study of loss-leader selling, heard complaints from independent tobacco retailers that chain stores have been able to get cigarets at lower prices and thereby undersell the local tobacco shop.

It is report Wednesday to the Commons, the commission said it feels tobacco manufacturers should not deny tobacco retailers the opportunity to get cigarets at the same price as the chain stores, provided the tobacco shops can organize to buy cigarets in similar large quantities.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was shaking her head over the newspaper, saying to pop, It's all just too gaudy, William, nothing but wars and threats of wars, and atom bombs to prevent wars, and more wars to prevent more atom bombs.

There's only one question, what to do? pop said, and ma said, And there's only one answer. The men had their chance, and nothing happened but more taxes. It's time to pass a worldwide law to hand the reins of government over to women, and let us rule the roosters for a change. We couldn't possibly make things worse, so the logical assumption is, we'd have to make them better. Our very first rule would be to use arbitration instead of violence, and that would be 50 per cent to begin with, she said.

Good, you can put me down at the head of the list of sponsers as soon as you get the movement started, pop said. But no, wait, just a minute. Speeking or arbitration as opposed to violence, didn't you tell me that your little Friday bridge crowd just threw out a new member without even giving her a trial in the People's Court?

Well naturely we threw her out, after we discovered she was making cetty remarks about the rest of us, ma said, and pop said, How did you discover it.

We found out from Maud Hews, who found out from an outside source, ma said, and pop said, And you didn't give the new member a chance to defend herself before you used violence?

Certainly not, ma said. Maud Hews is one of the original members of the game, and her werd is law, she said, and pop said, Women aren't quite reddy to rule the werld. Take my name off the list of sponsers, he said.

And he got in back of his own paper and stayed there.

BASEBALL!

Organizational groundwork of a district seven-team midget baseball league will be laid at a month-end meeting scheduled for Cobourg, according to Johnny Mowatt, one of the co-guiding lights of Wellington's baseball activities.

This appears to be a fine set-up for the youngsters. Teams which have given indications of entry include Wellington, Campbellford, Cobourg, Colborne, Brighton, Grafton and a place called Addersville, or some name like that.

The league will operate under the aegis of the minor division of the Ontario Baseball Association, and will likely swing into action around May 24. It will likely be dubbed the "Lake shore District Midget Baseball League."

Hopes for a senior league in the district are very dim. With Kingston and Peterborough favoring city leagues and eastern clubs showing little or no interest, it appears the Bains will have an old - fashioned Quoits by Manager Jack Carson regarding an entry in the West Toronto Baseball League have elicited no response from those in charge. It is doubtful if a Belleville entry will be accepted.

Some of the Batas will do their baseballing with teams of the Lakeshore Intermediate loop, it was learned today. Johnny Mowatt, Claude Carr and Dougie Hull are reported to have cast their lots with the Colborne club while Sammy Mulholland might be seen in a Cobourg uniform. Others may follow suit.

Jack Farrell, Bloomfield's gift to minor baseball, has been approached by the Galt junior baseball club. Jack, who reaches his 16th birthday in June, starred with the Wellington midgets last season and sparked them to the first provincial championship won by a village team. He is a shortstop of considerable worker, hits around .340, and played some games for Bryson Reid's intermediate Regents last summer. Jackie is headed for big brackets and it would not surprise this department to see him go a long way in baseball.

GOLF OF THE FUTURE!

Golf "ain't what it used to be."

In the old days the boys who delighted in the cow-pasture pool wouldn't set foot on a links played. They walked miles in the shade of the little white ball.

Now science and easy living have put the game into the push-button class.

It's getting to the point where a club or a champ can get the ball into the hole by merely wishful thinking.

The modern golfer, if he takes advantage of all the gimmicks, science and foresighted business men have arranged for him, won't need to wait for a shower. Even that can be arranged for him en route to the clubhouse.

First of all there is new color scheme. In our days we boasted a pair of tweed plus-fours and a gaudy sweater. Now they are as out-of-date as 1914 flappers in dear ole "Blighty."

The modern golf-ist—since if he follows fashion's dictates will wear costumes that favor pseudo chickens. He will hoist skin-tight gloves. (All the better to hit you with, m'dear.) "Strolen feet" shoes; stuff that makes skins stick to the handy gimmicks he reaches for in the bag; shoes in bright blue from hole to hole and possibly a radar contraption that tells him how far he has to go.

But, according to reports from south of the border, the prize gadget is a visored cap with blinkers. When not playing the blinkers flip up. When swinging they drop down and all the club can see is a little green patch with a white ball in the centre. This, it is said, is especially good if you are playing with Marilyn Monroe or your own fiancée—and in this case who wants to feel armed with golf.

Exercise? Who cares about that? Modern gadgets eliminate that tired feeling and aching muscles. You can even tote the 19th hole around with you.

You can get yourself an electric caddie—and get rid of those eagle-eyed beardless experts who have unreadable minds. Caddie carts operated by electricity are available. Some have folding chairs for relaxation between holes. Others have fired seats.

The new "telephone" clubs have disk attached. All you do is dial the club you want by changing the left. You can have anything from putter to wedge by a flick of the wrist. Cute, eh?

Then there is a ball "picker-upper" which eliminates that painful stoop. There are scorekeepers which operate like the ball-and-strike gadget of a baseball umpire. And there is a kit that will clean your clubs while you walk.

And if your score is well over the hundred's, you can carry a pocket viewer which shows how how to swing, drive and putt in the best Sammy Snead manner.

Quite an eyeful these modern golfing catalogues. While there is neither in sight, it should not be long before a golfer can watch television while riding from hole-to-hole. And some enterprising instruction entrepreneur might screen golfing lessons. Golf balls in the future could be guided missiles. Imagine a golfer doing 36 holes in 36. There would be no fun to it. There could be sudden traps and movable trees. Brakes could be installed on golf balls to slow them down when nearing the cup.

And that strange noise you might hear will be King James IV and those hardy Scots who invented the game back in the mid-fifteenth century, turning over in their graves.

Score Three on Single Hit In Lucky Seventh Inning, Gun for New Record Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

So now the Brooklyns have won themselves nine straight games.

And all they have to do to take No. 10—the one that would set a modern major league record for consecutive victories at season's start—is beat a gent named Robin Roberts today.

The streak has been getting tougher and tougher for the Dodgers and this afternoon's game at Ebbets Field may be the toughest yet. Roberts, the best righthander in baseball, hasn't had too much success against the Brooks in the past, but this time the Philadelphia ace is off to his best start in four years.

Robin is 3-0 thus far, beating the world champion New York Giants twice—including their first 9 3-3 innings opening day and hanging on for 12 innings. Both decisions were by 4-3 counts, and only two of the Giants runs were earned.

LATE COMEBACK

For a time Wednesday night, it looked like Roberts' streak would have any streak for Roberts to challenge. They were shut out on one hit by Dave Hillman's five innings, but then he tired and walked in a run that sent the Dodgers off on a three-run inning and a 3-2 victory over the Phillies.

It was pitching versus pitching in opposition, too, that snapped a string that Baltimore, the Baltimore Orioles made the best of Bob Grim's wildness and a two-run homer by Hal Smith to beat the New York Yankees 6-3 and win their first decision of the American League season. They had lost six.

In the only other AL game, league-leading Boston beat Washington 14-5 behind Milwaukee slugger Chicago 9-5. Winless Pittsburgh was leading the Giants 3-0 when rain halted play after four innings.

ONLY THREE HITS

The Brooks finished with just three hits, while Billy Loes, who beat the Phils for the only other straight time, gave up six—including a two-run Burgess homer—before leaving for Brooklyn's first pinch-hitter of the season in the seventh.

Baltimore made the most of their winter deals to break into the win column, for Gene and Ray Moore, ex-Dodgers, combined to six-hit the Yankees while Billy Cox, another former Brook, got one hit and scored twice. Gene Woodling, who the Birds went to the Orioles in the deal that sent Bob Turley to the Yanks, drove in one run and stigled before Jim Gilliam awaited his homer.

Nixon had the Senators in hand all the way, although he had to bear down in the ninth after Mickey Mantle opened with a double. Norm Zauchin, rookie first baseman, hit a homer, the lone run, all that the Red Sox needed for their sixth success in seven starts.

Milwaukee got its big push from Bobby Thomson, who smacked his second major league grand-slam homer in the second and later stigled home another run. In the eight games the Braves have played, Thomson has driven in 15 runs, five of them Wednesday, and leads the league. He's hitting at a .333 clip from his clean-up spot, one of four Braves over .300.

68-Year-Old Has Perfect Score

SUDBURY — Residents of nearby Cartier today claimed something of a record for 68-year-old pensioner who recently bowled a perfect 450 game in a match with three friends.

Joseph St. Louis, a retired railwayman is believed by Cartier residents to be the oldest bowler to turn in a perfect game.

St. Louis did it in a game with Guy Poulin, Albert Morin and Alphonse Dumont.

Zulueta Wins Split Verdict Over Carter

WASHINGTON (AP)—"For the championship, I take him easy," Cuba's Orlando Zulueta said today after winning a 10-round split decision from lightweight champion Jimmy Carter Wednesday night.

Carter, whose title wasn't at stake in the bout over a national television hookup, didn't have a word to say. But his manager, Willie Ketchum, made up for it. "What a lousy decision," Ketchum howled. "Jimmy beat him. He beat him good."

It was the old story of a puncher, Carter, against a boxer, Zulueta. Jabbing with steady consistency, Zulueta frequently countered to compel Carter, the heavier hitter, to constantly give outdoing him at the final bell.

BOTH OVER LIMIT

Both fighters were over the lightweight limit, Carter at 137½, Zulueta at 137½, but the Cuban said he was confident he could win the title at the legal limit.

Promoter Goldie Ahearn had announced before the fight that if Zulueta showed well, the two would be rematched for the title here in June, but that apparently won't happen.

"Sure we'll fight him again," Ketchum said, "But not in this place. I want a real honest decision next time."

How the fight was scored: Referee Harry Ebanks, 96-93 for Zulueta; Judge Joe Bussa 97-94 for Zulueta; Judge Benny Aderstein 97-93 for Carter.

Plan Junior Lacrosse Group

TORONTO (CP)—The possibility of a six-team group for Ontario Lacrosse Association juniors is remained after Wednesday night's OLA meeting despite the decision of Woodbridge to return to intermediate ranks.

Orillia has been given until Saturday to notify OLA Secretary Chuck Rowan if it will enter a team. Woodbridge, announcing an early-season desire to enter the intermediate division, reversed this in favor of junior representation and then did a second about-face.

Brampton, Peterborough, Toronto St. Catharines and Long Branch are still in the junior series. A full game schedule was adopted. It will be altered if Orillia enters. The 1955 season starts May 18, with St. Catharines at Long Branch.

Prystai Given Watch by Wings

DETROIT— Although he played with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks, forward Metro Prystai last night received a watch which was inscribed: "Metro Prystai, Detroit Red Wings, Stanley Cup champions, 1955."

Prystai, who was traded by the Wings to the Hawks in a controversial "help-the-poor" deal last Nov. 8, was presented with the watch at a victory dinner for the Wings.

Capt. Ted Lindsay of the Wings said:

"This goes to a player who helped us win four National Hockey League championships and two Stanley Cups. He was right here cheering for us all through the Montreal series and we're happy he is with us at this celebration."

Toronto Wins International League Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Toronto Maple Leafs, last season's pennant-winners, and the Montreal Royals, Havana Sugar Kings and Columbus Jets are off to a flying start in the infant 1955 International League season.

Toronto turned in a heavy-hitting performance in defeating Syracuse Chiefs 7-5 in an opening day game at Syracuse Wednesday. The Leafs collected 13 hits off five Syracuse pitchers, scoring three runs in each of the second and third innings.

Columbus, which made its debut in the league after 52 years in the American Association by replacing the Athletics, nipped the Rochester Red Wings 6-5.

TWO STRAIGHT

The Royals and Sugar Kings made it two straight over the Richmond Virginians and Buffalo Bisons, respectively. Montreal had to go 10 innings to edge Richmond 3-2 and Havana tallied two runs in the ninth inning to beat Buffalo 4-3.

The Leafs routed starter Peterson with three runs in the second and added three more off reliever John Anderson in the third on Lew Morton's three-run homer.

Chico Fernandez singled home Dick Teed with the winning run for Montreal in the 12th inning as the Virginians continued to play like a cartoon copy of the team that had 24 one-run games last season.

Abdrubal Baro, who won Tuesday's game for Havana with a three-run homer, and Luis Garcia, hit ninth inning back - to - back homers for the Kings' second straight victory over the Bisons.

Minnesota End Signed by Pegs

WINNIPEG — Jim Soltau, 22-year-old place-kicking end from the University of Minnesota, has signed with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the 1955 Western Interprovincial Football Union season club officials announced tonight.

Soltau, who stands six-feet-two and weighs 195 pounds, is the younger brother of Gordon Soltau, star end for San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

Bombers now have signed 38 players for the coming season, including 11 imports.

Hopes to Hold Playoff Game In Quebec

QUEBEC — General manager George (Punch) Imlach of Quebec Aces said today he will see if arrangements can be made to have a game of the Duke of Edinburgh Trophy series played in Quebec, May 1.

The trophy goes to the winner of a series between playoff winners of the Western Hockey League and the Quebec Hockey League. Edmonton Flyers will meet either Saskatoon Falls Cataracts or Montreal Royals. Cataracts currently lead Royals, 3-2, in games in the best-of-seven QHL final.

Calgary Stampeders won the Edinburgh Trophy last year, the first year it was up for competition, defeating Quebec Aces in a series at Calgary. The series alternates between West and East each year. Aces were eliminated by Royals this season in the QHL semi-finals.

Layne Whips, 'Indian Willie'

SALT LAKE CITY — Utah's chunky Rex Layne put his entire 208 pounds into a couple of bread-basket punches last night. They made short work of Indian Willie Jackson of Alberta, Canada, in what was scheduled as a 10-round main go at the Fairground Coliseum.

Jackson, outweighed by 38 pounds, took a count of eight on the first body blow and was saved by the bell on the second one. But he'd had enough—and decided not to report for the second round.

Swift and well-co-ordinated, the rangy Canadian had been effective with head punches until Layne's body attack found its mark.

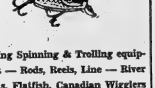
Schmidt Wins Over Champion

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Schmidt, Wednesday night body-punched a decision over Canadian welter-weight champ bonny Forbes to win the central Ontario boxing championship.

The Toronto boxer will travel with other Ontario winners to the Canadian championships at Regina May 2.

Heavyweight George Chuvalo of Toronto backed up a sharp left hook with an almost impregnable defence to decision Sudbury's Al Thibeault. He was voted the best-prospect trophy.



Other title winners included Jorma Ahopelio of Sudbury, 140 pounds.

Toronto Marlboros, Regina Pats Open Memorial Cup Series Tonight

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian junior hockey final opens here tonight, filled with all the old rivalries linked with any big sports event bringing together eastern and western Canada teams.

There's an underdog and a touch of sentiment, local boner and a tremendous will to win.

Regina Pats representing the West are the underdog team with the wise money resting on Toronto Marlboros, eastern champions. Pats have the sympathies of the entire West after six straight years of eastern supremacy in the training grounds which have made hockey Canada's major sport.

Both clubs are hungry for one of the top prizes in amateur hockey, the Memorial Cup which was donated in the grand tradition, to the players who lost their lives in the First World War.

Marlboros last won it in 1939. Pats claimed it in 1930.

The best-of-seven series brings together a big team and a little team, Pats the smaller man for man.

But that smallness may be the undoing of the Toronto team.

Coach Turk Broda watched his boys in a practice session Wednesday and remarked he wasn't happy with the way they were skating. Marlboros players also took a peek at Pats working out said they were impressed with the speed and agility of their opposition.

That could be the big factor in the upset victory Pats look for as a birthday present for Saskatchewan, celebrating its golden jubilee this year.

Both clubs are in next to top shape.

Murray Balfour, Pats all-star defenceman who cracked a kneecap six weeks ago, is expected to be ready for the third game. Ken Girard, Toronto first-line right-winger, may miss the first game because of a charley horse suffered in practice here. Ross Sood-boro, utility forward, may replace him.

Rain Gives Rest To Cockell

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. — Rains came today to the camp of British heavyweight champion Don Cockell to halt his road-work for the second successive day.

Cockell, preparing for his title battle with Rocky Marciano on May 18, complained, "the rain may be good for the crops, but it is bloody awful for road work."

Cockell said he was "well pleased" with new sparring partner Bob Albright of Los Angeles. Albright, a 207-pounder has a record of 30 wins in 32 professional fights. However, another sparring partner, Frank Buford was termed by Cockell as "too slow."

The British fighter took a complete rest today with no sparring. He weighs 214 pounds and will have to shed only a few more in the next month.

FATAL EMOTION

RIPLEY, Ohio (AP)—A 16-year-old girl pencilled her message of love in the sand, then shot herself to death Wednesday along the banks of the Ohio river. Authorities said Carolyn Riddle, an eighth-grade pupil, wrote: "Can't live without you, Jerry, I love you so."

Kingston Trims Sarnia 4-2

KINGSTON (CP)—Kingston defeated Sarnia 4-2 Wednesday night in the third game of the Ontario Hockey Association senior B final. Kingston now leads the best-of-seven series 3-0 with the fourth game to be played here today.

After a scoreless first period, Kingston led 3-2 at the end of the second and added a clincher in the third.

Jack McKeown, Jack Irvine, Jack White and Don Senior scored the Kingston goals. Don Savage and Fred Free scored for Sarnia.

Harry O'Connor of Sarnia drew a game misconduct in the first period for balking back to referee Andy Bellemer.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Here's a player in good form at the top of his backswing. And if you're okay in that position it's a hundred to one you will lay that clubhead on the ball for distance and accuracy. You can't get the club back up there and be nicely balanced like this if you have any really serious kinks in your grip, stance, pivot or backswing. Now, to swing down. At the top your wrists should be under the shaft. The shaft should be just a shade more than horizontal with wood; increasingly less with irons as the loft of the irons increases. All clubs held in a firm — but not tense — grip. Your left arm should be straight. Your right elbow will be close to your right side. Your weight is mainly on your left foot while the inside of the ball of your left foot keeps you faintly in balance. Your left heel is lifted from the ground only enough to keep your left knee on a horizontal plane with your right. When you can wind up in this way you will unwind a sweet shot.

REMEMBER WHEN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Portage in Prairie Terriers walloped Oshawa Generals 8-2 to win the Memorial Cup 13 years ago tonight at Winnipeg. Terriers had won the first two games of the best-of-five series but Oshawa scored an 8-4 victory in the third game. In the fourth, however, centre Lin Bend and winger Jack McDonald each scored three goals in the decisive win for Portage.

Pokes Umpire When Team Loses at Home

SEATTLE (AP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Pacific Coast League Seattle Rainiers takes a poke at an umpire every time he loses a home game.

And it doesn't cost him a fine or suspension.

Hanging in the home team locker room at Sick's Stadium is a punching bag decorated with the leering likeness of everybody's enemy, the ump.

The bag is no gag. The former boss of the Detroit Tigers, back home now with the team which sent him up to the majors, builds a splendid fury during a losing game.

Rainier business manager Dewey Soriano, who has known the sternvisaged Hutch since both were kid pitchers in a Seattle high school, brought on the punching bag for two reasons: Sympathy and economy.

When his athletes drop a decision, Fred is apt to stalk into the dressing room without bothering to open the door and then kick a couple of pounds of concrete off the wall. Soriano winces at the thought of a maimed or limping Hutchinson.

He winces even more when Hutch hauls off and busts in a locker or some other item of club property. His main problem now is keeping the pint's anger channeled on the bag.

Cornwall Will Honor 'Newsy'

CORNWALL — Edouard (Newsy) Lalonde, Cornwall-born lacrosse and National Hockey League star of years ago, will be honored publicly here May 13.

W. J. (Bill) Campbell, local lacrosse executive, said today plans are under way for a special day to recognize one of Canada's outstanding hockey and lacrosse players.

The event is being organized by representatives of local service clubs, lacrosse and hockey clubs, city council and other sports organizations. Campbell is chairman of the Newsy Lalonde Day Committee. Arrangements are being made for a sportsmen's dinner which will be included in the program.

Mr. Campbell said an effort is being made to contact Lalonde's former teammates. It is expected many of them will attend.

Lalonde was recently named to a Toronto sports Hall of Fame in recognition of his lacrosse ability. He was also both been named to the Hockey Hall of Fame and in 1950 a poll of sportswriters and sportscasters named him the greatest lacrosse player of the half century.

'City' Beats Wolves 3-0

LONDON — Wolverhampton's hopes of overhauling Chelsea in the English League First Division race virtually ended tonight. Wolverhampton were beaten 3-0 by Manchester City, Football Association Cup finalists.

Although playing without key forward Don Revie, Manchester City gave a superlative display.

With only two games each to play, the Wolves and Manchester City are four points behind Chelsea, who also have a superior goal average. Even if the London club should lose its remaining two games, it is highly unlikely it would be caught by the two contenders.

The only team offering a possible treat to Chelsea is Portsmouth, in fourth place, six points behind with two games in hand. Portsmouth was idle tonight.

Bristol City made certain of promotion to the Second Division when its only challengers in the southern section of the Third Division, Leyton Orient, was defeated 1-0 at Brighton.

The .44 Henry repeater gained everlasting fame in the hands of "Little Sure Shot," Annie Oakley, who used it in 1876 to beat the champion, Frank Butler. Annie Oakley, more than anyone else, focussed attention on rapid-fire accurate rifle shooting as competitive sport.

TODAY—This Marlin repeating rifle has gained many friends among sportsmen. During the crisp autumn days game shooting attracts thousands of bright-coated hunters. Keen, well-disciplined and highly trained, these hunters keep alive the great Canadian tradition of sportsmanship.

Point Anne Defeats Beeton 13-5 Meets Electrics for Ont. Title

BEETON — Beeton Beehives had nothing to throw over the boards at the arena here on Wednesday night that could stem the potent scoring line of Lee Goyer, Gerry Goyer and Wilf Hiams, who accounted for nine of the 13 goals, and were eliminated by Point Anne 13 to 5 in a high-scoring contest. Over 800 fans saw this smart Point Anne crew sweep Beeton off its feet in the third and final game to enter the provincial finals with Wallaceburg Electrics. This was the third game of the best two of three series and Point Anne copped two victories after dropping the opener to Beeton at the arena here last week in intermediate OHA "C".

The game was never in doubt right from the opening whistle as Point Anne jumped into the lead within 44 seconds of the start and were never headed. The visitors had a 4-0 lead at the end of the first period as Lee Goyer and Williams each scored a pair of markers. The visitors continued to increase their lead in the middle frame, although Beeton turned in its best effort in the first half of the period to hold Point Anne scoreless, while Johnny Holacin's solo effort reduced the lead to 4-1 at the three-minute mark. Goals by G. Goyer, Lemon, Scott, Strachan and Williams in the last eight minutes of the period gave Point Anne a commanding lead and the period ended 9 to 1 for the visitors.

Each team flashed the red light four times in the final session. L. and G. Goyer, Gilmour and Scott hitting the mark for Point Anne and Ken Kelly, Vernon Norton, Johnny Holacin and Don McLean recorded scores for the Beehives.

The game was a cleanly played contest with only nine penalties being handed out by the officials with Beeton being assessed five of them.

The Beehives played minus the services of Bruce Pickett and Porty both confined to their homes suffering heavy colds.

Grant Wallace also was suffering from a heavy cold and did not come out for the final period. Minus the services of these players Beeton was materially weakened and it is doubtful that their presence in the line-up would have had any great effect in halting the Point Anne team. With the Goyer brothers and Williams carrying the scoring punch the visitors' it left little doubt with the fans that the better team was the victor.

Leo Goyer accounted for four markers, Williams three and Gerry Goyer two to lead the Point Anne team to a convincing victory. Williams was the fastest and best man on the ice during the contest. The rest of the Point Anne crew walks not as flashy as the goal scoring trio turned in fine efforts and Don McLean who gave a sensational display between the pipes. For the Beehives Johnny Holacin, Ken Kelly and Don McLean were the top performers. Holacin and Kelly were always a threat and Don McLean the hard working winger was also a constant threat along the left rail.

In the five games played between the two teams in both series Point Anne claimed four victories in the high scoring affairs. Point Anne outscored Beeton 48 to 27 in the five games. Point Anne now meet Wallaceburg Electrics in the provincial finals for the intermediate OHA C crown.

'Ox-Pointers' Meet Electrics In 'C' Finals

Earle Anderson, manager of the Point Anne Cementmen, announced today that the first game of the Ontario intermediate "C" hockey finals between the Cementmen and the Wallaceburg Electrics will be played in Marmora on Saturday night at 8.30 p.m. The series will be a best two-games-of-three affair with no dates as yet set for the second and third games.

The local club earned their way to the finals by ousting Bobcaygeon and Beeton while the Electrics eliminated last year's champs, Lucan, for the right to meet Point Anne in the finals.

Pulp Mill Fire

KENORA (CP)—A spectacular fire struck the main power substation of the Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Company's mill here late Wednesday night but was quickly brought under control by town and mill foremen. There was no immediate estimate of damages.

The fire was restricted to electrical equipment and the roof and at no time threatened the main mill.

A company official described the outbreak as "relatively minor" and said it is not expected that much time will be lost as a result. Kenora's main industry, which employs 500.

"Beat the Clock" One of Best Sponsorship Buys in TV

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sometimes a television show's success can be embarrassing to the sponsor.

Such is the case with "Beat the Clock," seen Saturday evenings on CBS-TV.

The sponsor is Sylvania Electric Products Inc.—which also makes the annual Sylvania awards to programs which have contributed to the artistic advancement of television.

TV critics have ribbed Sylvania for the inconsistency of its lofty aims, expressed at the time of the annual awards, and the own sponsorship of the slapstick "Beat the Clock." How a cinch the show couldn't stand a chance of winning a Sylvania award.

Company officials have suffered the barbs in silent embarrassment, with no comment.

The reason is that "Beat the Clock" is one of the best sponsorship buys in TV. Despite adverse criticism the stunt program achieves high ratings at modest cost.

So the sponsors have swallowed their embarrassment and renewed the program for the sixth consecutive year, while planning the fifth annual awards late this year.

The repeats of the Disneyland films on ABC-TV are doing better the second time around than the first. Four of the first five repeats grabbed a bigger share of the TV audience than the original showings. Repeats will continue until fall, when Walt Disney will have a new series ready.

Retail television set sales in the United States are running slightly ahead of last year, but radio set sales are up nearly 20 per cent. With the summer season approaching, portable radios are high in popularity.

Tennis star Gussie Moran, of lace panties fame, now is doing sports commentaries over radio station WMGM before and after broadcasts of Brooklyn Dodgers baseball games.

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," Stars Kirk Douglas, James Mason, Paul Lukas and Peter Lorre.

Just a short ten to fifteen minutes drive away at the Century, the showplace of Trenton, now playing is the winner of two Academy awards and hailed as one of the greatest pictures of our time.

From the dramatic use of the CinemaScope cameras to the superb casting; from the uncanthly beauty of the underwater world to the unrelenting suspense of the story, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" takes first place in the mightiest motion picture of them all.

Although the Buena Vista release brought with it more technical problems than any picture heretofore made, the film is a memorable experience in entertainment. A distinguished cast, top technicians and a highly imaginative crew were joined by diverse experts, dedicated to driving gear, engineers and safety men during location shooting. Preproduction planning alone took almost two years of concentrated work.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Stimulating aspects for mental alertness, creation and advertising all useful study. Day highly favorable, useful activity, seeking and granting favors. Forward!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Highly privileged ideas and action should have the green light this splendid Sun and Mercury day. Do not fear those who would try to discourage you. Know that you can go ahead, and do.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your Mercury's fine position says you can do a great deal of good now, advance your and family's interests by being attentive to your business, striving to improve in every way.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A really happy outlook if you put forth your very best. Attainment possible in your occupation, other interests, in all wholesome undertakings. Fine for care of family and domestic matters.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Salesmanship, theatrical work, military matters, study, scientific research favored. Day of power for Leo-day. Conferences, writing, teaching, invention all honored. Fine influences to use well.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Deal with those in authority, hold meetings for good causes, protect employment; don't ask too much of anyone. Your day for advancing sound interests and talents. Be cheerful, happy.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Among day's highly sponsored activities: literary and educational work, children's interests, publishers, editors, journalistic matters; distributors of needed items; trade, labor and management.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Architects, you working with metals, builders, jewelers, chemists: skilled mechanical trades are tops now—along with the academic and artistic professions. Day responsive if you do it justice.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Although money matters, merchandising, investments, etc., may need extra care, nevertheless the day is progressive and can be gainful for all honest endeavors.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Similar to Scorpio now. Chemistry, dentistry, surgery, trades and professions look high in favor today. Sun's rays encourage worthwhile ambitions, useful action; needed rest too.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Day favors quick, decisive action where you know your project or activity and have studied methods, etc. Substantial and everyday interests pertinent to good living generally considered.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Stay with a well-planned schedule and the duties that normally show up in a busy, fortunate day. Put forth your fine talents; don't hold back where you can gain.

You born today are steady, highly talented, capable in an all-round way. You have an innate knowledge of people's needs; are willing to work long and hard to complete an undertaking properly; are creative and can also improve upon others' ideas and inventions. You may tend to worry and keep your troubles too much to yourself. Don't! Seek God's abiding love and help, and handle things over with your family, loved ones. Don't fret over mistakes; just pitch in and do better next time. Cultivate your talent for music, singing, public speaking, writing.

Birthdate: Henry Fielding, novelist, playwright; Queen Isabella of Spain.

Had Backache; Food Upset Stomach, Always Tired

"Many Days I Ached All Over," Says This Man. Tells of Relief by Taking Syntona.

Mr. Maurice Verbrugge, 43 Cross Street, Chatham, Ontario, said in a recent report:

His Experience

"During the past 2 years I've had to be very careful of what I ate or I would suffer with my indigestion and sour acid risings afterwards. I developed terrible backache and rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. I was tired out all the time and could get very little rest at night. I was also troubled with dizziness and headaches.

"But this is all changed since I've used Syntona. Now I enjoy my food, my heartburn is gone, my stomach doesn't trouble me, backache and the other pains are relieved and my nerves are in good shape. I feel fine and have a better all round health and always tired as I was before."

Easy to Take

Syntona is pleasant to take and there are no bad after effects. Sold

MR. MAURICE VERBRUGGE

If you suffer from common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, you are invited to read what Mr. Verbrugge has to say about Syntona. You may find it just what you need. Syntona is sold and powers succeeded in Belleville by Dehn The Druggist.

Western Powers Propose Austrian Envoys Confer

LONDON (AP)—The Western big three proposed to Russia today that their four ambassadors in Vienna meet with Austrian representatives May 2 to complete negotiations for an Austrian independence treaty.

A foreign office spokesman here said the British, French and United France delivered notes to the Kremlin today accepting its proposal for a foreign ministers' conference to complete the long-deadlocked treaty. But the West attached the condition that the ambassadors do the spadework first.

The foreign office simultaneously announced that American, British and French officials will start work here April 27 to lay the groundwork for another Big Four foreign ministers' meeting of wider scope, particularly on the German question.

The British spokesman indicated that the officials will prepare a suggested agenda for the later meeting. "West German representatives will be associated with the discussions whenever German questions are examined," he added.

It was announced Australian, mouth the Paris treaties for rearming West Germany should be in operation by May 9.

DEPOSIT RATIFICATIONS

In Paris, Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay announced that France will deposit its ratifications of the Paris agreements on West German rearmament and of NATO in both Brussels and Washington.

Depositing of the ratification instruments by all the signatory powers would put the treaties into effect. Britain is expected to take this step at the same time France does.

West Germany and the U. S. both deposited their instruments Thursday and a West German spokesman in Bonn said his government expects to receive sovereignty in 14 days.

Long-Sought Man Believed In Toronto Area

TORONTO (CP) — August Gerbitz, 30, sought in connection with the slaying of a girl and a man in Evansville, Ind., in December is believed in the Toronto police said Thursday.

Evansville police have told Toronto police that Gerbitz has friends here. They described him as "extremely dangerous" and said he would never be without a gun.

A card sent from Sault Ste. Marie by an Evansville night club bears handwriting recognized as that of Gerbitz. The card is signed by a "principal police search in Ontario."

In the north and the northeast of the province, cool showery weather today and tonight will improve Saturday to sunny and mild. Early Saturday moist air approaches by from the south and rain threatens to bring cloud and perhaps some rain.

'MAID OF MIST' NIAGARA SHIPS ARE BURNED

Fire Chief Dies; Loss Is $350,000

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Fire today destroyed both Maid of the Mist sightseeing cruise boats and caused loss estimated by their owner at $350,000.

Fire chief John C. Shapton, who collapsed while directing fire fighting operations, died later in hospital.

The famous craft, well-known to visitors to this honeymoon mecca, piped from docks on either side of the lake at Berens River, 36 miles away, McKay and Hanson leaved the rotting lake for Town- day to walk to Berens River to get help for the Kuceys. But they fared not return to the scene.

"Another day and they wouldn't have made it," Miss Hanson, a Nursing Sister Dorothy White of the North Bay, Ont., who flew to the peninsula with FO Jim Jeffs of to hospital.

Whirly-Bird Churns Its Way To Rescue Manitoba Woman

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GIMLI, Man. (CP)—Isolated settlers along the west coast of Lake Winnipeg stirred with excitement Thursday as an RCAF "whirly-bird" churned its way overhead on a mission of mercy.

Ice and mud-bound farmers and fishermen raced from their cabins and farm homes to wave frantically as the helicopter flew to a desolate peninsula 150 miles north of Winnipeg to evacuate 36-year-old Mrs. Frank Kucey, a mink farmer's wife suffering from epidemic flu and a slight case of pneumonia.

There was room for Mr. Kucey, 42, also suffering from 'flu, but he refused to leave his 6ft tall until someone could take care of them.

His hired man, Christopher McKay and his neighbor, Abel Hanson, were stranded on the other side of the lake at Berens River, 36 miles away, McKay and Hanson leaved the rotting lake for Town- day to walk to Berens River to get help for the Kuceys. But they fared not return to the scene.

"Another day and they wouldn't have made it," Miss Hanson, a Nursing Sister Dorothy White of the North Bay, Ont., who flew to the peninsula with FO Jim Jeffs of to hospital.

Nanaimo, B. C., was the first white woman Mrs. Kucey had seen since last fall.

The tiny fishing settlement can only be reached by snowmobile and Organization today during the winter. Float planes and boats are used in summer. The Kucey's only connection with the outside world is by radio receiver.

From the Hudson's Bay Company post at Berens River, a radio operator came to help with the rescue. RCAF was called in to evacuate the Kuceys, and the helicopter was dispatched upon because ice conditions made use of a plane hazardous.

At the peninsula, there was little space in the trees and FO Jeffs was forced to land on a rocky outcropping. One wheel of the landing gear hung over the water and the other over land.

Jeffs ran, then nursing sister assisted Mrs. Kucey to the helicopter. The nurse said Mr. Kucey had a supply of cough medicine and cold tablets with which to treat himself. He gave he brought out later.

The helicopter reached Gimli shortly after 7 p. m. and Mrs. Kucey was given medical care for the 20-minute flight to Winnipeg. A waiting ambulance took her to hospital.

Quits Newfoundland Cabinet Over Industrialization Drive

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Welfare minister P. T. Lewis resigned from the Newfoundland cabinet Thursday but Liberal back-benchers gave a desk-thumping endorsement to the industrialization program which he took issue.

The 48-year-old United Church minister made the announcement part way through the night sitting. He said he could not give his support of cabinet service because he felt the economic development drive under Premier Joseph Smallwood's administration "has spread itself too hastily."

The premier bounded to his feet moments later and said he would follow his late aide out of office if government members disapproved of the five-year-old dollar-expansion program.

His offer was rejected by thunderous applause from the Liberal benches.

Canadian Railways Are Ready To Unveil Answer to Air Age

MONTREAL (CP) — The railways' answer to the air age will be seen this weekend when two shiny new "name" trains begin service on the transcontinental run.

Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways are bringing out The Canadian and the "Super-Continental," luxury trains which will chop one night from the run which stretches nearly 3,000 miles. Steamage attributes of Diesel-Electric trains a historic advance on Canadian railways, are getting set for the send-off at 10 a.m. Eastern Daylations Sunday, the new schedules becoming effective the switch to daylight saving time.

Diesel power is credited as a major factor in the faster schedule, one locomotive being able to make the Montreal-Vancouver run with negligible servicing as compared to steam locomotives.

Both CNR and CPR trains say all new equipment on the fast run, pressed the control and beautification of the new cars, and also the scenic opportunities of the world-famous Canadian Rockies.

In addition to the new service, both railways will continue to operate the present transcontinental trains—the CNR's Continental and the CPR Dominion.

General Motors Net Income At All-Time High

BOSTON (AP)—General Motors net income for the first quarter of 1955 totaled $328,000,000 or $2.43 a share, a record, Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, said Thursday. The earnings figures were on net sales of $3,101,000,000 for the quarter. They compare with earnings of $189,000,000 or $2.13 a share in the first quarter of 1954.

Total net sales of General Motors passenger cars in the United States and Canada, Curtice said, were 1,147,084.

FROST PROPOSES SIPHONING WATER TO INLAND CITIES

Proposes Commission Similar to Hydro Body

TORONTO (CP)—A network of pipes siphoning water from Lake Erie and Lake Huron was recommended to Premier Frost Thursday as a solution to the impending water shortage in the southwestern part of the province.

The Ontario government has been aware for some time of the urgency of finding new water supplies that part of the province, said Mr. Frost.

The problem is caused by shrinking water supplies and a constant increase in the province's population, expected to reach 6,000,000 by 1959.

Cities such as Chatham and London, may one day be able to purchase water in the same manner as they now purchase electricity, the premier said. Municipalities would set up a body like the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

DEEPER WELLS

In the need for more water, municipalities are being forced to dig deeper wells, Premier Frost said deep drilling presents two dangers: deeper wells are more costly to drill, seeking farmers of water for their stock and irrigation, and when wells go too deep, the water contains too much salt and sulphur.

He said a commission will be formed to find a solution to the water crisis. It will deal with the problem in three stages.

The likely solution will be the taking of water from the Great Lakes and piping it to communities, he said.

"To take water by pipe 50 miles is a major operation, the premier added. Financing would have to be done by the province. He recommended a commission to build the pipe and sell water, just as the Hydro commission has done with power.

Three Men Die As Helicopter Hits Mountain

ROSSLAND, B. C. (CP) — An RCAF helicopter which slammed into a mountain peak here suddenly by for today held the bodies of three men who died in the crash. Four others survived the crash.

The others squirmed from the wreckage when it burst into flames during a forced landing. Cpl. J. Ericson; and R. B. Chesley of Philadelphia. Both airmen were stationed in Vancouver.

APPROVE HUGE PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee Thursday overwhelmingly approved a $1,-750,000,000 soil conservation program, including a fifth super-carrier and three atom-powered submarines.

Waterloo County To Hold Open Season for Deer

KITCHENER (CP) — Open season on deer in rural districts of Waterloo county this year on dates to be set by the department of lands and forests, county council decided Thursday.

The number of deer in the area has been a problem since 1949, I. C. Marritt, Huron district forester, told the council. Deer in Waterloo county used to feed on deer in southern Ontario. Main reasons for the open season, he said, were that deer are responsible for car accidents and are causing damage to crops.

Game warden H. W. Cameron of Kitchener and district biologist, joined Mr. Marritt in his submission to the open season. It was opposed by George Porter of Galt.

During Thursday's session the council took action on a number of matters, including:

Appointment of a committee to look into the feasibility of a county police force.

Approval of a resolution to ask the province to increase the grant to municipalities for the maintenance of roads in unorganized territory.

Approval of a request for a grant for a rehabilitation centre for the mentally retarded.

Daylight Saving Time Will Be In Effect After Midnight Saturday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The sun won't be as high as usual when millions go to work and school on Monday, but they'll get more time.

Reason for the change is daylight time, which goes into effect in the most populous sections at 12 a.m. tomorrow. At that moment, it suddenly will become 3 a.m. The switch means that you lose an hour on your earlier, but will have an extra hour of sunshine after work.

Although daylight time customarily has ended the last Sunday in September, there are plans to extend it until the last Sunday in October this year in some areas, especially the northeastern United States.

New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Connecticut already have added the extra month of "fast" time, and other states in the region may do so. Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and New Jersey have the matter under consideration.

In Canada, most cities in all provinces except Alberta will adopt daylight time next week-end, beginning September. DST is illegal in Alberta.

Only two other provinces have laws regarding "fast time". In Nova Scotia Edward Island officials and British Columbia makes it mandatory—but neither law is strictly enforced and adoption of daylight time is left up to individual cities as it is in the other seven provinces.

The idea of switching clocks to grab an extra hour of daylight activity during the long days of the warm season was originated nearly 50 years ago by an Englishman, William Willett.

Nehru Hits NATO, Calls It Protector Of Colonialism

'Intolerable Humiliation' To Join Either Power Bloc

By ROBERT HEWETT

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India assailed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today as a protector of colonialism. He urged his own neutralist policy upon delegates to the 29-nation Asian-African conference.

Nehru's blast came in response to a statement from a Turkish delegate that "Turkey would not have survived (Russian expansion) and we would not be at this conference today" if she had not joined NATO.

"We have heard what Turkey has to say," Nehru responded. "That is one side of the case. The other case would be presented here. But India does not stand for either side. We do not approve of Communist or the anti-Communist powers. We think they are both wrong and that their policies are leading us to the brink of war."

The Indian leader contended that the 14-nation organization whose members include Canada, Britain, the United States and France is "one of the most powerful protectors of colonialism, though it was created for self defence."

FAVOR COEXISTENCE

"It is an intolerable humiliation," he said, "for any nation of Asia or Africa to be compelled to become a camp followers of one or the other of the power blocs. . . We will not join any bloc because that means losing our identity."

Nehru spoke strongly in favor of coexistence.

"The only way to bring peace into the world is to reduce the area of tension through coexistence," he said.

The conference ran into its first real deadlock today in a bitter argument over charges of "Communist colonialism."

A sub-committee, after arguing on the Communist issue for more than two hours, had to be suspended until Saturday. The issue at stake was a move by non-Communist powers to put the conference on record as condemning "subversive as well as old-style colonialism.

Red China's Premier Chou Enlai earlier had answered a Ceylonese anti-Communist blast by declaring for harmony at the 29-country conference. His tactics, fortunately preferred amity rather to a spirited answer, failed to halt the developing deadlock.

The improvised stage could not "bear the weight of the brawny competitors and collapsed just where the Russians were standing.

No one was hurt.

Children Found

GANANOQUE (CP) — Two children were found hurt, wet and frightened Thursday about half a mile from their homes.

A search by Jay Mastrop, 4, and Brian Carter, 5, was started when their tricycles were found near the edge of the woods.

They left a trail of wet clothing as they wandered along the waterfront, through Macleod woods, across a shallow stream and were found next to a new housing sub-division.

Mothers Form Road Block To Halt Trucks

MONTREAL (CP) — A human chain Thursday blocked traffic on a street in west end Montreal and the city administration pondered road block resisted attempts by police and traffic to dislodge them.

The women, with their youngsters in tow, formed a line across Regent street in the Notre Dame de Grace residentall district to prevent trucks from using the road as a shortcut to dumping ground.

The indignant mothers protested that the heavy trucks were dangerous and that they littered the otherwise tidy street with fall-outs from their loads.

Thursday night a rotary sweeper and by the traffic department cleaned up the earth that had fallen on the roadway.

Said one of the housewives: "It looks like they're through using the short cut, but I'll bet we'll have to be ready with another picket line."

Senators to See Narcotic Addicts

VANCOUVER (CP) — The men and women trapped in the narcotic habit will be closely examined closely today by a special committee of the Senate.

The committee will wind up five days of meetings and testimony with a tour around the city of addicts in Oakalla prison farm.

Reporters will not be permitted to accompany the committee members. Senator Thomas Reid of New Westminster, B. C. chairman of the committee, refused permission on the grounds addicts would talk more freely in private.

The committee, first of its kind to hold hearings outside Ottawa, was secretive about Thursday's sessions which were held behind closed doors at RCMP headquarters.

Germ-Laden Guinea Pigs on Loose, Furry Charm Endangers Children

OTTAWA (CP)—Four cute little guinea pigs spent the night on the town, or nearer the town, or somewhere—but not in their cages at the local laboratory of the Ontario Research Foundation.

The mottled, fawn-colored animals escaped from their cages Thursday afternoon. Health officials described the test animals, inoculated with germs of a condition glanders, as "potentially dangerous." The officials declined to name the disease.

The guinea pigs, described by one lab officials as "cute-looking" little darn things," resemble a rabbit but lacks long ears and a short tail. Their danger lies not in their ferocity—they are actually quite charming—but also in their furry charm.

If children mistook them for rabbits and kept them as pets, finding them could prove dangerous, the lab official said.

How they escaped from their cages is not known. A thorough search of the lab area didn't turn up anything like a hare.

Police, warned that the prisoners are at large, hadn't seen a whicker at latest report.

VETERANS ENJOY SHOWING OF FILMS

Another enjoyable evening was provided members of the Army, Navy and Air Force veterans at their clubrooms last evening, when the chairman of entertainment, W. J. Cleary, and Cecil Chapman, chairman of the beverage room committee, arranged a series of films. The films were provided by the Caring Conservation Council and Harry "Speed" Weller, representative of the firm, was in charge of the showings. The members saw a film on the "Trooping of the Color" and also one on fishing, the latter being most appropriate as the angling season is just one week away. At the conclusion of the films a social hour was spent by the members.

RESIDENTS OF COUNTY HOME ENJOY PARTY

About fifty residents of the Hastings County Home were guests of Kiwanian George Fenton, manager of the Bells Theatre this week, when they viewed a filming of the feature "Deep in My Heart." The party was transferred to and from the County Home by transportation supplied by Kiwanian Fred Rawson, while Kiwanian Ken Lewis was in charge of the arrangements. The guests all reported an enjoyable afternoon at the theatre.

COST ACCOUNTANTS HOLD MEETING

Careful consideration should be given any sustained reduction in price of products, the Bay of Quinte chapter of The Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario was informed at its monthly meeting this week.

Speaking to the meeting, C. B. Taylor said that although such a reduction may produce greater volume, it also will mean a greater degree of reduction in profit in relationship to volume.

The chapter was introduced by Carl Casey and thanked by William Hamilton, Chairman of the meeting was Jack Bennett.

Former Pupils Asked to Donate To Memorial

Former school pupils of the late Mary Ann Cowsin, who for nearly three decades taught school in the Canniffon-Corbyville public school would be given the opportunity of contributing to a memorial in Marmora Cemetery in her honor.

Already a fund has been started by a former student now living in the Canadian West and Canniffon residents feel that others may wish to share in the placing a memorial in honor of the pupils' beloved teacher who taught them their three R's.

Miss Cowsin taught at Canniffon for 29 years, 24 years of which were served as school principal. She also taught school at Flinton for three years and for five years at Massey in Northern Ontario, where she died in March 1932. She was buried in Marmora Cemetery.

Mrs. Cowsin's church and her interest in children were guiding principles in her life and her influence upon the lives of her pupils was evident in a continued interest in their careers.

A former student now living in Regina has forwarded $20 to start a fund to purchase a memorial for his former school teacher. Other former pupils are invited to take part and contributions will be accepted by Mrs. Ray Pound, Canniffon; Mrs. Stewart Collins, General Delivery, Belleville or Mrs. D. C. Brenton, Corbyville.

Distillery Head Honored By Sales Staff

The coast-to-coast sales staff of the H. Corby Distillery Ltd., annual convention here paid signal honor to Mr. Leo W. Vezina, Montreal, president and general manager at a banquet held in the Hotel Quinte last night.

In a surprise gesture the convention presented their popular leader with a handsome walking stick. The presentation was made through Mr. Harry Howlett, Montreal, assistant to the president.

Recovering from the pleasant surprise, Mr. Vezina expressed his keen appreciation of the gift, well - known in this city, where he has been invited as an after-dinner speaker on various occasions, Mr. Vezina paid tribute to the "fine hospitality always accorded me here". He referred to Corbyville as the growing "suburb" of Belleville a city where one is always sure of two good things, good food and good cheer. He also paid tribute to various members of the sales staff mainly the veterans, Mr. Cooper and Mr. Cobley of Kingston.

A number of personnel of the Hiram Walker distillery in Montreal were present, as well as those attached to the local distillery at Corbyville. His Worship Mayor Jack Bolt was a special guest and extended a civic welcome to the sales staff.

Other guests included Mr. Mort Parker, Montreal, Canadian Milling chief excise officer for Belleville. Mr. Alex Hall briefly also expressed his pleasure in the fine associations he enjoys at the distillery.

Others present included James Boyle, C.A. manager, Montreal, Mr. Howlett, Mr. Wilfrid Laporte, Corbyville distillery manager, George Mills, Donald, assistant manager, Bob Farquharson, senior, Corbyville merchandise representative, Bob Farquharson, junior, Corbyville accountant manager, and Harry Smith, excise officer.

Members of the sales force are here from parts of Canada and have been holding daily conferences and sales sessions, at the distillery.

The distillery sales conventions have been held in Belleville for a number of years. Last year the convention was held in Montreal.

Court Costs In Recent Suit Set at $2,200

Court costs in the recent H. J. McFarland Company vs. City of Belleville case heard last week in Supreme Court before Mr. Justice Moorhouse will amount to $2,200, according to a letter received by the council executive and finance committee from City Solicitor R. A. Ellis, Q.C.

Costs in the case, which was settled between the two parties, were assessed against the city. The solicitor's letter to the committee was referred to council.

City council will have a few jobs for the unemployed if a recommendation of the public works committee is ratified. Following a report on an open ditch on Mary Street, which the engineering officer of health, the works committee has instructed that the ditch be cleaned out by unemployed employables, the work to be done under the direction of the city engineer.

The committee also recommended that the comptroller call for applications for the position of engineer for the city. At the present time City Engineer Chas. Mott is handling the work in department without engineering assistance.

The city council fire committee has recommended that Capt. Gerald "Curry" O'Brien be appointed acting deputy fire chief with effect from May 2nd. The appointment is to fill the position left vacant by the retirement of Deputy Chief Frank Orr.

Robbery Charge Brings Sentence Of 18 Months

Gordon Giles, 17, of Napanee, was sentenced to 18 months' definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory, when he appeared for sentence Thursday in Lennox and Addington county magistrate's court before Magistrate J. B. Garvin on a charge of robbery with violence.

A. Brother, Frederick Charles Giles, 22, was acquitted on a similar charge.

The two Napanee brothers were charged by provincial police with robbing Gordon Brown, elderly Napanee district farmer, last March 11th. Brown was tied up in his barn, and robbed when then going to his farm house where they opened a safe and stole a quantity of money, two watches and a pair of binoculars. The articles were recovered.

The younger Giles brother pleaded guilty to the charge following his arrest and was remanded for sentence on Thursday.

In disposing of the case against the younger brother Magistrate Garvin complimented provincial police and Napanee town police on their investigation.

Jobless Father Promised Drugs For His Children

QUEBEC (CP)—If all goes well today, Roland Moisan should be able to pick up a prescription for his sick children at Quebec's St. Sacrement Hospital, ending a brief but fiery dispute involving charges of a blood-for-drugs agreement with the hospital.

The 35-year-old father of five visited Mayor Wilfrid Hamel Thursday and was told he would be given help to obtain the drugs through the city public charities office.

He was expected to pick up public charities card early today and go to the hospital for the medicine. A resident of Quebec for less than a year, he would not ordinarily be entitled to city aid.

Moisan, jobless since last September, became the centre of several lawyers when he claimed that he had made a "bargain" Monday with a religious sister at the hospital whereby he would get a pint of his blood in exchange for the drugs.

Dr. Renault Lemieux, medical superintendent at St. Sacrement, said he made an investigation but found no such agreement.

He said Moisan's wife family had received free medical treatment since 1947 at the hospital under the public assistance program and the hospital had provided free drugs on "dozens" of occasions.

City inspector Emile Drolet, in a report read by Mayor Hamel at a full session of the city council, reached the conclusion that Moisan had donated the pint of blood "freely and voluntarily."

Alderman Joseph Matte, who took Moisan's side early in the fracas, disputed the inspector's report and asked for a complete investigation.

Separate Talks On Annual Wage Now in Progress

DETROIT (AP)—Bidding for a year-round wage, the CIO United Auto Workers Thursday opened negotiation today of separate talks on new contracts with General Motors and Ford.

There was speculation earlier this week that the union strategy has formally placed its proposal for guaranteed annual wage on the bargaining table with Ford. Following a four-hour session Monday, reporters said they noticed an air of tension about the closed discussions for the first time.

Both Ford and General Motors reported Thursday that the earnings of their production workers were highest in history.

John Bugas, Ford vice-president in charge of industrial relations, said in a statement that an average of $126.787 for the 141,000 Ford employees worked as average of 43.3 hours a week in the first quarter this year and earned an average of $108.67 a week.

Harlow Curtice, president of GM, reported that total employment in GM plants in the United States and Canada at the end of March reached 350,000. During the first three months, he said, weekly pay of GM wage earners averaged $108.79 and their average work hours 44.3 a week.

Trying to Stave Off Strike At Parke, Davis Co.

DETROIT (AP) — Federal and state governments moved today to stave off a strike by Parke, Davis and Co., a major producer of Salk polio vaccine.

Possibility of a strike developed late Thursday. Negotiations between the drug firm and the CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union were broken off. Each side blamed the other for the break.

Federal mediator David Keefe of Washington, D.C., said he personally summoned both sides to a meeting next Tuesday. Neither mediator nor officials expected the negotiations.

A company and company officials have been bargaining on a new pact for 2,000 employees since March 1. Major issues are union demands for a guaranteed annual wage and a 10-cent hourly wage increase.

Grain Shipments Now Under Way At Lakehead

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Lakehead grain shipments were just about normal today as vessels left Fort William and Port Arthur with cargoes that had glutted terminals during the five-day strike of grain handlers.

The first ship to leave here after the strike of 1,300 handlers ended Wednesday at midnight cut Thursday night. At least 19 were due to depart during the night.

A total of 16 vessels anchored here during the wage walkout, which started last Saturday. They are expected to carry away some 2,500,000 bushels.

There is plenty of grain in the elevators to maintain a steady supply for freighters. An estimated 23,000,000 bushels were stored in the elevators when loading started.

$500 Grant Given by Council To Community Arena Board

CAMPBELLFORD — A special all session of the Campbellford town council was called on Wednesday night to deal with several important items which demanded attention.

Hector MacMillan of the Community Arena Board, addressed the council, asking for a grant of $500 for the balance. This arena the board says, will put them on their feet until revenue from summer entertainment plans begin to come in.

MacMillan explained that had the local TVL hockey team been more successful inter-play-offs, the board would have had almost enough money on hand to meet their obligations and pay the insurance on the arena, but with the team being played out of town, and gate receipts of home games considerably lower than in previous years, the board they will be unable to carry on much longer.

The finance committee said that in view of the close budget council was operating on, they did not know where they could find the money, but were agreed that since it was decided that since the town actually owns the arena, and is responsible financially for it, they would eventually have to come up with the money some way, so on motion of Councillors Nicholson and Linton, the grant was paid.

WANT COMMITTEE

A delegation of citizens from several local service organizations attended the meeting, asking to have council establish a recreation committee to look after playgrounds, one at the public school, and another at the town hall, during the summer months for some 700 local school children. Mrs. Ed. Andrews, of the Home and School Association, spoke on behalf of the group, and explained to council the method under which the plan would work, explaining that the government grants that would be made available would help to finance the scheme.

Mrs. Newman said that a playground committee had been organized among representatives of the Home and School Association, Kinsmen Club, Canadian Legion, the Catholic Women's League, Rotary Lions and Kinsmen, all of whom are behind the plan.

The playgrounds would be operated, presumably for two months a year, with supervision and assistant at each, and the group estimated the cost of four men operating the playgrounds at about $650 for the year. Government grants would pay one-third of the salaries and 20 per cent of the total cost.

Mrs. Newman said "there is great need and little provision for recreation for children in Campbellford.

ANSWER IS PLAYGROUNDS

It has become quite a problem, Mrs. Newman said, with the streets the only playgrounds. Streets are needed for several purposes, but she felt public opinion was such that something should now be done about the matter. Representatives of the department of education were all for the idea, and have offered to help. Representatives to discuss the matter further, Mrs. Newman asked that council set up a recreation committee immediately and pass a by-law making the group legal.

Councillor Isobel Tatham further explained the plan, saying that the by-law would have to have the regular two readings, be sent to Toronto before the approval of the department of education, and received the third reading.

It was finally decided on motion, to officially invite a representative of the Department of Education to attend the May meeting of council, and to further outline the steps necessary before forming such a committee. Council will decide at that time whether it will support the plan, although most councillors were in accord with the idea at the time.

On motion of F. M. Rutherford, deputy reeve, it was decided to have the committee now in operation submit the names of five representatives of the organizations behind the plan; so that if council do decided, and can find the money, the committee can get under way in the May meeting.

Permission was granted the Lions Club to take out a house-to-door canvass, by members of the Safety Patrol, and Lions Gateways to raise funds for the trip for the members of the patrol, if sufficient funds are not on hand, and they would like to hold a tag day on May 7th. Permission was granted.

TENDERS ACCEPTED

Tenders for the job as caretaker for the Cenotaph, and for a small patch on Bridge street were opened. Four tenders were received. Charles Shaw and George Parcells tendered for $225 for the season. John Dreker offered to do the job for $235 and C. J. Andela tendered for $280. After a great deal of discussion, during which motions were put and tied and two polled votes were taken, the tender of George Parcells was finally accepted. The fact that Mr. Parcells is a veteran, and is presently unemployed, weighed heavily in his favor.

Reeve Mayhee told council that he and Mayor Ketcheson had given considerable time driving around the streets of the town, and found the most street signs in need of repair following the frost heavy of the past month. It was decided to repair these, and to seek the support of county council regarding repainting and straightening of the connecting links, comprising portions of Front and Bridge streets.

Councillor Frank Linton told council that there should be something done about the number of dogs that were running around loose, and which will destroy gardens and property, advocated the hiring of a dog catcher.

Councillor George Vice said that the problem was that dogs are thrown in the lap of the police department, and until such time as dogs could be controlled, if council wanted to spend the money, a great deal of discussion could be as to the various methods of keeping dogs in their place, ranging from a muzzle to shooting. That would be a last resort, he said, to be shot, to one of appealing to owners to help in cooperation in keeping their pets tied up.

LEGAL ANGLES

Deputy Reeve F. M. Rutherford reported council regarding the legal angles involved in some of the suggestions, and said that if the matter was not handled properly and the dogs kept in a proper sanitary pound, the Humane Society would be apt to step into the picture. Councillor Linton said that he did not think it would take long to clear up the problem, and the finance committee would not bother the drive, because of the short duration.

Finally, on motion of Councillor Linton, it was decided to advertise for a dog catcher, with the applicant "to maintain a pound, supply the necessary vehicle and necessary requisites for the trade." The applications will be opened at the May 2nd meeting.

IN MEMORIAM

CANNONE. — In loving memory of my dear brother, Bob, who passed away April 22nd, 1953.

Memories I treasure today, dear brother.
But there is nothing new;
In this I am sure, you would do,
And the day before that, too.
I will think of you always,
And each day throughout the year;
I will remember and forever
For in the sun warm so dear,
Everything reminds me of you
Always and brother-in-law Peter.

SAWYER. — In loving memory of a dear father, Clarence John Downey, who passed away April 21st, 1951.

It is not at the time the tears we shed
But when the heart is lonely and sad
And the lonely tears of other years
Are silently remembered.
Sadly missed by his daughter Ivy.
How sweet their memory still
But God's will a loving mother.
The world can never fill.

Inserted with love by Waverley, Dick, Janet and Donald.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Mrs. Robert Mitchell wish to express their sincere thanks to friends and neighbors for messages of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes, for kind relatives, neighbors and friends, during their sad bereavement of a loving mother.

Mr. Barthy Walsh and family wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their many friends and neighbors who helped us so generously, also for flowers and spiritual cards in their sad bereavement of a loving wife and mother.

Newman. — In loving memory of my husband, Frederick Newman, who passed away April 22nd, 1951.

Sweet memories are all I have
To comfort me today,
Memories of a loving husband
Who was called away.
Sadly missed by his wife Ethel.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Base metals continued their general advance in early afternoon trading at the stock exchange today.

Falconbridge climbed ¾ to lead the group to a new 1954-1955 index high of 178.31 at 1 p. m.

Industrials, which slipped a little in earlier trading today, reversed their direction and advanced moderately with utilities, papers, and manufacturers showing the way. Price changes were largely fractional.

Golds lost some of their early strength and edged lower. Western oils continued downward.

Most speculative issues continued to drop in profit-taking with Pronto falling 2¢ to 47¢. Consolidated Denison 15 to $7.75, Coulee 12 to $2.33 and Radiore 20 to $3.30 after sharp climbs Thursday.

Lake Cinch, Maneast and Vetional Explorations managed small gains.

Other strong issues among base metals included United Asbestos, Steep Rock, Quebec Metallurgical, Labrador and Calder. International Nickel dropped ¼ and Quebec Copper and Sherritt also suffered small losses.

General Petroleum A jumped 10 to $3.75 among a weak western oils group and Bralorne fell 50 to $3 in golds.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were strong to 50 cents a hundredweight higher on active trading this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were steady while hogs were firm to 25 cents higher. Sheep and lambs were generally steady.

The run at 8,700 head of cattle was some 1,200 head more than last week and about 1,100 more than the same week last year, included in the fresh run were 442 head of westerns, mostly stockers. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were heavy at 15 carloads as against two carloads last week. Two carloads of choice weighty steers and heifers were exported to the United States.

From Tuesday on all grades and classes of slaughter cattle, with the possible exception of medium fed yearlings, sold actively strong with steers gaining fully 50 cents a hundredweight. All slaughter cattle were sold at the close with an estimated 800 head unsold. Medium stockers carried over. The dressed beef trade is reported as being fairly good.

Prices

Choice Steers: All weights $20.50-21.50 with sales to $21.50 and a few extreme tops at $22; good around $19.50-20.50; mediums $15.50-19.50; commons $12-16; choice heifers $18-19; a few extreme tops of $19.25; good heifers $17-18; mediums $14-16; commons $12-14; choice mixed steers and heifers $19-12; choice fed yearlings $20.50-21.50; good fed yearlings $19-20; mediums $17-19; good butcher cows $14-14.50; odd sales to $15; good light heifer cows up to $16; canners and cutters down to $8; good butcher bulls $16-17; $13-14; good light butchers to $15; common and medium light bulls down to $10.

Replacement Cattle: Shipments back to the country were heavier than the 700 head last week. Prices continued on a firm basis with good quality meeting the broadest demand. Good stockers were $15-20; odd lots to $20.50; mediums $17-19; commons $15-17.

Calves totalled 1,200 head, a slight decrease from last week. This class showed steady to last week's sharp decline with good and choice at $21-24; mediums $15-20; commons $10-15.

Hogs totalled 3,000 head, a slight increase over last week. Two carloads weighed east at $22. Hogs sold locally were $21.50-24.75 for grade A. Sows were $1 lower at $18 while stags were unchanged at $14.

Sheep and lambs were 600 head including 372 Alberta feedlot lambs. Spring lambs continued on a decline with prices ranging from $30 to $28 according to quality. The Alberta feedlot lambs sold at $21.50-22.50 while Ontario feedlots sold at $22. Good light sheep were $8-10 with common and heavy sheep ranging down to $4.

Two Escapees from Rideau Industrial Farm Captured

TRENTON. (Special.)—Hungry and shivering after three days of freedom from the Rideau Industrial farm two dejected looking escapees offered no resistance to police here yesterday when they were found hiding in a boxcar on a freight train that stopped here in the CPR yards en route to Toronto at 1.00 p.m., Thursday.

On Monday afternoon, John Wager, 24, of Brighton and Warren Marshall, 25, of Toronto, serving time in the reformatory at Burritt's Rapids near Smiths Falls, broke away from a work gang and disappeared in dense bush and swamplland without being noticed by guards.

They lost their direction in the bush the first night and spent the next two days wandering aimlessly about without food or warmth. They were not dressed for the ordeal because, when police picked them up they were clad only in light shirts and pants. Their heads were bare and Wager was suffering from badly blistered feet, wore no boots or stockings. They were unarmed and told police they still had eight years to serve in the reformatory.

Working on a tipoff from Smiths Falls authorities CPR Constable W. D. Cooper, of Trenton, accompanied by Const. E. W. Carter of the Trenton Police Dept. making a search of the train came upon the escapees crouched in a dark corner of one of the cars. Last night R. Marland, superintendent of the industrial farm, and a guard had took the pair handcuffed together, back to the reformatory.

Trenton police served them their first meal in three days.

Pressmen Begin Third Day Of Picketing

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Ten striking pressroom employees of the London Free Press began their third day of picketing Thursday while the newspaper continued to publish on schedule.

The 10 out of 15 pressroom employees, members of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union No. 173, walked out late Monday in support of demands for a union contract.

The men involved are asking $81 a week for the next year and $82 a week for the second year of a two-year contract and for a preferential union hiring clause.

The company had offered a flat rate of $81 plus fringe benefits but withdrew the offer when it was rejected by the union.

Meanwhile six pressroom employees who did not strike, assisted by other company employees, are continuing to operate the presses.

VAL D'OR CHILD DIES

MONTREAL (CP) — A 14-day-old baby, brought here from Val O'Or, Que., for medical treatment, died at Montreal airport Thursday night. The boy died shortly after the plane touched down. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bieveau and was reported suffering from jaundice.

Pinnacle Street Traffic Held Up for Hour

Traffic on Pinnacle Street was held up for nearly an hour today when a heavy steel rolling press toppled off a Toronto-bound transport, resulting in diversion of all highway traffic as a crane crew struggled to manoeuvre the press back on to the transport.

The incident occurred shortly after 10 a.m. at the corner of Dundas and Pinnacle Streets as driver Mel Mullin of Toronto was turning his trailer transport off the highway.

The press, believed to weigh about 10 tons, toppled through the side of the transport and smashed onto the road.

A heavy 18-ton motor crane was summoned from the McFarland Construction Co. Ltd. yard and arrived at the scene about 11:40. For one hour entrance and exit to Pinnacle Street was blocked as the truck was swung across the road and the press was gingerly hoisted back onto the truck.

Part of the press was broken off in the fall while damage could not be estimated on the truck.

The transport was bound out of Montreal.

Local Disaster Committee Will Control Areas

BANCROFT — A local disaster committee, proposed to speed up the granting of assistance to victims of fire, or other calamity, was set up at the Red Cross branch meeting held on Tuesday night at the Bancroft hospital.

The committee, under the chairmanship of John Hawkins, will have a member responsible for each area in the district. Proposed members are: Mrs. Clarke Rollins, Coe Hill; Mrs. H. Fenelle, Maynooth; Mrs. G. Caldwell, Fort Steward; Mrs. Jenkins, Gilmour and Mrs. O. W. Anderson, Bancroft. Each member will have authority to arrange the distribution of supplies from local sources wherever there is need in her area.

Campaign secretary S. Rowsell announced a total to date of $945; $690 of which was collected on the Bancroft village blitz night. The Christmas campaign chairman, said that when three remaining districts had reported, an amount in excess of $1,000 will have been donated.

THANKS TENDERED

President Harold Petch, on behalf of the board, extended thanks to all making contributions to the success of the campaign, all the canvassers who had worked in this weather; the St. John's Anglican Church, for the use of their hall; the Woman's Auxiliary, for provision of canvassers' refreshments; the staff of the local bank and typical for their public in general for their donations.

On motion by E. G. Thomas, K.C., seconded by Jones, it was decided to make application for a Provincial Fire Marshal safety films to be shown in the district during May.

The auditor treasurer, Mrs. O. W. Anderson, announced that insurance policies on the branch around $1,400 this year, the board approved a proposal by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. W. L. Martin that H. Petch and S. Rowsell investigate and report on the insurance position.

On the recommendation of the nurse-in-charge, Miss Stigri Lane, the purchase of the following items was approved: a compressor motor for use with a tuberculin resuscitator; ventilation vents; heater for drier; binds and curtains; vacuum cleaner. Work is also to be carried out on the hospital grounds and septic tanks.

NEHRU HITS NATO

The meeting of the nine-member sub-committee was closed to the public but delegates said the deadlock came over the resolution proposed by a group, headed by Iran, that wanted condemnation of colonialism "in any form."

INDIA BACKS CHOU

Chou was reported to have opposed any mention which might be interpreted as an attack on communism. His stand was backed by India.

"It looks very much like we may have to pass over the resolution on colonialism," one delegate said. "That will put us on the spot, because the big issue of this conference is colonialism."

The resolution, proposed by Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Liberia, Pakistan, Turkey and the Philippines, did not mention communism by name.

Chou and V. K. Krishna Menon of India objected particularly to a clause which said the conference "condemns all forms of colonialism including international doctrines resorting to methods of force, including subversion."

Krishna Menon argued that condemnation of subversive doctrines did not belong in a resolution on colonialism and rights of dependent peoples, delegates said.

UNANIMITY WANTED

Chou had proposed a generalized statement expressing support of the United Nations Charter sections on human rights and dependent peoples.

Chou also was reported to have proposed that the conference go on record as favoring independence for all colonial territories within 15 years.

Although no set rules on procedure have been adopted, conference leaders have been trying to get unanimous agreement on all resolutions. Indications now are that informal discussions will continue tonight in hope of reaching a compromise.

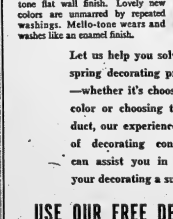
Toast 'St. George for England' One to Be Heard Around World

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The toast "St. George for England" will be heard Saturday at gatherings all over the world, when England's sons and daughters celebrate St. George's Day.

It's a great day in the history of England—the feast day of St. George, anniversary of the birth and death of William Shakespeare, and of the British Navy's historic raid on Zeebrugge in 1918.

St. George was a Greek Christian born in 270 A.D. and executed April 23, 303, for his outspoken opposition to the Roman Emperor Diocletian's policy of persecuting Christians.



His association with England began when he was sent there on an imperial mission after rising to high military rank under Diocletian. In protest against the emperor's anti-Christian campaign he resigned his commission with an earnest profession of his faith, was arrested and tortured before his death.

For centuries St. George has stood as a symbol of courage and chivalry and his lands. The old rallying call "St. George for merrie England" was used by Admiral Sir Roger Keyes to signal the start of the Zeebrugge action in the First World War—a daring raid Victoria Crosses were won.

The feast day was designated a national festival in England by the Council of Oxford in 1222. George was not the only patron England's saint until the reign of Edward II, between 1307 and 1327.

In Canada the day has been marked for at least two centuries. Halifax had a great St. George's Day gathering as early as 1750. Another noteworthy celebration took place in Toronto in 1822. Since then it has been observed each year in communities all across the country.

TOO LONG A DELAY

Grain handlers at the Lakehead have settled their strike. Members of Local 650 of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, they have voted to accept a three-year contract providing for wage increases of 12 cents an hour. Of this 12-cent increase, 10 cents will be retroactive, with five cents dated back to January 1, 1954.

Retroactive clauses in contracts can often be justified. Where a contract between a company and a union expires and it is impossible to reach a new agreement at once, common sense suggests that it will be in the best interests of both the employees and employer if the workers continue to do their jobs on the understanding that the agreement eventually reached will date back to the expiration of the old contract.

Common sense also suggests, however, that the period during which the workers do not know how much they are to receive and the company does not know how much it will pay to pay them should be as short as possible.

The agreement at the Lakehead is dated back almost 16 months. This is far too long.

Conciliation Board report last December recommended a three-per-cent increase from July, 1954. Presumably that was the date at which the board entered the picture. As conciliation boards are now appointed until employer and employees have failed to reach an agreement in negotiations with one another, it is quite possible that the dispute between the grain handlers and their employers dated back to the beginning of 1954. That would explain why the settlement agreement provides for increases retroactive to January 1, 1954. The explanation, however, is not justification for the delay.

Unless some method can be devised to speed up present wage negotiation machinery, our existing labor laws will surely lead into disrepute, not only with employers who have to wait 16 months for a share of their pay but also with employers who have to pay extra for work done 16 months ago.

WHO ENJOYS THE "FRONT"

"Does Ottawa play fair in levying income tax?"

That was the headline which appeared in the Toronto Telegram the other day over the first of a series of articles by Allan Kent.

Mr. Kent made some telling points in this opening article.

There were, however, a couple of paragraphs which were something less than convincing.

An executive making $5,000 a year has only $11,500 left after taxes, Mr. Kent said. "These executives have an inexorable social obligation to keep up a fairly impressive and definitely expensive 'front.' How long would a man last in an executive job," asks Mr. Kent, "if he lived in a grubby little house, if he was known as niggardly in the matter of entertainment, if his wife wasn't at least passably smart about her wardrobe and coiffure, if he didn't change his car yearned to exchange their 1955 Cadillacs for 1937 jalopies."

AFRAID OF LAUGHTER

Ald. Frank Mulliner of Victoria, B.C., is afraid that the Victoria library board may become "the laughing stock of the country."

This is not a fate which we would wish on the library board, but if it befell Ald. Mulliner we should take it as an encouraging sign of the common sense of the populace.

Ald. Mulliner's group died recently and his will stipulated that, after the death of his wife, 25 volumes from his library should be given to each of his five nephews and the remainder should go to the Victoria public library. There, however, a proviso, that these books should be accessible only to people with clean hands.

The books, in good condition, are described as unique volumes on early Columbia history.

One would imagine that these are just the types of books which a public library would cherish and would wish to protect from handling by persons with dirty hands. But Ald. Mulliner objected to a suggestion that a printed notice be placed in each book warning that only those with clean hands could borrow them.

"Some borrowers might take a photograph of it and send it to 'Believe It or Not'," he said.

It is rather disturbing to discover that an elected representative of the people is afraid of laughter. Disturbing—and funny. Yes, we are laughing right now and it is not at B. W. Pearse, who wanted to keep his precious books clean even after he was dead, but at Ald. Mulliner, who is afraid of "Believe It or Not." The good alderman should not take life so seriously, it's much too short for that.

FISHING MEMORY

With the bishop I went fishing on a Thursday, with the wish
For the bishop's Friday dinner
we could catch a mess of fish.

As for me, it didn't matter since of different faith I am;
I was free to get a chop or a stew of beef or lamb.

We hoped the fish were biting and we knew a spot or two
Which we thought were secret places where we'd surely catch a few.

So when both our hooks were baited, in the bow and stern
we sat

As we waited for a nibble we began of things to chat.

The day was warm and pleasant and the gulls were in the air.
We thought the Lord had made them so that we could watch their flight.
Then we wondered if the beauty of the landscape wasn't meant
For all men to feast their eyes on and be care-free and content.

We talked this brief life over and the why of that and this
And the purpose of man's being.
Is it merely hit and miss?
We enjoyed a lot of visiting
we didn't get a bite,
And I know the gentle bishop would eat eggs on Friday night.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1935

On Easter Day at John Street United Church, the Rev. Robert Hall, the pastor, conducted the service, during which beautiful memorials to the late R. J. Graham, were dedicated. The first to be dedicated was a memorial tablet which was presented by the congregation of John Street Church and was unveiled by Mr. Robert Templeton. Following this, Mr. George K. Graham on behalf of the family presented a beautiful memorial window in three panels. The whole under the direction of Miss Leona Riggs with Mr. Alec Gordon at the organ rendered the musical portion of the service in an excellent manner. The pastor in his remarks concerning the memorials referred to the magnificent organ in the church which was presented to the congregation a little over five years ago by Mr. Graham in memory of his wife. Mr. Leo Riggs, former organist, who presided at the organ at the time it was dedicated, was asked to preside at the organ console during the dedicatory service at this time.

Mr. Stanley Hagerman is spending a few days in Montreal on business.

Mr. John Empson, medical student at Queen's University, Kingston, spent a few days recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Empson, at Cannifton.

Mr. Tom Lazier is home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend the Easter holidays.

Dr. and Mrs. F. Farnsworth, Whitby, Ont., were in the city, spent Easter here with relatives.

Miss Margaret Cummins, dietitian at Hotel Dieu, Kingston, spent Easter here with her mother, Mrs. E. Cummins.

Mr. Jack Carman of Toronto is the guest of his father, Mr. Carman.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miles spent Easter with relatives in Peterborough.

30 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1925

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bryson of Crofton have taken up residence in car trip to Brockville and Ottawa.

Mr. Judson Gunter of Porterville, who was a member of the county council for some time, and warden of the county in 1919, is spending a few days in town.

Miss Edna Farley, who succeeded her late father, James M. Farley, as city tax collector, has resigned owing to ill health.

A radio concert was given by Mr. Carl Reid in the Sunday school room at Emmanuel Church, Victoria Avenue, recently and the event was most enjoyable.

The city council has made a grant of $500. to the Belleville Fair Board.

Mr. W. H. Ponton, British Consul at Passau, will arrive here shortly to visit relatives. He is an old Belleville boy.

40 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1915

Dr. W. J. Gibson will be absent from his office for a few days.

The Rev. A. R. Sanderson, master of Holloway Sanatorium, Oddist Church, is spending today in Madoc.

The Rev. H. S. Spencer of Bloomfield and the Rev. W. D. Harrison of Picton, secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference, were in town today.

Early this morning a large plate glass window in the front of Geen's Drug Store was shattered by some person unknown.

The steamer Belleville and the steamer Alexandria are changing routes and running this season: the steamer Alexandria with the crew of the steamer Belleville will operate between Toronto and Montreal, and the steamer Belleville with the crew of the steamer Alexandria will operate between Charlotte, N.Y. and Quebec.

50 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1905

Mr. Stephen Burrows is spending a short time in New York City.

Dr. Joseph Caldwell is spending a short vacation in New York City.

Mr. John Lee is home from Montreal to spend Easter.

Mrs. S. Way of Tweed is visiting her parents here.

Mr. Harry Coon is home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend the Easter vacation.

Mr. David Kane, an old Belleville boy, is home from St. Paul, Minn., on a visit.

Mr. Sanford Burrows is spending Easter with friends in Toronto.

Mr. Fred Sterlich is spending a vacation in the west.

Mr. Guy Bell of the Bank of Montreal, Montreal, is home to spend Easter.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A soft heart and a soft head usually are found together in the same person, and for very obvious reasons. It is all in the head. The heart, as medical science realized three or four hundred years ago, is nothing but a pump muscle. It is a piece of pure mechanics, may be a masterpiece of mechanics. But it really deserves none of the credit that has been heaped upon it by poets, prophets, liars and romancers from time immemorial. The ancients conceived it to be the seat of the soul, the emotions, especially the nobler emotions. This was no doubt due to the fact that they noticed an agitated or stuffy feeling in their chests every time they were deeply moved. When they were in love, they felt their hearts beating furiously. In grief, the same disturbance occurred. So to this day, the heart is the symbol of love. A conventional figure called a heart, which bears little if any resemblance to the real and decidedly ugly organ, has been adopted all over the world, and decorates wedding cakes, valentines, countless greeting cards and practically all printed communications of the tender sort.

Even though we now know that the heart is nothing but a glibb, the tradition has been so solidly implanted in our minds that we still refer to the heart as if it were a separate mind within us. Our everyday speech is full of references to it. Have a heart, we say. A warm heart, a kind heart. To cap it all, we frequently employ the nonsensical figure of speech: "He let his heart run away with his head."

The only time the heart can run away with the head is when the heart stops beating for good. It is the head and the head alone that is responsible for those shemozzles in which a man or woman is found when sentiment outweighs common sense. It is the head, and the head only, that is soft. But I doubt if our wedding cakes, greeting cards and sheet music will adopt little heads all over the world in place of hearts. Once we human get hold of a good misapprehension, we hang onto it like a limpet.

Stay-at-Home Answered

(By I.N.S. in the Ottawa Journal)

Never, said the man as he carried the Lady Mayor through the town on a wheel-barrow, never accept a dare.

But back, the other day an acquaintance of mine who sticks in his own living room so much he's becoming part of the carpet, the sign hurled a gauntlet clear down my throat. And in the presence of company.

He said all skiers were mad, stoned and only to mountain climbers as extrovert lunatics. "And as for mountain climbing — you can't show me they get any real pleasure in it. They're all sadists."

Whereupon, to my company, the type of people you'd expect would be company to a carpet design, roared and bellowed their empty minds at my expense and I went home and beat my wife, the wretch. First of the Italian saga days, beat your wife every night when you go home — you may not know why, but she will.

So I'm replying to that dare. Not, mind you, on the highest or strongest or most obvious grounds I could use.

There would be no use, for instance, that I was the last of the sheer pleasure to be gained from rubbing your nose against an obstacle, the only way Sir John Hunt put it in his book, "Ascent of Everest."

There would be no use either in quoting to him the classic reply of the climber who was the old question of why climb Everest: "Because it's there".

And the answer is that mountain climbers like climbing mountains would be quite beyond this sluggard's comprehension. They occur to him before the lustre of a crazy gem in the eye, especially "it would go", as the climbers say. In the first place, this fellow would never see the face, for his chin is always on his chest.

No, I've got to lure this carpet bag with other business and no gimmicks. Fresh air's no good to him, nor blue sky. But he's sure to be a visitor to the movies and with a pen except the kind that works under water. He also likes to hear the four-piano team play what Bach wrote for one little piano. And the Commandments rewritten as Hemingway would have written them tickles him to the end, and of course Mock Turtle soup is his dish, with lemmend added instead of cooking sherry.

I've got to intrigue Mr. Lump by way of Everest. Not the Everest team working out most of its deals in the basement of the heart of London, of them eating weights up and down stairs and then testing their hearts and arteries.

Think of Mrs. Hunt, for example, endlessly trying new cooking utensils for practibility and cleanliness; Mrs. Hillary even munching ration tablets with a camera Cooper Hood within reach. And aren't you attracted a bit, Mr. Lump, by the absurdity of Lord Hunt's own private sweet-heart?

Think of Mrs. Hunt, for example, endlessly trying new cooking utensils for practibility and cleanliness; Mrs. Hillary even munching ration tablets with a camera Cooper Hood within reach. And aren't you attracted a bit, Mr. Lump, by the absurdity of Lord Hunt's own private sweetheart?

And you, Mr. Lump, who likes four pianos. Wouldn't you get a kick out of that team of pianists in the Wales' mountains when for four days they were practising different kinds of boots, wearing a different style on each foot during each day's practice, something piquant about string understirts?

* * *

I have a feeling Mr. Lump is turning his head our way just a little. The type of experience for him, for though he's the laziest bird in this or any other flock he is nevertheless the executive type who likes organization. Something, for instance, like playing the same thing, and at the same time," he'll exclaim.

Imagine, too, Mrs. Mowbray-Green sewing many hundreds of yards of tape on the expedition party's garments, thus avoiding a possible mutiny in the confusion of the mountain edges.

Then consider Cliff Pugh, one of the climbers, crawling into an RAF decompression chamber at Farnborough to experience a real anosphere as it would be at 29,- 000 feet. Pugh's reaction was simply "a horrible sight, so short of oxygen that his tongue was hanging out . . . very odd behavior," writes Hunt.

And in the profound recesses of your living room chair, what do you think of this for a hostess' party prepares to be frozen to death on the earth's highest mountain, but here's what it runs into en route:

"The temperature in India was a little above 100 degrees in the shade and in the heat and dust they had the anxiety of watching over the transference of 473 packages, weighing seven and a half tons, from rail to trains, from large trains to smaller trains, from the miniature Nepal railway to lorries and finally from road head in Southern Nepal to the conveyance trays of an overflown Dakota on the last stage, over the high ridge of Kathmandu."

And only then they started the long climb!

Ain't that something, Mr. Hamburger? And do you know that the porters and guides would not accept anything in pay except Nepali coins and the party had to find suitable strong-boxes in which to pack the bulky load which required no less than 12 coolies to carry the money alone?

* * *

It seems to me enchantment begins to set in. In the lovely land of Nepal the rhododendron bore massive scarlet and pink blossoms, the native girls bore big earrings and bangles and had bead necklaces. The magnolia flowers scented the thick trails, and above 20,000 feet the snows about were sunbirds, verdiler flycatchers, redheaded and greenbacked tits and Himalayan snowcocks.

And a lot of awe comes in with the Tibetans, Hindus or Tibet's monastery whose robust Abbot in faded red robes talked in hushed tones of the Yeti, the Abominable Snowmen, part bear, part man, part ape, who lives in caves and is seen for centuries but always going the other way.

Now take it easy, Mr. Bedbound, we're not even started yet. There's not a thing about the team spirit that will not be developing, of the comradeship and unselfishness of "roping on the rope". You haven't heard yet that vast caverns roar of unwritable symphonies, that auroras as if an underground train were passing, that the wind hasn't even begun to howl at you, and for you're still living in the lush of the valley.

Shucks, you're still miles and weeks away even from the highest mountain. Even Hillary, who had got to so you can't share the tremendous drudgery of coming upon some tins of cheese, chocolate and Vita-Wheat with the tins partly opened and doned high on the ice the year before.

You're still down with the tailless Tibetan rats at Base Camp preparing for the real climb. Such moments as crawling across an open crevasse on a horizontal ladder, or finding a goal-tin that your oxygen isn't working . . . What's that? You want to read the book yourself? Oh all right, but let me have it back in case I run across anyone else with a stunted horizon.

Twinkling Eyes Make Glasses Old

(St. Thomas Times Journal)

Manufacturers of artificial eyes try to make their product look as lifelike as possible. In days gone by the glass eye was easily identified by its fixed, glassy stare. But nowadays skilful craftsmen make them look very realistic. One new development, which is now being supplied to U.S. veterans, is an eye, which, by means of a tiny magnets, enables the wearer to imitate the natural eye's quick twinkle to it.

A twinkle that makes an artificial eye not look like what it is will be welcomed, but we hope there will be few cases of a war veteran into trouble. If when sitting opposite a pretty girl, in a restaurant, bus or train, the magnets should cause his eye to twinkle she might easily mistake it for a wink. That might be good or it might be bad. She might slap his face, the glad eye," or she might sock him with her purse. Or if she found him old and her boy friend around it might start a real scrap.

Then again a fellow, fearful young lady might be wearing the new magnetic eye, and it might have magnetic effects on your gentlemen if her eye carried the same expression as the eye the lady in the song of long ago had: "Jane, JaJne, she'll never be the same."

When she left the village she was shy!
But alas and alack, she came back
With a naughty little twinkle in her eye."

Manufacturers will have to take extreme care to avoid producing eyes that do not have potentially dangerous tendencies.

Old-Time Conversation

WHEN A STRANGER NEEDS A DOCTOR

What should a stranger in town do if he or she needs a doctor? If the matter is not urgent perhaps he can wait the first pleasant spokesman he sees to recommend a good doctor.

Dr. Brady

Or in many places today a stranger may telephone the local County Medical Society or Association, which maintains a telephone service for this purpose. For example, in the yellow pages of the telephone book in our community, the notice reads:

IN AN EMERGENCY

(If your own Doctor cannot be located)

Call Oshawa 5-5181

The operator will locate a physician, a member of the County Medical Association, to assist you . . . .

From the way the notice is worded I imagine the operator, not the stranger, would decide whether it is an emergency.

Although the chances are that the physician the operator might "locate" would be a good one, that does not necessarily mean that a doctor who is not a member of the local county medical organization is not just as good.

However, the operator at DUnkirk 1-1321 answered a request for a recommendation of a family physician, and a specialist's name cheerfully enough, naming one whose office is minutes from the inquirer's home, and a good one as he proved to be, even if he is a member of the county medical association.

So, my dear stranger, when you need a doctor and don't know one, remember to look up the county medical society's telephone number and get reliable direction there.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HERE AND NOW

There is an old story of a King who apparently had become restless and unhappy, and so gave orders to have some of his aids to go throughout his kingdom and find a contented man, and when they found him, they were to ask for his shirt and bring it to the King. Finally a man was discovered by the side of the road singing, and inquiring if he was contented, he replied he was. Then he was asked for his shirt that it might be given to the King. But he had no shirt.

How many of us neglect our own good fortune. We wish for things that we have not and that might never have. We are apt to make people around us unhappy because we are not satisfied with the Here and Now, and with such possessions as we have. How many times are we who have far less than we!

We don't like to face basic substances and yet the sum of all that we are is hidden within them.

Here is where I stand, no matter where, and this is my Now. Other things will come and will be changed, different and perhaps rapidly in operation. Remember that thought from Shakespeare where he said there was a "tide" in the affairs of men which, if taken at its flood, leads on to fortune. Challenge them if you wish—but don't let them escape! They can say "I come but once!"

Here and Now they cage up but while they sleep, each—the Here and the Now—take flight and is gone! Even opportunity's knuckles on the doors of successive shirts. Oh, what a glorious individual that one is who keeps the doors to his mind forever open and has hands and feet ready at a moment's notice to take flight into tasks unknown and untried.

The Here and the Now. What are you doing for? They are both yours. They are a part of your divine inheritance. Challenge them if you wish—but don't let them escape! They can say "I come but once!"

MESSAGE OF MERCY

Sometimes when we read of the amount spent by modern men for pain-killing pills, we are utterly incredulous. If we burn the candle at both ends and get a dull feeling wretched as a result, we usually take a pill and forget about it. If circumstances overwhelm us and we feel that we can endure them no longer, we may try to but such things to girls, for the time being at least, with a glass and a bottle.

Probably we are not much different from other generations in our unwillingness to face life realistically. Every pain to which human flesh is heir has a message for us, if we will just listen. Every problem comes to challenge our powers and to test our courage. As long as we give ourselves to pain-killing pills and to the anesthetic effects of alcohol, we will not solve them. We will only long until we shall have to face a problem greater than any from which we are trying to flee.

It seems trite to counsel men in their problems and have it out with them, then and there, but, as a matter of fact, that is the only counsel in which there is any wisdom. Pain-killing pills and the temporary solace in the bottle offer no permanent relief. They arouse protests in grow vast- er bigger through being temporarily avoided.

Relief to the message life is trying to convey to you through problem and pain. It is a message of love and mercy and power, if you will only let it be so.

Canadian Champions

(Ottawa Journal)

It is in the New York Herald Tribune that we come upon a news item under the heading "Champions Spring Up Like Weeds in Canada."

But imagine what we find in this compendium of champion-ships! A fellow at Fort Erie swallowed 24 raw eggs in 14 minutes—we hope with shells intact. From Halifax and Hawksbury were claims to the rocking-chair championship of North America. In Montreal a chap from Copenhagen claimed the pipe-smoking championship of the world; and also in Montreal a "frog-man" submerged in a glass tank for 24 hours said that was never under this water. The round-up a man in Granby, Quebec, played his piano for 20 hours and 20 minutes to set a world record or something—fortified, it will be noted, by brandy eggnogs.

Unemployment Rises in British Textile Towns

MANCHESTER, Eng., (Reuters) Fewer wheels are spinning these days in the mill towns of Lancashire, cradle of Britain's industrial revolution a century ago. Unemployment is mounting.

Its cause is increasingly stiff competition from India and Japan, who learned about mechanized textile production from Lancashire.

Their goods, produced at lower wages, are underselling Lancashire-produced textiles overseas and even on the British home market.

Extended stoppages, begun before Easter, affected nearly 40,000 textile workers and there are fears unemployment will increase.

Madoc

MADOC JCT. — Miss Annamay Clarke returned home on Sunday after spending part of her Easter vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ashley and Sandra of Batawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges, Thomas and Paul spent Saturday and Sunday visiting at the home of the former's son, Mr. Charles Bridges and Mrs. Bridges, of Oshawa. While there they also called on several other relatives and friends.

Siamese Twins Are Separated By Operation

CHICAGO (AP) — The headjoined Andrews Siamese twin girls were separated Thursday night and surgeons are "guardedly optimistic" that both will survive.

Mercy Hospital described the girls' condition as "good" early today.

Never have two similarly linked Siamese twins survived separation.

Dr. Harold Voris, who headed the team of 14 doctors performing the operation, said it was completed in the relatively fast time of 4½ hours. This compared to 12 hours, 40 minutes required for separation of the famed Ireata twins in 1952.

Rodney Brodie, now 3½, survived; Roger died 34 days after the separation.

TUBERCULOSIS Is Big Business

In Canada there are 20,000 patients in our Sanatoria—for over a year each.

For every patient, there are at least two more persons employed to fight the disease, directly and indirectly.

If these people — now in the "employ" of tuberculosis—earn $50.00 a week average, the annual payroll is $120 million! That is a brisk business for a bunch of "bugs"!

Save this money—put the bugs out of work.

Weddings

BURLEY—DAWSON

Easter lilies, daffodils and mauve tulips formed a pretty background in the Deaconry United Church for the wedding of Barbara Eileen Dawson, of Colborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Gordon Dawson, of Toronto, to Gordon Allan Burley, of Deseronto, which was solemnized at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, April 9. The Rev. Wesley Nosworthy, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beautiful waltz-length imported gown of lotus white satin, fashioned with orion net trim over a white taffeta underskirt with crinoline and hoop. The lace bodice, strapless with folds of nylon net trim formed a deep cowl falling across the top and the lace skirt fell in a flowing cascade, to which was shirred a deep diagonal flounce. Over this she wore a jacket of matching lace bordered with net, pointed at the wrists. A tiara style of beadwork fashioned of chantilly lace over tarlatan was encircled with seed pearls in floral design and held in place by a bow-length veil of nylon tulle. Her slippers were white with lotus tips. She carried a bouquet of white gardenia and hyacinth bells.

Miss Louise Gray, of Montreal, (formerly of Morven), a cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. She was an orchid nylon net waltz-length gown over taffeta. The entire bodice was fashioned of horizontal pleating in net and the bouffant net skirt was gathered in two tiers, giving a long torso effect. While garland of net bands over the shoulders formed a square neckline. Her matching orchid half-hat was created of net petals over taffeta and she wore matching elbow-length mitts, and orchid satin shoes with Louis heels. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisy mums.

The flower girl was little Karen McKnight of Bowmanville, a cousin of the bride, frocked in daffodil yellow nylon organdy with matching bonnet edged and heavily lined with flowers. Her nosegay was of mauve daisy mums.

Mr. Ernest Burley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Mr. Vernon Dawson, of Deseronto, a cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Dawson, of Newburgh, were ushers.

Before the ceremony, Mr. John Cochrane sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" during the signing of the register. Mrs. Donald McCaul of Kingston, was the organist.

A reception was held for over 60 guests in the Sunday school parlor, the colors of which was decorated for the occasion by streamers and wedding bells. A semi-circular arrangement of mauve, yellow and green streamers was filled with ferns, daffodils, mauve tulips and Easter lilies to form a delightful background for the bride's table. Other streamers caught up in bows of mauve and yellow, festooned the walls of the parlor and crisscrossed overhead, centred by a large white wedding bell.

The mother of the bride received in a street-length gown of gunmetal blue crepe with long torso effect bodice which was lined with taffeta. Her three-quarter length sleeves and portrait neckline. She fastened matching taffeta skirt over net crinoline was trimmed with a fold of same taffeta and a flare at side. She wore a pink ribbon-straw hat, pink gloves and black suede slippers with gunmetal French heels and trim. Her corsage was pink carnations. She was assisted by the bride-groom's mother who wore a blue crepe gown with white accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

A beautifully decorated white and silver three-tier wedding cake decorated with a vase in centre holding Talisman roses, was made by the mother of the bride and cut by the bride assisted by the bridegroom. Soft music was played throughout the wedding luncheon for which the Women's Association catered.

Miss Shannon Burley, sister of the bridegroom, received the bridal party and those serving the guests were, Mrs. Ernest Burley, Mrs. Jack Edwards, Miss Louise Thompson, Miss Patsy Woods and Miss Gail Hicks.

For travelling to points east, the bride wore a navy blue tailored suit with white linen lapels and cuffs and a navy and white straw hat, gunmetal kidskin slippers, bag and purse to match. Her corsage was a single mauve orchid and white hyacinth petals.

On their return they will reside in Oshawa where the groom has a position with the Ontario Motor Coaches.

Guests were present from Selby, Morven, Switzerville, Kingston, Bowmanville, Napanee, Madoc, Belleville, Wooler and Toronto.

PACE—DALY

CAMPBELLFORD. — A very pretty spring wedding took place on Saturday, April 9, when St. Columba Lady of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic church, when Colleen Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Daly of Hastings, became the bride of a well-known Campbellford boy, Dante J. Pace, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pace of Campbellford. The ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. Dean Graver.

The church was decorated with pink and white carnations and music was played by Norman Mulholland and Joan Walsh, under the direction of Sister Macneil. The choir sang "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

A gown of original Dior design in white taffeta with an oversikirt of net was worn by the bride. The cocktail-length skirt featured inserts of French lace and a matching lace jacket had petal point sleeves ats a pearl-studded collarette. Her veil, with a border of French lace, fell from a heart-shaped headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Robert Mackie of Belleville, who wore a lemon yellow nylon cocktail-length dress with redingote to match. She wore a headdress of blue flowers and carried a nosegay of tinted blue carnations.

The groomsman was Mr. Vincent Marino Pace, and ushers were Messrs Robert Mackie and Roy Hay of Campbellford.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Kay's dining room where the bride's mother received in a dress of blue nylon and lace, wearing a white hat and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother also received gowned in blue crepe with navy hat and accessories and also wore pink carnations.

Later, the couple left for a wedding trip to the United States and Mexico. For travelling, the bride wore a pin stripe black and white bengaline, a white picture hat and matching white nylon cape.

When they return, they will take up residence in Campbellford.

VON Gives Report For March

The March meeting of the local branch of the VON was held in the YMCA on Monday evening with the president, Mrs. M. H. Dafoe in the chair.

Reports were read and discussed. The nurse's report showed that 28 patients were cared for in March. Of these 45 were admitted to the service during the month. A total of 363 home visits were made of which 296 were nursing visits and 67 were health supervision visits to mothers and babies. Four half days were spent assisting the local department of Health at the Child Health Clinic and one half day at the Canniffon school.

P.S. Women Teachers Hold Supper Meeting

Fine spring weather helped to provide an incentive for the public school women teachers to attend the April supper meeting of the Belleville branch of the P.W.T.A.O.," Wednesday evening.

President Grace Houston called the group to order after which she dealt with a small amount of more important business.

Queen Mary School was in charge of the program, which began with a solo by Miss Ida Ketcheson of Lizzi's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2."

An educational discussion regarding the controversial ideas expressed in the book "Life Unto For the Mind," and "New Ways of Discipline," under the direction of Mrs. Grace Anderson, and assisted by numerous teachers from the various schools proved most helpful.

Miss Gail Hicks.

For travelling to points east, the bride wore a navy blue tailored suit with white linen lapels and cuffs and a navy and white straw hat, gunmetal kidskin slippers, bag and purse to match. Her corsage was a single mauve orchid and white hyacinth petals.

On their return they will reside in Oshawa where the groom has a position with the Ontario Motor Coaches.

St. John's Guild Spring Tea Dainty, Most Successful

Yesterday afternoon St. John's Guild held its spring tea and bazaar in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill which was prettily adorned with daffodils and other spring flowers for the occasion.

The numerous guests and patrons were received at the door by the rector's wife, Mrs. L. A. Page, and Mrs. R. Babcock, president of the Guild whose kindly welcome used warm hands to help the pots of this friendly church on the hill.

The tea room was a hive of activity with its fish pond for the children, where they might fish and always be sure of getting a bite, and not only a bite, but a prize in the shape of some toy or little gadget. In charge of this was Mrs. H. Price who kept a most pleasant game a warden. Near to the fish pond was the candy and fancy goods table with some fine homemade candy, an assortment of little odds-and-ends waiting for any owner. These were in charge of Mrs. H. Putman and Mrs. R. Deering, respectively.

TASTY CANDIES

The candies included peanut brittle, maple creams, chocolate fudge and chocolate creams in cups, and boxes. The miscellaneous table showed a collection of pocket editions of popular novels, a little teapot, green glass decanters, glass butter dish, good wall flower containers, pots of African violets, and plastic candy dishes.

The fancy work, as usual, had an excellent display of plain and fancy aprons in both the hair style and the all-over type in a variety of materials such as satin, pink, and white aprons with colored borders; aprons woven in mauve and yellow, green aprons with yellow bands and ties; an apron with the design worked on apron; satin cushion covers; crocheted tablecloths in a quin trim; crocheted purses in white and green, also sequin trimmed, and a number of the frilly doily with a star centre. These were convened by Mrs. W. R. Collyer and Mrs. W. A. Means.

FINE HOMECOOKING

Some of the finest homecooking seen recently was soon sold, and included delicious cherry pies, apple pies, lemon pies, heaped with fluffy meringues; coconut layer cakes, golden crusted bannocks bread, date and orange breads, loaf cakes, raisin pies, rice krispy tarts, lemon layer jelly rolls, tea biscuits, angel cakes, fudge cakes, butterscotch squares, cookies, whole wheat muffins, bananas, date and nut bread, fruit relishes, gooseberry jams and cherry jam. Miss J. Reddon and Mrs. C. Gerow were the conveners.

The tea table, which occupied the eastern end of the auditorium, was lovely with its white linen cloth, embroidered with yellow daisies, and centred with daffodils, tulips, Easter lily, little trays of dainty fancy willows and blue scylla. Flanking this breath of spring were two cut-glass tall, antique bread and cake-dishes each bearing aloft five, tall, ivory candles with gold and silver services. Each little guest table was covered with a very dainty, white cloth embroidered either in colors or plain, and having attractive edges, and centred with a tiny spray or sprig of pink begonia.

POURING TEA

Those who presided at the silver services were: Mrs. B. Balyx and Mrs. W. Hall, Mrs. R. H. Saunders and Mrs. F. R. Clarke.

Serving the delicious sandwiches, the cheering cup of tea, and the little cakes, were: Mrs. G. Brown, Mrs. H. Downman, Mrs. W. Roberts, Mrs. R. Bailey, Miss N. Lapsley, Miss J. Batcock. Those who replenished included: Mrs. I. Smith, Mrs. W. Messer, and Mrs. A. E. Bowden, Mrs. and Mrs. Ida Johnson.

Mrs. George Carty acted as treasurer for the afternoon. Mrs. John Exley was unable to assist her due to illness.

A dainty tea, well convened, and most attractive and successful.

Quinte Tennis-Skating Club Sponsors Charming Tea

The Masonic Temple was a bower of freshness and beauty yesterday afternoon for the spring tea and sale of homecooking under the auspices of the Quinte Tennis and Skating club.

Mrs. John Lewis, wife of the president of the club, and Mrs. W. J. Bateman, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, graciously received the guests, assisted by Mrs. Eric Whitfield acted as treasurer for the afternoon.

Mrs. James Anton and Mrs. Alfred Wilkes were in charge of the 1100 tea, which would be drawn for later.

SPRING-LIKE TEA ROOM

The tea room, with its little grey tables and dainty yellow and tea table was most spring-like. Centering the delightfully appointed table with its pale green cloth, was an attractive arrangement of daffodils, graceful sprays of yellow forsythia, spikes of misty willows, and sprays of fragrant, purple and mauve stocks, flanked by tall, yellow candles in tri-branched silver candlesticks and gleaming, silver services—one an antique beauty in sterling, 145 years old.

Those who poured during the afternoon were: Mrs. James Davis and Mrs. Les Digby; Mrs. Ken Moult and Mrs. R. O'Connor.

BOUNTEOUS HOMECOOKING

Other attractions included the homecooking table with its bounteous supply of good things to eat: luscious coconut, white cake; golden brown buns; lemon pies piled high with golden meringue; cream puffs oozing whipped cream; date-nutty tarts; and cherry tartlets; fairy gold cookies; layer cakes with rich, mocha icings; pink angel cakes; chocolate and vanilla cream fudges; coconut Chinese chews; sweet pickles; pure apple marmalade; cucumber relishes; tomato pickles; pure-red strawberry jams and fruit filled hermits. Convening these were Mrs. Tom Davis and her capable assistants.

Mrs. G. G. Brearley and her willing assistants had charge of the miscellaneous table with its costume jewellery of silver chains, bracelets; shell and bead brooches; mauve shell necklaces; pearl beads in brown color trimmed with black; vases; pink glass sugar bowl; clear glass flower vases, tumblers; and an antique necklace. Besides the costume jewellery and other oddments there were numerous little plants including various kinds of foliage, begonias; ivy; rubber plants, and graceful trailing philodendron. A lovely white chrysanthemum would go to the holder of the lucky ticket. A parcel post offer was also in evidence at the end of this table with a hamper of many packages in all varying shapes and sizes.

GROCERY HAMPER

A hamper filled to over-flowing with groceries including olives, canned milk, peas, corn, salmon, tomatoes, butter, fruit juices, jams oranges and jelly powders. Mrs. J. A. Weese was in charge of this. This also would go to the holder of the lucky ticket.

Those who were in charge of the kitchen were, Mrs. Wilbur Sherry and Mrs. Jack Dickens, assisted by their various helpers.

Those winning the various prizes were as follows: The gift bond, Jerry Miller, Yeomans street; grocery basket, Mrs. John Lewis; potted chrysanthemum, Mrs. E. Fairman; floral centre piece, Mrs. John Lewis; the basket of daffodils, Mrs. William Sherry.

Appreciation is extended to the tea room conveners, Mrs. C. Miller, and Mrs. P. O. Jeffrey, and to their assistants for a charming spring tea.

Christ Church Parish Guild Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild was held last Tuesday in the parish hall with Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott, the president, presiding.

Mrs. Charles Bishop gave the devotional.

After the reports of various committees, Mrs. Wonnacott introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton of Bayside, who gave a most inspiring address.

Mrs. Cleo Colling graciously thanked Mrs. Middleton, on behalf of the Guild.

Refreshments were served by the committee of Mrs. R. H. Dawson, Mrs. R. Hinchey and Mrs. L. Donnelly.

'Ladies' Night' Sponsored By Men's Club

What has become a much looked-forward-to event, the ladies' night of the Men's Club, Wallbridge Memorial United Church, was held this week. More than 60 couples enjoyed a splendid evening supper being provided by Group Six of the W.A., headed by Mrs. L. S. Frost.

Community singing was enjoyed with Miss L. West at the piano.

A toast to the ladies was proposed by Evan Barlow, who paid tribute, not only to the ladies present, but to all those belonging to the fair sex. Mrs. Lou Andrews responded, referring to the tea put on by the men of the club, stating that it could not have been arranged and carried out better by any group of ladies.

THANKS TENDERED

The ladies who provided the supper in the evening were thanked by Ed. Schlievert.

Art Naylor, convener of the men's tea, thanked all those who had helped make it a success.

Thanks to all those who helped in organization of the tea were also expressed by Les Field, and on behalf of the Men's Club, presented Mrs. A. Naylor with a bouquet of red roses in appreciation.

A male quartet from Madoc composed of Jim House, Bob Walker, Cliff Derry and Bill Wager, accompanied by Miss L. West at the piano, gave several fine vocal selections which were well received by the group.

The speaker of the evening, Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton, of Bayside, was introduced by Mr. A. Archibald. Mrs. Middleton touched on many subjects and was thanked by Mr. Archibald as she read a poem she had composed referring to the costumes and manners of the men at the tea.

The male quartet was heard again, the final number being "Pilesy this House," and with the singing of "Goodnight Ladies," the evening came to an end.

Art Touchie, president of the club, was chairman and in charge of arrangements.

Founding of H-S Assoc. Told At Avondale H-S Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Avondale Home and School Association was held in Avondale school Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Ralph Knowlton, presiding.

It was announced that the Salk vaccine will be administered in the Avondale school as soon as possible.

Honour thanks were given to all who participated in the success of the St. Patrick's Day fair. The sum of $139.75 was realized from the sale.

Mr. Ken Bird asked for a supply of balls and bats for the coming baseball season. A committee has been appointed to supply $20 towards sports equipment.

Mr. Ralph Knowlton, Scoutmaster of Avondale, gave a talk on the "World Jamboree for Scouts", held in August, 1955, at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

The annual field day for cubs will be on June 24th, in the OSD grounds, weather permitting. On Saturday June 25th, a ball game organized for the purpose of raising the basketball and football diamond in the school grounds.

The monthly attendance banner was won by Mr. Bird's class.

Mr. G. Ackerman heads the committee to bring in a slate of officers for the coming year.

PROGRAM PORTION

The following portion of the program was in charge of Messrs Lloyd Hall and Bird.

Mrs. J. Musgrove introduced Mrs. Ralph Knowlton, Mrs. Mc Mordeen, who gave an interesting and inspiring talk on the "Founding of Home and School Association."

Before giving the history of this worthy organization, Mrs. Mordeen pointed out that the true meaning is co-operation between home and school, guided by Divine power.

In the year 1895 in Washington, U.S.A., the first annual which will be held in Christ Church in Belleville on April 27 and 28.

Mrs. Green read an interesting paper on establishing the church in India. Mr. Secker closed the meeting.

Carmel C.C. Enjoys Films

The Carmel Comrade Club met on Friday evening, for its regular meeting at the church hall, with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Gean in charge.

An inspiring worship service was conducted by Mrs. Gerow of Miss Kay Homan's Sunday school class. Those taking part were, Patsy Dafoe, Carolyn Thompson, John Reynolds, Tony Gowthorpe and Cheryl Chambers.

Mrs. Allen Gowthorpe, president, took charge of the business period.

FILMS SHOWN

Three educational and instructing films were shown, after which Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. Gean and their group served delicious refreshments, bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

SENIOR W.A.

FRANKFORD — The Senior W.A. of Frankford Anglican Church met in the parish hall with Miss W. Dench presiding.

Mrs. H. G. Secker read the Litany from the March "Living Message." Mrs. C. Cooney read the minutes of the meeting and Mrs. A. Gilmour gave the treasurer's report. Letters were read from Miss Saunders, the diocesan treasurer in Kingston. A letter was also read from the inter-church council in appreciation for the donation taken at the World's Day of Prayer. The March board report was read by Mr. Secker. The study book which was dedicated on Sunday, April 3, by Rev. Canon Albert, Sask. Mrs. Ellis Green was appointed delegate to attend the Woman's Auxiliary annual which will be held in Christ Church in Belleville on April 27 and 28.

Mrs. Green read an interesting paper on establishing the church in India. Mr. Secker closed the meeting.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"WON'T YOU HAVE A CUP OF TEA?"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When someone comes to call on me at home . . . do I receive in the mistress' and/or his wife, or perhaps a women friend or acquaintance . . . I never see tea and cookies? If so, how soon after the arrival of the guest or guests?

G.

To serve tea is fact, of course, a "must" . . . but one's pleasant manner it is! If you are expecting a guest, at tea-time, or even some time before, it's a good idea to have the tea-tray ready or at least ready for the final accessories, and the cookies (and whatever else you serve with the tea) at hand, and then, perhaps five or ten minutes after the guest's arrival (depending on the nearness to tea-time), say, "I have the tea-tray ready so we can have a cup of tea before . . . I hope you won't mind that . . . would you?" When the mistress' cause for his calling—appointment, he may not have the time to have a "dish of tea," but when he and his wife make the more social call, I'm sure she'll persuade him to join in the tea-enjoyment. Since my guests always have some inclination toward serving tea, why not make a feature of this friendly custom? It's such a simple, inexpensive, "cozy" gesture of hospitality.

HERE'S A GROOM WITH RESPECT FOR RELATIONSHIPS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a prospective groom, to be married soon. Although in recent weddings-galore, I've read of the closest friends, the grooms have omitted giving bachelor dinners, I want every word to tell you say about three or four days before the wedding. Of course I will invite the best man to attend me and I may invite the husbands (very good friends of mine) of two of my bride's bridesmaids. But please tell me: Is it proper for me to invite my father (for some I have always been extremely close friends) and/or Mike's father, who is a close family friend of ours and who also, of course, will give the bride away in marriage, I'd like so much to invite "the fathers".

Bob S.

Yes, sir . . . please do invite "the fathers" to a fine traditional, although not always observed today, that the groom invite his own father and his bride's father to his bachelor dinner. And I'm proud of you that you plan to follow this useful precedent, I'm sure. And particularly since you have such wonderful reasons for including them in your guest-list . . . your how to the abiding friendship between you and your father (who will, of course, also be the man guest of honor at the wedding), and your father's relationship with the bride's father, the host of the wedding, who also is actually a member of the wedding party, since he is to give the bride in marriage.

HOSTESS, MUST SHAKE HANDS WITH GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm never quite sure whether I, as hostess, should shake hands with our men guests as well as with our women guests as I greet them at a party in our home. Please set me straight about this.

Gene S.

This is an easy hospitality rule for you and your husband to remember. Hostess or host shakes hands when greeting arriving guests; both men and women . . . and also when saying good-by to guests, both men and women. The cordial symbol of Hospitality.

THREE PROBLEM-QUESTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it possible for an unmarried girl in her late thirties to have a church wedding and wear a white gown and veil if she is marrying a divorced man?—G.M.

In your question are three questions.

1 (1) May this ceremony take place in church? First and most important, the couple must consult with church authorities to find out whether or not church regulations permit this ceremony to take place in church.

(2) Does the fact that the man has been married before mean that the bride, who has not been married before, may not wear a white wedding dress and veil? No. Since this is the bride's first marriage, she may wear a white wedding dress and veil.

(3) Is it appropriate for a bride in her late thirties to wear a wedding gown, and veil? It is certainly hard to say what age shall be the limit for a wedding gown and veil. By today's standards the bride in her late thirties may wear bridal gown and veil, if she is positive she has the right style to make the bridal costume becoming and if she has the good taste to choose the simplest and the best design of dress (in soft ivory shade, or white) for her therefore she would be wise to wear a street length afternoon dress in a shade most becoming to her, and add a small matching or harmonizing hat. As a matter of fact, this type of costume today is extremely smart, easily located, the dress very fashionable in soft, sheer fabric, or lace over matching taffeta, or silk or chiffon or marquisette or net.

EATING TOAST AND JAM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the proper way to eat buttered toast, either alone, or with jam or marmalade? Is it really necessary to break the toast into pieces?

A slice of toast, like a slice of bread not toasted, should be broken into moderate - sized pieces (one or two bites) with the fingers before being eaten. Holding a slice of buttered toast in your hands and eating bites from it is not really a grown-up procedure. When jam or marmalade is served with the toast, you put this on your bread and butter plate (or, if this plate is not available, on your luncheon or dinner plate), and with your knife spread some of the jam or marmalade on the piece of toast you have broken off.

QUESTION:

How much coffee would you recommend using for a 12-cup percolator? to be perked on stove (not drip method) and how long (not drip perk) same.—Mrs. R.B.

ANSWER:

The first question I want to ask is do you use the measuring cups but since you can't answer I will go ahead on two assumptions: 1) I will tell you how I make coffee in my 8 measuring cup percolator. I use pulverized coffee because you do not require so much coffee. I measure 4 level measuring tablespoons pulverized coffee for the basket and 6 measuring cups of cold water into the pot, and put it on to heat. After it begins to "perk" it times it for exactly 5 minutes and take it off. 2) If you are referring to a percolator that yields 12 cups of coffee average serving being about 6 oz. that means your percolator holds 9 measuring cups of water so use either 13 measuring tablespoons of pulverized coffee or 12 tablespoons regular grind coffee and perk for 5 minutes after it begins to "perk". If your percolator holds 13 measuring cups of water until smooth. Stir in 1 tsp. spoon vanilla. Gently fold in 1-2 cup whipping cream which has been whipped until stiff. Beat the 3 left over egg whites with 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar and 1-2 cup sugar until you have a stiff meringue then carefully fold into the mixture. Pile into cooled pie crust and chill until set—at least 2 hours. If desired top with a border of sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with shavings of dark chocolate—semi sweet is best, or bitter sweet. I hope this is a satisfactory substitute.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By HEATHCOTE FAIRFAX

A LEGAL SEPARATION MIGHT BE THIS WIFE'S SALVATION

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband's position commands respect. He is also the type of man women find attractive. He has refused to discuss any of our problems on this point. Instead he always agrees with me, but continues to do just as he pleases.

Admittedly he had no love for the "bags of bones," as he called the women he ran around with. And I don't know what I represented to him unless it was protection from these women finding out about each other.

Finally he met one particular woman, and his demands on me then were more than I could endure. The idea was that I should promote opportunities for him to be with her. First, he tried to kill me for refusing, declared he would fight me, and on several occasions beat me. He doesn't want a divorce, and has told me he has a right to kick me out for what I am doing to him.

I might add that I have been trying to help my husband come to his senses for two years. Mrs. M. M.

Dear Mrs. M. M.: If your situation is as extraordinary, even dangerous as you picture it, then I think you should take some definite step to protect yourself. It seems to me very hazardous indeed for you to go on living with a man who is as violent as you say.

I feel that the wisest thing for you to do would be to obtain at least a legal separation from your husband until it appears whether or not he ever is going to "come to his senses." You might wish to discuss this with a marital counselor before making up your mind. There are undoubtedly competent marital counselors in your community, and if you can't find out who they are any other way, you might write to the American Association of Marriage Counselors, 270 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. and ask for their names and addresses. Then choose one from the list, make an appointment with him for a personal visit, and tell him your problem in detail. He will help you come to a wise decision, and show you the best way to carry it out.

ISN'T THIS GIRL BEING A BIT DRAMATIC?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been going out with a boy for six months, and have discovered something quite unusual and rather depressing. The fact is, that his moral standards seem to be somewhat higher than mine, and I often find myself in an embarrassing position.

It's too late to pretend I'm innocent, and rather than ruin this boy's life, should I give him one? I love him very much.

Please think over my problem and answer me immediately, before things get too far out of hand. — A.E.F.

Dear A.E.F.: Your letter is a bit mysterious, don't you think? What do you mean, you often find yourself "in an embarrassing position"? And what's all the drama about giving the boy up rather than ruining his life? Are you afraid to make yourself "scarce" and go off to the ends of the world who might lead a young and innocent boy astray?

What I assume from what you say is that you have done things you now regret because you have been attracted to a boy who does not believe in doing the same kind of thing. If this is the case, then I think, rather than get so dramatic about it, you had simply better thank your lucky stars that you have met such a nice boy and appreciate him because of your standards to conform with him.

STOP WORRYING! YOU HAVE NO PROBLEM AT ALL, PEG

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've been though I'm only 14, and do not take boys seriously, I am worried because I have a problem.

I'm one of the popular girls in my class and have a few boy friends. The problem is that when a boy likes me and I like him, it only lasts a while because I then start liking someone else. When I get older, and really like a boy and marry, even though I'm marrying him, I'm afraid the same thing will happen and I'll see someone else I like.

Please tell me if this is just something every teen-ager girl goes through, or if I am different from others and have this fling boy after boy and try to forget them for awhile.

Peg

Dear Peg:

Stop worrying right away! You have no problem at all, Peg, and you are being much smarter about your friendships with boys than most teen-agers.

It's a normal thing for teen-age girls to get interested in one boy after another, and for teen-age boys to become enthusiastic about girls the same way. That's why it's so much wiser not to take any one boy too seriously.

If you were to "stop liking boys," it wouldn't be normal at all for a girl your age. Just keep on as you're doing, have all the fun you can while you're a teen-ager, and realize that the more friends you have among both boys and girls the better. By the time you're ready to think of marriage, you'll have learned to know your own mind.

Two Style Revivals Reflected In Show of Canadian Designs

By SHIRLEY MORTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Two style revivals were reflected in a fashion show of Canadian designs at a Save - day fabric exhibition that opened in Montreal Wednesday night.

More than 100 companies are working with the Quebec section of the Canadian Association of Textile Colourists and Chemists to show all phases of cloth production at the Canadarama of Canadian Fabric and Fashion."

The fashion revivals were the use of fox as a summer fur and the coal-dress.

A white fur wrap was worn with a white satin sheath gown that flared low in back with a discreetly-pleated bust - line designed by France Davies of Montreal. Blue fox set off a simple short dress of Textolite.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

CULTIVATING VOCAL CHARM

Girls who would be numbered among the belles of their social circle should realize that people have ears as well as eyes, and that the voice reflects personality. A pleasing, well-modulated voice radiates vitality, has warm, attractive qualities. It is as much an element of charm as a dazzling complexion, beautifully groomed hair, a svelte figure or pretty eyes.

If a girl is nice to listen to, we are likely to get the impression that she's nice to look at, especially if she is gay and jolly and has interesting ideas to offer.

A high, shrill voice is a personality liability. The girl who has one has never learned to use her voice as it should be used. Therefore, it is her own fault.

It a girl suspects that she can make improvement along these lines she should do vocal exercises. She should start by taking a deep breath, saying the word "ah" with a long sigh. Then she should start to sing, keeping to the same "ah" tone, making it a little louder, then softening it, after trailing it back to the first tone. She is thus running the voice scales, exercising her vocal muscles.

The secret is to keep the voice pitched low and to enunciate clearly. There should not be sudden emphasis, a habit with some girls who must exclaim "wonderful" or "terrible" — two overworked words in the lexicon of slang.

The voice that inspires personal interest is pleasant, friendly and cordial. You may have observed that there are many ways of saying the word "hello". It can be warm or it can be cold, and the one to whom it is addressed knows the difference instantly. It is just a matter of inflection.

Some women's voices become high and sharp when they are nervous or excited, or when they talk too rapidly. This is ruinous to poise and charm.

Table Shows Area Paint Will Cover

How far will a gallon of paint go? This is a problem the home handyman would like to solve before he buys an unnecessary amount of paint.

Rough, porous surfaces, and those lacking a primer or other undercoater, naturally call for more paint than walls or woodwork in good pre-painted condition.

The following table for one coat of paint, where no sizing has been used, was prepared by the M. J. Merkin Co. to show the areas which one gallon of paint will cover:

Type of Surface	Sq. Ft.
Smooth painted surfaces	700-800
White coat plaster	500-800
Sand finish plaster and textured walls	350-450
Wallpaper	350-450
Gypsum wallboard	350-450
Concrete surfaces	400-500
Brick surfaces	300-400
Cinder block	300-350

For average-size rooms with surfaces in good condition, where a one-coat finish is desired, and where ceilings are a different color than the walls, with the height of walls about 8 feet, the following number of quarts will be needed:

Room Size	Walls	Ceiling	Wood-work	Floor
6x9	2	1	½	½
9x9	3	1	½	½
10x12	3	1	½	1
14x14	4	2	1½	2
20x18	5	3	2	2

Plastic Drawers For Cabinets

Molded phenolic plastic drawers, now on the market, are a boon to the home handyman tackling a cabinet-making project.

These smooth, non-warping drawers are available in two standard sizes: 17 1-8 inches wide by 16 3-4 inches long and 4 3-4 inches high with 3 1-2 inches of inside depth; also 18 3-4 inches wide by 14 1-2 inches long by the same height and inside depth. Other sizes are scheduled.

Since drawer making is one of the most complicated and time consuming tasks for the handyman, these prefabricated units ranging around $5 in cost, offer welcome short cuts.

Simple way to avoid a pain in the neck when nailing fir plywood panels to a ceiling is to make a T-support long enough to reach from the floor and fit it tightly against the panel you are nailing.

Do-It-Yourself Projects Can Help You Modernize

Keeping your home up to date can be an enjoyable and satisfying project for your entire family. But you have to know where to start and when to stop.

New things to work with, new ways of spending jobs for spare-time workers and a new spirit of co-operation among merchants, brought about by the do-it-yourself movement, are kind to your pocket book.

You can best decide where to start home modernization by deciding what home improvement your family needs the most. Even if that project should be a new kitchen you can solve it entirely merely by buying new equipment. You may want to install some new cabinets yourself, or build some shelves, or cover the floor, or redecorate the room.

Perhaps the family consensus will swing toward sprucing up the bathroom. You can even install colored clay tile yourself nowadays.

SOLVING SPACE NEEDS

But usually the greatest need is for more space or more livable space to make your family life more pleasant. Homes can be enlarged in various ways.

A house with an attic is the easiest to enlarge. A dry basement, or a cellar that can be made dry, is the second best candidate. An attached garage often can be converted quickly into an extra room, especially since carports have proved to be adequate for modern automobiles.

In all of those instances, you have four walls and a roof to start with.

Your next most practicable choices are to enclose a breezeway or a porch for use as an extra room. Here you usually have two walls and a roof. A minimum of framing and windows are required. But they call for professional help.

Most expensive to build is a wing on your house, because this involves a new foundation, a new roof, three new walls and partial destruction of the old wall. This is a project full of pitfalls for amateurs.

THINK IT THROUGH

But even a new wing for an extra bedroom doesn't cost as much as new house construction, because you don't have the heavy burden of bathroom, kitchen and utilities to figure on. Auxiliary heat can be provided with modern space heaters, electric radiant glass panels, or if your furnace capacity is great enough, an extension from the present plant.

New building materials greatly simplify home enlargement projects. Sheet forms of sheathing, easily installed insulation complete with vapor barriers, various types of interior wall-boards, floor covering tiles, prepasted wallpapers, quick drying and odorless paints—each with instructions from their manufacturers—make it possible for almost any man and/or woman to tackle most jobs.

Hardwood plywoods, veneered in rare woods, make beautiful paneling easy, and economical. Imitation paneling is reproduced photographically on wallpapers and pre-decorated wallboard. New plastic laminates and fabrics are easy to apply.

But when it comes to structural work, such as enclosing a breezeway or porch, or building a wing, it is wise to call a halt to do-it-yourself plans. Building codes can be involved as well as the structural safety of your house.

IT PAYS TO BE SMART

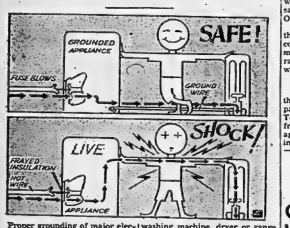
The smart do-it-yourself fan knows when a job calls for a professional. It's the difference between administering aspirin and leaving an appendectomy to a surgeon. Enlarging a window, installing a home, making changes in plumbing or electrical work are among jobs the wise amateur avoids.

Within limitations, you can save yourself a lot of money and annoyance by making many improvements in your home. Contractors are strong for the do-it-yourself movement, because they can't afford to tackle little jobs and don't want to lose your good will by charging you for the full time required from office to job to fix a dripping faucet.

Every householder today is expected to know how to turn off the water supply and replace a worn washer at the kitchen sink—how to replace a fuse plug without calling an electrician. But many novices have learned the hard way that it often costs more to get a botched-up building job rectified than it would have cost to have a by a professional in the first place.

Check The Weather Before You Paint

House painting weather means that the air is comparatively warm and dry, that there is no morning dew on the house and there is no likelihood of rain. The temperature should register no less than 40 with no chance that will drop below that point during the drying period.



Don't paint in the direct rays of the sun. Plan the job so you'll always be working in the shade.

You can modernize an old bathroom with today's new materials and methods. This bed setting of clay tile for a vanity counter and built-in linen shelves create glamour like this.

Grounded Appliances Guard You from Shock

Proper grounding of major electrical appliances can prevent many annoying and dangerous shocks and even save lives.

When an appliance, such as a washing machine, dryer or range, is not grounded, it is possible for the housing to become charged because of a frayed wire or other defect.

NHA SMALL HOUSE DESIGNS —Here is a new design by architect S. Lloyd, of Victoria, for a two-bedroom, basementless bungalow which features a spacious living dining room and a combination kitchen and utility room.

The exterior appearance is enhanced by the wide eave overhang which has the practical value in that it shades the large living room window from the sun's rays in summer. Bookshelves are used to form one side of the hallway from the front entrance. The fireplace with its tile hearth is the center of attraction in the living room and faces the series of full-length windows which ensure a bright and cheerful atmosphere.

Both bedrooms are of ample size and are well separated from the living area of the house. Storage space, an important consideration in a basementless design, has been well provided.

The floor area of this house is 1,127 sq. ft. and the cubic measurement is 16,432 cu. ft. The exterior dimensions are 43 feet, six inches by 29 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 131, are available at attractive cost from Housian's.

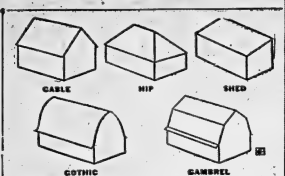
FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

Style Can Rule Your Roof

The best type of roofing for your house depends on three major factors: (1) location of your house, (2) the style of your roof, and (3) your preferences for color and appearance.

Localies figures in because of economy. If you live in a lumbering region, you may find wood shingles more economical than other roofing materials. And in some places slate and tile can still be afforded. But in most parts of the country, asphalt shingles prove to be the most expedient—so much so that in recent years they have monopolized more than 80 per cent of the market.



The style of a roof is a factor insofar as pitch or slope is concerned. A flat roof calls for built-up roofing—something that water will not back up under and which the wind will not be likely to rip off. Also, the steeper the pitch of a roof, the bigger the roof area and the more roofing material is required. This lends further importance to economy.

THE MAIN STYLES

Most homes and farm structures today have roofs of one of five styles—gable, hip, shed, gothic, or gambrel. The gable roof, with two sloping sides that meet at the top to form a ridge, is the kind used most frequently. It originated in northern climates to provide for shedding heavy loads of snow. It was kept in milder climates because of its ease of construction and maintenance. It provides generous attic space. If this space is used for rooms, dormer windows can be cut into the roof surface.

The hip roof also is popular in houses, primarily for appearance. It tends to give a house a lower look and so it is often used for modern architectural designs. However, it is more difficult to ventilate than a gable roof, providing no places for conventional louvers, such as those used in gable ends. Some hip roofs have been equipped with ventilating cupolas, others with ventilating slits that are no more conspicuous than a raised shingle, here and there. Hip roofs, however, can sometimes present problems for the use of attic fans.

The shed roof has become a favorite of modern home architects. As its name indicates, it is the type used on a shed, sloping in one direction. The butterfly roof is a variation, comprising two shed roofs sloping toward each other in the centre, where drainage is provided.

Five popular styles of roofs. The top three are the most common on houses; lower two usually used for barns.

PITCH DICTATES MATERIAL

Most shed roofs provide very little space for insulation and ventilation. When their pitch is too low, approaching a flat roof in appearance, the use of shingles may be prohibited. In the past, the use of economical asphalt shingles on pitches of less than 4 inches per foot was not recommended. Recently, however, new techniques involving the use of roll roofing on a flat deck under the asphalt shingles, and careful cementing down of all shingle tabs, has made the use of asphalt shingles acceptable on pitches as low as 2 inches per foot.

Gothic and gambrel roofs are used mainly for barns. Both of these types provide generous storage space for hay. The merchant in some sections like New England, for converting old barns into homes, has given gothic and gambrel rooms a toehold in house architecture where families prefer the red barn style with white trim.

This same color consciousness can have a bearing on your choice of roofing material, too. It is such an important factor that manufacturers of asphalt shingles produce this material now in about every color of the rainbow and a few more.

And—there can be more to color than mere choice. Since light colors reflect heat rays, while dark colors absorb them, sticklers for maximum insulation take this into consideration in selecting their roofing.

Economical and efficient grain storage is still a problem on many farms these days. Do-it-yourself plans available at lumber yards show how to make fir plywood granaries sheathed with low-cost 5-16 inch fir plywood.

Location Looms Large When Buying or Building Home

In building or buying a home, the "where" is every bit as important as the "what." Location looms large indeed among the factors which will determine the satisfaction you and your family will derive from your home.

First of all, consider the neighborhood in general and the type of people who will be your nearest neighbors. Are they the sort likely to prove congenial to you and your family? Would you welcome their children as playmates for yours?

Take a careful look at the homes in the immediate vicinity. Are they commensurate in value with one which you intend to build or buy? It is well to remember that a home out of character, price-wise, with its neighbors can often present a difficult re-sale problem.

Look into the transportation schedules of any bus line or railroad that you or your family will use frequently. Consider, as well, the distance to the nearest bus stop or railroad station.

If you have children, the character and location of the schools they will use are important points to check. Is it necessary to cross major traffic arteries in order to reach the schools?

Find out if there are churches of your denomination within reasonable distance.

Check the nearest shopping centre, both as to its scope and accessibility.

Look into the matter of nearby recreational facilities for all members of your family.

See if all improvements (water mains, paving, curbing, etc.) are in and paid for. Ascertain what, if any, assessments against your property may be expected in the future?

Investigate public utility and tax rates. Are they in line with those prevailing in comparable communities? Check into such civic services as police and fire protection, garbage disposal, etc.

Last, but by no means least, get very specific information on the matter of zoning restrictions. Are they such as to adequately and permanently protect the residential character of the neighborhood in which you are planning to build or buy?

Build It Yourself!

More and more builders are utilizing first-class hardboard in finishing the interior of office buildings and in constructing built-in office furniture.

Hardboard of the type made by Abitibi, is a fibre product marketed in panels 4-feet wide and from 8 to 16 feet long, with one or two grades in a 4-foot length as well. It is tough, durable yet easy to work and economical in cost. It can be sawn, planed, nailed or otherwise applied and takes any kind of finish beautifully. The board is manufactured in a number of grades and thicknesses. A feature with particular appeal to those interested in panelled rooms or offices, is Abitibi Woodgrain hardboard which has a rich fiddleback grain, thus furnishing the attractiveness as well as the easy working qualities so necessary for an economical interior finish.

Office partitions can be easily constructed; counters, desks, book-shelves and wall closets installed with hardboard. It can be used as an underlay for floor coverings of all kinds and sheets of the hardboard make excellent carpet protectors for desk chairs.

One of the handiest uses of hardboard is through its perforated product; a board punched with 3-16 inch holes at 1-inch or 1-2 inch centres. Panels of this perforated hardboard are excellent for the hanging of desk files etc.

SUBURBAN CHARM

There's suburban charm in the design of this comfortable little home. Design H-344-KF. The entrance porch with its picture window is made most attractive by the combination of frame, brick veneer and ledgerock. For a touch of color, there's a planting box.

An expansion attic is ready for the future. The area lends itself to a bath and two comfortable bedrooms, each with a large closet.

From the combination living-dining room, a doorway, right, goes into the kitchen; another, at left, leads to the sleeping quarters.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Here's a home with a future. The ground: floor—living room, dining room, kitchen and two bedrooms—is ready for now. Later, there's a half story overhead that can be finished off when two additional bedrooms and a bath are needed.

BUILT-IN CABINETS

Design H-344-KF combines living and dining areas in one large room. The dining section, near the kitchen, has built-in china cabinets set on either side of a double window.

PICTURE WINDOW

The living area has a large front picture window along the entrance wall. Adjacent, there's a wall of unbroken space that makes possible varied furniture arrangements.

Step into the kitchen, and you'll be delighted with the compact set-up. A U-shaped arrangement of appliances saves steps for the homemaker, while a window over the sink makes the work area bright and cheery. In addition, there's a dining nook, so the dining area proper won't have to take too much wear and tear. Family meals can be served informally in the kitchen.

Nearby, a hallway leads to the basement stairway and the back door. The rear vestibule has a huge storage closet that could be used for gardening tools.

ROOMY CLOSETS

Bedrooms and the bath are reached via a hallway off the living room. Both bedrooms are cross-ventilated and each has a roomy closet. Wall space is good, so that bed placement won't be a problem.

When the time comes for expansion, upstairs can be finished off. The area lends itself to two small bedrooms and a bath. Closet space is good, and additional storage room can be found in a hall linen closet.

All told, Design H-344-KF comprises 23,287 cubic feet.

To approximate the cost of building this home obtain the cubic foot building cost in your locality and multiply this figure by the number of cubic feet listed for this plan (23,287).

If you are interested in obtaining blueprints for H-344-KF, send your inquiry and a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper for the name and address of the company from which they may be obtained.

COLORS ARE TRICKY

A safe rule in selecting a paint color is to chose a sample considerably lighter than the shade you have in mind. Any color on a large area takes on a darker appearance than it does on a small sample. Walls also reflect colors and deepen the effect.

Fir plywood panels commonly sold in big 4x8 sheets for home handyman jobs, large and small, are now available at most lumber yards in smaller-sized cuttings. The local lumber dealer may have a piece just the size you need.

Kitchen Baking-Mixing Counter Features Plywood "Lazy Susan"

Here's an idea for a baking and mixing counter that takes advantage of every inch of space in a kitchen corner.

Using a "Lazy Susan" construction, this compact fir plywood corner counter can be built at home by any handyman prepared to tackle cabinets or it can be readily built for you by a carpenter.

Not only does it use all valuable space in the corner but it brings baking ingredients readily to hand when needed. Ideally situated, the counter is placed to between a range and refrigerator which are on adjoining walls.

Details of the rotating Lazy Susan shelves are indicated and both the necessary hardware and fir plywood are readily available.

Dimensions of the unit are adjusted to the corner and are made so that the unshelved section exactly closes off the opening and acts as a door when swung into place. Big advantage of the rotating shelves is that all baking materials can be stored on them and quickly swung to the front when needed.

Itcleaned. not only saves space, but many steps as well.

The rest of the cabinet is of standard construction. The unit is 3 feet high with a 2 foot wide working surface on top. Drawers and the handy cutting board come right up under the ¾ inch plywood counter, making use of the last inch of storage space.

Modern kitchen cabinets built of plywood without frames give a smooth job. Doors open the full width of the cabinet, there are no framing members to catch dust or form corners and shelves can be used to the full. They are easily

Stablization of Tax Revenues Split Goal of Agreements Of Federal-Provincial Parley

CHALLENGES CHOU

Abdul Fahdli Jamali, above, foreign minister of Iraq, startled delegates at the Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia, with a strong anti-Communist speech. Pointing at Premier Chou En-lai, of Red China, the Iraq delegate called world Communism "the new colonialism" and said that the Communists should "change their tune." (Central Press Canadian.)

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Stabilization of the normally-shifting split in tax revenues between Canada's various governments has been the prime objective of the federal-provincial fiscal agreements that come up for discussion here next week.

Other main aims are to spread money around from the wealthy to the "have not" regions and to lessen the number of government fingers reaching into the individual taxpayer's pocket.

The agreements involving nine provinces—all but Quebec—will expire March 31, 1957. Federal and provincial government heads are to meet Thursday and Wednesday to arrange for a general renegotiating conference later this year.

A complex history stretching back more than 15 years is behind the meeting. The agreements flow from a combination of recommendations of the Rowell-Sirois commission on federal-provincial relations and tax rental pacts attained under the financial pressure of the Second World War.

STORMY HISTORY

They had a stormy history in their early years, with premiers torpedoing a conference, others hanging on like pocket boleine rat for better deals for their provinces. All now are in except Quebec's Maurice Duplessis, who insists on retention of provincial taxation powers.

Basis of the agreements—in simplified terms—is that the consenting provinces agree to the federal government their rights to personal and corporation income tax, along with succession duties for most provinces, in return for payments from Ottawa.

Meanwhile, the treasury has been mining these tax fields left free by the provinces.

In the fiscal year ended last March 31, the federal government turned over to the nine provinces in the agreements $94,000 in return for the tax concessions.

Rough calculations by federal officers are to the effect that this is about $88,000,000 more than the nine provinces themselves would have collected had they retained the leased taxing power, and applied what Ottawa considers normal tax rates.

JUST GUESSES

However, the officials making these calculations admit they are little more than guesses.

They estimate for last year that ceded March 31, these were the payments to the provinces from the federal cashbox:

Newfoundland, $12,500,000; Nova Scotia, $9,000,000; Prince Edward Island, $3,900,000; New Brunswick, $17,000,000; Ontario, $142,800,000; Manitoba, $25,200,000; Saskatchewan, $26,000,000; Alberta, $31,400,000; British Columbia, $46,100,000.

EARL WEDS HEIRESS

LONDON (Reuters) — Relatives of the handsome young Earl of Coventry said Thursday he married Miss Virginia Leishman, heiress to Mimi Meidart two weeks ago "somewhere in America." The St. Louis beauty hit the headlines four years ago, when her mother, alarmed at her growing attachment with former King Farouk of Egypt in France, ordered her to come home.

Urges U.S. Give Atom Power First to Have-Not Nations

LOS ANGELES (CP)—John Jay Hopkins, president of the company that made the world's first atomic-powered submarine, has declared that the United States make atomic industrial power available first to under-developed areas of the world.

Hopkins, president of General Dynamics Corp., of New York, told a Founders' Day gathering at Occidental College Thursday that oil, coal and hydro-electric power are still cheaper here than atomic power.

But, he said, costs for conventional power run much higher in many parts of the world than they do in the United States.

MARKET PARADOX

"It seems to me that the answer . . . lies in what I call the paradox of world markets. By this I mean that the quickest way to make atomic power generally available in our own country, in my opinion, is to make it available first abroad, and particularly in the so-called underdeveloped areas.

"Though atomic power in the United States is not yet competitive price-wise with mineral fuels or water power, it is definitely competitive in many other countries."

Industrialization by atom will sharply raise the income of these countries, and will make them major markets for American capital and goods through mutually beneficial trade.

"The experience gained by installing atomic reactors abroad, with the cost comparisons and technological improvements that are bound to follow, will speed the day when it is feasible to make general use of atomic power here at home."

DENIES REPORT

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Atomic Energy Authority Thursday night denied a newspaper report that agents of the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation are working at the atomic energy research establishment at Harwell "or at any other establishments of the authority." The report had said the agents were working here, in secret, to check Britain's security system.

Canadians Ready For Their Part In Atomic Test

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP) — The Canadian tri-service atomic defence team moved into the Nevada desert at dawn today for a "dry run" exercise in preparation for its scheduled participation Tuesday in a nuclear detonation.

The 62 Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen painstakingly ran through the duties they will be called on to carry out in Operation Cue, code name for the test which will give civil defence training and planning.

The spectacular test Tuesday, expected to be witnessed by more than 3,000 non-military observers, will mark the first time Canadian servicemen have operated under conditions resulting from an actual atomic blast. It will also be the first time the United States has allowed troops of another power to take part in such an exercise.

The Canadian contingent is made up of all ranks of the army's No. 1 radiation detection unit, Royal Canadian Engineers, Kingston, augmented by trained navy and RCAF personnel. They are under command of Lt.-Col. R. A. Klachu of the directorate of weapons development, army headquarters, Ottawa, and Maj. R. E. MacDonald of Sydney Mines, N.S., officer commanding the detection unit.

DAILY EXERCISES

The first part of today's exercise was devoted to desert orientation and familiarization with the site, where they will next instrumental, take readings of fall-out and record location and intensity of detected radioactivity when the nuclear device is detonated. Later they planned to begin a crack run-through of their specific duties.

MacDonald said similar exercises will be carried out daily until the detonation takes place.

More than $1,000,000 worth of equipment will be subjected to the blast to determine how it can best stand an atomic attack. On one hill there will be a residential section, typical of those found in Canadian cities, has been constructed. Effects of the blast on the residential site will provide invaluable data in setting precautions to safeguard civilian populations.

New Zealand to Confine Efforts To Defence of Pacific Area

By J.C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand has abandoned its traditional defence role which prevailed in two world wars. In a future conflict its effort will be confined to the Pacific. At the same time it is stepping up its peacetime share in Pacific defence.

These are the chief features of a major switch in defence policy which is gradually being revealed in government statements. The full shape of future policy is not yet clear, but the pattern now has been indicated in general outline. The changes follow the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London and the Seato meeting at Bangkok.

In both world wars, New Zealand made its major military contribution in the Middle East and Europe.

NEARER HOME

The Second World War showed, however, that New Zealand must look to its own nearer home. Although the undertakings to send a land force to the Middle East in the event of war were renewed after 1945, doubts were widely expressed about the wisdom of splitting the defence effort in such a way.

The increasing danger in the Far East made it clear that all the forces New Zealand could muster and more would be needed for the defence of its own theatre and that troops could no longer be spared for more distant ones.

The government has been pressing, until this view at Commonwealth consultations for some time, and at the London conference Prime Minister Sidney Holland secured endorsement for a major change. Accordingly Zealand has been released from all commitments to send troops to the Middle East or Europe in time of war. Peacetime contributions have also been cancelled and an air squadron stationed in Cyprus has been withdrawn.

Future New Zealand military training and equipment will be based on jungle warfare instead of on open fighting of the type encountered in the Middle East.

RAPID MOBILIZATION

In the event of war, New Zealand will make available a division, with its armored and ancillary units, for Pacific service. The basis exists for the rapid dispatch of a force of this size.

Since 1950, all youths of 18 have undergone three months' compulsory military training, followed by three years' part-time service in territorial force units and a further period in the army reserve. Sufficient troops of 21 or more trained under this scheme will shortly be available to supply at least a full division.

The increase in peacetime commitments in the Pacific is aimed at relieving Britain of some of the considerable burden hitherto borne in this area. The new undertakings are:

1. Dispatch to Malaya of a number of volunteer commando units and about 200 men trained in air-borne operations.

2. Two and possibly three frigates will be made available for service in Malayan waters.

3. One ground attack fighter squadron is being transferred from Cyprus to Malaya, a half a transport squadron and half a flying boat reconnaissance squadron will be sent to the same area.

ACQUIRE CRUISER

Further new defence steps include the acquisition from Britain of a Royalist class cruiser, to be modernized and fitted with the latest developments, at a cost of $11,000,000, and new work in defence science and security about which no details have been revealed.

Arthur Child Is Candidate For Wentworth

HAMILTON (CP)—Arthur Child, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Wentworth, was chosen Thursday night to represent his party in the next Ontario general election.

Health Minister Phillips addressed the convention and said he thought there was some mistake in the report that federal Health Minister Martin estimated 1,500,000 persons would receive Salk polio vaccine by July 1.

Dr. Phillips said there have been only 1,500,000 doses produced so far by Connaught Laboratories in Toronto. This would only give two doses to 750,000 children or 600,000 if three doses were given.

He said there would be sufficient quantities of the vaccine for everybody by next September.

U.S. Might End Indochina Aid If Sects Triumph

SAIGON (AP) — The United States will seriously consider withdrawing all but humanitarian support from the free Indochina state of South Viet Nam should Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's politico-religious opponents gain control, Diplomats placed American sources reported Thursday.

They said Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy now on his way to Washington, will tell Congress and the administration that in his view neither the Binh Xuyen Society nor the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects are capable of maintaining a state against communism. They have formed a coalition demanding the premier's resignation.

The U.S. shortly will announce the continued full support of Diem, the American sources said, chiefly because they consider him the best man available now to carry out the U.S.-recommended organization reforms plan and the reorganization of the national army into a single fighting force.

"WILL IT HURT?"

Eric Robinson (left) and David Stanhope of Vancouver peer nervously around a corner as they await their turn to be inoculated with the Salk polio vaccine. Canada has ordered enough vaccine for 2,000,000 children under 16 should he safe from polio by July 1. They would be the 1,500,000 persons Health Minister Martin estimated will receive shots of the vaccine by that date. (CP Photo).

Six-Point Home Rule Plan Is Agreed Upon in Principle By French, Tunisian Premiers

PARIS (AP)—France's government and Tunisian nationalists laid down a six-point plan today to bring eventual home rule and possible peace to the troubled North African protectorate.

The agreement in principle, reached after midnight by French Premier Edgar Faure and Tunisian Premier Tahar Ben Ammar, must still be worked out in detail before a final text is drawn up.

Then it must be approved by the aged bey of Tunis—Tunisia's nominal ruler — and the hotly French Assembly.

The bey's approval is considered certain. But in the assembly the agreement is certain to encounter opposition from members sympathetic to the French colonists who constitute a powerful minority in Tunisia.

The accord also is expected to run up against a strong undercurrent of French national pride, loath to yield still more of France's pre-war prestige and empire.

BEFORE DEADLINE

Ending seven months of fitful negotiations, the agreement came just before the April 23 deadline—the month-long holy season of Ramadan when the Moslems faithful suspend most business.

Tunisian sources said the agreement had cleared one important hurdle. They reported it has won the approval of Habib Bourguiba, exiled leader of the nationalist Neodestour Party, who has led the agitation for Tunisian independence. Bourguiba, under house arrest in France for the past month, conferred Thursday with Faure.

Neodestour leaders, believing at the Asian-African conference in Bandung, Indonesia, succeeded Thursday in persuading the Bandung parley to approve a resolution urging France to grant independence to Tunisia, Morocco and Algeria.

An agreement on Tunisia could set the pattern for a similar accord on Morocco, France's other North African protectorate. And Algeria presents a different problem, since under the French constitution it is an integral part of the nation officially as much a part of France as Paris is.

Study Einstein's Brain

Seen at work at Montefiore hospital in New York, Dr. Harry Zimmerman, chief of the laboratory division, and his associates, will held examine the brain of the late Dr. Albert Einstein. Dr. Thomas S. Harvey of the Princeton, N.J., hospital where world-famous scientist who fathered the atom bomb, died of inflamed gall-bladder, will be in charge of the dissection. Einstein's last wish was that his brain which fashioned the theory of relativity and vital organs be preserved for science. Dr. Zimmerman declared he does not expect to find the cells that made Einstein a genius." (Central Press Canadian).

Pearson Says Canada Is Not Automatically at War If US Is

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will not automatically go to war because the U.S. war if the United States does, says External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Winding up a foreign affairs debate which began March 28, Mr. Pearson told the house last night in the Commons that Canada has given no "automatic assurance of support or willingness to intervene on behalf of or with the United States in any war, major or minor, on the continent of which we may place cite."

He added:

"Whether that kind of support would be given in any specific case would depend entirely on whether our commitments under the treaty were involved, whether there was aggression under the United Nations Charter."

NOT BOUND

"Anything that I have said (previously) does not mean that it should is fairly be interpreted as meaning that we consider the United States is at war we are bound to participate.

"It does not mean that we have any obligation to participate in any war except in accordance with decision within the principles of the United Nations Charter."

Mr. Pearson added the U.S. to stay out of any fight for Quemoy and Matsu, Nationalist-held islands off the Chinese mainland.

"It is our policy to stay out of this dispute and of these off-shore islands and I think that other governments would be wise if they were to adopt the same policy.

"I am even bold enough to hope that that will be the policy which will be adopted in due course by the governments concerned."

NOT ALOOF

He reiterated that if a local war spread to engulf the world, it would be impossible for Canada to remain aloof.

He said Communist China by itself could not launch an attack on this continent but there are the only country capable of making such an assault.

Earlier, Elmore Philpott (L—Vancouver South) said he opposed the presence of "any substantial body" American servicemen in Canada's homeland.

"I believe that Canada should be defended by Canadians," he said.

Canada should give intensive winter warfare training to up to 60,000 young men from Nov. 1 until April or May. He did not say how this force would be raised, whether by recruiting or conscription or through compulsory service.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) said such a scheme would be a "splendid cure" for unemployment.

Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam) said a "winter army" was the best practical method to solve seasonal unemployment.

Mr. Pearson answered at CCF criticism that Canada is a U.S. camp follower and that U.S. State Secretary Dulles' primary objective is to keep war away from the continental U.S. though that might mean sacrificing Australians, Filipinos, Chinese Nationalists or Canadians.

He said Canada has the right to criticize and discussed the U.S. concerning policies it considers unwise.

But it was unfair to suggest that Mr. Dulles had any other purpose than to keep war away—not merely away from the continental U.S.

CCF Leader Coldwell had emphasized the danger of being dragged into a war by policies pursued by Mr. Dulles.

COMMIE DANGER

But Mr. Pearson suggested there was more danger of Canada being dragged into war by policies pursued by anti-Red ministers in Peiping and Moscow.

"When we do disagree with the U.S. Mr. Pearson stated it must be sure that that disagreement is not only based on a narrow conception of our national interests but is a disagreement which goes to the very basis of the coalition policy which we hold on the highest principles of peace and the maintenance of security."

On Formosa, Mr. Pearson agreed with Dr. Coldwell that it might be the best solution to neutralize the Nationalist-held island and place it under UN trusteeship.

He also said the concept of the free world as a united force counterbalancing the U.S. and Russia is "dangerous."

"I think it is better to stick to the concept of two blocs, the forces of peace and the forces we think threaten the peace, it is better to line ourselves up with the former and welcome into its ranks any other countries willing to join it."

A. H. Hollingworth (L — York Centre) suggested Canada consider specialized training for the 18 year contingent on a general settlement in the far east.

Youths Planned To Use Gowns For Holdup of Bus

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Three youths said in court Thursday they decided a chain of clothes gowns because they planned to hold up a bus. They said they planned to use the gowns as disguises.

Two of the youths, William Hugh Mckinney, 20, and Charles Ralph Sanders, 17, pleaded guilty to a $80 armed robbery in St. Catharines April 9. Mario Iscoppon, 19, drove the getaway car, they said. There were charges against the youths.

The trio was remanded a week for sentence.

CAMPBELLFORD

Bert Smitheram Speaks On 'Education'

CAMPBELLFORD — Rotarian Bert Smitheram, of the Teachers' College, Peterborough, was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday. He brought an interesting message concerning the problems of education in Ontario.

He stated that 1955 was a remarkable year in that there are 363,000 pupils at school today. With an annual increase of 60 to 70 thousand next year will see more than one million school children in the province. In the next fifteen years there will be required 1300 more classrooms, and as many teachers.

FIRST PROBLEM: FINANCIAL

The first problem is financial. Not one dollar spent on schools is now about 300 million dollars. By 1965 this should, in the normal course of events, touch one billion dollars. The answer to this great demand is not in sight at the moment. It has been suggested that Federal aid might be sought, but since Ontario would supply 48 per cent of all federal tax income and would pay 33 per cent of the benefit, this seems hardly practical.

Granted that this problem can be solved, there is another greater problem—where can we find the teachers coming from? At present time, 1955, about 1,000 teachers going into retirement tha nare being trained. This condition existed in the past years and obviously cannot continue indefinitely. The second problem is matter of salary. The Teachers' Federation bases their schedules of pay according to the training by certificate and experience.

GUIDANCE HELPS

The guidance department of the collegiate and high schools should help a child who is choosing between courses, according to Christ, the Hope of the World. Mrs. R. Jay played quiet music followed by an Easter hymn.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher read from the Scripture lesson, Luke 24, 1st mondson and Mrs. F. Aikens assisted with the worship.

Mrs. G. Silis and Mrs. E. Hart gave excellent reports of the W.M.S. Presbyterial meeting held in Picton.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

3 Ys Meet

Mrs. Philip Ray and Miss Donna Ray were co-hostesses to the meeting of the 3 Ys Mission Circle on Monday night. Mrs. Ralph Loney opened the meeting. Secretary Mrs. Ray read the letter, report, and Mrs. Loney conducted the business period. Plans are being made for an "Open Night," with a committee of Mrs. Ralph Loney, Mrs. Robert Slavin, Miss Donna Ray and Mrs. E. Mooney to arrange for the event.

Mrs. Orville May gave her report on the annual meeting of the Belleville W.M.S. presidents.

Miss Margaret Slavin was in charge of the worship service and Miss Lorna Ray, Mrs. F. Edmondson and Miss Donna Ray taking part.

The girls are finishing their Easter sale of Running to exhibit it at the May W.M.S. meeting.

Refreshments were served and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Ralph Loney her daughters by Margaret Slavin.

HAIL THE CHAMPS!

Kingston Goodyears are the 1954-55 senior "B" hockey champions. They won their second provincial bauble in three years last night at home, defeating the Sarnia Sailors to sweep the best-of-seven series in four straight games. The Goodyears are worthy champions and the sincere congratulations of their own grown up and to them. They demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that the brand of senior "B" hockey played down thataway is by far the best the province can produce. That is also evidenced by the fact that the Eastern Ontario Senior "B" crown champions have won the title for the past three years, since the inception of the classification in this district.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ALL STARS

The defensive portion of the 1954-55 National Hockey League all-star team is exactly the same as year's, but the forward line is entirely new. Holdovers from a year ago include goalkeeper Harry Lumley of Toronto, and defencemen Doug Harvey of Canadiens and Red Kelly of Detroit. The three newcomers to the forward line are centre Jean Beliveau of Canadiens, left wing Sid Smith of Toronto and right wing Maurice Richard of Canadiens. The latter is not a newcomer to all-star aggregations but this is the first time he has been named to the First Team since 1949-50.

It marks the first time that Jean Beliveau and Sid Smith have ever been named to the first team. Smith was placed on the second squad twice, in 1951-52 and 1953-54. Beliveau, the sensational sensation of Canadiens, is the youngest member of the team at 23.

Richard and Smith have dislodged two perennial members of the No. One team, Detroit's Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay. Howe has held down the right wing position for four consecutive seasons while Lindsay was picked as the top left winger for five straight seasons. Beliveau took the centre post away from Ken Mosdell, last year's choice.

Balloting was conducted by a panel of hockey writers, broadcasters and scientists in the six NHL cities. Points were awarded on the basis of five points for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third. Each city had three first choices, three seconds and three thirds.

Some cities have more selectors than others but the votes are weighted so that each city has identical strength. For the second season the All-Star balloting was divided into two halves. Games up to January 1, 1955, constituted the first half, while games after that made up the second half. Most points a player could earn for the two half-seasons would be 180.

Montreal's Doug Harvey ended up with more points than any other player. He finished with 174 out of the perfect 180. Harry Lumley was next with 152. Each player on the First Team received $1,000 from the National Hockey League while each member of the Second Team pockets $500.

Following is the Official 1954-55 National Hockey League First and Second All-Star Teams with the number of points compiled by each player in brackets:

SECOND TEAM—Terry Sawchuk, Detroit (128), goal; Bob Goldham, Detroit (64), defence; Fern Flaman, Boston (117), defence; Ken Mosdell, Canadiens (51), centre; Bernie Geoffrion, Canadiens (165), right wing; Danny Lewicki, Rangers (67), left wing.

There was only one change with the first team as selected at the half-way mark. Geoffrion was placed at right wing in the first billet. He had 68 points to Richard's 65, but in the second half Richard passed him by a comfortable margin. The voting was also keen for the goalkeeping post. Lumley ended with a 34-point margin over his closest rival.

Ken Mosdell nosed out Toronto's Ted Kennedy for centre on the Second Team in the closest possible voting! Mosdell polled a total of 51.3 points to Kennedy's 50.76.

This is Red Kelly's fifth All-Star First Team in a row. It is Doug Harvey's fourth. Terry Sawchuk has been a member of either the first or second All-Star line since he joined the NHL in the 1950-51 season. He has been second team goalie for the last two years and prior to that was named to the First Team three seasons in succession.

Although he has been in the National Hockey League since 1941-42 with the exception of three years spent in the Royal Canadian Navy, this is the first time that Bob Goldham has been selected to a NHL All-star squad. The same thing is true of the defence partner on the second team, Fern Flaman. Flaman has been a National League regular for nine seasons.

Geoffrion and Lewicki are also making their initial visit in All-Star company. Four of the six members of the Second Team were being selected to an Official All-Star Team for the very first time.

Richard is the oldest member of the first team at 33. Incidentally, Richard has been on either the First or Second NHL All-Star Teams for 12 consecutive years. Other ages are: Smith, 29; Harvey, 28; Lumley, 28; Kelly, 27, and Beliveau, 23. Average age is an even 28 years.

Three players from Montreal Canadiens, two from Toronto Maple Leafs and one from Detroit Red Wings comprise the 1954-55 National Hockey League all-star team.

Drive Roberts from Mound With Big Third-Inning Blast; Senators, Sox, Yanks Triumph

By The Associated Press

Walter Alston, the quiet man, watched passively as his Brooklyn Dodgers set a modern major league record by winning their 10th straight since the start of the season. Then he strolled back to the clubhouse.

For a guy on the spot after the Brooks lost in '54, Alston wasn't much like a manager whose club had just won 10. He was more like Eddie Stanky after losing four. Except he didn't kick, the waste-basket.

The matter-of-factness was evident among all the Dodgers. "I was on a club (Chicago Cubs) that won 21 straight once," said coach Billy Herman. "We didn't start half way there yet."

"Hell," said Duke Snider, "We still got 144 to play."

First Since 1900

That's the way it was Thursday after Brooklyn became the first team since 1-0, 2-0 and 3-0 in the first games. To do it, they put the sling on Robin Roberts, Philadelphia ace, pasting the best righthander in baseball and the Philadelphia Phils 14-4.

It was the only National League game played. New York at Pittsburgh was rained out. In the American, Washington knocked off first-place Boston 5-0, Chicago swamped Detroit 9-1 and New York plastered Baltimore 14-2.

Roberts never had a chance against the Brooks, who now are three full games in front of 12 straight opening victories by the 1934 Giants. They scored single runs for 10 runs and 11 hits against Robin, getting rid of him with two out in the third. Seven runs were scored in the frame, but six of them were unearned after Carl Torgeson did monstrous things with Junior Gilliam's grounder that should have been the third out.

Four Homers

Brooklyn wound up with 17 hits including four homers—three of the big sluggers of Roberts. Jackie Robinson, Snider, Sandy Amoros and Don Zimmer hit the home runs. Zimmy also doubled twice and singled.

Joe Black, in relief of Russ Meyer, was the winner, looking his best since carrying the Brooks to the 1952 pennant. He worked 6 2-3 innings.

In the game at Washington, Bob Porterfield hooked up in a pitching duel with Don Brewer and finally won it in the ninth as Pete Runnels singled home the lone run.

George Yell, his back troubles apparently a thing of the past, grandslammed in the third to get Chicago's rout of the Tigers started. Ned Garver had purposely walked Minoso to get to Yell. Mike Fornieles (2-0) lost his shutout when Al Kaline homered in the sixth.

The Yankees climbed within one game of the Baltimore Red Sox—along with Chicago and idle Cleveland—as Bob Turley (2-0) five-hit his former Baltimore mates. The swifty whiffed seven, running his total to 37, but walked eight.

Willie Troy Meets Pastrano

CHICAGO (AP)—Willie Pastrano Miami Beach, Fla., and Willie Troy, a power swinger with 29 knockouts in 30 victories, match shots tonight in a scheduled 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium.

Pastrano will be making his second national television appearance (NBC) at 10 p.m. EST. In his debut before the cameras a month ago, he disposed of Al Andrews in the same ring.

Although only 19, the fast-stepping Pastrano has had 37 pro battles, winning 30, losing 4 and drawing in 3.

Troy, 22, will be making his first start since being stopped by light-heavyweight Floyd Patterson Jan. 7.

Getting Everything at Same Time Reason Dodgers Are Riding High

By Joe Reichler

BROOKLYN (AP) — Different Dodgers gave different reasons for Brooklyn's record - breaking 10-game winning streak that began at the start of the season.

"What is the biggest difference between the current Brooklyn team and last year's disappointing club?"

This question asked of the Dodgers after they had inflicted Thursday's humiliating 14-4 defeat upon Philadelphia's Robin Roberts brought revealing replies.

"For the first time, we're getting good pitching, good hitting and good fielding all at the same time" said manager Walt Alston.

"I'd say the biggest difference is the spirit," said Carl Furillo, the club's leading hitter with a .385 mark. "This is the best spirit I've seen on a Dodger club since 1947. We seem to have more incentive this year. Maybe it's because the boys missed the world series money they didn't get last year."

"The biggest difference, to my way of thinking, is confidence," said Jackie Robinson. "There is no air of confidence on the bench that wasn't there last year. The guys are chirping more. They're pulling together. You can hear them yell 'Hold 'em and we'll get 'em' to the pitchers. Even when we're behind, we seem to sense that we'll come through with the big inning. That wasn't obvious last year."

"It's the pitching," volunteered Roy Campanella. "The pitchers are finally living up to their reputations. We've been getting excellent pitching and it's no flash in the pan. It always knew guys like Billy Loes, Johnny Podres, Carl Erskine and Big Newk (Don Newcombe) were great pitchers. Now they're beginning to show it. For this you've got to give credit to Joe Becker (new pitching coach). He's really got them in shape. He's got them running like they never ran before."

Pee Wee Reese, the club captain, probably summed it up best.

"You can't put your finger on any one thing," he said. "I'd say it is a combination of things. Robinson is better shape than he's been in a long time. And the way Campanella is playing you'd never think he had a care in the world. He was a worried boy last year.

"Another thing. Alston (manager Alston) is more sure of himself now. The pressure isn't as great on him as it was last year. As a result he'll do a better job, I'm sure."

Regina Pats Trounce Marlboros 3-1 In Memorial Cup Finals Opener

REGINA (CP) — As anyone in Regina will admit, the remainder of the Memorial Cup hockey final is progressing here in golf to be mighty tough.

What some thought to be just another seven-game series with another eastern team trucking home the silverware, turned out to have an entirely different complexion Thursday night as Regina Pats turned the tables on Toronto Marlboros 3-1 in the first game.

The win, the third for a western team in Memorial Cup play since 1950, surprised even homestanders who have been listening unhappily in words used to describe the power of the East.

Marlboros, however, still are favored to take the series, but not in the same manner other eastern teams have captured it in the last six years.

WELL BEATEN

They were well beaten Thursday night and Marlboro coach Turk Broda conceded that Pats played better hockey.

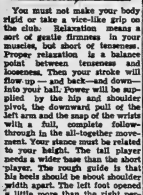
Regina, showing stage fright in the opening minutes of the game that threw their passing off, scored the first goal and it made all the difference in the world. From then on they were a fighting team.

The first goal came off the stick of rookie Glenn MacDonald after centre Bill Hay set it up by smacking the puck from the boards and centering it out. MacDonald slapped it in from 20 feet.

SCOOPED IT IN

Hay assisted on Pats' second marker in the second period, the rebound from his long hard shot scooped in by Harold Ottenbrit. Elmer Schwartz scored the final goal in the final period after being set up by Danny Wong, who passed neatly behind the Marlboro defence.

Marlboros' sole counter was scored in the second period by Gary Collins who had his first shot on the Regina net stopped by Wong. Collins dragged in the puck again and fired it high into the right corner of the net behind goalie Joe Selinger.



Coach Murray Armstrong of Pats didn't use the replacements permitted under a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling to strengthen his team. Broda was without his first-line winger Ken Girard, out with a minor injury suffered in practice here.

Selinger brushed aside 29 shots compared with the 18 Johnny Allanal stopped.

Second game is Saturday night with the third Monday.

ONTARIO BOWLERS WIN

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The touring Ontario Lawn Bowling Club scored 226 against the the San Diego Bowling Club Thursday. Of the nine matches, the Canadians won six, tied one and lost two.

You must not make your body rigid or take a vice-like grip on the club. Relaxation means a sort of gentle firmness in your muscles, but short of tenseness. Proper relaxation is a balance point between tenseness and looseness. Then your stroke will flow up — and back—and down— into your ball. Power will be supplied by the hip and shoulder pivot, the downward pull of the left arm and the snap of the wrists with a full, complete follow-through in the all-together movement. Your stance must be related to your height. The tall player needs a wider base than the short player. The rough guide is that his heels should be about shoulder width apart. The left foot opened a little more than the right permits a full follow through. Set the sole of your club flat on the ground back of the ball and adjust your stance to that position. Prefer an upright swing to a flat swing.

Sugar Kings Score Fourth Straight Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings, who just missed getting into the International League playoffs last season, top the circuit today after four victories over Buffalo Bisons. The Kings have yet to lose.

Two fine pitching performances, one by veteran southpaw Ken Raffensberger and the other by rookie Julio Ladera, helped the Havana club sweep a doubleheader from Buffalo Bisons 5-1 and 4-0 Thursday.

Raffensberger scattered six hits in the seven-inning opener. Ladera allowed one less in the nightcap. Havana scored up the opener in the first inning, scoring two runs on three singles and a walk.

Ladera, winning pitchers, Toronto Maple Leafs, scored their first in the third and sixth innings to score their second straight victory of the young season at the expense of Cuban Chich 5-4.

PLAYED UNDER PROTEST

Syracuse played the game under protest after the third inning manager Skeeter Newsome claimed Connie Johnson, the first of three Toronto hurlers and the winner, used an illegal substance on the ball in wiping his sweaty brow before delivering a number of pitches.

Columbus Jets pounded four Rochester pitchers for 11 hits and defeated Red Wings 13-8 for their second straight.

Right fielder Ken Wood slapped a bases-loaded single with one out in the bottom of the seventh to drive across the winning run as Richmond Virginians won their first game of the season by tipping Montreal Royals 3-1. Rain forced postponement of a second game.

Beavers Defeat Dutchmen 6-4 To Square Allan Cup Finals

KITCHENER (CP) — Leftwinger Johnny Irving, who couldn't buy a point while his teammates were leading Fort William Beavers to the western Canada senior hockey championship, came through when he was needed most.

Johnny, who scored all his hockey in Fort William, scored two goals Thursday night to pave the way for a 6-4 Beaver victory over Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen in the second game of the Allan Cup finals. The victory squared the best-of-seven series 1-1 with the third game scheduled here for Saturday. Dutchmen won the opener here Tuesday 3-2.

Coach Bob Drainville of the Beavers said after the game: "That's the game we had to win and we did it. It's a new ball game now."

DIDN'T SCORE

John Irving went through the six-game western final against Vernon Canadians without scoring a point. His brother, Alex (Moe) Irving, who centres the line, is the ace scorer in the series against Vernon with seven points, including three goals. Highlighting Irving's comeback who completes the line, chalked up five points in the final Canadians. Johnny couldn't get in on any of the six goals scored by the line in that set.

Thursday night, however, he tallied Fort William's first goal shortly after the game started and scored the winner in the second. Morris Hamilton also notched a pair for the Beavers with singles going to Kompon and Alex Birkelow.

Jack McKenzie, Don Bauer, Joe Schertzl and Larry Wineberg were the Kitchener marksmen.

NEVER BEHIND

The Beavers, who lived up to Drainville's promise in the finale would be better for the second game, were never behind although they allowed the Dutchmen to tie the score briefly in the second period. They took a 1-1 lead in the first period, made it 5-3 in the second and traded Kitchener goal for goal in the third. 20 minutes.

The game was exceptionally clean with only six minor penalties.

Johnny Irving opened the scoring at 2:43 of the first period, scoring on Kompod's rebound. Hamilton made it 2-0 at 5:31 when his shot was deflected past Keith Woodall by Kitchener defenceman Rod Kemp. It was the third consecutive goal scored on Woodall on a deflection off a Kitchener player. Both Fort Williams came that way Tuesday.

McKenzie got the Dutchmen on the score sheet at 13:35, beating Paul Morin after breaking into the clear with Jack Bradley's assist. Less than a minute later Kompos made it 3-1, scoring on a hard drive after taking Drainville's pass.

In the second period Schertzl narrowed the margin to 3-2, scoring at 5:05 when he caught Morin out of position. The Fort William net minder had just made two saves on Treberge and Laufman. Bauer knotted the count at 8:02 after breaking at centre with another Kitchener player.

COUNTED TWICE

The Beavers scored twice within little more than two minutes to carry a 5-3 lead into the third period. Birukow stole the puck from Bob White at the Kitchener blueline to score at 8:19 and Irving notched what proved to be the winner at 11:26 after Kitchener's Don Bauer had unsuccessfully laid a pass on his stick.

It appeared the Dutchmen still had a chance to pull the game out of the fire when Theberge scored from the opening faceoff of the third period just seven seconds after the puck was dropped, but a penalty to Kemp for tripping at 17:43 broke their backs. Moe Hamilton added the clincher at 19:15 on a three-way play with Jerry Kirk and Drainville.

Morin played an outstanding game in the Fort William nets, turning aside 34 shots, one more than the Beavers directed at Woodall. The Beavers were outclassed in every period but the first.

After the game coach Bobby Bauer of the Dutchmen said his club just didn't cash in on its chances.

"We missed a couple of goals in the second period. We know where we stand now and we'll take them one at a time from here in."

Wins or Williams Needed to Keep Boston Interest

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, silent, retired slugger, casts a shadow over American League gunrailies while his former Boston teammates concentrate on winning games.

The permanence of the baseball retirement Williams announced last season remains a subject of hot debate as Ted fishes off the Florida coast.

Boston general manager Joe Cronin expressed hope through spring training Williams would show up. Williams still would be given a royal welcome but the 36-year-old master of a .348 batting average in 12 major league seasons will be gravy to the club if he returns. He's no longer part of the battle plan of the league leaders.

Williams has promised to deliver his decision to Cronin but hasn't yet.

"We'll wait until May 11," Cronin says.

That's the date squads must be pared down.

The public who pay to watch baseball miss Williams.

Some 15,000 gave Williams an ovation in his "last" game in September on a club finishing 42 games out of first place. Ted obliged with his 366th major league home run.

Only 1,000 showed up for the second game with the New York nYankees but Friday night the hustling Sox were red hot.

Interest is climbing To keep it up, Boston must be winning or give the fans Williams.

Woodstock Edges Woodbridge 5-4

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Woodstock Warriors scored a pair of markers in the third period to come from behind and edge Woodbridge Dodgers 5-4 in the fifth game of their Ontario Hockey Association junior B final. The win squared the best-of-seven series 3-2 with one game tied.

Next game will be played in Woodbridge Saturday night.

REMEMBER WHEN

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Government and civic officials toasted with a great winter sports banquet in Winnipeg Manitoba 24 years ago tonight by banqueting the champion Elmwood Millionaires, Canadian junior hockey kings; Winnipeg Monarchs, senior hockey champions; Frank Slack, international indoor speed-skating champion and H. G. Gourlay's rink that won the Canadian curling title.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No bridge player worthy of the name is fooled by some example of a deal that attempts to disprove a rule. A rule applies to billions of hands and is good only because it fits the great majority.

My mail has a letter with this deal:

NORTH
♠K 8 3
♥Q 9 2
♦9 6 432
♣J 2

WEST
♠K 8
♥10 7
♦K 8 7 5
♣J 10 9 5 2

EAST
♠10 9 7 5 2
♥A J 5 3
♦Q J
♣8 7 4

SOUTH
♠A Q 6
♥K 6 4
♦K Q 10
♣A K Q

South opened with a bid of two no-trump and the others let it stand there. North writes to say that south is very unreasonable in claiming that he was entitled to a response of three no-trump.

North makes much of the fact that the defence held declarer to eight tricks. Also that an opening two no-trump bid is not forcing. Therefore such a weak responding hand is wise in passing.

An opening bid of two no-trump does not force a partner to bid. It is merely a signal that the opener can promise eight tricks in his own hand and needs only one trick from partner to make no-trump game.

For this purpose, a queen or better in the hand of responder is considered a trick-taker. This is an artificial and understanding among better bridge players for all standard systems.

North might say the pass was lucky. Or that it was a good guess in this deal. But that it was the right kind of bridge. Not that it was the proper response to such an opening.

There is more to consider than the result of this one hand. A player must reckon what effect it may have on partner in the future deals. This effect transcends the save of one or a few deals.

A good player will break a rule on occasion. If he is truly a good player he will not claim it to be a correct procedure. He will accept knowingly the role and apologize for it regardless of result.

The reason for this must be obvious. It is to encourage partner to remain confident in the agreed rules. So that the pair may not be at cross-purposes in future deals. That's good bridge.

Prophet Quality of Fantasy Dramatized by Walt Disney in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea"

Winners of two Academy Awards and hailed as the mightiest motion picture of them all, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" is now playing today until Saturday at the Century — the showplace of Trenton—just a short ten to fifteen minutes drive away from Belleville.

Man-eating tiger sharks, glistening jewels of a buried treasure, a propeller-driven submarine, a submarine with a Victorian wardroom, and the vast beauty of a sparkling tropical realm stretched out on the ocean floor, all come to life in their original splendor as Walt Disney's newest live-action drama, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," unfolds on the screen.

In the Jules Verne story such things as electrically propelled jet guns, an explosion with an oddly characteristic mushroom shape, and the ability of a ship to surface or submerge are not part of a modern movie-script's mold. They were described in amazingly accurate detail by a man who lived and died before the age of submarines, before motion pictures were known, before the inventive field of dynamics was even dreamed of, before such topical things as electrically propelled jet planes, diesel engines, jet planes or nuclear fission were part of daily life. Jules Verne, in 1869, the year Verne died, only the most experimental dreamers saw any future in such a foolish thing as the horseless carriage.

Walkerton Nips Sundridge 3-2

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—Walkerton Capitols took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate B final Thursday night, nipping Sundridge Beavers 4-3.

Doug Crawford scored two goals for Walkerton, including the winning marker. Willard Hall and Jack Knox added singles.

Keith Mogridge, Jack O'Dell and Jerry Sarlo replied for Sundridge.

Next game is in Sundridge Saturday night.

Players May Be Reinstated

GALT (CP)—Five players suspended from the Ontario District County Baseball League last year are reported to have a good chance of being reinstated.

The players are John Imbra, a second baseman, outfielder Ed Steele, pitcher Mel Duncan, catcher Jim Schindeller and first baseman Joe Hunter. They all hope to return to play in the league this summer.

A Preston lawyer, Ronald J. Reid, will act on their behalf. He gained Karpis's release to play football last year with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four.

AT THE BELLE — Jose Ferrer, Merle Oberon (right), Helen Traubel (top) and Doe Avedon head the all-star cast of MGM's "Deep in My Heart", gay festive, exciting musical, in color magnificence, based on the life and melodies of Sigmund Romberg. With Ferrer cast as Romberg, the new musical boasts an impressive collection of stellar personalities. "Deep In My Heart", is showing tonight, and Saturday. A funny Tom & Jerry color cartoon is an added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL — Three hours of "The Caine Mutiny", Robert Francis stores and May Wynn are reunited in Columbia Pictures' "They Rode West", today and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre in color by Technicolor. Also on the screen is "Pirates of Tripoli", color by Technicolor, which shows "The Pirates of Tripoli" starring Paul Burnell and Patricia Medina. Both hits are first showings.

AT THE CAPITOL — Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette in "Outcasts of Black Mesa", shown Saturday Matinee at the Capitol Theatre in the Sunset Western series. Also on the program the All Technicolor show "They Rode West", and the "Pirates of Tripoli", Cautinous show Saturday from 1.30. Doors open at 12.30.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Only mildly beneficial aspects. However, well presented ideas and sensible activities can be made to bring good results. Keep your better self to the fore; don't let anything petty mislead you.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—A fine outlook generally; business, financial, personal affairs all favored. Be particular about your schedule, keep it running smoothly so others can depend on you and you on yourself.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—One of those days: Good if you make it so, not so, if you are careless or lacking in the will to accomplish. There are many who will profit, but they will be the hard workers and thinkers.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Imprint important duties on your mind early, and don't be swayed from them if you would achieve. You are tenacious and versatile but apt to be changeable at times. Get set on the course.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Influences can help good teamwork today. Achievement can be extra special if minute care is exercised and caution used in money, legal matters. Some personal ambitions can wait.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Look to the right and left to avoid ahead. Tact, smartness are requisites now. You are sensitive, intuitive. Use them gently with thought. Capitalize on the better things.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Another all-out type of day. Put everything you know into, give your best in, thoughts, plans, propositions, methods. Look for unexpected help and appreciate it. Help make life worth living.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Whatever your day demands—and there are possible obstacles to span—be practical, hopeful and humble. Keep trying, seek counsel; it's better to be sure. Don't add to contention.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Generally good possibilities. Routine affairs best to push. Also tackle what bigger, better propositions you can reasonably manage. Know what you are about.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Mixed indications. Work at fulfilling sound plans successfully. Eliminate waste, needless talk; associate with intelligent people for better stimulus. Be happy.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Your chart spells advantages, achievement for worthwhile matters if well handled. Deal only with the sound; give important ideas and methods first place.

February 21 to March 21 (Pisces)—An especially productive period for you who will knuckle down and forget self for awhile. Make your work your pastime—without strain. Don't look for encouragement; it will come in time.

You born today are stable, innately artistic and capable, generally cheerful, loyal to friends, loved ones (only a few of your fine attributes). You can be especially successful in a religious life, as physician, surgeon, chemist, nurse, dealer in livestock, traveller and teacher (when you practice self-control). You would also make a fine speaker, actor, statesman, musician; will do a job thoroughly, conscientiously. This and more, if you live true to the seeds God gave you, and to His teachings. Curb worry, strain. Birthdate: Jas. Buchanan, 15th U.S. president; William Shakespeare, poet, playwright, player. (Copyright, 1955, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Orchestra Leader Refuses to Hire Standby Band

TORONTO (CP) — A 104-piece accordion orchestra played Thursday night with a blacklist banger over its head.

Walter Murdoch, president of the Toronto local of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL-TLC) demanded Eric Mundigler hire a standby band for the Massey Hall performance.

Mr. Mundigler refused. He operates an accordion school here and the orchestra is made up of his pupils. He said his orchestra has given an annual concert for five years at Massey Hall.

"We have never been informed before that we had to pay blackmail," he added.

The standby orchestra was designed by the union to prevent professional musicians, or amateurs, from usurping jobs of professional musicians. It provides that when music is played at a theatre with a union contract, local union musicians must also be hired.

The union does not enforce the standb yorchestra rule when the concert is a student or educational venture, said Mr. Murdoch. This concert was regarded by the union as a "straight commercial affair."

Van Gogh Will Be Shown In Three Different Lights

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Art lovers need not worry, MGM is not going to shoot the life of painter Vincent van Gogh, who once slashed off an ear in a fit of madness. The picture is the able hands of John Houseman, who produced such films as "The Bad and the Beautiful" and "Julius Caesar."

"We plan to show van Gogh in three different lights," the producer explained in his studio office: "As a very difficult man; as a mystic who was greatly interested in religion; as a painter, whose mysticism affected that work.

"We'll use between 25 and 30 authentic paintings in the picture, plus a number of reproductions in scenes where they won't be seen close-up.

HUSTON LED WAY

MGM has owed the van Gogh saga, "Lust for Life" by Irving Stone, for like seven years. "But not much was done until the rights started to run out," Houseman said. He admitted that the success of John Huston's study of Toulouse-Lautrec, "Moulin Rouge," affected the studio's decision.

"There is no doubt that Huston led the way," he said. "But we plan to put more emphasis on the artist's work, rather than his love affairs, as Huston did."

The studio managed to land Kirk Douglas as van Gogh. Houseman displayed some self-portraits of the van Gogh which bear an amazing resemblance to Douglas.

Houseman has investigated the painter's life in great detail, down to the matter of the severed ear.

EAR CONTROVERSY

"There seems to be some dispute as to how much he slashed off," he said clinically. "Some say he took off the top part, leaving the lobe. Others say he removed the lobe only. No one knows for sure. He bandaged his head right away, then painted his picture.

"In the painting, the left ear is bandaged, because he painted himself by looking in the mirror. But we know that it was the right ear that had been cut."

Houseman added that the sequence will be played straight, without any attempt for horror.

Walked Barefoot For Seven Days Through Muskeg

Manitoba Teacher Is Safe But Not on Time for School

BISSETT, Man. (CP)—A school teacher who decided walking was better than sailing is safe here after nearly seven footsore days of trudging through muskeg wilderness in his bare feet.

Henry A. Craig, 42, was found Friday walking down an old logging road, his mud-heavy shoes and socks in his hands.

On reaching Bissett, Craig refused medical treatment, saying he was only tired and hungry. However, RCMP said he would undergo an examination today following a good night's sleep.

A search party located Craig 16 miles west of this mining community, which is located 95 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

WENT BY TRAIN

RCMP constable Larry Ginn said Craig, who had been visiting his parents near Winnipeg during the Easter vacation, reached Pine Falls by train Sunday morning.

Because the next plane into Bissett was not scheduled to arrive until late in the week—too late for school opening Monday—Craig decided to walk the 40 miles. He carried a compass and took only a chocolate bar as he expected to reach Bissett that night.

"However, he didn't expect to run into so much muskeg," Const. Ginn said.

Mud clung to his shoes and the weight of it was so tiring he removed his shoes and socks.

Saturday night he slept in an abandoned cabin. For the next five nights he was forced to sleep outside, even though the country would suffer if raw material exports were banned in favor of developing home industries.

IN MANUFACTURED GOODS

In fact, two-thirds of Canada's export trade was in manufactured and partly - processed goods. "Sacrifice per cent of raw materials exports instead of food and ... and vegetable products, most of which would be used in their natural state.

Julian Ferguson (PC — Simcoe North) said Canada's economy, instead of having 600,000 unemployed, should be expanding. Increased numbers of industries and a high rate of employment.

"We should hant our heads in shame at Canada's position," he said. "Here is a tremendous resource, the country should have a high standard of living, tremendous demand for new workers and immigrants, instead of having 600,000 unemployed."

TOOK THE CREDIT

The government took credit for the good thing said in Alberta minerals in Ontario.

"The province should to say: Me and God. This government doesn't include God."

Joseph Houck (L — Niagara Falls) said there has been too much slander in politics in this economy. It was inspired "too much by the politics of the present situation than by its economics."

Ontario Liberal Wants Dealers To Get Rebates

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ontario Liberal Friday urged the government to grant rebates to automobile dealers on passenger cars purchased before the budget cut the excise tax on automobiles to 10 per cent from 15 at the wholesale level.

William L. Houck, Niagara Falls, also said in the Commons budget debate that since the tax on low-priced models is unfair, They no longer could be classified as a luxury.

However, Minister McCann told the House Tuesday that no rebates would be granted dealers with new units in stock when the tax reductions were announced. He said the policy of no refunds was one of long standing.

John Diefenbaker (PC — Prince Albert) said at the time that dealers stood to lose $3,150,000 by the ruling.

INDUSTRY BASIC

Mr. Houck said the automobile industry is basic to the economy. Anything tending to restrict sales was bound to show up in reduced payrolls, lower revenues from corporation taxes and fewer sales of cars.

He said nine Niagara Falls dealers had new cars on hand when the tax was reduced. They were required to absorb a loss of $21,000 to enable them to pass the tax cut along to consumers.

"In the long run it will cost the government nothing to reduce this tax because I think it will keep more dealers in business and would otherwise be forced to go out. It would have many others more solvent and thus able to carry on their business more freely."

Granting rebates also would show the general confidence in what it said when it presented the budget as a job-producing and the come-producing budget, Mr. Houck said the excise tax on automobiles is unfair because dealers have to pay the tariff when they receive cars from the manufacturer. They had the burden of financing this amount while the car was in stock and had to collect interest on it.

NAVY ACCEPTS NAUTILUS

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus was turned over to the United States Navy Friday in public ceremonies at the submersible's dock at the Electric Boat Co. division of the General Dynamics Corp. The Nautilus is the first nuclear-powered craft in history.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny weather will last in southern Ontario today but rain and thunderstorms are expected tonight and Sunday morning, and skies will remain cloudy Sunday afternoon except possibly in the southwest.

Daytime temperatures will remain seasonably cool near 55 except in the lower Lakes area Sunday afternoon where warmer weather may be expected.

Four Families Homeless After Kingston Fire

KINGSTON (CP)—Four families including 10 children, were left homeless Friday night when fire swept through a 3½-room frame house here. No one was hurt.

The dwelling, home of 15 persons, was destroyed. Only three kitchen chairs, a table, a few pots and pans and a few blankets were saved.

Chief Jodoicion of the fire was when Alfred Marchant, who lived with his wife and four sons in an apartment, noticed a glow in the wall and kicked at it. Flames spurted out.

Landlady Got Rid of Girl's Kittens, Forgives Stabbing and Hugs Assailant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rings and conquering generals have received gifts from Caesar to the White House gave Friday to Dr. Jonas E. Salk and his family as they arrived to be showered with confetti and heard the thanks of a grateful people.

Presidential aides came out of their offices for a look. Chief aide Sherman Adams, sometimes said to be harder to get than the president himself, came into the lobby, crossed over and had a chat with the three Salk youngsters.

Then came the ceremony honoring the developer of the vaccine against polio.

In the rose garden outside the president's office, the 40-year-old Salk, greying at the temples, stood between Eisenhower and Vice-President Nixon, secretary of welfare.

Eisenhower had a citation for Salk: "Historic contribution to human welfare . . . a benefactor of mankind."

TWO BIG CANADIAN SOAP COMPANIES BELABORED BY MP

Lever Brothers, Proctor And Gamble Named

OTTAWA (CP)—Unfair business practices have been charged against two big Canadian soap companies.

George Hahn, Social Credit member for New Westminster and a grocery store owner, in the budget debate in the Commons Friday said there is virtually a combine between two soap companies.

"They control the soap business of the country. They control soap supply. I am speaking of Lever Brothers and Proctor and Gamble."

He said there should be an examination of "their unfair practices" which would determine whether or not the grant small chain stores the same benefits given chain stores.

SELLING OUT

Mr. Hahn, who said later he is selling out his New Westminster store, charged that chain stores get the break—that all merchants through quantity and advertising discounts.

"The small merchant is always on the short end of the stick. He is the one who has to become and remain competitive with these large chain stores. If chains are only concerned with one thing, the elimination of the little man."

In another phase of the debate, John Dickey, parliamentary assistant to Production Minister Howe, denied Progressive Conservative claims that Canada is exporting too much of its raw materials instead of processing them in Canada.

He said trading relations would be upset if the country would suffer if raw material exports were banned in favor of developing home industries.

IN MANUFACTURED GOODS

In fact, two-thirds of Canada's export trade was in manufactured and partly - processed goods. Sacrifice per cent of raw materials exports instead of food and ... and vegetable products, most of which would be used in their natural state.

Ross Thatcher, Wealthy Young Hardware Merchant, Quits CCF

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The CCF, troubled for months by internal squabbles, now has been cut publicly by one of its 24 Commons members.

Ross Thatcher, wealthy young hardware store owner who persistently kicked over the Socialist party traces, proclaimed in the House Friday that he is leaving the group and will class himself as an independent for the remainder of this Parliament.

There were indications the party brass regards this as something of a relief from embarrassments he created by Mr. Thatcher's offbeat pronouncements on policies cloak to the CCF heart, but his move took the Socialist group—and the Commons in general—by surprise.

The 37-year-old Mr. Thatcher slipped in a quiet announcement at the House outset Friday—all most before members had settled in their seats—then quickly picked up his papers and left the house to get a train for Oshawa to pick up a new automobile.

The member for Saskatchewan's Moose Jaw-Lake Centre riding left behind a boil of speculation over his own political future and the effect on the CCF of this first party desertion by a Commons member since the Second World War.

While CCF Leader Coldwell and other members of the CCF Commons group met the Thatcher withdrawal with equanimity, talk on Parliament Hill elsewhere turned quickly to the internal trials that have beset the CCF in the last few months.

It was only a few days ago that the Ontario wing of the party expelled 14 adherents as "Trotskyites," followers of the unorthodox brand of communism of revolutionary Leon Trotsky. That had repercussions in the Commons this week.

Earlier this year, Mr. Coldwell and other leaders had difficulty smoothing out a turmoil that arose in the Quebec section of the party over public statements by some of the Commons group which Quebec followers considered as reflecting on that province. Before a patching of relations, there were reports in the Quebec segment might secede.

After this episode, in late January members of the Commons group went off in diametrically opposite directions on the question of admitting a rearmed West Germany into NATO.

The CCF has approved a government resolution to this effect, a view differing from that of the governing body of the party by the CCF. Only a minority of his Commons group supported him.

One of these was Mr. Thatcher. He was not deviating from form. Mr. Coldwell was, in issuing party dogma overboard and voting against accepted CCF doctrine.

Canada's A-Test Team Spends 6 Gruelling Hours in Desert

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (CP) — Canada's tri-service atomic detection team spent six gruelling hours on the rugged Nevada desert Friday in the first of a series of exercises to be climaxed by participation in the United States nuclear detonation scheduled for Tuesday.

Four upon four of the Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen swept over a wide area of the rocky, cactus-covered terrain in the simulated radiation detection exercise.

Today the No. 1 radiation detection unit of Kingston, Ont. will survey the amount of radiation still remaining in an area contaminated by an earlier atomic blast at the Big Rock Atomic Canadian Commission test site some 80 miles north of this resort and gambling centre.

"We are gaining invaluable experience here," said Lt.-Col. D. M. Klashn of Ottawa, who is in overall charge of the tri-service team, first group of Canadian servicemen to participate in an actual atomic blast.

Tuesday's blast will be detonated from a 500-foot steel tower.

More than 2,000 armed forces personnel, 400 American civil defence workers and thousands of AEC workers will participate in the test.

The observers will be about seven miles from ground zero. Several hundred soldiers and a few sailors will be in tanks only 3,100 yards away, less than two miles.

The Canadians will occupy slit trenches less than two miles from the centre of the blast.

Following the detonation, the tri-service radiation detection team will move forward to detect and record the deadly radiation covering the land. The Canadian detection position is about a mile behind forward positions of American task forces.

Announcement of the Canadian participation, made at a briefing here early today, means the soldiers, sailors and airmen from all parts of Canada will undergo the fury of an atomic detonation more than five times more powerful than any of the blast than any other Canadians have ever been.

Although the Canadians will be undergoing their first atomic blast, they are considered by American officers here to be one of the best-trained and most experienced units participating in the test.

No. 1 detection unit worked in close co-operation with Chalk River scientists when the atomic reactor on the Ottawa river developed a serious "leak" last year. Canadian and American officers said the decontamination work carried out by the unit at Chalk River was probably more dangerous than that they will experience Tuesday.

Inspection Shows Maids of Mist Can Be Repaired

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Maids of the Mist, possibly the world's most photographed vessels, today lie charred by fire which broke out Friday as they were being prepared for the summer tourist season.

A spark from a welder's torch was blamed for the fire which swept the two boats in drydock. They were being spruced up for the start of trips up the Niagara river to the base of the falls.

Fire chief John C. Shapton of the Maid of the Mist Steamship Company said after a preliminary examination by two government steamship inspectors that the ships might be able to sail again by summer. They were to have started operation early in May.

The engines and boilers can be repaired, Mr. LeBlond said. With the main decks scarred, the ships will be operated without their upper structures.

Falling in Love Like Hypnosis Expert Claims

LONDON (AP) — Falling in love is a lot like being hypnotized, a leading medical hypnotist says.

Dr. S. J. Van Pelt, president of the British Society of Medical Hypnotists cites these similarities:

1. A lover appears indifferent to the attractions of others. A hypnotized person pays attention only to the hypnotist.

2. A lover is easily swayed by the opinions of the loved one. A hypnotic subject is influenced by the suggestions of the hypnotist.

3. Love can change the habits of a lifetime. So can hypnosis.

Writing in the British Journal of Medical Hypnotist, Van Pelt says there is a solution for unhappy lovers plagued by headaches and sleepless nights. Go see a hypnotist.

Landlady Got Rid of Girl's Kittens, Forgives Stabbing and Hugs Assailant

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Jennette Keitel, her arms bound with bandages, Friday embraced Patricia Ann Lovier, 16, after a charge against the girl of wounding Mrs. Keitel was dismissed.

The charge of wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm was dismissed by magistrate H. W. McKeown after Mrs. Keitel, landlady of the house in which Patricia lives, said she did not want to press the case.

The incident occurred after Mrs. Keitel told Patricia and her mother to get rid of kittens the girl owned.

Because the kittens were not removed, Mrs. Keitel sent them away while Patricia was at school. When the girl returned Mrs. Keitel told her what she had done and the girl allegedly attacked her with a paring knife, stabbing her six times.

Tina Patricia called the police who arrested her.

Does Not Want To Go To War With United States

Invites Any Bandung Parley Nation to Act as Mediator

BANDUNG, Indonesia (CP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China said in a formal statement today that his country is ready to negotiate with the United States to relax the tensions in the Far East "and especially in the Taiwan (Formosa) area."

Chou's bombshell announcement followed his declaration to the Asian-African conference this morning that his government does not want to go to war against the U.S. He invited any one of the 29 conference countries to serve as mediator.

Then he hurried off to discuss the Formosa issue with delegates of Thailand, the Philippines and the five "Colombo powers"—India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia. It was agreed there that Chou would make the announcement about the discussions.

After returning to the afternoon session of the conference's political committee, Chou issued the Formosa statement.

The address to the political committee's main conference forum climaxed Chou's conciliatory attitude since the conference opened Monday. Despite "meeting" from pro-Western delegates, he maintained a restrained air.

SEVEN POINTS

Chou offered at the meeting his seven-point "peace declaration:"

"1. We Asian and African countries are determined to promote our mutual common interests and to live together in peace and friendly co-operation with one another on the basis of respect for each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity.

"2. Abstention from committing aggression and directing threats against each other.

"3. Abstention from interference or intervention in the internal affairs of one another.

"4. Recognition of the equality of races.

"5. Recognition of the equality of all nations, large and small.

"6. Respect for the right of the people of all countries to freely freely their way of life as well as their political and economic system.

"7. Abstention from doing damage to one another."

ATTACK PACTS

Chou spoke today in a debate over a resolution condemning the Western Pakistan which would put the conference on record as favoring collective security pacts at the same time as it appealed for peace. The premier hotly attacked the Western-backed Manila pact, setting up a collective security system in southeast Asia, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Before Chou took the floor, Philippine delegate Carlos Romulo defended the Pacific pact as necessary because of the Communist threat. The Manila pact, he declared is a signatory to that pact.

"Coexistence with communists is dangerous," Romulo said. "The empires on which the sun never set are dissolved. Today the sun is up and we have to fear now are the new empires . . . over which, you know, the sun never rises."

Chou's hint of possible mediation in the Formosa crisis came as the five Colombo powers were trying to arrange an informal discussion of the dispute with China and several pro-Western delegations.

Ceylon has suggested that Formosa be made independent, with Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese forces allowed to "retire gracefully" from the island.

Delegates said Chou's speech today was concentrated chiefly on an appeal for a lessening of world tensions. He asked the conference to "leave aside ideologies" and declared:

"Although the situation is tense, let us not beat the peace."

The Chinese premier strongly backed the "five principles of coexistence" sponsored by Nehru. His endorsement was the strongest yet in the drive to gain conference support for the idea of peaceful coexistence between communism and differing social systems.

Spring Sunshine Spurs Trade On Local Market

The busiest local market thus far this year opened for business this morning, as warm spring sunshine washed the market square.

The crowd was brisk, with a large variety of produce in abundant supply.

Cabbages were five to 15 cents; spring onions 10 cents a bunch; Spanish onions 75 cents a six-quart basket. Turnips were 10 cents each. Carrots brought 5 cents a basket; parsnips 60 cents a basket and beets 50 cents a basket. White beans were 45 cents a quart.

Apples are the only fruit in evidence with Spies and Talmans selling for 75 cents a basket, $3 a bushel; Starks were 65 cts. while McIntosh apples moved between 75-85 cents a basket.

A feature offering was some fine imported eggs at 810 a fresh $20 a male; cocker spaniels were $25.

Maple syrup was down to $3 a gallon and $1.25 a quart.

Fresh fish offered consisted of smelts at $1 for three lbs. and muskeis, $1 for four pounds.

On the inside market eggs sold up to 55 cents for extra special large; 50 cents for large and 45 cents for medium. Fowl were 30 cents and spring chickens 55 cents.

Open East Central Ontario Amateur Art Display Here

Amateur artists from Oshawa to Kingston, including Peterborough and Belleville, interested viewed the East Central Ontario Amateur Art Display last evening in the Sir Winston Churchill Public School on MacDonald Avenue. It was a historic event for this city and district, for the display was held in the newest school of the city, a school named after a painter who has more than the amateur touch in his work.

This official opening was arranged by the East Central Ontario management committee which included W. Stevenson, Oshawa, as chairman; Mrs. D. Cain, secretary-treasurer, Belleville, and a committee of J. E. R. Munro, of Peterborough; Mrs. R. S. Richardson, of Orillia, art, of Port Hope, and C. A. Weir, community programs branch of Belleville. The show was sponsored by the Belleville Recreation Commission and was opened by William Van Tassell a chairman. The showing of these paintings will be continued at the school until the 29th of this month and then the exhibition will be moved on to tour to the various communities that contributed to the display.

There were more than 125 in attendance when the chairman from Belleville, Napanee, Trenton, Madoc, Campbellford, Haliburton, Lindsay, Peterborough, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Brighton, Kingston, Picton and Colborne. It was an elite gathering of artists, for the society hour that followed the general meeting many friendships were made and there was agreement that the beginning would blossom into one of the finest exhibitions in all Canada. The guests were welcomed by Lloyd "Ted" Dorian, Recreational Director, who explained the work that had gone into the project, both by the management committee and the local Arts and Crafts Club. Mrs. Dorian graciously poured tea, while members of the Arts and Crafts Club served refreshments. The committee in charge of these arrangements consisted of Mrs. Eric Whitfield, social convener, and Mrs. M. Williamson, program director.

EXPLAINS SELECTION

Mr. Dorian in opening the meeting, explained how the paintings were chosen. In the various communities, stating that WO. J. A. McCaffrey and Allan Cameron of Carrying Place, had selected the paintings that were shown from this municipality. Mr. Dorian later explained the work of the management committee in arranging the exhibit and hoped that the exhibition would be a yearly procedure. "It is the supposite picture of our amateur artists", said the speaker.

His Worship, Mayor John Both, was introduced by Mr. Dorian. He stated the city was honored by the presence of such distinguished guests and hoped their stay would be pleasant and profitable.

"This exhibition has shown how Canada has grown in the field of art as well as economics and other fields", said the Mayor. "Everyone connected with this exhibition deserves a great deal of credit for the display that has taken place here tonight. It is more than we anticipated and the whole city is entirely grateful. I extend the hand of welcome to all and hope that your stay in our friendly city will be profitable and a pleasure."

Ken-Young, in introducing the principal speaker, stated that the management committee of the display deserve a world of credit for their endeavor. "New ground has been broken by this venture and the Department of Education in Toronto is very grateful Charlie Weir, the Belleville Recreation committee and all those who had any part in promoting the movement of better art," said the speaker.

DR. G. D. GAITSKILL

Dr. C. D. Gaitskill, the principal speaker, in opening his remarks, stated the exhibition was a bid spark of the "forward look".

"As I journeyed around this room tonight I saw a great variety of expression and I wish to compliment everyone who in any way had a hand in this exhibition", said the speaker, "Art" he continued "is only the expression of the world about the painter and this exhibition is varied and completely satisfactory."

Dr. Gaitskill said that he was against giving awards for the best pictures.

"I hope prizes will never be given because art is never on a competitive basis, because the artist is always contributing and never competing," said Dr. Gaitskill. The speaker was sure that the exhibition started here might become a national exhibition, and may be a historic occasion," said the speaker. He stated that he had just visited an art exhibition in the southern United States and he could certainly say that the work shown on the various canvases here would compare favorably with any seen in the exhibition visited.

"An honest and sincere effort has gone into these paintings hung along the walls of this school and I, as a fellow artist, I am sure that greater efforts will be made tonight," said Dr. Gaitskill. "Let us go forth to greater efforts in the coming year, work in harmony with all groups, and this Canada will be a better place to live in."

William Van Tassell, chairman of the Recreation Committee, thanked Dr. C. D. Gaitskill, the principal of the school, the Public School Board, the Art and Crafts Club and members of the Recreation Committee and especially the Recreational Director for the effort expended in this first exhibition of art in this district.

Film Council Holds Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Film Council was held in the Corby Library this week. Mr. L. A. Kells presided.

A film entitled "Color of Life" was shown. Mr. J. Musgrove introduced the topic for the evening "Tito, Our Ally", from World Current Events. Mr. Ronald Ward of the Public School Board, showed a film "Tito, Our Ally". This film was made to the German invasion of Yugoslavia, showing how valiantly the Yugoslave, defended themselves. It also showed how, when, they became too prosperous, Russia surrounded them with her Iron Curtain. It was then that the West proffered help.

After the film a very interesting discussion took place. Other films were shown by Mr. Ward, after which a friendly social half hour was spent over a cup of tea.

Corner Stone Of 1854 School Is Unearthed

What appeared to be the corner stone of a school building constructed just over 100 years ago was dug up this week by Jack Stewart of Foxboro as he was preparing for a driveway in his front yard.

The stone, or plaque, was about two feet in length by 14 inches in width and was about two inches in thickness. The inscription cut into the stone was "School Section 13, A. D. 1854, G. Faulkner, Master."

The stone was lying face down, about a foot beneath the surface, and was well preserved except for a broken corner.

The plaque apparently comes from a school building erected in the Foxboro vicinity over a century ago but even the oldest residents of Foxboro cannot recall the existence of such a school. The present public school at Foxboro is S. S. 13-14 Thurlow.

Pump Repair Shop Damaged By Fire Friday

Fire of undetermined origin late Friday afternoon gutted one end of a small garage owned by R. McMillan, 115 College Street, causing considerable damage to the stores.

The building was used by Mr. McMillan as a pump shop where pump repairs were carried out. An electric drill press and acetylene welding equipment and other machines were in the building.

The blaze apparently started in the south end of the structure, where a quantity of scrap paper collected by Boy Scouts was stored. Mr. McMillan said the building had been left empty at noon and there had been no fire in the shop for over a week.

The fire crews, a minor traffic jam on West College St., as shortly after the blaze was reported factory workers from the west end of the city streamed past on their way home from work.

Brighton Robbery Brings Sentence Of Six Months

TRENTON (Special)—At police court in Cobourg yesterday, Magistrate D. Bastedo passed sentence on three men who broke into and robbed Bonisteel's grocery store in Brighton on April 3.

Harold Albert Fox, 27, Codrington, was sentenced to six months determinate and three months indeterminate. His two companions, convicted in the robbery, Keith Atkins, 23, Newcastle, and Donald Alldredi, 25, Trenton, were both remanded out of custody for two months.

Investigation into the break-in was conducted by Cpl. L. G. Lyle, in charge of Brighton O.P.P.

ACTRESS LEFT SCENE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Gail Russell was convicted Friday of hit-run driving and fined $50. Miss Russell was accused of leaving the scene after her car struck the left side of the car driven by Leonard Deutsch, 39, in North Hollywood last Feb. 11. Deutsch, his wife and baby were shaken up.

'Alice in Wonderland' Charmingly Presented by O.S.D. Pupils

Whimsical, yet lovely was the dramatic presentation last evening of the two C. E. Dodgson's (Lewis Carroll) ageless "Alice in Wonderland," by the pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf in the school auditorium, before a fine assembly of parents, friends and guests from Ottawa, Peterborough, Picton, and local districts.

Mr. J. G. Demeza, B.A., B. Paed, superintendent of the school, extended a most cordial welcome, and briefly mentioned the various points to which the success of these annual plays were due, primarily on the work of Mr. Alec Gordon for the words and music; upon the boys and girls who acted in the play; upon the kindness and generosity of the ladies of Bridge Street United Church choir for their interpretation of the incidental music; upon the creative skill and ideas of Mrs. Ketcheson for costumes used in the production, which were made by the girls, and for the willing assistance of the staff members: Miss Hutchinson, Miss Vaughan, Mr. L. Morrison, Mr. R. Chard and Mrs. Lawson, and for all the co-operation of the entire school in one or more capacities.

PARTIAL HEARING

Mr. Demeza also mentioned the partial or total lack of hearing of the cast members and the profound lack of hearing of the rhythm band as a whole. Alice lacked 85 per cent in the Cheshire Cat; the Mad Hatter, 70; the Queen of Hearts, 80; the King of Hearts, 90; the March Hare, 100, and the Mock Turtle, 95 per cent.

The play, which was introduced by a selection by the Rhythm Band, composed of the senior pupils of the school, who rendered "Alice in Wonderland" and "Wonderland," was composed of three acts, with five scenes in the second act. Act 1 showed a countryside blooming with white daisies, and two little girls, Alice with auburn curls, and white pinafore, and her sister, Margaret, in pink with white pinafore, playing with a ball and skipping rope. Alice likes to her ball, and retires to the side to play with her doll, "Queenie," and so doing, falls asleep and dreams the delightful scenes portrayed, with the entrance of the White Rabbit in blue coat, white trousers, white hood with long pink ears, and the Cheshire sprinkled with his realistic grin.

They talk of the Mad Hatter's tea party and leave, followed by Alice, who is persuaded to go, too, and see what it is all about.

Scene 2 depicts the party: the Mad Hatter in his green tails, with his green hat, Dormouse in grey, and tall, stove-pipe hat; the little Dormouse in grey who quite stole the show with her inimitable acting; and the Mad March Hare in her green fur coat and outfit. The Mad Hatter is dispensing tea from a large, pink teapot, and trying at the same time to keep the little Dormouse awake. Losing patience, he plumps the teapot down upon the Dormouse's head. Alice, natives but is not too hospitably received by the Mad Hatter.

Scene 3 shows the Queen's croquet match in which the various actors take part, playing without balls. The King and Queen are attired in red and white with splashes of red hearts.

BOTTOM OF THE SEA

Scene 4 was most lovely showing what went on at the bottom of the sea: the colorful turtles, the red lobsters, and the huge starfish, all of whom joined in the lobster quadrille', a most pleasing spectacle with their changing lights and the simulated water effect.

Scene 5, the trial scene of "who stole the tarts?" was the climaxing highlight in which, after several suspects had been cleared of blame, poor little Alice was condemned as the thief since, according to the witness of the Cheshire Cat, the thief had had pinafore stains, and of all those present, only Alice's shoes squeaked. "Off with her head," was the Queen's pre-emptory command, but just as the executioner is bringing down upon the bewilder Alice, the huge silver axe, she is rescued by the White Rabbit who intervenes on her behalf.

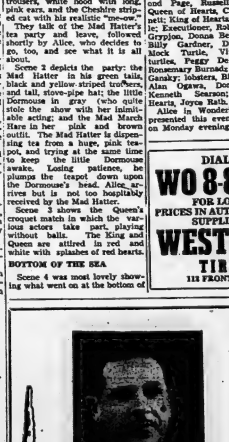
Alice awakes, and recounts the dream to her sister. As she does so the actors appear, and the curtain falls on the play.

A thunderous applause from the assembly brought the cast more than once back for the curtain call in appreciation for an exceptionally fine presentation of an exceptional story that never grows old.

APPRECIATION TENDERED

Special appreciation is tendered to the stage manager, Keith Donaher; and to his assistants, Norman Ruttan, Billy Wilks, and Isabel Nugent, to Miss Nettie Ketcheson, for the lovely and fairy-like costumes; to Mr. Ken Graham and to Dr. Sewing room girls; to Mr. Vaughan abd the boys of the Woodwork shop; to Mr. K. Graham for the stage sets; to Mr. Chard and the girls of the printing room for the scripts and slides; and to Mr. L. Morrison, Mr. L. H. Field and the paint shop boys for the attractive programs.

A very special thanks goes to the ladies' choir of Bridge Street United Church for their vocal renditions which added so greatly to the enjoyment of the play; to Mr. Alec Gordon for a fine dramatization, and to the little actors themselves for a fine job excellently done.



THE CAST

The cast is as follows: Alice, Jeannette Masci; Margaret, her sister also White Rabbit, Doreen Brown; Cheshire Cat, Mary O'Neill; Mad Hatter, Harold Bradley; Mad March Hair, Sarah Brant; Dormouse, Jackie Wales; 3 of Hearts, Margaret Kirkness; 5 of Hearts, Joanne Strotmier; First Page, Donald Dennie; Second Page, Russell Kozlowski; Queen of Hearts, Christine Bennett; King of Hearts, Gary Skinkett; Executioner, Robert Eberseile; Gryphon, Donna Bell; Star Fish, Billy Gardiner, David Legge; Mock Turtle, Vivian Curtis; turtles, Peggy La Frandre, Rosemary Burnside and Margaret Gansky; lobsters, Billy Hemphill, Donald Sutton, Donald Sattler, Kenneth Searson; Knave of Hearts, Joyce Rath.

Alice in Wonderland will be presented this evening and also on Monday evening.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

One Sunday morning when Frances E. Havergal, popular English woman hymnist, was too ill to go to church she crept from her sick bed to find her Bible.

Thumbing through her favorite verses of Scripture, she was attracted by a line in the ninety-sixth Psalm:

"Say among the heathen that the Lord reigneth."

She read the passage over several times and suddenly the idea came to her to use it as the opening line of a hymn. Taking up paper and pencil she began to write and, in an amazingly short time, she had finished her hymn-poem just as it appears above.

While she was writing she heard church bells ringing and managed to get some of their sound into her song. When her family returned from worship, she was at the piano trying to tap out a tune for her verses.

According to a story told in later years by her sister, the following conversation then ensued:

"Why, Frances, I thought you were upstairs!" "Yes, but I had my prayer book and in the Psalms for today I read: 'Tell it out among the heathens that the Lord is King.' I thought: 'What a splendid first line!' And then words and music came rushing in to me. There, it's all written out!"

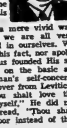
Who Was This?

By A. J. M.

What was the name of the King of Persia, who in the first year of his reign was moved by the Spirit of the Lord to befriend the alien Jews in his land and make it possible for them to return to their own country of Judah and start to rebuild their temple?

The Israelites' bravely years before had been carried away as prisoners by King Nebuchednezzar, the Babylonian. Fifty years before this their beautiful city of Jerusalem had been burned and Solomon's temple destroyed. But the Persian Empire rose in place of the Babylonian, and it extended its rule all through the land of Asia Minor, throughout Egypt and reached into the Far East. Under the Persian rule many of the Jews far from being treated as captives had prospered and grown wealthy.

This King of Persia made a proclamation that all the Jews who wished to return to Judah and rebuild the house of the Lord, should feel free to do so. Those who preferred, to remain in Persia or the surrounding area, were commanded to give to the returning Jews, silver and gold, goods and beasts as well as free-will offerings for the temple at Jerusalem.



But this great and wise monarch also made a generous donation. He felt that the precious vessels of the Lord which had been carried away from Solomon's temple should be returned. Therefore he commanded his treasurer to count out the following articles to the prince of Judah: a thousand basins of gold, twenty-nine censers, thirty bowls of gold, two thousand four hundred and ten bowls of silver, and a thousand other vessels of gold and silver.

In response to this suggestion of the king's that the Israelites return to their own land, forty-two thousand three hundred Israelites assembled and over seven thousand servants. There were over seven hundred horses, two hundred and forty-five mules, four hundred and thirty-five camels and over six thousand asses. The priests, the Levites and some of the people settled in or near Jerusalem, the temple servants and the gatekeepers lived in their towns and the rest of the Jews scattered to other towns in Judah and started their new life there. You can find what happened in this story and the Persian King's name in the first four chapters of the Book of Ezra.

A Lift For Living

The Most Interesting Person

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

What is the most interesting word in our language? What word above all others will make us sit up and take notice? A popular writer on psychology of success gave the answer. To each person the most interesting word in the language is his own name.

That is only a mere vivid way of saying that we are all very much interested in ourselves. We need not deny this fact, nor apologize for it. Jesus founded His social philosophy on the basic assumption of man's self-concern. When He took from Leviticus the law, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," He did not change it to read, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor instead of thyself."

MORE THAN WE KNOW

Moreover, we are rightfully interested in ourselves, partly because we are always surprising ourselves. Youth is a period of wonder when every bush is aflame with some new touch of heaven, when "the trailing clouds of glory" have not yet been dispelled by the light of common day. Yet when sweet sixteen ripens into the sixties, the wonder grows that one small head could carry all it knows, yet, could carry so much more than it knows. We are repeatedly discovering that we are so much more than we know.

As the shadows of evening fall on our lives, the lights outside of us may grow a bit dimmer, but new lights are turned on to illumine the mysteries within. The world within the self flashes with more and more hints of the beyond.

These surprising self-discoveries come in various ways. When, for instance, a mind has reached what it end and knows no which way to turn, a saving flash of higher wisdom appears like a steady light amid the encircling gloom. Or, when human strength has reached "the end of its string," a new supply of power wells up from somewhere, enabling a person to endure an all but impossible situation.

THE SIN WITHIN

It may be that the surprising thing about ourselves is discovered when we get a glimpse into the inner abysses of darkness. After some deep dark temptation, we shiver at the thought of how close we came to the brink of disaster. After a crime of passion, the wrong-doer looks at the wreckage left by his deed in horror and amazement. Strange demoniac powers sometimes seem to take possession of us and mysterious possibilities of sinfulness are revealed within us.

While these intimations of the beyond which die within us have beckoned men to explore their minds ever since the dawn of self-awareness, we in our day have new means and methods to aid us greatly in our study of ourselves. When Socrates said to his Athenian students, "Know thyself," he lacked the technical aids of the modern psychologist.

So prevalent is the present-day search for peace of mind that there is danger of too much self-exploration. A student was once climbed up and chalked out Socrates' formula, "Know thyself," which was carved over a university gate. In its place he wrote, "Behave yourself."

INTROSPECTION IS BAD

A Persian fable tells of a father who, departing on a journey, left his son with a mirror. When the parent returned he found that his son had starved to death looking at himself.

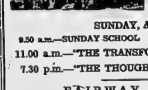
Introspection may often smother the mind's ability to reason. Its thought gets rooted and round in vicious circles. Fancies become fixed ideas. Worries grow from molehills into mountains.

In these days of so much psychological self-probing we need to revive the prayer of the Psalmist, "Lead me to the rock that is higher than I." When we are led out of ourselves by interests bigger than ourselves we discover surprising heights of happiness and wider horizons of usefulness.

WILD GEESE

When April comes with changing shade and sun,
With misty meadows and with freshet streams,
We catch upon the air when day is done
A sound that stirs us from our winter dreams—
It is the wild honk! honk! of migrant geese
Winging their way toward their summer home
In the far North, where beating wings shall cease
Weary with winging over land and foam.

We watch them in their sure, unerring flight,
Upheld by innate faith and courage strong,
Undaunted by the coming of the night
They keep their course the boundless air along
And all that we in life's long toilsome way
Might prove as steadfast and as wise as they.



—Helen B. Anderson, Wellington.

DAYLIGHT TIME AGAIN

Tomorrow morning 12.01 a.m. will become 1.01 a.m. The stars will not change in their courses nor will the sun and the moon take a nervous hitch in their appointed round in order to keep astronomers in tune with the clock.

This magic advance in the time barrier will be effected by decree and by consent. It is evidence of a unanimity of public opinion lacking in all other decrees and is, no doubt, motivated by a general zest of all men to be up and working an hour earlier.

Daylight saving time is proof that men and women are not the sleepy-headed creatures depicted by cartoonists. They are alert, ambitious nature lovers, with poetry in their souls, possessed of sensitive natures that thrill to the excitement of each glowing sunrise. The ogre who refuses to rise from his bed before noon and who greets the morning with a snarl is hardly the same man who willingly accepts the loss of an extra hour's slumber during daylight saving mornings.

Getting out of bed on the wrong side is apparently less disturbing than getting out on the wrong side of the clock.

Daylight saving time is wonderful for the children because it saves them the trouble of resisting commands to go to bed for at least one hour each evening.

Belleville residents will be putting their clocks ahead one hour tonight. It is too bad one cannot put one's head ahead an hour tonight as well.

BRAIN WAVE

"What purpose will the study of the (Einstein's) brain serve?"

That question was asked in an Associated Press story the other day.

The story did not answer the question.

It did quote Dr. Webb Haymaker, chief of the neuropathology section of the armed forces' Institute of Pathology, as saying that science has not yet found an over-all pattern for the loss of an extra brain convolution.

Even the inspection of Einstein's brain provides scientists with a blueprint for judging genuis, of what use will this knowledge be?

It is quite doubtful whether knowing what kind of a brain is required by a man who wants to be a genius will help that man to grow a brain tailor-measured for the task.

For instance, Dr. Haymaker thinks that "overuse" of a particular area, richness of grey matter and lack of a tendency to develop arteriosclerosis within the brain capsule advancing years may be clues. But how can a man enhance the richness of his grey matter?

Nor is it likely that the knowledge of what makes for genius could be used to test the fitness of an applicant for a job. You can hardly require a man to undergo a brain examination before running for the position of prime minister or premier. The examination might prove fatal—or the brain surgeons might have to spend so long hunting for what they were supposed to be examining that the candidate would still be on the operating table when voting day rolled around.

This line of thought, though, leads us inevitably to the conclusion that there is one potential use for this knowledge. Shakespeare has told us that the evil that men do lives after them—and we might add that often much of the evil that they do is wrought after their deaths. If a post-mortem were performed on the brain of every so-called political genius, it might at least be possible to determine whether his theories should live after him.

"He was no Einstein" might eventually prove the welcome death knell of many a movement.

LAZYBONES!

It is great to be young!

The latest reader by the International Science Press Service lends additional emphasis to that fact.

ISPS says that when teen-agers sleep late on Saturday or Sunday mornings, it is not necessarily laziness. A physician says that the adolescent needs that extra rest, that his body is growing at a rapid rate and has great energy requirements and that a great deal of nervous energy is also required by the adolescent in coping with the transition to maturity.

But no similar alibi is provided for Mom or Dad. On the contrary, the International Science Press Service says that once teen-agers reach adulthood they no longer need extra rest.

So there you are. If Junior and Jane sleep late, they need the rest. If Mom and Dad indulge in a little weekend slumber, they are lazy.

Isn't science wonderful?

PLAN GIANT BARBECUE

We tip our hat to Medicine Hat.

The biggest little city in the west has announced that it will celebrate the golden jubilee of the founding of Alberta on June 15th with a beef barbecue for 10,000 persons. The 200 cattle required as filler for 10,000 Medicine-Hat-style beef sandwiches to be distributed free to celebrants will cost local ranchers more than $5,000.

This fabulous feast has been billed as the "world's largest" barbecue.

Well, Texans, can you top Medicine Hat?

SEASONABLE CHORES

Done with bitter winds that blow,
Done with shovelling off the snow,
Here it is, as long before,
Time to beat the rugs once more.

Done with ice and rain and sleet,
Done with wet and muddy feet,
Winter's gone, and this it means:
Time for pulling up the screens.

Done with grate fires, wood and coal,
Done with draft and heat control,
Now among the sprouting seeds,
Time for sorting out the weeds.

Now we're working out of doors,
Done with all the winter chores,
They will come and pass again,
Time to cut the grass again.

OFF THE RECORD

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1935

Mr. R. B. Cooper has been promoted by the North American Life Assurance Company to the position of District Manager in this city. Since joining the company in 1930 Mr. Cooper has secured for himself an enviable record as an outstanding personal producer, having qualified for the company's Big Production Club each year.

Miss Dalay Jennings, Reg. N., Hamilton, is home to spend the Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Ross of Peterborough spent Easter here with Dr. J. J. Robertson.

Dr. and Mrs. James McCumiskey and baby of Whitby spent Easter here with his mother, Mrs. E. Cumiskey.

Mrs. F. Nicholson of Napanee, formerly of Belleville, was in town today.

Mrs. A. B. Collins and Mrs. L. Howe spent Easter in Montreal.

Mr. W. J. Rathman of Kingston spent Easter here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cupido of Oshawa spent Easter here with relatives.

30 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1925

Mr. Clarence Jeffrey spent Sunday with friends at West Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bogart of Deseronto are visiting friends here.

Prior to leaving for the second line of Thurlow, where they have lived for a considerable time, to-day Mr. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. William Grills were presented with several handsome gifts by friends and invited at their home on the evening of April 16. An address was read by Mrs. C. Donaldridge and the presentations were made by Mrs. D. Alexander and Mr. T. Melbourne. The address was signed on behalf of the friends by Mrs. J. Melbourne and Mrs. T. Melbourne.

St. George's Day was observed here by an enjoyable dance in Johnstone's Academy which was given under the auspices of Oxford Lodge Sons of England and the Pride of Belleville Lodge Daughters and Maids of England.

40 YEARS AGO

April 23, 1915

During a severe electrical storm the house of Mr. Morden Bird in Stirling was struck by lightning; a chimney was demolished and other damage was done to the property.

The members of Belleville and Mizpah Lodges I.O.O.F. will attend the morning service at Holloway Street Methodist Church on Sunday.

Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton has been appointed to represent the Crown at the spring assize which will open here on the 27 inst.

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board 175 boxes of colored cheese and 80 boxes of white were boarded. The sales were: J. A. Ayre, 80 boxes colored at 18 3-4 cents; Mark Sprague, 95 boxes of white at 18 13-16 and Cook and Son 25 boxes of colored at 18 11-16 cents. The balance of the colored cheese was refused at price of 18 11-16 cents and the balance of the white cheese was refused at 18 13-16 cents.

50 YEARS AGO

April 22, 1905

Mr. Ernest Hamm of Toronto is spending a few days here with friends.

The Rev. J. R. Real and Mrs. Real of Napanee were in town today.

Mr. Arthur Parlee is home from Montreal to spend Easter.

Lieut. Col. J. Lyons Biggar of Ottawa, formerly of this city, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. Harry Hagerman is home from Rochester, N. Y., to spend the Easter vacation.

Messrs. C. P. Finkle and A. H. Finkle of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, are spending a few days here with friends.

Messrs. Harry J. Clarke and William Knight of the Belleville high school have successfully passed the degree of Bachelor of Arts conferred upon them as the result of their examinations at Queen's University, Kingston. We extend congratulations.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We may have solved the fission of the atom, but we still don't know the first thing about the mysterious urge of the fur Canadian north, which so older birds accompanying it, flies unerringly southeast across Labrador to Nova Scotia, takes off across the vast Atlantic and, ignoring any islands or ladies it may pass en route, reaches South America's coast, and then proceeds by the identical route to ancestors who followed the ice-cap northward to Patagonia.

That is what the golden plover does. And in some such style, all birds do it. The nighthawks that can be seen teetering through the evening sky over our cities, west, southeast, but September, to Peru. No daddy or mamma guided them. No elder guided them back here, up through Panama, across the length and width of the United States, to the gravel roof of our house where they were hatched.

In a couple of weeks, the warblers will begin to appear, anywhere from thirty to forty different species of them, according to where you live. They are about the size of your thumb. They are mostly tropical little puffs of vivid color. They are fresh home from Yucatan, Brazil, the Bahamas, Cuba, Columbia, Nicaragua, Venezuela. They went there at four months of age, and most of them aren't a year old yet. But the distances, the storms, the nights, the perils of every imaginable sort were all born by a body weighing less than a ruddock, and a tiny brain which contains some sort of mechanism that so far defies all enquiry of the scientific mind that has fiddled with it.

It is a mechanism that controls the birds as wholly as remote control guides a rocket. But who or where that mechanism is in the bird's brain or nervous system, science has so far, despite tireless study during the past enlightened half century, been unable to discover. Isn't it odd that the egg which was given us the hydrogen bomb are not more interested Who handles the remote controls for the birds?

Big Blow to G.M.

(Milwaukee Journal)

General Motors Corp. had some New York office employees do a rush job on a recent Sunday. Somebody scraped the nose off the antique "blow low" signal. Sabbath labor, and GM was smacked right in the teeth with a $5 fine. This may or may not lead to repeal of the law, but it does reduce GM's net earnings from $5,130,093,585 at last report to $5,130,093,580.

Einstein Rode Insight's Wings

(Christian Science Monitor)

"I never believed an axiom," That was Albert Einstein's own answer when asked to explain how he came to formulate the theory of relativity. He refused to accept the supposed fact that light moves in a straight line as the only reason to believe it could be bent, and proved it.

He constantly rejected limitations; he insisted on looking beyond the accepted. "The principle of inquiry" could not be satisfied with claims that the behavior of electrons was inexplicable; by reason or intuition he arrived at provable explanations in the quantum theory.

"I cannot believe God plays dice with the cosmos." Unwilling to believe the universe was not ruled by law, he persisted in seeking to reconcile the relativity and quantum theories. Finally he came up with the unified field theory. The whole effect of this is not yet evident, but once more he had opened new worlds of thought—worlds as far beyond limited material concepts as are the realms of milky ways in the astronomers' "expanding universe".

Apart from his great work in showing that motion, mass, energy, and time could not always be described as absolute quantities, Einstein contributed in another way to progress. He had the rare combination of sensitivity to the method of deduction—the "inspired hypothesis"—and the critical faculty which might not be reached by centuries of goal-less thinking.

It has been said that when physicists accepted a mathematical explanation as in accord with Einstein as chief describer) they were right. He had a sense, a kind of sense perception. In many respects this is true, but it does not always follow that they accept the whole view that all real causation is spiritual.

Einstein described his own humble religious sense in moving words:

That deeply emotional conviction of the presence of a superior reasoning power, which is revealed in the incomprehensible universe, forms my idea of God. Like other physicists, he continued to experiment, and to verify his physical phenomena. But his greatest contributions in making the universe more understandable were achieved when he broke the barriers of accepted thought patterns and rode the wings of insight.

Space Travel Test at Pole

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The South Pole is the coldest place on earth, though nobody would have to travel that far to appreciate how cold it is. The temperature can get there. It cannot be determined with thermometers because mercury, which becomes a solid metal at 40 below, or even alcohol, which freezes at about 90 below. The upper air over the high Antarctic continent, measured by balloon-borne instruments, is sometimes colder than 120 below. Temperatures recorded on the ice can get on the surface, because nobody has ever spent a winter there to see what it is like.

An American group is going, to winter there. It will be the second winter which starts next June. A research station is to be set up on the polar plateau at 9,500 feet above sea level and 800 miles inland. The group will undertake surveys, study the southern lights, the thickness of the ice cap, the weather 30 miles up, and generally await the verdict from Toronto.

Conditions will be brutal and unpredictable. Some scientists believe that the stratosphere, with its layers of temperature, will be colder than the plateau in winter. Nobody knows whether the ice cap will become so cold that man cannot breathe it. Mechanical devices may not work. Metals and plastics may become so brittle with cold that a slight fall may shatter them. Human metabolism, protected by all the ingenious cold-weather improvements which the armed forces since World War II, may still be unable to carry the load.

There is much blither talk these days about space stations, trips to the moon and Mars, and so forth. Conditions at the earth's colder poles are considerably milder than they would be in outer space. At the South Pole there is normal gravity; there is an unlimited supply of air; there are highly experienced men on the spot. Side of the moon, or on Jupiter, for instance; there is protection against the cosmic and lethal solar radiation.

Captain Cotter of the Space Patrol couldn't survive at the South Pole, he's only a fictional fake.

But What Will Phone Be Like?

(The Times of London)

"What," the small boy in the American advertisement is asking, "will the telephone be like when I grow up?" Will you come to think of it, rather disappointingly, that although we take the telephone for granted, it is a comparatively new invention? It is only 70 years since the useful career has already begun. Since then, every generation ago the instrument was a stately, upright affair, while, like a boom in a hard month, required both hands to manage. Can we even remember that, when it rang, it rang more loudly and imperiously than it does today; and this (if it was indeed the case) is hardly surprising, for, though people then lived in larger houses, few of the houses were equipped with more than one telephone. It would have been no good if the instrument had not been loud, as some precedents do, a sound like a well-filled rattlesnake. Its loudness more in the nature of a toxin was needed to rouse the butler from the pantry.

The modern receiver, though the same shape, is comparable to the old, has somehow less personality and does not exact the same respect as the gilded apparatus in a draughty corner under the stairs. Its diminution has been accompanied by a tendency for telephone numbers, according to the point-and wouldn't be back until after tea, have been made to accept the view that all real causation is spiritual.

Einstein described his own humble religious sense in moving words:

That deeply emotional conviction of the presence of a superior reasoning power, which is revealed in the incomprehensible universe, forms my idea of God. Like other physicists, he continued to experiment, and to verify his physical phenomena. But his greatest contributions in making the universe more understandable were achieved when he broke the barriers of accepted thought patterns and rode the wings of insight.

'Cobbon Code' Cure Tested

(Vancouver Province)

Splitting Canadians will turn a skeptical and watery eye on a hopeful announcement from Toronto that the "cobbon code" in the common cold is to be tested at the University of Toronto.

This hoped-for panacea for a universal and painful ailment is called "Pyridoxine" and was discovered recently in Florida from the pecel and sap of the cobbon tree.

While our Okanagan apple growers are thinking up some sort of cobbon remedy prepared from the peel and pulp of apples, the rest of us, sniffling, hopefully await the verdict from Toronto.

Without minimizing the wonders of the modern medical world, we can help wondering if Flavenoid won't be found to be an ordinary place in the medicine cabinet with all the wonderful collections of sure-fire cures we have.

And when our friends sympathize with us, coldwise and ask if we have tried their favorite remedy we'll tell them in a superior way that they should see the scientific wonderful what it'll do for the cobbon code."

Frightening Insights

(New York Times)

Parents worthy of the name all have occasional insights into their children's behavior which frighten them and which are both frightening and inspiring.

We mean the awing shock of seeing one's children exhibiting the good and sometimes the bad thinking cruelties; seeing them grow into receptacles of the good and the bad around them.

Some day these children will be adults standing free and equal beside their parents, and they will be good people or bad, talented or dull, happy or neurotic.

A parent's consciousness of this responsibility can be overwhelming. It is perhaps fortunate that such insights are only occasional.

BEWARE THE BAD TONSIL OBSESSION

Dr. Brady

I doubt whether any doctor who finds a child's tonsils enlarged at this time of year can forestall that the tonsils will not shrink to "normal" size by the end of summer. If the child gets a fair trade in the way of outdoor play for hours every day.

The every-ready operator who attempts to "get every bit of tonsil" doesn't always know just what he is getting, for he must work more or less blindly because of the blood covered field.

Examination of what is removed in 1,000 tonsillectomies showed, besides tonsil and adenoid (lymphoid) tissue, portions of the throat muscle in several instances. Good surgeons and throat specialists had performed the operations and a pathologist of standing made the microscopic examinations. The revealing report, which appeared in JAMA, should make any person who uses his or her voice professionally hesitate to submit to the tonsillectomy.

After all, it is understandable that even a good surgeon, directing away in a gory field, should occasionally remove a small bit of throat muscle in his eagerness to "get every bit of tonsil."

If you think about the tonsil problem it is important to distinguish as clearly as possible the infected tonsils from enlarged tonsils.

The tonsils of growing children are usually enlarged in the winter and spring, if the children are cooped up indoors most of the time or too much bundled up when they are permitted to play outdoors. Prevailing winter catarrhs do not catch the children at the season when their tonsils are most enlarged, and they usually will shrink to their normal summer size before school opens next autumn.

Some children with enlarged tonsils have repeated feverish illnesses through the winter season, with or without soreness of the throat. "Colds." Some doctors, consulted about these recurring illnesses, decide the "bad" tonsils are responsible and arbitrarily sentence the child to tonsillectomy.

Oh, of course the doctors do not tell parents honestly that they are just guessing that removal of the tonsils may do some good. They merely opine that the child will probably contribute having "colds" until those tonsils are taken out. That's enough to get the consent of the parents.

In 2,700 Rochester, N.Y., school children who were subjected to tonsillectomy, not all 2,700 for whom the operation was advised by physicians, 23 per cent were still classed as repeated "colds" ten years later. Of the other 2,077 children who had not submitted to the operation the doctors had advised, 31 per cent. That is the subject for repeated "colds" ten years later. Does the difference justify subjecting children to this dangerous major operation? I think not.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

VARIETY

The great variety of books is a reason for so many varieties in the world. Insects, animals, human beings, birds, fishes, trees, foods, metals, stones — well, there are literally endless varieties of things that have been created. Each one of us even has a variety of thoughts and ideas.

I guess the Creator figured all this out far in advance. I have noted that naturalists have usually been men of devout minds. They find a purpose behind all creation. A reason for everything. Nothing in this world seemed to have been created without some purpose.

The more interests we have the more we are. The happiest days are those in which a variety of things are packed. We get more tired doing one thing all day long than they do from doing a variety of things, even for a longer time. We all need changes from time to time. Even to be alone with ourselves or the endless calls in nature.

The great variety of books is a library is what gives tone and appeal to it. Meeting many people of many minds in a gathering is always a stimulating experience. People on trains and ships at sea are always interesting because they present a friendliness that is often lacking in the home town. Perhaps it is a type of loneliness in a new setting.

One thing in which I have always been interested has been gadgets. There are literally thousands of them. Others, too, must be this interested for I often stop and look at the shelves with the big window loaded with them, and many another beside myself stand and here drinking in the dreams behind each one! Many a man or woman has all to some useful gadget. Another variety added to the thousands of others.

SORROW AND STATISTICS

In my reading recently I encountered an expression which appeared to pack a considerable amount of meaning. The writer spoke of "war-shattered mentality."

Think about the for a minute. Juvenile delinquency, increased crime, the alarming growth of alcoholism, mental unsanity, corruption in high places, dishonesty in business — what do these things mean? They mean that mentally and spiritually we are experiencing a depression and that this depression is having a drag that is exerted upon our national life. Law enforcement officials, social workers, statesmen, and clergymen call our attention to these re-

Pretty Ulrica And Her Cow

By LEONARD L. KNOTT

This is the story of a doll which recalls a little-known story in Nova Scotia history.

Several years ago, Grace Shute, of Berwick, Nova Scotia, began designing a collection of historic dolls to interest tourists. Her collection included the famous Acadian heroine, Evangeline, dolls representing fishermen and Scottish lassies. Among all the others, however, the most interesting is the doll representing Ulrica, the Dutch girl, and her Ayrshire cow.

Many years ago, Ulrica lived in Holland. For six years, she had been in love with a Dutch boy, Conrad Ludovic, and they planned to marry and seek their fortune in the new world. Conrad, however, was a sick boy who was scarcely able to earn money to earn food and clothing for himself. All he could do was carve wooden figures to sell at the Saints' Day fairs.

Often, Conrad worked far into the night making his little wooden figures, but he could never make enough of them to get the money for passage for himself and his bride to Canada. Then, Ulrica decided that she would go alone, find the land for a little farm and then send for Conrad. On her own, she crossed the Atlantic and went to Lunenburg, Nova Scotia where she staked a claim for her land and built a home. Then she found that she, too, was unable to earn enough money to buy passage for Conrad.

ACADIANS EXPELLED

About this time, the British, who were still fighting the French for possession of North America, ordered the expulsion of the Acadians. As they left their homes, these simple people were forced to leave behind many of their possessions, including their cattle. Ulrica heard about the expulsion and thought that if only she could get some of these cattle, she might be able to raise enough money to send to Conrad in Holland.

Setting off all alone, she followed a trail through the forest until she came to Grand Pre. There, she saw the cattle, but they would not let her get near them. Only after much work was she able to capture one Ayrshire cow. Finally, tired from her long journey, she went into an abandoned cellar and sat down to rest.

As she sat down by the crumbling chimney in the cellar, she noticed a brick which had become loose. She pulled the brick out and put her hand in the hole behind. The space was filled with shiny gold coins. Trembling, the young Dutch girl scooped the coins in her lap and gathered them up in her apron. Then, leading her cow and clutching the coins, she walked back to Lunenburg.

Immediately, Ulrica sent some money home to Conrad. He packed his few belongings and sailed for Nova Scotia. There, in a little church at St. John, the couple were married.

Today, a tiny doll clutches a bag of coins and the chain that holds her Ayrshire cow. And in the county of Lunenburg, the bells that hang at the necks of every yoke of oxen are modelled after the one that Ulrica's cow had many, many years ago.

THERE'S A KEY to tuberculosis

Just as there is to every other problem, there is a key. And all you have to do is find it — and use it!

Years ago—about 60—Roentgen discovered x-rays. About 1940, Mass Surveys were devised as a means of finding tuberculosis early!

In other words, during the first half of this century the key to tuberculosis was found!

Now — is this half century — it's up to you to use it!

MARMORA

Peterborough Masonic Lodge Visits Marmora

MARMORA — At their regular monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall on Monday evening, Marmora A.F. and A.M., 222, received a fraternal visit from the officers and members of Peterborough A.F. and A.M., No. 152. About 30 in all being welcomed by Wor. Bro. B. G. McKenzie, the Worshipful Master of Marmora Lodge.

Felicitations having been exchanged between the lodges, with Wor. Bro. Jack Graham, of the visiting lodge, expressing the pleasure of the Peterborough brethren in being present; the chairs of Marmora lodge were then occupied by the following visiting brethren for the exemplification of the third degree for which there were three candidates.

The chairs were filled by the following:

Quinte Secondary School News

Omnibus Dicendo Crescemus. Monday we had the pleasure of a visit from Mr. Thor Hansen. Mr. Hansen is one of Canada's best artists. He spoke on the need for more Canadian arts and crafts. He stressed the fact that a lot of the articles sold as souvenirs of Canada are made in other countries. Very few of Canada's souvenirs are actually made in Canada. Mr. Hansen's speech was very informative and served to stir up interest among the students in the arts and crafts.

ASSEMBLY

The assembly this week was presented by the Keyette club. The president, Mary Claire, presided as master of ceremonies. The pianist for the morning was Susan Ghent. The Bible was read by Judy Aselstine, and the announcements were given by Diane Brown.

The program consisted of various musical selections. First was Gary Aquilar of G 11A, who played a piano solo emitled The German Dance No. 2. This was Gary's first appearance on our stage and we hope to hear more of him in the near future. Barbara Thrasher of G 10B, was next on the program and she tap danced to the-tune of "Tea For Two". Joyce Turner then said a recitation entitled "The Cattle Thief."

Last on the program. was Ken Adams of G 11A, who played two selections on the saxaphone.

The program was then taken over by Mr. Rivest of the Tuberculosis chest clinic. Mr. Rivest first explained dangers of tuberculosis and how it may be contracted. We then saw a film entitled "The Inside Story". This film showed how tuberculosis grows and how we can guard against it. The tuberculosis chest clinic will soon be X-raying all the students in the school.

What is happening at Quinte Secondary school on Friday, May 13th?

Bulletins From Birdland

OLD WHITE-THROATS

Not many people can claim friendship with white-throated sparrows. But when parents trustingly bring children for you to feed, that means confidence, and surely friendship springs from confidence.

The strange thing is that these birds are supposed to live in openings of the forest where low shrubs and clumps of small trees can be found, and are said to be rarely seen, and heard only from the distance. Our friends come not just within sight, but within touch.

Male white-throats can be differentiated by their songs, for each has a preference for a certain key. Some sing all on one note, others on two. The commonest song has been translated into, "Sweet, sweet, Canada, Canada, Canada." Our pet is among those with an introductory note, sung 1½ tones lower than the rest; and he has nestled near the foot of our clothes pole, under dogwood bushes, for eight summers.

We have an definite way of proving that his wife has not changed, yet as she is even tamer than he, and her feet look still older than his, we feel that this is the original mate.

BIRD BRINGS GREETING

When we make our first visit of the season to our country home, Mr. White-throat is always on hand to greet us. his clear voice ringing out especially loud near sunset and again soon after dawn. A white throat, and three white head stripes divided by jet black assist identification of a "Canada Bird", but the yellow blob beside the eye is a definite test. This, combined with a courtly carriage, give our Mr. White-throat a distinguished appearance.

When food becomes scarce on the tray attached to a window sill, we are called with insistent chirps. Mrs. White-throat almost takes it from our fingers. but always decides to wait until the bits of egg, cornbread or bread crumbs reach the shelf.

In late June the pair come constantly to the tray, and early in July begin carrying off some food once they themselves are satisfied. Soon after mid-July babies arrive on nearby bushes to be fed by their parents, in a day or two get right on the shelf, and before the first of August attempt to pick up crumbs. It is certainly amusing to see the parents stuff extra food into the little mouths.

In another week the children are practically all feeding themselves, alternately drinking and taking a bath in the water we always supply; but by then the adults are beginning to teach independence, shoving around their own darlings.

Charcoal Sketch by Robert C. Reed

P. D. Ross

For 63 years Philip Dansken Ross (1856-1949) was a figure in the public life of Canada, a tall, athletic man who carried his years lightly delighting in athletic sports and the musical phrases of poetry.

He was born in Montreal on New Year's Day and for all his life as publisher, editor, author and sportsman he had joy in the future and an enthusiasm for the new.

Of Scottish descent, he was a science student at McGill in 1875, edited the university paper and played on the football and hockey teams. He was an oarsman who won many honors, an expert gymnast, fencer and boxer. When he was 81 he played the 18 holes of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club "short course" (about four strokes under normal par) in 78. After his 82nd birthday he skipped his curling rink to eight successive victories.

He graduated as an engineer but within a few months he was city editor of the Montreal Star and with increasing responsibility in editorial chairs he served in Montreal and Toronto until 1886 when he bought a half-interest in The Ottawa Journal, borrowing most of the money. He wrote editorials, edited the news, became active in civic affairs and remained an enthusiastic sportsman. He was a moving spirit in the Lord Stanley Cup for hockey competition and remained a trustee of that trophy throughout his life.

A forceful speaker, he was an Ottawa alderman in 1902 and 1903 and was an unsuccessful Conservative candidate for the Ontario Legislature in 1904. When World War I came he became representative in Canada of the Royal Flying Clubs and was active in the Red Cross.

In 1891 Mr. Ross became the sole proprietor of The Journal and in 1917 the Ottawa Free Press, a popular evening newspaper, was merged with this property.

In 1905 he had a major role in establishing the Ottawa Hydro Electric Commission with Mayor J. A. Ellis, and was chairman 1945-48. The presidency of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association was held by him in 1920 and he was delegate to the London Imperial Press Conference in 1925.

He had intense loyalties, to his newspaper, his colleagues, his old university and his sports. He was a life long Conservative and he proudly recalled meetings with Sir John A. Macdonald. In 1931 he declined a suggestion that he become lieutenant-governor of Ontario; in the same year he published his memoirs and reflections in "Retrospects of a Newspaper Person." When he was 80 he gave several addresses over a national radio network on "Canadian Yugs and the Short Word."

When he died in 1949 he was the dean of Canadian journalism. A few months before the end he sold his associates on The Journal all his shares in the newspaper, anxious that its traditions should be in trusted hands. Former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who had been his friend despite differing political viewpoints, said of him in farewell that his public-spirited career had been "distinguished by its kindly and generous acts and its unfailing efforts to further public good."

Weddings

COLLYER—ATKINSON

In a double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Desmond Hunt in St. James' Anglican church, Kingston, Saturday afternoon, Miss Lillian Beth Atkinson, daughter of Mr. R. T. Atkinson of Kingston and the late Mrs. Atkinson, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Andrew Collyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Collyer, Lindsay.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Oliver Spencer.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. H. C. Atkinson, Belleville. She wore a ballerina length gown of white lace over pink taffeta, having a deep V neckline and long pointed sleeves. A matching pearl trimmed hat fell in place her chapel veil, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations centred with calla lillies, with trailing ivy.

Miss Virginia Brennan was the bride's attendant, wearing a ballerina length gown of pink embroidered nylon over taffeta, with blue sash, matching mitts and hat. She carried a bouquet of pink and white 'mums with rosettes.

Mr. Thomas Collyer of Belleville, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Howard Campbell, Kingston, and Mr. Gordon Bateman of Belleville.

A reception was held in the Sunday school hall, where the bride's aunt, Miss N. Dainty, received the guests wearing a blue crown of dusty rose crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing rose lace over taffeta with black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

For travelling through Eastern U.S.A., the bride wore an aqua linen suit under a beige duster, and has a corsage of pink roses. On her return Mr. and Mrs. Collyer will reside in Kingston.

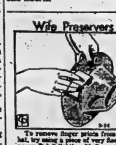
Out-of-town guests from Belleville, Lindsay, Brockville and Montreal, attended the wedding.

MOYSON — HALEY

The marriage of Kathleen Healy, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Healy, Belleville, England, and Mr. Joseph Moyson, of New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moyson, Bruges, Belgium, was solemnized in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Ridgetown, by the Rev. Father C. A. Pettit.

Spring bulbs and Easter lilies formed the setting for the marriage. Miss Jackie Hunt provided the wedding music, singing "Ave Maria," "On This Day" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the church with Mr. Albert Genyn. She wore a waltz-length dress of blue Swiss dotted nylon net over taffeta, with matching feathered hat and accessories, and carried a white prayer book with red roses and streamers.



The bridesmaid, Miss Cecilia Farrell, of Belleville, wore yellow nylon net over taffeta with matching hat and accessories, and carried a white prayer book adorned with white 'mums and ribbons.

For a wedding reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Genyn, guests were received by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ruby Pollard, of Belleville, who wore a navy gabardine suit with navy and white accessories, with a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Albert Genyn, wore a wine crepe dress with gold accessories, and a corsage of white roses.

The wedding dinner was served by several friends including Mrs. James Steward, Mrs. Robert Schmitchen, Mary Schmitchen, Anne Marzuk and Louise Schmitchen.

Following a wedding trip to Quebec City, Mr. and Mrs. Moyson will reside in New York City where the latter is a graduate of the Institute De Nayer, Malino, Belgium, is an electrical engineer with the Western Electric.

Guests were present from Baltimore, Ohio, New York City, Belleville, Wallaceburg, Chatham and Eberts.

Queen Mary Pr. Charles H-S Elects Officers

The April meeting of the Queen Mary - Prince Charles Home and School Association was held on Thursday evening with a good attendance of parents and teachers. Mrs. J. E. Pugh, president, presided and the minutes were read by Mrs. Keith Chambers, acting for the secretary, Mrs. E. Chappell, who is recovering from an accident. Miss Ironsides gave a most favorable treasurer's report.

Thanks were extended to Mr. F. A. Beeby, his convenors, and all who helped to make the recent Family Fair such an outstanding success. Congratulations were in order to Mr. H. R. Prink, principal of Queen Mary School, who recently passed his Inspectorship.

It was decided to contribute $10 to the Eighth Belleville Cub and Scout troop, which is sponsored by the Association, proceeds of the proceeds of the Family Fair will be divided between Queen Mary and Prince Charles Schools with $100 going to each.

The movie on outdoor speaker for the public address system. Mr. Pugh and Mr. Beeby reported on account of the various sessions of the District Council Conference held recently. While attending the convention Mrs. Woodley visited the Queen's Park and the Ontario Counties Memorial Library. Subjects covered at the convention were teen-age problems; nutrited the National House and the Canada's penal system, and the need for more problem officers.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Bruce Smith, of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for the coming year, the following were elected by acclamation: President, Mrs. F. E. Pugh; vice-president, Mrs. E. A. Chappell; second vice-president, Mrs. E. F. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. W. Tink; recording secretary, Mrs. D. K. Chambers; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. J. McClelland; five executive members, Mrs. G. W. Bowerman, Mrs. H. Hakes, Mrs. G. E. Adam, Mr. K. E. Parks and Mr. J. S. Fletcher.

Sheila Canning, attired in kilt and tam-o-shanter, entertained the gathering with a Scottish song.

Prize winners for Queen Mary School were Miss Wilson's class for the seniors and Miss Walkom's for the juniors. At Prince Charles School Mr. Campbell's class was the senior winners and Miss Johnston's the juniors.

A most interesting and entertaining film, "The Sociable Sixes and the Noisy Nines," was shown. This was followed by a spirited "buzz" session in which five groups thrashed out the problems seen in the film. Group leaders were: Mrs. Folwell, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Ramsbottom, Mr. J. E. Pugh and Mr. N. Tilker.

Delicious tarts and coffee were served by Mrs. Woodley, Mrs. Hume and Mrs. Fletcher.

B.P.W. Club Celebrates 5th Anniversary

The fifth birthday of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held in the form of a dinner party at the YMCA.

President Dorothy Brown conducted the meeting and former presidents of the organization sat at the head table, which was beautifully decorated and centred by a large birthday cake with five glowing candles.

Under the leadership of Vi Burwash the program committee kept the members in a festive mood by presenting the lovely favors at each plate were donated through the kindness of a local domestic company and a shirt company.

Between the agenda was kept to a minimum, and the gala evening came to a close with Celtic singing conducting an old fashioned square dance in the merriment of all members.

Going Places
Wise to Travel in Off Season

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Now that spring is pretty firmly established — give or take a few snowflakes around the country — a familiar form of spring fever pops out in with it. We call it travel schizophrenia.

This ailment affects everyone with an automobile and a free week-end. Its split personality symptoms are common: A-let's-get-out-in-this-beautiful-weather-and-go-someplace urge combines with an equally strong desire to go back to sleep. Usually the last thoughts before oblivion have something to do with the unlikelihood of taking a vacation in the spring.

Actually, this ailment crops up twice a year: in the fall as well as the spring. Perhaps it is some perinocial instinct that convinces man that the so-called off-seasons just aren't the times to get away. They are. It has to affect a cure for the disease, the travel industry has achieved only partial success. You can still get a room at the height of any newspaper and see resorts advertising out rates, carriers holding out tempting thrift tours, and everybody feverishly working that the drive will be a few months. Generally speaking, that's what they've got — few tourists only.

ONLY ONE DRAWBACK

To analyze it objectively, there seems to be one big psychological drawback to a spring vacation — the fact that all summer you'll have to do it again. Friends and neighbors planning their trips while all you can look forward to are a few cool evenings on the porch, thinking about the others traveling along the highway in heavier traffic looking for a motel with a "vacancy" sign.

Of course you can lick that by taking a week in the spring and another in the fall. Then start back, if you can stand the thought of two off-season vacations. But consider the advantages of such a course:

ADJUSTMENT DIFFICULTIES

First off, what could be more pleasant than giving in to spring fever (the layman's term for travel schizophrenia and nature's way of telling you need a vacation). Doctors are only beginning to realize that the reason so many of us become down with spring colds, virus infections, and powerful attacks of inertia is that we are run down and tired and need to shift gears from the high of winter to the inertia of summer. If you don't feel like working, that's nature's way of telling you it's best not to.

But sprawling out on the couch making yourself nervous by thinking of what you ought to be doing is no way of licking this problem. A relaxing sightseeing tour over uncluttered highways or by-ways in the sun at a comfortable resort might be.

Rates are so low everywhere that a heart's desire trip to a Miami Beach luxury hotel or a Caribbean cruise, which is usually beyond the out of reach is all except the wealthy and extravagant, may cost no more than that routine summer or winter holiday you were planning.

Even hotel rooms are generally cheaper and — what is more important — beer apt to be occupied. Popular tourist-pulling restaurants are uncrowded and most sightseeing attractions are open by early spring. You can travel as late as you like without worrying about getting a room, see all you want without waiting in line and eat in a place you like at a reasonable hour and before they're out of the best dishes. What have you got to lose?

ALL THE ADVANTAGES

In short, you've got all the advantages of an in-season vacation with none of the disadvantages. There's no danger of snow on the roads or open-water boat, the traffic is light, there are plenty of reservations, you can get waited on everywhere and price gouging is not yet the general rule.

The only thing is all you've got, why not try our travel-at-home plan? Pick out the sightseeing attractions within a day's drive of where you live and pretend you're a tourist on vacation, part of the country. You'd be amazed how interesting you can be in your own backyard.

(Q) "Our two and a half-year old daughter is subject to car sickness. We've read about your travel-sitter, with your youngster and wonder whether you've had any experience controlling this trouble."

—L. Alva, Detroit.

(A) Feeding children lightly until stopping for the day, and stopping for a stretch and a cold soft drink (which settles the stomach efficiently) may prevent the child feeling ill, all should help to relieve this distressing malady. A supply of oranges or grapefruit in the car will be handy too.

For other readers not familiar with the signs of car sickness in children, they are unpleasant, particularly noticeable on the lips, and nausea. We'll go into other aspects of this problem in the offspring in another column soon.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Holds Euchre Party

The first of a new series of euchres was held Thursday evening in St. Joseph's school hall. There were 16 tables in play, prize winners were, ladies' first, Mrs. Kay; second, Mrs. G. C.A.S. Directors Hold Meeting

Representatives of the city of Belleville, county of Hastings and the town of Trenton attended the recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society of which Mr. C. B. Mason presided.

In the absence of Mr. C. L. Hyde, the financial report from January to March inclusive was given by Mr. W. St. Pierre, secretary-treasurer, and approved by the members.

The president read lists of members on the various standing committees.

STATISTICAL REPORT

Mr. Bruce Kerr, local director, submitted a statistical report on the work of the agency during the last month. He also spoke of the coming conference of the Association of the Children's Aid Societies of Ontario, to be held in Toronto on May 19th and 20th. It was decided that two board members and two staff members would attend these meetings as delegates. Arrangements would be made for other members of the staff to attend the conference each day. There are 35 agencies in the Children's Aid Society in the province.

It was agreed that the date of the next meeting of the board would be held on May 28th, one week later than usual owing to the conference being on the third Thursday.

SHORT SUMMER COURSE

The Children's Aid Society has acquired the services of Miss Mande Watson on the staff, and has arranged for two workers to attend a short summer course at the University of Toronto School of Social Work in June.

The secretary announced the receipt of $50 from The Business and Professional Women's Club, which was acknowledged with the thanks of the board.

Holy Rosary P.T.A. Hears Interesting Talk

The April meeting of Holy Rosary Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday in the school with James Colligan presiding.

The Rev. Father M. Boylan opened the meeting.

Mrs. Bruce Brown introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Fedirka, former citizen of Lithuania. During World War II Mr. Fedirka was taken prisoner by the Germans and finally sent to a prison camp in northern Norway, from which he escaped to Canada. He now calls Belleville his home and has a son at Holy Rosary school.

The account of just a few of his experiences in Lithuania under the rule first of the Russians, then of the Germans, gave his audience a deep feeling of gratitude for the good life Canada offers its people.

VOTE TENDERED

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Fedirka was thanked on behalf of the members by the Rev. Sister M. Timothy.

The business meeting resumed with several committee heads giving their reports.

Mrs. Bruce Thompson informed that the cub pack had reached the limit of 24 cubs.

Mrs. Brown urged everyone to attend the May meeting when a splendid skit would be presented by some of the ladies.

C.S. CONFERENCE

President Colligan spoke briefly on the Catholic Education Conference which opened in Toronto and which was attended by himself, Mrs. Herbert Brown and Mrs. Marie Bell.

Mrs. Piperni was chosen chairman to handle the "Circulating Basket," Holy Rosary P.T.A. project for the year. It is hoped all parishioners and many others will participate in this project before the school term is finished.

Spotlight On Polio Vaccine

By NANCY CLEAVER

The spotlight is on the new polio vaccine, the greatest medical discovery in recent years, Dr. J. D. M. Griffen, the Director of the Mental Health Association recently pointed out that, "The child, on entering school, is still young enough, curious enough, and hopefully sane enough to learn not only the necessary basic skills, the three "R's", but also the facts about the world in which he lives."

Although much has been written and broadcast about Dr. Salk's discovery, perhaps the following information will be useful to farmers and mothers who are trying to answer their children's questions.

Dr. Jonas Edward Salk is the 40-year-old son of a U.S. immigrant garment worker. He is married and has three sons Peter 11, Darrell 7 and Jonathan 5½. His own children were inoculated in the first small group of people to be inoculated with the pink dead vaccine two and a half years ago. At that time many scientists feared it might cause polio instead of preventing it. But Dr. Salk had absolute faith in his own project.

AIMED AT DISEASE

He did not always know that medical research would be his vocation. His first dentistry job attracted him. In 1939 he graduated in medicine from New York University. Fortunately one of his professors, Dr. Thomas Frances Jr., was convinced that Dr. Salk would do a good job in research, and arranged a chemistry fellowship for him.

In 1947 this same professor recommended Dr. Salk for the position of director of virus research at the University of Pittsburgh lab. At first he worked on a vaccine for flu but at the end of two years turned his attention to the search for a polio vaccine. Three U.S. doctors had been successful in isolating the polio virus in a test tube.

Canada contributed to this discovery through the work of the Connaught Research Laboratories of Toronto. The federal government had set aside $83,000 for research for this work. Originally the fluid medium 199, was created for research in cancer under Dr. Raymond Parker's direction. The Connaught lab supplied 90 per cent of the virus for production of the vaccine in U.S. and it has manufactured enough vaccine for 400,000 children. This has been distributed to all the Canadian provinces.

MONKEYS' TENDON TISSUE

The polio virus is grown in small pieces of monkey kidney tissue which is placed in a synthetic in 61 chemicals. India is the home of the Rhesus monkeys needed for the polio-killing Salk vaccine. Recently 400 of these monkeys died at a Delhi laboratory and India placed a ban on their export. This is being relaxed. The kidney from one monkey is sufficient to produce 2,000 shots of vaccine. Approximately 15,000 monkeys were used in the Salk research project.

Dr. Salk disclosed that the best way to give inoculations was two injections within five weeks and the third within seven months. Mild or adverse reactions are almost completely lacking. Under half a per cent of children suffered minor reactions.

This vaccine is between 80 to 90 per cent effective in preventing paralytic polio. This fact means that the chances of children in a group of 100,000 of getting paralytic polio has dropped from 40 to eight. In the 1954 Canada Year Book, the reported deaths from epidemic polio in a recent year (1951) were 2,382.

The chances of catching polio are greatest in the ages, from five to nine years; children under five come next and those from 10 to 14 years third. Over 17 per cent of the cases come in this first age group when children are attending the lower grades of public school; over 34 per cent of pre-school youngsters; and 15 per cent of boys and girls from 10 to the middle teens are among the total polio cases.

AVAILABLE TO ALL

Last year the mass tests of Salk's vaccine were carried out in Canada, U.S. and Finland. Immediately after the vaccine was announced, President Eisenhower directed that the formula be made available to all manufacturers. Information (not the vaccine) was at once sent to the seventy-five U.S. missions.

Great medical discoveries, once they are tested and proved, are never kept secret. They are a gift to humanity. No Iron Curtain, or any other wall keeps them from the men and women, the boys and girls in other countries. As Pasteur in 1888, when his Institute was opened, truly said:

"Science in obeying the law of humanity will always labor to enlarge the frontiers of life."

GOOD MANNERS

A "HUNT" ABOUT REPLYING TO INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: Please settle our discussion about this question: When one receives an invitation written on an informal, 4" by 5" example, a Sunday buffet supper or to a very small tea, and the invitation carries no R.S.V.P. or other request for a reply, is it necessary to send a reply?—Patricia.

It is a definite "must" that you send a reply to an invitation when it is in the form that one receives at guests is a consideration. And this makes sense, whether or not you are asked to send a reply . . . the hostess wants to know the numbers of guests to provide for. This is true, of course, for a buffet supper, for a very small tea, for a bridge party, and so forth. As a matter of fact, many courteous people reply to any invitation whether or not a request is made for a reply to it. It's a charming habit, much appreciated by a hostess.

THE TROUSSEAU TEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: Please give me complete information on the giving of a trousseau tea. Thank you.

The trousseau tea is the gay, informal occasion at which the bride-to-be shows her trousseau to relatives and friends and presents to her intimate friends.

Wedding gifts, as well are not shown, and usually not the going-away costume. This tea is usually given by the bride's mother before the wedding. Invitations are by telephone or informal notes and guests not invited. The bride's mother and the bride stand together to receive the guests, and sometimes the groom's mother is invited to receive with them. The wedding and gifts should be grouped and arranged for display as artistically and effectively as possible. The bride-to-be invites several of her young friends to be "assistants" to direct or escort the guests to the rooms where the trousseau and presents are being displayed. A simple tea-menu is served.

SMALL PAPER NAPKINS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: When a small paper tea-napkins are used at a large tea — for example, a tea given in a church social hall—should one unfold the napkin halfway or not at all?

As you wish, as you find most convenient.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

TAKE IT EASY; YOU'LL LIVE LONGER; LOOK BETTER

Today let us consider the overconscientious woman who drives herself to the point of fatigue, who thinks of everybody — family, relatives, friends, the cat and the dog —and never of herself, her comfort or appearance. She regards herself as a saint and a martyr and it is tough-going living with her.

She does an injustice to herself and her loved ones, because her mind dwells always on her duties and obligations. Her endeavour is to be perfectionist, to keep her house in perfect order, she is spent and pretty cross by the time it's table.

The man who has a jolly wife who laughs a lot and isn't fighting dirt every waking moment has a more tranquil, happier life than the poor guy whose "cell-mate" is a tired-eyed drudge who spends silverware shining but bawls him out when he drops ashes on the floor.

Our demon housekeeper is the kind who will go without a permanent wave so she can buy new curtains for the dining room she's down. She should realize that the mistress of the home should be its chief ornament. How can she be that if her head looks like last year's bird nest?

The personality of the wife and mother is reflected in the home atmosphere. For it is she, usually, who is the balance wheel. It is her patience to keep things just that bit well ahead. If she does not remember her life so as to leave some time for pleasure, she is in for frustration.

Work and worry and no play will bring on all manner of beauty problems—dull eyes, dull spirits, wrinkles, grey hair, dragging heels.

Beds must be made, meals cooked, youngsters looked after, of course. But the smart woman will take housework in her stride, will find time to keep herself looking her best—always.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IS HER MOTHER "OLD-FASHIONED" OR RIGHT?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 14, and my mother thinks 14 is too young to go to a show with a boy. She approves of hay rides and proms and so forth, but will not let me go on movie dates. She knows I can be trusted, because we have talked things over like petting, and she knows I never indulge in it.

I never fight with her about this matter, but we frequently talk about it, and I have told her over and over again that I am about the only girl in high school who is not allowed to date. My other friends frequently ask me to double-date with them for a Friday or Saturday night movie, but I always have to refuse.

My mother and grandmother think my mother is being old-fashioned, but I insists she is not. Do you think she is right that I should wait until I'm 16 or 17 before starting to date?—MISS. Dear M.K.:

Frankly, I agree with your father and grandmother on this subject of your dating.

Of course, I wouldn't approve of your going out on dates that would be unchaperoned at night, nor of dates on school nights, nor of your going out with boys your parents do not know. But I certainly think a double-date to a movie on a Friday or Saturday night should be allowed, as well as at other reasonable times.

As I have often suggested before, it sometimes helps a girl to have this sort of problem, if the boy who wants to take her out asks her mother, very politely and courteously, if he may do so. He would, of course, say exactly where he wanted to take her and ask what time her mother wished her to be home. If a boy is as thoughtful as that, sometimes it is safe to do this, there are few parents who would not be willing to give their permission.

I suggest that you explain the situation frankly to your friends, and ask them if they won't cooperate in such a plan.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

NOTE OF RELIEF:

Some of you may not think so but I am getting caught up with my answers to you and I think it is safe to say that by the time you read this the backlog of mail will all be answered, for on April 14, Herbie and Marianne leave from Montreal by plane for England. Then I can concentrate on you and you alone. Please remember to enclose stamped envelopes and names and addresses so I can answer by direct mail whether you request it or not; this column does not have enough space for all of my answers to you you know.

LETTER:

It was kind of you to send another letter using your own name. Hope you don't mind if I return it, along with Bill's fee Cream Sponge—Sincerely Yours, Lois. Look in the frig. there you find about 1-3 can good peaches. Put them in a saucepan, juice too. Add a little sugar, some cinnamon. Boil gently while mother changes the baby and father shells pistachio nuts to add to sauce. Serve hot. (Side note: Cool what or who? Mother, father, baby or sauce?!) Pour over vanilla ice cream. Result—sparkle in eyes of a 7-year-old—and a surprise to mother. Good, too. (Especially the pistachios.) —W. I.

ANSWER:

A great big thank you—especially for the part of your letter which I didn't see fit to use. Wedding news was satisfactory.

QUESTION:

Your column is always a source of interest . . . the Banana Cream Pie and Angel Food turned out well and were truly delicious. Now I have heard a lot about Feather Buns but have been unable to locate the recipe and wonder whether you have it in your collection. Should you come across it I should appreciate your mailing it.—Winnifred B.

ANSWER:

I'm curious about that recipe too, but do not have one called Feather Buns. I have one called Feather or Almond Puffs. I've decided to give it to you and then wait for my loyal readers to send in the recipe for Feather Buns—they always respond to these SOS appeals so in about a month's time keep your eyes open.

FEATHER OR ALMOND PUFFS

To 1-3 cup lukewarm water add 1 teaspoon sugar and sprinkle over 1 package granular yeast. Let stand 10 minutes without stirring. Mix together in large bowl 1-4 cup less 1 tablespoon lukewarm milk, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt. Stir the foamy yeast into them. Add 1 large egg and 1-4 cup soft shortening or an unrefined and soft butter and beat 10 strokes, then add 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour and beat for another 100 strokes (this takes the place of kneading). Scrape dough down from sides of bowl. (You may prefer to mix with a wooden spoon instead of using hands.) Blanch and chop 3-3 cup almonds and add 1-8 cup of them to the batter. Cover batter with damp cloth and let rise at 85 deg. Fahr. until doubled (in bulk—about 1 to 2-4 or 3 hours, now beat 30 strokes. Drop spoonfuls of batter into greased deep-fat fin cups filling 1-3 full. Sprinkle tops with Almond Sugar mixture made of 2-3 tablespoons sugar and the remaining almonds. Let rise until double—about 35 minutes this time and, bake at 375 deg. Fahr for 15 to 20 minutes. Serve warm. This amount will make 24 small or 12 large puffs.

Anybody coming to my rescue with the Feather Buns?

Fashion Plays Big Part At IODE Meetings

HAMILTON (CP)—Fashion plays a big part at the Ontario provincial annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Even Hamilton Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson, welcoming the 1,000 delegates to the three-day annual meeting Thursday, was moved to comment on "all the Easter finery."

A conversazione opened proceedings. Mrs. W. A. Nesbitt of Fort William, said she had no idea the order was so clothes conscious.

Mrs. Nesbitt, a regent of the Lake Superior chapter of the IODE said attending a provincial meeting is something like appearing on television.

SOMETHING NEW

"The officers wear something new or different for each appearance."

Mrs. Nesbitt herself represented northern Ontario looking bright and cheerful in a navy and white suit-dress with red skimmer, jewellery and stole.

Among other well-dressed delegates was Mrs. Arthur Whatton of Oshawa, wearing a black straw hat with a red rose in back. She wore a red full length cashmere coat over a grape crepe jacket-dress. Mrs. James F. Williams of Kingston, another newcomer to annual meetings, found that "the smart clothes sometimes enliven a rather dull report session." She was dressed in a grey suit, crisp white blouse and a white cocktail hat decorated with a long dramatic black quill.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Mrs. Bruce Gore and two children, Sturgeon Falls, spent several days during the holiday week with her sister, Mrs. Gerald Huff, Mr. Huff and family. Gordon Mallery, Picton, spent a few days at the same home with his friend, Larry Huff.

Little Miss Dianne Foster is recuperating at home following a tonsillectomy at the County Hospital, on Friday.

Last Saturday, Mrs. William McGee and Miss Norma Foster attended a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack May, Union Vale, on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. May's silver wedding anniversary.

The Live Women's Circle held a successful food sale at the market on Saturday morning.

Several of the young folk attended the Junior farmers' dance at Bloomfield town hall on Friday evening.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. Walter Taylor in the death of her brother, Mr. Royal Nelson.

Mr. Morley Isteed and a number of helpers are busy transplanting at his greenhouse.

WOULD HIT ADVERTISING

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Representative John Rankin, (D.-Miss.) Wednesday introduced a bill to bar "excessive" advertising on any or television program. He said the public is fed up with "repetitious, monotonous, excessively long advertising." His bill would direct the Federal Communications Commission to say how much time on any program could be used for ads.

Wellington on the Lake

WELLINGTON PARK

Under the magic influence of spring and the work of the capable caretaker, Wellington Park is assuming an attractive appearance. This park by the lakeside is one of the finest not only as a picnic spot but as a place of rest and relaxation for weary residents and shoppers. No town is complete at the present time without a restful summer park. It takes the place of the green benches in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas visited Mrs. Augustus MacDonald of Cconnecon, in Kingston hospital on Monday.

Miss Marjorie Blakely with Mrs. Harry Carley and Mrs. Ernest Bond spent Monday in Belleville.

MR. STANLEY THOMPSON

Mr. Stanley Thompson, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Hillier passed away very suddenly at his home on April 14. Surviving are his wife, formerly Pearl Trumpour, and a daughter, Mrs. Flint (Marjorie) of Toronto, who have the sympathy of many friends. The funeral service was conducted in the Ainsworth Funeral Home with the Rev. C. P. Heaven and the Rev. Alfred Poulter in charge. Interment was made in Wellington cemetery.

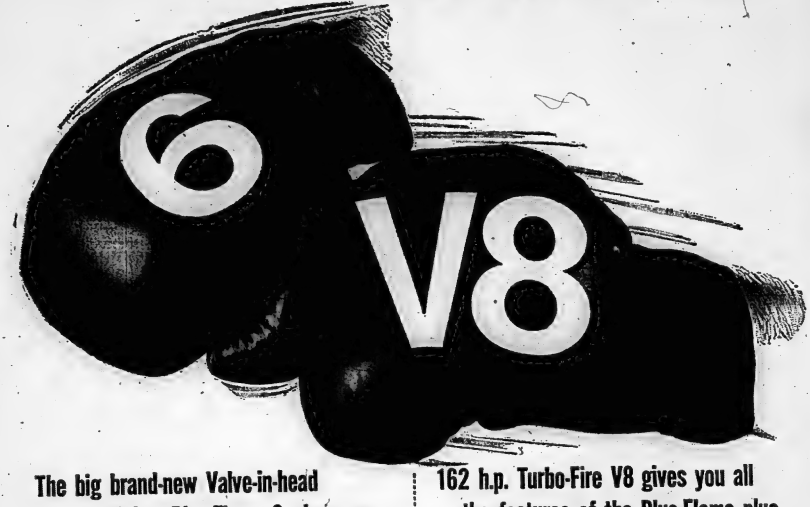
Mr. and Mrs. Lewis McFaul have returned to their home in Wellington after spending the winter in Belleville.

Miss Helen Arthur, Belleville, who recently returned home after spending the winter in Florida spent Monday in Wellington, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Leona Whyte of Trenton. With Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Miss E. Blakely they enjoyed dinner at the Lido.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham, who have purchased the residence of Miss Aylesworth adjoining Graham's, expect to move to their new home May 1. As the capable hostess of Grahamanor resort, Mrs. Graham will be greatly missed.

Mr. and Mrs. Oram Thomas of Michigan, are guests of Mr. Thomas' mother, Mrs. Charles Thomas.

Mr. Walter Hubbs and son of Cedar Springs attended the funeral of the late Mr. Ernest Hubbs.



The crocuses, purple and white, are now in bloom, one of the early signs of spring.

SCHOOL AGAIN

Trooping by with laugh and shout
See the children come,
Note to sound of bugle call
Nor to beat of drum,
But to school bell's merry chime
Keeping step in tuneful time.

The campus is again filled with restless youth, but the flooded field that served for skating and hockey, is now replaced by the green of growing grass which will soon be trodden in their summer sports.

Only Chevrolet packs a one-two punch!

The big brand-new Valve-in-head 136 h.p. Blue-Flame 6 gives you—

1. A COMPRESSION RATIO of 7.5 to 1. This brings great new economy to the Blue-Flame 6 — a Chevrolet engine already famous for low-cost, sparkling power.
And with this engine you can have Synchro-Mesh, *Powerglide or *Overdrive transmissions. *Optional at extra cost.

2. A 12-VOLT ELECTRIC SYSTEM. Exclusive with Chevrolet in the low-priced three, it ensures faster, surer starts on cold mornings and faultless performance at high speeds. It gives ample voltage for all today's power features.

3. HYDRAULIC VALVE-LIFTERS. These, teamed with Chevrolet's exclusive independent valve trains, provide quieter, more positive valve action at all speeds than the conventional type used by competition. Another high-priced feature now on low-priced Chevrolet!

4. POWER-RESPONSE COOLING, which operates so efficiently that the water pump and fan are able to turn much more slowly, greatly reducing the noise level of your engine—and adding years and miles of extra life to your cooling system.

5. A FLOATING OIL PICK-UP INTAKE which picks up cleaner oil from the top of the oil level in the crankcase. This feature greatly prolongs engine life by helping to keep abrasives in the oil out of the working parts of the engine.

1915 1955

6. 40 YEARS OF VALVE-IN-HEAD LEADERSHIP. Therefore, it stands to reason that Chevrolet would offer the most efficient, most durable design on the market. And don't forget, valve-in-head has proven best wherever gasoline engines are used.

162 h.p. Turbo-Fire V8 gives you all the features of the Blue-Flame plus—

1. A NEW SHORTER PISTON STROKE. Now the pistons travel far less distance per mile — about 1 mile less in every 12 you travel. Naturally this means far less engine wear and lighter loads on the bearings—causing amazing new engine durability.

2. A HIGH-TURBULENCE COMBUSTION CHAMBER. It's designed to cause the air to whirl in a cyclone speed in the chamber. The result is a far more thorough mixture of gas vapour and air during combustion—giving you greater gasoline mileage.

3. CONTROLLED FULL-PRESSURE LUBRICATION, which uses nearly a quart less oil than old splash-type systems. And under pressure the oil is forced to every working part of the engine, protecting it completely with a slippery, non-wearing surface.

8 to 1

4. A NEW ULTRA-HIGH COMPRESSION RATIO of 8 to 1. This feature puts Chevrolet's Turbo-Fire V8 in the performance class of high-priced cars. You'll feel the result of this higher compression the instant you press your foot down on Chevrolet's accelerator.

5. THE LIGHTEST ENGINE in the low-priced three*. Thorough engineering has eliminated all the deadweight and unnecessary bulk—both factors which drain the *rated horsepowers of competitive cars. "Turbo-Fire" weighs only 443 lbs.! Compare that with any other.

180

6. 1A SUPER-POWER PACKAGE, which boosts the horsepower of the "Turbo-Fire" V8 to 180 —and results in a brilliant type of performance that's absolutely unbelievable in the low-priced field. If you're looking for action, this is it!
†Optional at extra cost.

WON'T BE LONG NOW

A week from today or yesterday begins the big exodus.

And bright and early Saturday morning, April 30, the boys will be whipping northern streams and lakes for the wily trout. The powers-that-be have granted an extra day this season, but Friday night the trout haunts will be inhabited—but plenty.

All next week that great fraternity of anglers will be readying fishing gear in preparation for the big day. They will be out at the crack o' dawn and if luck holds many a toothsome morsel will be sizzling in skillets before Ole Sol is too high in the heavens.

Let the gourmets eat their highfalutting dishes. Let the gods of Olympus quaff their nectar and, digest their ambrosia. Let the bloodsheds defy with quail or pheasant under glass and the not-so fortunate gnaw on thick juicy steaks.

We will settle for a few eight or nine-inch brook trout, fried a golden brown over a wood fire on the shore of a lake. Brother "you ain't lived" until you have smelled the heavenly aroma that assails your nostrils as the fussy delicacies sizzle in the pan, or the crowning moment when they lie in all their golden brown beauty on a plate.

Have all the fun you like. Get your quota. But don't forget there is a book of words by which your fishing activities are governed. And if you transgress the law there are gentlemen in khaki wearing badges "Lands and Forests Department." They are good guys—easy to get along with. They will help you with your problems. But if you misbehave insofar as fishing regulations go—they can make it mighty unpleasant for you.

So, remember, if you are going after rainbow, brown, aurora and Kamloops trout, you are entitled to haul in five in one day. They must not be less than seven inches in length.

If the speckled beauties are your main angling dish, bear this fact in mind. You may catch one and an additional 24 per day providing the additional 24 in the aggregate weigh not more than ten pounds (except in Elgin, Middlesex counties), where you can land one and an additional nine provided the nine weigh not more than five pounds. And in any case the length must be not less than seven inches. And the possession limit must not exceed one day's catch.

So much for the trout.

If you want the elusive pickerel you must wait until May 14 which comes on Saturday and gives you another day's jump on the official season. And here is some special news for pickerel and perch fishermen.

As an experiment, there will be no length limit on yellow pickerel or perch taken by angling anywhere in Ontario this year. This is in accordance with amendments to the Ontario Game and Fish Regulations effective in 1955.

"The no-length limit on pickerel is on a trial or experimental basis and anglers and sportsmen are requested to study the conditions carefully and report the results of their observations next fall to their local Department of Lands and Forests officers," Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, Chief of the Division of Fish and Wildlife, announced.

The limit for anglers on yellow pickerel was six in one day, not less than 14 inches in length in Lake Erie and not less than 12 inches in length in other waters. For perch, the length limit was not less than nine inches in the St. Lawrence River and tributaries east of Robideaux Bay in Cornwall township. No length was specified in other waters.

Now for the rest of the piscatorial family. The black bass season opens as usual in this district on the first Saturday in December 15. You will be able to hook muskies starting July 1 and ending October 15. You can get speckles, brown, aurora, and Kamloops trout up to September 15 and rainbows till November 30 in this area. The pickerel season extends to March 31 in the Bay of Quinte. There is no closed season on pike. There is no length limit on these fish except in Concession Lake where it is specified as not less than 22 inches.

And if you happen to hook a big sturgeon, call it a day. That is all you are allowed to take. No closed season. And remember no person can fish after October 31st in the counties of Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria, the Trent River, Lake Scugog and Dalrymple, Lake or Beaver Creek, Crow Lake or the Crow River in Hastings County, or Algonquin Park. So see the regs.

You can take six black bass in one day not less than eleven inches in length while you are entitled to a pair of muskies not to measure less than 30 inches in length. The length is measured from the tip of the head (jaws closed) to the tip of the tail with the lobes compressed.

And don't say you were not told.

TO SANCTION BOUT

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—The Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation will sanction a light heavyweight title bout between Canadian Yves Durelle of Baie D'Espoir, N.B. and middleweight Holly Mims, Chicago, Ill., for the Canadian Charlie Chase of Montreal. Promoter Jack Corbett announced Tuesday. Mims is rated by the CBWF as No. 2 in the world in his class. Durelle is rated No. 1 in Canada. Mims has won 57, lost 3, drawn 2 and has had 53 knockouts.

FATTY TO MEET ROSE

PARIS (AP)—Budge Patty of Los Angeles, Calif., easily tallied the finals of the Paris international indoor tennis tournament Friday by defeating Herbert Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, 6-1. Patty's foil for will be Mervyn Rose of Australia, who came from behind to down Paul Rouzy of France 2-7, 1-6, 6-3, 8-6, 6-3.

Brooks Had 'Em Until Eighth When Durochermen Score 5; Chicago Has Percentage Lead

By The Associated Press

Right in the middle of Brooklyn's record winning streak, when the question was "What's with the Dodgers?", a gent named Tom Sheehan was asked "What's up with the Giants?"

The world champion New Yorkers had just lost a Sunday doubleheader to Philadelphia and had an atrocious 1-5 record. Sheehan, sitting amid the gloom of the Giants' clubhouse at the Polo Grounds, tossed off the two defeats of the day like two fingers of bonded stuff.

"All I say is for everybody just to wait a while until class begins to show. Hell, this is a good ball club. Nuts to Brooklyn. We'll catch up with the Dodgers next weekend at Ebbets Field. Then we'll start to roll."

Thus far, Mr. Sheehan looks like a pretty fair prophet. But then prophesy is his business. He's a scientific type of fellow.

LOOKED GOOD

The Giants made him look good Friday night, coming on for five runs in the eighth to knock the Brooks off their 9-game streak 5-4.

New York won't be able to overhaul the Dodgers in this series, however. Rainouts have left them lagging nine games behind. But they could put Brooklyn in danger of being dethroned when the St. Louis Cardinals or Milwaukee Braves.

The Cards gained a second place tie—three games back—with the Braves Friday night, beating Milwaukee 2-1 on Brooks Lawrence's five-hitter.

In other National League games: Philadelphia scored five in the ninth to beat Pittsburgh 5-4 and Chicago whacked Cincinnati 6-3.

In the American League, Chicago took a percentage lead over Boston, Detroit and New York in a jam up for first place. The White Sox, with a 5-2 record, beat Kansas City 5-3 Friday night, while Cleveland beat Detroit 8-5. New York defeated Boston 3-0 in the afternoon. The Red Sox, Indians and Yankees have 6-3 records.

Washington edged Baltimore in the other AL night game 3-2.

BROOKS TROUBLES

Brooklyn had a 3-0 lead going into the eighth after the Giants missed with the bases loaded in the seventh. But New York loaded 'em again against Johnny Podres and when Don Mueller singled two home, Jim Hughes came on in relief. Whitey Lockman smacked him for a double that brought home two more and made it a five-run inning as rookie Don Zimmer's error let in the Dodger dugout.

Del Ennis capped Philadelphia's winning rally, smacking a three-run homer off reliefer Roger Bowman. Bob Purkey, who had two hits the Pirate until the ninth, left after a double, a triple and a walk.

Whitey Ford continued his masterful work for the Yankees, making Boston his second straight shutout victim. He now has a string of 21 scoreless innings going, while winning three decisions. Hank Bauer and Yogi Berra homered. Gerry Coleman, Yank second baseman, suffered a collarbone fracture in a home plate collision. He'll be out from six to eight weeks.

Cleveland made the most of three hits, two walks and an error to score five times in the third for Bob Lemon's third triumph. Larry Doby hit a two-run homer for the Indians. Fred Hatfield and Ray Boone homered off Lemon, who needed Ray Narleski's help in the eighth.

REMEMBER WHEN

Cockell said that from what he has heard, foul fighting is Marciano's "favorite style."

"He appears like a very decent chap and everyone impresses me on what a nice fellow he is, but at the same time they say he forgets his bloody manners once he gets in the ring and then is a bloomin' foul fighter. I hear he hits low, hits on the break and hits in the clinches and that he also uses his head like a bloody billy goat.

Feeling in Various Quarters National League Pressure Caused Boucher Retirement

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Was National Hockey League pressure brought to bear on New York Rangers to get rid of Frank Boucher as manager?

Frank Selke, managing director of Montreal Canadiens, said he is "positive" there wasn't.

However, Boucher, whose resignation Friday ended almost 20 years with the Rangers, said he wasn't sure.

"I know that I found it was very difficult to make deals during the season," said the former scientific boss great. "It could have been because the good clubs didn't want to let good players go. It might have been the other reason."

Selke, asked his comment on Boucher's resignation and the appointment of Muzz Patrick, Ranger coach, to succeed him as manager, insisted it was "not a league matter."

SEVERAL THINGS

However, speculation that the other NHL clubs had something to do with it was heightened by several things. For one, the switch came while Selke and New York and was announced after he had talked with Brig.-Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick, Rangers governor, and Jim Norris, boss of Chicago Black Hawks.

Another thing was that the first speculation on the possibility of Boucher resigning originated in Montreal three days before the announcement was made here.

This suggests that if other NHL owners didn't dictate the move, some of them at least were kept informed of developments.

Reports that the NHL governors wanted Boucher out began circulating around Montreal after the Boston received player help from the top three teams, Detroit, Montreal and Toronto, while the Rangers got nothing. There was talk that they wanted Boucher out of the way before they would negotiate with the Rangers.

"I have no proof they were working against me," Boucher said in an interview Friday night. "I just don't know. It was a big disappointment in not being able to build up a team and it's only fair to let somebody else try for a change."

Boucher said he probably never didn't indicate whether he knew why the NHL bosses might be against him, if that were the case.

Kilpatrick, who several years ago refused to accept Boucher's resignation after the team failed to make the playoffs, accepted it this time with what a statement described as "deep regret."

It was evident that Boucher was generally disillusioned. "Maybe it will be a relief for me to get out of New York and the bottom up," he said.

HOPES TO STAY

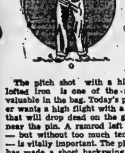
Boucher, however, that he hopes to stay in hockey in some capacity. He plans to leave for his farm home in Metcalfe, Ont., in a few days.

Boucher's career is virtually the story of hockey in New York. He played on the first Ranger team in 1926 and was the first player named as the centre on the great line with Bill and Bun Cook. He won the Lady Byng Trophy seven times for effective and sportsmanlike play and was the first player to display was given to him permanently.

Boucher was signed by the Rangers when they last won the Stanley Cup in 1940. At the time the team finished first under his direction but in the next 13 seasons only three appearances in the playoffs only twice and were never higher than fourth.

As manager, succeeding Lester Patrick, Boucher directed an effective farm system for the club but his money deals and player trades were not quite enough to make it a contender.

Now the job goes to Muzz Patrick, 39-year-old former Ranger defenceman and son of Lester, who moves up after a year and a half as coach.



FULL AUTHORITY

Kilpatrick emphasized that Patrick will have full authority over players, the farm system, scouting and the appointment of a coach in second hitch. There has been speculation that Phil Watson, former Ranger now coaching the club but his money deals and player trades were not quite enough to make it a contender.

The Rangers are reported moving now at trying to build a contender. Whether the other clubs might be called upon to help was not known. However, the NHL has indicated in the last few seasons that it wants to develop a well-balanced league and it may be necessary for the other teams to give up more than they get in order to strengthen the losers.

Selke, asked about this, said the Rangers "are working on their problems" although he added that "they have nothing to trade" and Montreal has "nothing to sell."

Sam Snead's Golf School

The pitch shot with a highly lofted iron is one of the most valuable in the bag. Today's player wants a high flight with a ball that will drop dead on the green near the pin. A rammed left arm — but without much tension — is vitally important. The player has made a short backswing and is now swinging down to the ball. The ball seems a little too far forward for this shot from the fairway but it's largely because of the angle from which our article drew the picture. I'd like to see this player's heels a little closer together but the left foot is open properly and the right foot is well positioned a little nearer to the direction line than the left so that it prevents too much pivot in the backswing. And I urge you now as you study these pictures to note what is good and what is bad about them. Be critical. Form your own judgments. And this will build up a set of images in your mind that will help you to better golf.

Frank Boucher Offered Post In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Boucher, who resigned Friday as general manager of the National Hockey League New York Rangers, will be offered the position of managing director of a proposed Toronto civic stadium.

Joseph H. Keenan, leader of a movement to bring the Grey Cup classic back to Toronto, made the announcement Friday night. At the same time he said he will submit stadium plans to Mayor Nathan Phillips today.

He will ask the city to donate a portion of Riverdale Park in east Toronto for construction of a 30,-000-seat, $2,250,000 stadium.

The stadium will be u-shaped and fully equipped for all field and track sports. Its promoters suggest financing the stadium by forming a private company headed by Toronto enterprises. Directors would be Boucher, representatives of four leagues and two city aldermen.

SPORTS REPRESENTATION

Joe Ryan, of Toronto, farmer manager of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four football Union, has agreed to represent football. William Simpson, president of the Toronto and District Soccer Council, will act for soccer and Jim Worral, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, has been invited to represent track and field.

Others will be named later.)

According to Keenan's suggestions, based on a similar plan for the new Winnipeg stadium, the city will lease the property to the company at $1 per year for 30 years. The company will issue $2,250,000 of 30-year 4½ per cent bonds guaranteed by the city.

Patrano Battles Willie Troy To 10-Round Draw

CHICAGO (AP) — Willie Patrano, 19-year-old boxer from Beverly Beach, Fla., battled to a 10-round draw with seasoned Willie Troy of New York at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Two officials called the hard-hitting, naturally-reversed scrap a deadlock and the third, judge Spike McAdams, voted for Patrano 95-30. The two deadlocked ballots, 96-96 by referee Frank Fullmer and 96-94 by Judge Ed Hardy made it an official draw.

Patrano weighed 186 and Troy 186½.

An erroneous impression that Patrano was on points was given on television. Patrano's classy left worked deftly throughout the bout, but Troy hammered away savagely late in the scrap.

Solmar Notes

How Important Is Color?

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(United Sportsmen, Fishing and Chase of Solmar Tables)

Among the ranks of the trout fishermen is a school of perfectionists, to whom this news story no doubt will be rank heresy. The faith to whom I refer believe that a batch of drifting insects on a trout stream should be matched by the artificial fly as exactly as possible, both as to color and size, for the angler to have any hope of success.

Time was when I used to think along these same lines. My fly boxes in my fishing jacket were crammed with hundreds of "exact imitations" without which I would have considered myself lost. Gradually, however, my thinking concerning trout flies has undergone a gradual but radical change.

Many years ago I was fishing a delightful little stream in New York State called Pine Brook. This is a tributary of the East Branch of the Delaware River and for days it held a liberal supply of wild brown trout (as distinguished from our present day hatchery variety).

A SEARCH FOR FLIES

As I approached a long, flat pool, I saw that the trout were rising actively to a batch of small gray flies. Remembering Rule No. 1 A search of my fly box revealed not a single thing which would match that batch for size and color.

I tried several larger patterns without success. The fish kept on rising but they took only the naturals and ignored my attempts completely. At last, more in desperation than anything else, I tied on No. 16 Coachman. Cast and put that up over the pool. At once I was fast to a very respectable trout. With the same fly I took eight fine trout from that single pool, all of which had been feeding on tiny gray May flies.

You know, of course, that a Royal Coachman looks like nothing in this world save another Royal Coachman. The color reason, it is a good, dependable trout fly. That day, as many a day I had duplicated the size of the hatch, I caught fish, regardless of matching color.

FISH NOT COLOR BLIND

For a time there was an opinion, held by many, that fish are color-blind. Now it has been rather conclusively shown that fish can distinguish colors. Some colors appear to themselves but varying shades of color. Some colors appeal to fish; others do not.

I used to have a friend who lived in Philadelphia named Lee Allen. Lee is not with us now but I have no doubt that he is fishing happily the crystal streams which flow through Valhalla. In addition to being a charming personality, he was a meticulous fisherman.

Lee had a theory, all his own, and he worked at it. He believed that a good, time-tested, standard pattern — just one — was all that a man needed to catch trout. Deploring the size of the hatch and color was secondary, always providing that the fly used was a proven fish-getter. His fly boxes were jammed with Lead-wing Coachman flies in sizes ranging from No. 2 to No. 18 — wet, dry, streamer, nymph, and bucktail.

At that time I did not see eye-to-eye with Lee. We used to argue about it in the main room of the Rapids Hotel at Analomink, Pennsylvania, after a busy day on Brodhead's Creek. Regardless of beliefs and theories, however, I noticed that Lee came in with better catches than most.

Now, some 30 years later, I have come around to Lee's way of thinking.

DESIGNED OWN PATTERN

We, my son and I, have cooked up a pattern — really a series of flies and patterns — called the Knight-hawk. A good many years were spent in the study of color. Burnt orange, we find, has great appeal. So has the reddish-brown of the breast of a Rhode Island Red rooster, the same hackle that is used in any of the standard Coachman patterns. Black or very dark brown is good.

By now we use a trout fly that has a dark brown (almost black) wing of brown mallard; a body of burnt orange, ribbed with gold; reddish-brown hackle and tail. As I say, we call it the Knighthawk.

With this one in an assortment of sizes I find that we can do every bit as well as we used to with hundreds of patterns. To be sure, the fly does not always catch fish. What fly does? But seldom, if ever, do we have a blank day on the stream.

Just for the fun of it, try duplicating size but use when a batch is drifting, disregarding color but remembering to use an accepted trout-proven pattern. I'm wagering that you are in for a surprise.

Meaford Edges Tillsonburg 2-1

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — A last-minute goal by John Macdonald gave Meaford Knights a 3-1 victory over Tillsonburg Pan-Orioles in the fourth game of the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A final Friday night.

The best-of-seven series now is tied 2-2. Fifth game will be played at Tillsonburg Monday.

Macdonald scored off passes from brother Charlie and captain Ray McCallum. Barney Walmsley added the first period goal for Knights.

Bob Bowman scored Tillsonburg's single at 8:39 of the third period on a pass from playing-coach Bill Stupp.

The game was played before 2,200, biggest of the season here.

Sugar Kings, Jets Still Unbeaten; Toronto Loses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A change of scenery and name apparently were just what the doctor ordered for the International League team playing at Columbus under the name of the Jets.

Last year as the Athletics playing in Ottawa, the team finished deep in the cellar. The picture is different today, however, with Jets unbeaten in three games, Only Cuban Sugar Kings, with four wins in as many starts, are above them in the standings.

Jets completed a sweep of their first series Friday night, defeating Rochester Red Wings 7-1.

UNFINISHED GAME

The Sugar Kings probably escaped their first setback of the year when their game with Buffalo was suspended after the eighth with the Bisons leading 4-0. The game will be completed on Sunday. Elsewhere it was Havana-Charlie Kress drove in three of Buffalo's runs, two with a triple, as The Richmond Virginians and the Montreal Royals split a doubleheader. Virginians won the first second 8-5 on a pair of three-run innings after the Royals had taken the opener 6-3. Ken Woods, who hit a bases-empty homer for Richmond in the first game, came back with a three-run home run in the second.

Syracuse Chiefs salvaged the final game of their three-game set with Toronto, winning 8-7. Lloyd Jethroe and Lou Berberet hit homers for Syracuse. The Chiefs took an 8-4 lead into the eighth only to have Loren Babe cut the margin with a three-run double.

Star Winger Joins Beavers

KITCHENER (CP) —Fort William Beavers, who looked convincing while defeating Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 6-4 Thursday to win the Allan Cup finals, will be stronger yet when they meet the Dutchmen in the third game of the series here tonight.

Leftwinger Lou Milani, who scored the winning goal of the first game of the series against Fort Vernon Canadians, has rejoined the team after missing the second game of the Canadian senior hockey final because of a facial infection. A capacity crowd of more than 6,500 fans is expected for tonight's game.

Interest in the series is hot after the good show put up by both teams Thursday and ticket demands have been coming from all over western Ontario. Many Fort William fans are also making the trip here.

The Beavers took a day off from practice Friday and toured the Ford plant at Oakville, midway between Toronto and Hamilton. In the evening they were feted to a dinner of Lake Superior trout, brown bass especially for the occasion.

The Dutchmen didn't order a regular practice but a voluntary skating workout was held and about 12 players attended.

Hunter Not A Phil Rizzuto Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — American League managers without exception this spring declared the Yankees would find themselves in deep trouble if Phil Rizzuto finally bowed to the years and Casey Stengel had to fall back on Billy Hunter as his shortstop, as now appears to be happening.

Hunter, who came up in 1953 labeled a dazzling fielder, was obtained by the Yanks in their wholesale player deal with Baltimore during the winter. While pitcher Bob Turley was the key figure in the big swap, the acquisition of Hunter as shortstop insurance also was widely acclaimed as a brilliant stroke by the Yankee front office.

But down in Florida we heard different. A rival manager summed it up:

"If he plays every day he'll drive Casey nuts. For two or three games Hunter will look like the world's greatest shortstop. He'll make impossible plays and every move will be a poem. Then, on an easy change in a crucial spot, he'll kick a game away. He's got to try to make every play beautiful.

"When Marty Marion had him with the St. Louis Browns he begged the kid just to make the plays for him, especially the simple ones, and to forget how he looked out there. But it did no good. The Yankees must not have seen him in enough games."

And with Gerry Coleman, the regular second-sacker, out for upwards of two months with a collar-bone fracture suffered Friday, the Yankees are going to need all the infield steadiness they can get.

The irony of it is that in obtaining Hunter the Yankees gave up Willie Miranda, who beat them the other day with one of the greatest shortstopping exhibitions ever seen at the stadium. When Willie fields a ball, it sticks.

McFater, Percy Fight Tuesday

TORONTO (CP)—Allan McFater of Toronto, a former lightweight who hasn't fought in nearly two years, goes after the Canadian welterweight title next Tuesday when he meets champion Percy Percy of Drummondville, Que.

McFater, once known as the "Million - Dollar - Kid" when he fought under matchmaker Deacon Allan as a lightweight, makes his comeback after taking time out to get back to school and get married. The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds and both boxers have been showing well in training here.

In an eight-round bouts, Montreal's Charlie Chase, Canadian middleweight champion, clashes with Gordon Wallace of Brantford. Chase is former holder of the Canadian amateur middleweight crown and represented Canada in the 1952 Olympics.

This royal throne of kings, this sceptred Isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by Nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall
Or as a moat defensive to a house,
Against the envy of less happier lands,
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm,
this England.

King Richard II.

Canadians everywhere will salute the wearers of the English rose on this, the festive day of England's patron saint.

Jean Hagen Making Switch To Movies During Summer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's lucky Jean Hagen is the type who likes to take a chance. Because she's making the switch from a charming wife and mother on TV to a wicked woman in the movies.

Jean's greatest fame has come from portraying Danny Thomas' wife on "Make Room for Daddy", the Emmy award-winning TV series. She has won a wealth of fans by her gentle playing of the spouse of night club comedian Danny Williams.

FALLEN DOLL

How will they react to her playing a fast character in a film?

"Oh, I don't think it will cause any commotion," she says. "People are intelligent enough to realize an actress can play a variety of roles."

Actually, Jean made a specialty of playing fallen girls before she became enmeshed in TV. She was exacting a woman of the streets in the Herman Wouk play, "The Traitor," when MGM signed her for a similar role in "Side Street."

"I kept busy at MGM; I had nine pictures and two babies in four years I was there," said Jean, who is married to Tom Seidel, former agent and now a contractor.

In most of the roles, she was dumb or immoral, or both. But she happened to do one domestic comedy, "Half a Hero," with Red Skelton. It was the only film of hers that Danny Thomas saw, and he picked her for his wife in his proposed TV show.

STIR CRAZY

After two years of the series, she confessed to being a little stir-crazy.

"You know why I feel frustrated?" she said to Danny one day. "I don't do anything but this show. Whenever you have two days off, you can go out and play a bencfit. It's what you love and you get a release. But I have no such escape."

Danny sympathized and told her to hunt up film work during their summer vacation.

She took him at his word. She dropped up for a part in the hard-hitting "The Big Knife," from the Clifford Odets play. Jean plays the wife of a press agent and has a scene in which she seduces Jack Palance, who enacts a movie star. Jean is delighted with the role. But she'll be happy to go back to Rusty, Sherry, Danny and their domestic problems when summer is over.

AT THE BELLE — Ann Miller as the famous "Ti" girl of the roaring Twenties in one of the specialty numbers of "Deep In My Heart", M.G.M.'s gay, festive, exciting musical, in color, showing today for the last times at the Belle. The film presents the greatest array or talent in all picturedom.

Four Stars Join in Crime Drama

Four stars, Cornel Wilde, Richard Conte, Brian Donlevy and Jean Wallace, head the cast of "The Big Combo," a melodrama of a syndicate's operation in a crime-ridden city, which starts Monday at the Capitol Theatre for its first showing.

Conte's role is that of a detective who for months has been trying to learn the true identity of a mysterious Mr. Brown, by all evidence the mastermind of the organization. Jean Wallace, playing the role of a girl trying to break away from the clutches of the syndicate, gives Wilde his first useful clue, and the trail eventually leads Conte and his chief lieutenant, Donlevy.

Playing important roles in the supporting cast are Jay Alder, Helen Walker, Earl Holliman, Lee Van Cleef and John Hoyt.

SECOND FEATURE

Gees Modern

Bill Elliott plays a modern sheriff's detective role in "Dial Red O," his latest starring picture. Keith Larsen is featured as a suspected killer, eventually cleared by Elliott's investigation.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Monday, April 25, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A pleasant, reassuring day — not over-stimulating or too severe. The Moon and Pluto, in benefic configurations, encourage personal, artistic and home interests. All sound work should benefit, too.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You may have to be choosey selecting what is most urgent to start with today, but if you are consistent in plan and method you should be able to get things done satisfactorily. Mild influences.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Often more can be accomplished, and quicker, when one takes time to figure things out and then gets started in moderate tempo. Today is such a day — neither too stimulating nor retarding.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Banish worry, self-pity and unpleasant discussions! Your innate graciousness and consideration of others can make today satisfying, useful and progressive. Don't seek the unusual.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Today can be cozy, interesting and well spent if you accent your fine showmanship and managerial ability. No need to seek unreasonable piling or advancement; be content with due returns for effort.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Good indications for a contentious, not too demanding day. Personal advancement in your chosen field, in matters in which you are especially gifted are considered now. Try and be satisfied.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — So-called little things, delicate matters are foremost now. This does not mean that any issue of consequence or essential duty should be set aside or deferred. All vital matters can be well handled.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Excellent for subtle matters, items of a confidential nature, handling shipping, travel by sea. But the day is not wholly amenable to all activities and does stress tact, accuracy, honesty.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — If you shoo away tatty interferences that crop up in activities, you can have a productive, well balanced day throughout. Don't fear fair competition; meet it with your knowhow.

December 22 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — A day that should challenge one with your intelligence, cleverness, honesty and application. You are well stocked with the requirements to meet and succeed in most situations. Cheerio!

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — You can enjoy and go places today if, of course, you are motivated by the right intentions and still give your capabilities proper latitude. Don't fear defeat — you can conquer!

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Don't just go along with the crowd now; step out and get ahead. You have more talent and intuitive ideas than even you recognize. Today invites promotion of good ideas, skilled work.

You born today are endowed with high intellectuality, have a liking for the sciences, building, mechanical trades, inventions, new methods to benefit all. Don't be indefinite in making decisions and don't flare up without first finding out why you should flare up. There is much good in your make-up; don't spoil it by being demanding, too critical. Emphasize your fine disposition and "God-given qualifications for achievement. Time is short, too short, to waste on trifling matters, inconsequential. Seek fulfillment of your high aspirations, seek God's help. Birthdate: Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy.
